

What's a credo?

A peculiar and significant trait of the American mind is likely to change our position in the world. You might call it an American credo . . . or an Ohio credo . . . or a Plymouth credo. Credo? It's a fancy-pants word meaning collection of personal beliefs.

Examples: Americans are the smartest people in the world. Nobody who works with his hands is as smart as somebody who wears his white shirt to work. If you believe your religion instead of my religion, you are either (1) stupider (2) less dependable or (3) less courageous than I am.

Before we narrow the eye and consider what are the elements of the American . . . or Ohio . . . or Plymouth credo, let's get one fact straight: this is not un-American, nor a pro-labor essay, nor is it a plug for whatever religious faith the management of this journal somewhat vaguely adheres to. But let's examine this credo.

Americans smart? One example knocks that notion into a cocked hat: foreign exchange students who come here to high school in almost each case have a respectable command of English, in some instances better than their hosts. But Americans sent abroad usually are set back educationally. The foreigner invariably has less difficult foreign study, only in part because of language.

Working with the hands? Note that while in some counties, including Huron, unemployment compensation payments run high, migrant workers must come in to harvest some crops, or the growers find themselves at a serious disadvantage.

Religion as a criterion of intelligence, dependability or courage? Honor students in graduating classes of most high schools and colleges include members of all faiths and some who profess none. Employers find themselves wholly incurious about the religion of those who advance the fastest. And courage? The performance of our troops under fire in every battle in which we've engaged demonstrates that no religion, known to Americans, anyway, has a monopoly in the imparting of courage to its followers.

Governor to be here Thursday

Governor Michael V. DiSalle will spend Thursday afternoon and evening of Thursday in Richland county as part of his statewide campaign for re-election.

DiSalle will appear in Huron county on the morning of Aug. 23 and will enter Richland county at Plymouth at 2 p.m. when he will meet with the people here in the Public Square. He will then lead a caravan through Richland county which will include appearances at Shelby at the band stand in Centra park, at Lexington at City park, at Bellville in Central park band stand, in Butler at the Richland Trust parking lot and in Lucas in front of Lucas State bank.

He will wind up his day in Richland county by attending a clam bake in Mansfield's South park at 6:30 p.m. Richard M. Christiansen, who is seeking re-election to a second two year term, Robert W. Levering, 17th District candidate for election to Congress, James Mayer, candidate for election to the Ohio Supreme Court, and other state and local candidates and office holders will accompany Governor DiSalle.

Chairman John J. Rhinehardt says all members of the Richland Democratic Executive committee and the other Democratic clubs are distributing tickets for the clam bake.

Mrs. Donnerwirth sues for divorce

Charging gross neglect and extreme cruelty, Mrs. Jacqueline Burma Donnerwirth, 223 1/2 Sandusky street, seeks a divorce in Huron county common pleas court from her husband of six years, Desmond V. Donnerwirth, same address.

She promises in her petition, filed by her attorney, Allen M. Harman, Shelby, she will adduce evidence to prove these allegations at the time of hearing. She avers she has had sex with her husband, whereas he has conducted himself as a "duti-nor" departed himself satisfactorily.

A separation agreement prepared by Mr. Harman and witnessed by his secretary, Mrs. Marie Hallman, has been signed by both the plaintiff and the defendant.

They were married at Willard May 4, 1956.

Band to rehearse starting Monday for grid season

Rehearsals for Plymouth's high school marching band will begin Monday at 7 p.m. in the music room.

They will be repeated Wednesdays and Mondays before the opening of school (except Sept. 3).

All members of the marching band, including incoming freshmen, are requested to be prompt for these rehearsals.

The new band uniforms have arrived and will be tried at the first rehearsal. However, band members may come to the high school on Monday, between 10 a.m. and noon and 1 and 3 p.m. to try their uniforms. With the help of recent donations of $100 by the Plymouth Boosters Club the band mothers have almost reached the necessary $3200 to pay for the uniforms.

Plymouth Band Mothers agreed Monday night to purchase plumes for the new headgear.

They will pay part of the cost from their treasury and each band member will also pay a share.

The mothers also are planning another Christmas bazaar as their winter fund raising project.

Accidents run by threes again!

Accidents — unfortunately none of them serious — came in threes last week.

On Thursday morning, a 23 year-old teacher drove her 1955 sedan under the portico of Plymouth Elementary school. She failed to set the emergency brake.

The sedan rolled backward down the incline of the driveway, across New street and over the embankment leading to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad right-of-way.

The right rear fender struck a service pole about halfway down the slope. The car fish-tailed and came to a halt parallel to the tracks, heading south.

Judith Gaubatz, 16 Genbeck avenue, Mansfield, was not in it. Had it failed to strike the pole, it would have reached the tracks, probably wrong-side up, police said.

A 27-year-old Liberty Center trucker was fined $10 and costs of $6.80 Saturday after he collided Friday morning with a sedan turning into a driveway in Trux street.

Chester Pfeifer, Liberty Center route 2, was accused by police of failing to overtake within an assured clear distance. The sedan operated by Mrs. Nellie M. Bevier, 76, 65 Trux street, received severe damage to its right side and was removed by wrecker.

Judith Peters, 18, Shiloh, escaped injury Thursday when her car went into a ditch in Base Line route.

The mishap occurred four miles west of Route 13 when she hit a chuck hole in the road and bounced off it. Her car was slightly damaged.

Family fracas brought into court with two warrants

A long-smoldering family dispute that erupted at a Mid-geet league baseball game July 30, has culminated in swearing of two warrants alleging assault and battery and some lively testimony before Mayor William Fazio.

After two sessions, marked by histrionics and heated charges and counter charges, the mayor has reserved decision.

Mrs. William Forquer has charged her sister, Mrs. W. C. Enderby, with assault and battery on July 30, alleging Mrs. Enderby seized her by the neck and squeezed it.

Mrs. Enderby in turn charges William Forquer with assault and battery, alleging he seized her and struck her about the pectoral girdle.

Mrs. George Lesho has been heard as a witness.

So has Mrs. William Fazio, both subpoenaed by Mrs. Enderby.

Van Wagners wed 50 years

She went to a ball game on honeymoon and has been playing ball fairly and squarely with her husband of 50 years ever since. "And he has too," says Mrs. R. A. Van Wagner of New Haven, who observed her golden anniversary Saturday.

They exchanged vows in the Methodist manse before the Rev. L. W. Powell, the district superintendent, at Norwalk.

"We got back on the trolley," Mrs. Van Wagner recalls, "and rode to Cleveland for our honeymoon."

"We saw he sights," he added, "and a ball game between Chicago and Boston."

They settled in New Haven where she was born and raised, and they still live in a lovely farm house which they remodeled several years ago into a spacious home. They have 70 acres.

Mr. Van Wagner was born in Shiloh and moved to Norwalk, where he lived until he was 21. He then came back and they met at a party at the home of the Dickensons, her cousins, in New Haven. He began work at Fate-Root Health Co. 47 years ago. "I rode the trolley into Plymouth and when the snow got too deep," he remembers, "we simply packed up and moved into town for the winter months."

They raised three children: two daughters, now Mrs. H. R. Groszost of Sandusky and Mrs. G. L. Grabach, and a son, Richard. Mrs. Van Wagner worked for many years the New Haven happenings for The Advertiser. She served three editors until her eyes got tired she had to give up the work several years ago.

Both belong to the New Haven Methodist church and Saturday night their children surprised them at a dinner thabthall said. yygo she to the WSCS. He is a member of Richland lodge 201 she of Plymouth chapter, OES.

Flowers are her hobby. There isn't a posy that would dare not bloom for her. "I do the wheat and corn" is his contribution, "and guess who who cans corn so we have it all winter?"

Sunday night their children surprised them with a family dinner. "We planned to go out, and I found a pale pinkish dress to wear," Mrs. Van Wagner said. A panel of was inset down the front. The bodice had a small V neckline with a bow and short sleeves. She wore a small petal hat of brighter pink and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

It was a surprise for both of them. The dinner table was please see page 8

Newmeyers wed in 1927

After 35 years of marriage, which anniversary they'll observe Monday, the Henry Newmeyers, Shelby route 3, are taking it easy.

Affairs of the heart sometimes develop into ailments physician can attest. Because "bigfoot," as the Newmeyers' of cardiac complaints, they don't work so hard as they used to.

But a family of 12 children can sometimes be a tiring as well as a rewarding assignment. They have nine daughters, Mrs. Wilma Baumier, Monroeville; Mrs. Emma Shetterly, Tiffin; Mrs. Virginia Smith, Delhi; Mrs. Mary Brady and Mrs. Hilda Hill, Fossilria; Mrs. Harmena Elmer, Peru; Mrs. Julia Ginter, Shelby; Rose and Crystal, at home, and three sons, Herbert, Plymouth; Theodore, Shelby, and Dale, at home.

There are 15 grandchildren. The children at home manage the farm, owing to their parents' infirmities.

The Newmeyers will celebrate their anniversary at home with their children.

Re-valuation of Huron county's ratables to be based on 1956 construction costs

Huron county taxpayers take note! The cost of living is going up

How much, and exactly when, are anybody's guess. But Bernard F. Kean, county auditor who seeks re-election on a GOP ticket in November, announces that a long-overdue re-appraisal of road real property values in Huron county will begin in September. The re-appraisal will be based upon 1956 construction cost, so far as buildings go, and on current sales turnover values, so far as unoccupied of land go.

It will be executed by United Appraisal Co., Cleveland one of only three such technical firms in the state.

Last appraisal in the county was completed in 1952. Huron County was one of 26 in Ohio instructed by the board of tax appeals to complete a re-appraisal at once. Ohio law requires the re-appraisals to be carried out once each 6 years. Shortage of funds is a chief reason why it hasn't been done previously.

Some index of the increase in valuation (taxpayers will find the big increase in the millage within the 10-mill limitation, since the amount of tax over the 10-mill limitation is likely to go down when assessment value rises) may be determined from the fact that the 1952 re-appraisal was laid upon 1941 construction cost.

Lieut. Laser given AF commendation

1st. Lieut. Thomas A. Laser (right) Shelby, receives the United States Air Force Commendation Metal in recognition of his meritorious service as a staff auditor in Los Angeles. Lieut. Laser, son of Alva M. Laser, Plymouth route 1, received his B.S.

degree from Ohio State University. He and his wife, the former Sara M. Seaman, Shelby route 1, have just one child, Mark Maj. Gen. Will P. Farnsworth, the Air Force auditor general at Castle Air Force base, makes the presentation.

Mayor quits, Nesbitt chosen for one councilman vacancy

Because he won't serve under what he calls a "grudge council", Mayor Glenn Swanger has resigned, effective yesterday.

During the council meeting Aug. 8, Swanger emphatically said the obvious purpose of one faction of the council is to cause other councilmen to resign and to replace them with members partial to the faction's cause. Council President Keith Dawson denied this but Swanger could not be swayed. He wrote out his resignation on the spot.

Toward the end of the session, Dawson sought to mollify the resigned mayor, who then said his health has not been good and the pressures of his duties tend to wear upon him.

Councilman John Barnhart, who had resigned in an earlier session, withdrew his resignation. So did Dawson, as president of the council. But after Kirby Nesbitt was proposed and elected by the council to succeed Everett Pry, Jr., as councilman — Pry resigned because he is attending barber's training out of town — the bitterness that has prevailed between Dawson and Barnhart arose again. Barnhart resubmitted his resignation and stalked from the room. Dawson moved to accept it and was supported by Charles Guthrie.

Dawson and Guthrie did not conceal that they consider Barnhart initiated the dispute over beer in the firehouse, which they said was not a serious issue.

As matters stand now, Dawson will accede to the mayor's post, unless Swanger can be prevailed upon to withdraw his resignation.

This leaves two vacancies on the council, that of Dawson and that of Barnhart. Nesbitt, previously a councilman, will serve the unexpired portion of Pry's term.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Briggs and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Longshore, of Elmira, N. Y., were weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Boyce.

Mary Eleanor Robertson weds John Fetters in Lutheran rites

Miss Mary Eleanor Robertson became the bride of John Luther Fetters Sunday afternoon.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. John H. Worth in First Evangelical Lutheran church at 3:30 p.m. Seven-branched candelabra lighted vases of white and pink carnations on either side of the altar. The family pew was marked with large white organo bows.

Mrs. Francis Guthrie, the great-aunt of the bridegroom, played an organ prelude during the ceremony.

Exorted by her father, the bride wore the wedding gown of Mrs. Frederick Kreutzfeld. Copied from a colonial period design, it was of fine white cotton. The bodice was designed with high rounded neckline with a shirred ruffle edged in eyelet, which gave a drop shoulder effect. Long sleeves extended to her wrists. The wide skirt was tiered in ruffles edged with eyelet, widening into a short train in back. A sheer ruffle held a thin veil of illusion which fell past her shoulders.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Richard Yohn of Shelby, was her honorary matron of honor. Her gown was a medium shade of pink. The two bridesmaids, Judith Fetters, the bridegroom's sister, and Sharon Farrow, were in salmon pink.

Their hats were large crownless brims with velvet streamers down the back, in shades matching their gowns. They carried white nosegays with pink rosebuds and wore short white gloves.

The bride's niece, Brenda

She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies, pink roses and violets with long trailing streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Jean Church of Mansfield, who wore a pale pink gown of nylon organza over a taffeta. The full skirt fell over a large hoop. The bodice was designed after that of the bride's gown, with a large ruffle at the neckline, rounded in front and shaped to a V in back. A narrow matching velvet band was tied in a small bow at the back of her waist.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Richard Yohn of Shelby, was her honorary matron of honor. Her gown was a medium shade of pink. The two bridesmaids, Judith Fetters, the bridegroom's sister, and Sharon Farrow, were in salmon pink.

Their hats were large crownless brims with velvet streamers down the back, in shades matching their gowns. They carried white nosegays with pink rosebuds and wore short white gloves.

The bride's niece, Brenda

Yohn, was the flower girl. She wore a dress of light pink organza with a full gathered skirt and carried a small nosegay of flowers. Her head piece was a wreath of flowers.

The ring bearer was James Kreutzfeld. His father, Frederick Kreutzfeld, was Mr. Fetters' best man. Ushers were Jay Brown of Springfield, John Chasteen of Akron, and the bridegroom's brothers, Thomas and James. Howard Wynn and Freddy Buzard were the acolytes.

The bride's mother wore a light blue lace dress fashioned with a flared skirt and rounded neckline with small cap sleeves. She wore a light blue bow hat with a short veil and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a blue and green print with a straight skirt and three-quarter-length sleeves which extended from a high neckline. She wore a round white hat of stiff white organza and a corsage of small yellow roses. The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Luther Fetters, wore a green brocade.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in Plymouth Elementary school. Mrs. Bayard Beagle, Mansfield, registered guests. The bride's aunt, Mrs. John Longnecker, Tiro, cut the cake for the guests. It centered the bride's table and was flanked by double silver candelabra. The three quartetters were edged in white with small pink rosebuds. She was assisted by Mrs. Kreutzfeld, Mrs. Larry Banks, Mansfield, and Mary Margaret Brinson.

The young couple left afterwards for Great Lakes Naval station, Ill., where he is assigned until the end of September. They will make their home in Charleston, S. C., where the new Mrs. Fetters will teach a sixth grade class. She is the younger daughter of the late Grace Mellick, the bride's eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Fetters.

Mrs. Ivan Bowman loses mother, Mrs. Donnerwirth

Mother of Mrs. Ivan Bowman, Mrs. Emma Donnerwirth, 87, died Friday in Gallion Community hospital.

She was an active member of First Lutheran church, Gallion, and of the Golden Age club.

Another daughter, Miss Helen Donnerwirth, Gallion, and two sons, W. H. Donnerwirth, Cincinnati, and O. A. Donnerwirth, Columbus, also survive.

Services were conducted Monday afternoon in Gallion by the Rev. James Fresh. Burial was in Greenlawn cemetery here.

Mrs. Lois Phillips weds Lester Seaman, Shiloh

Mrs. Lois A. Phillips and Lester Seaman exchanged marriage vows Saturday in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Bucyrus.

Miss Morrison part of wedding party for cousin's rites

Miss Heather Morrison was a bridesmaid Saturday at the wedding of her cousin, John Lou Chaffee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Waines, Jr., Brunswick.

She and Jerome A. Smith exchanged their vows in an early afternoon ceremony in the Hinckley Evangelical church.

The bride's mother made her daughter's wedding gown and those of the three attendants. Miss Morrison wore a light green linen with a bell-shaped skirt. The bodice had a high rounded neckline and elbow length sleeves. She wore a small white fitted hat with a nose tip veil and carried an arrangement of two yellow orchids.

Guests attended a reception at the church and later at the Waines' home.

Gun collector sets Gatling record straight

Plymouth's leading gun collector and student of American military small arms is hopping mad!

Stanley E. Condon says he's "not pleased to have his name used in connection with newspaper stories containing historical information not factual."

A Sunday newspaper feature pictured Police Chief Robert L. Meiser with the Gatling gun which Condon partially restored at the request of the American Legion and the board of trustees of Greenlawn cemetery.

Condon's complaints, which he mailed to the newspaper and to Mayor William Fazio, Commander Thomas Crabbie of the Legion post and to The Advertiser:

"The article erroneously states that the Gatling is the personal property of Chief Meiser. The piece was placed in the cemetery by Legion Post 447 in 1922. It has since been and still is the property of the Legion and/or the Village of Plymouth. The gun rests in the cemetery pending disposition by the Legion and village council.

"The weapon is the Model of 1895 and was manufactured in 1898, not 1885. The barrels are chambered for the .30 caliber Remington-Union (30-0-10 Krag) cartridge, not .450 caliber ammunition.

"The Gatling gun was both invented and patented by James H. Gatling in 1862. It was used by the Civil War since formal government approval was not placed on them till 1866. The experimental use is recorded of 12 Gatlings in the siege of Petersburg, Va., in addition to some small use by the Navy.

"I DID CLEAN AND PARTIALLY restore the Gatling but it is not in near mint or firing condition. The original government deactivation was in the present condition of six of the barrels preventing firing. I removed the Gatling from the cemetery to my home in 1953 with the permission of the cemetery board. After eight years, the restoration was approximately 70 per cent complete. At that time, in May, that, if possible, I replace the piece in the cemetery for the Memorial day ceremony in 1961, which was done. I later learned the piece was immediately removed and carried to the local jail, where it apparently still rest. I have not seen or made parts for the piece since Memorial day, 1961, much less worked on it in the jail prior to or after that date.

"The $4,000 valuation placed on the Gatling by Meiser is considerably in excess of its present value. Two or three years ago I estimated the piece would be worth from $2,500 to $4,000 when completely restored and so stated this estimate to Meiser and a councilman at that time. Although both the above figures have been used since as the value of the piece, the lower figure is in excess of its present value, incomplete and fractionally restored.

"As a recognized advanced collector and student of American military small arms, I am not pleased to have my name used in articles on guns containing historical information not factual. If your reporter had checked with the Legion or the village council, we would have been spared the embarrassment of answering for these errors."

Athletic Director Bill Flaherty and new grid coach Richard Carpenter.

11 lettermen to answer first call

Eleven varsity lettermen, nine reserve monogram winners and six numeral winners from last season's freshman squad—some of whom have varsity experience—will report tomorrow at 8 a.m. when Coach Richard Carpenter blows the first whistle for the 1962 grid season.

Co-Capt. Jim Hamman and Gary Utiss head the contingent of seven seniors, three juniors and a lone sophomore who'll turn out for two-a-day sessions which will be reduced to one-a-day when school starts Sept. 4.

Roger McQuown, DeWitt Cunningham, Gary Brumbach, Earl Hess, and Allen Arnold, all save Arnold backs, are the other seniors.

Phil Fletcher, Dennis Sammons and Bob Young are the juniors and Bob Foreman is he soph.

Reserve letter winners who will report are Bob Berger, Gary Chesman, Larry Dick, Eldon Newmyer, Bob Forsythe, Bud Foraker, Mike Dorio, John Echeberry and John Bowman.

Bob Tackett, Carl Pierce, Mike Ruckman, Chip Paddock, Ray Fidler and Larry Bland make up the frosh contingent.

It is plain to grandstand quarterbacks that Carpenter's work is cut out for him. For one thing, the schedule this season—it's a nine-game venture for the first time — is bound and coach Bob Carroll has lots of hopes this season. Bellville has a new coach and some veterans coming back. What's more, the Blue Jays are always difficult to lick at home. Loudonville is on the way up.

For another, Carpenter will have to build a forward wall, which was none too strong last season. Of the returning veterans, only Arnold, an end last season (although Hess played at offensive end a while), Sammons, Young and Foreman are linemen. Utiss saw service at end and tackle defensively and Fletcher has seen up front, mostly on defense.

Among the reserves, there isn't much size nor speed. The Big Red, if it lives up to the adjective this year, may have to do much of it on courage and spirit. Bowman and Foraker are backs, the others linemen. Of the frosh., four are linemen. There isn't much sign of any depth anywhere.

For a third, Plymouth has more road games than at home. The Big Red seldom does so well abroad as at Mary Fate park.

Pony rookies stomp on North Fairfield

With all save three of the starters from next season's eligibles, Plymouth Pioneers took a North Fairfield there Saturday, 13 to 2.

Norman Howard allowed five hits, fanned six and passed three.

Only the third sacker, the first baseman and the center-fielder are slated to depart from the squad.

Norm Howard also was the hitter with three safe blows. Nero Howard belted a homer.

Lutheran Faith

There is a devil ...but he doesn't run around with a pitch fork, dressed in red flannel ...but he is real — and that can be substantiated from every human being's own experience.
 How often have you, the reader of this column, been led to do something you didn't want to do?
 Often! There was some force of evil that led you to do it. You felt you couldn't help yourself. That was the devil... Satan... call him what you will.
 The devil exists in a different dimension than man, a dimension that enables him to captivate the will of man.
