

Engineer on mend, can carry on, son tells village council

Assurances that its consulting engineer will in time be able to carry out his duties in planning and executing a sanitary sewer project were given to village council Tuesday night.

His son told the council that Carl H. Gerkin, Napoleon, the engineer stricken with a coronary thrombosis during December, expects to be released from a Napoleon hospital this week and will be able to supervise preparations of plans and specifications of the project, which now require approval by the Water Pollution Control board.

Young Gerken said his father suggests the council abstain from representations of discrimination against a mandatory 1,000-foot contiguous buffer to the proposed sewer lagoons until final approval of a program in another community, where less than 1,000 feet of buffer was accepted, has been given. He said this is expected in the next fortnight.

GERKEN CALLED NOTICE to a professional journal's opinion of research performed by the University of Cincinnati buttress his contention that 1,000 feet of buffer is unnecessary. The researchers found, Gerken said, that "where facilities of oxidation lagoons does not interfere with urban development, particularly where there is adequate wind sweep."

Mayor William Fazio and all councilmen except Charles Yamasole, who cannot forsake his employment, will visit the WPCB board on Jan. 23 to argue for approval of the Plymouth plans.

John Sheehy, Bruce & Co.,

Toledo investment firm, offered to buy at par short-term notes against the water system to pay for construction of a second water tower. He said his firm's offer holds good for either $45,000 or $55,000, whichever the council determines to be the need.

Board of public affairs decided Monday night to ask for approval to transfer $20,000, instead of $10,000, from the electric fund to the water fund. A previous request to do this was turned down by the state board of tax appeals, on the grounds that to do so would reduce the working capital of the electric system to less than a safe margin.

Ohio Power Co., wholesale supplier of the current distributed by the village, agrees this move is sound, the board said, because the inventory of the electric department is strong in replacement parts and supplies.

Although Mayor Fazio wished to proceed at once with the request for $20,000 Solicitor Joseph F. Dush counseled a more medical approach. The transfer of funds will be explored further and action was put off until the next formal meeting Jan. 15.

HEAVY SNOWS PROVED the shortcomings of the village snow plow, Street Supervisor William Forquer reported. Cost of repair of the plow is estimated at $900, with guarantees the repairs would stand up, Forquer said. He recommended the council consider acquisition of a new plow, at an estimated cost of $700 to $800.

WILLIAM FLAHERTY

Flaherty to head March of Dimes; cage carnival set

William Flaherty, social studies teacher and athletic director in Plymouth High school, will direct the 1963 March of Dimes here, Mrs. Ruth Friend, chairman of the Huron County chapter of the National Foundation announced.

Flaherty previously taught and coached at New Riegel High school in Seneca county before joining the staff of the old Shiloh High school.

When the Shiloh district was merged into the Plymouth district, he retained tenure and has since served in the physical education and social sciences departments and been head coach of baseball, assistant coach in football and assistant coach in basketball.

He is one of seven unmarried teachers in the high school, of whom four are male.

The drive got under way yesterday and will close Jan. 1, the birthday of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose affliction of poliomyelitis prompted the establishment of the national organization to fight polio.

This disease having been brought under control by the Sabin and Salk vaccines, the National Foundation now concerns itself with arthritis, birth defects and polio.

PUPILS OF PLYMOUTH High school assisting Flaherty placed containers in which donations may be made in business places about the Square yesterday.

A basketball carnival is set for Jan. 23 at 6:30 p.m. Flaherty announces. Entrance funds. Admission will be $1 for adults, 50 cents for pupils, 25 cents for players.

Plymouth High school faculty will play Shreve faculty in the feature attraction, which will be refereed by Kenneth Eichelberry and A. L. Paddock, Jr., whose services are donated.

Fourth and fifth graders will play in preliminary games.

Mrs. Martha J. Jacobs, 69, 57 Mill street, died in Willard Municipal hospital Friday night.

She was admitted there about 6:30 p.m. Friday after a stroke of apoplexy.

Born in Huron county July 23, 1893, she is survived by her husband, Carl; five sons, Lyle Biddinger and James Arthur and Robert Jacobs, Plymouth, and Gene Jacobs, Shelby, three daughters, Mrs. William Reed, Plymouth; Mrs. Lyman Sheely, Toledo, and Mrs. Dean Rox, Shelby; a sister, Mrs. Edith Vondran, Jackson, L. L. N. Y.; two brothers, Fred Sutton, Shelby, and Howard Sutton, St. Petersburg, Fla.; 23 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The Rev. John H. Worth, pastor of First Evangelical Lutheran church, conducted last rites Monday at 1:30 p.m.

DALL KINNEY

Dale Kinney gets five-year contract

Richland County Schools Supt. Dale E. Kinney will start a new five-year contract in his assignment on Aug. 1 with an increase in pay of $500 a year, the Richland county board of education ruled Friday.

Kinney will receive a travel allowance of $50 a month.

A native of Cygnet, Wood county, Kinney was head of Tiro schools after Navy service when he was hired to succeed Boyd Robinson in 1950. His wife and one of his sons are writers on the staff of a Mansfield newspaper.

Max E. Maglott, Lucas, is the new president of the county board. He succeeds Mrs. Helen Wilson, Bellville, Lewis J. Cashell, Mansfield, succeeds Maglott as vice-president.

High school girl sues for damages

A Plymouth High school pupil, Georgia J. Gayheart, is plaintiff in a damage suit seeking $25,000 in Richland county common pleas court.

The plaintiff alleges injuries received to her back and legs when she was a passenger in a car on Jan. 21, 1962, when it was struck by another driven by Odell Thomas, Newark.

Plaintiff says in her petition the car in which she was riding was struck from behind as it turned into a private driveway.

School budget up; surplus forecast

A budget of $455,290 for 1963, up $38,807 from last year but with a built-in surplus of $7,202, was approved by Plymouth Board of Education Monday night.

By law the board is required to conduct an organization meeting not later than the first Monday of the new year. To meet this requirement, the board convened in special session. Thereafter it adjourned and conducted its regular monthly meeting, two days ahead of time.

Donald P. Markley, Plymouth, was re-elected president of the board Donald Dawson, Plymouth route 1, was re-elected vice-president. The term of Mrs. Kenneth Myers as clerk has another year to run.

THE NEW BUDGET — and this is the first year in nine that unpaid bills have not staved the board in the face at the beginning of the new fiscal year — calls for increases in most categories.

For personal services, including teacher salaries, the forecast expenditure for 1963 is $336,145, up from the actual $313,102.67 expended last year. Some $23,000 will be available to increase salaries.

For supplies the new budget calls for $36,670, up from the actual disbursement of $24,419.93 last year. The appropriation calls for $2,400 for library books (only $591.90 was spent for this purpose last year, $6,000 for school buses, $6,500 for textbooks and $10,500 for fuel for buildings).

Fixed charges, which include insurance, taxes, deductions for retirement and for the use of the county school board and county auditor's services, amount to $51,800, up $6,000 from the actual expenditure last year.

A total of $11,700, earmarked for capital outlay, included $7,000 for a new school bus.

Anticipated revenues of the school district are $215,250 from real estate taxes and $237,055 from the state foundation fund. Additional revenues are estimated at $7,000 and there is a general fund balance of $2,887. Total anticipated revenues are thus

EXECUTIVE HEAD C.

Todd Strohmeier told the board increases in teacher salaries and another instructor for a slow learner class are provided for in the appropriations. He said more help with slow learners must not be delayed. The class now being taught by Mrs. Milton Lynch has proved successful, but she is unable to handle the increasing number of pupils.

The $6,500 earmarked for textbooks will begin a plan to replace books in all classes over five years, if carried to completion. Plymouth district is approximately three county adoptions of new texts behind, because of lack of funds to keep up.

Strohmeier told the board he hopes to rearrange the library, which is now used for a chase of some new furniture, perhaps a partition and moving some study periods to the music room, which is not in use every period, there will be more of a library atmosphere", he said.

THE BOARD APPROVED a purchasing procedure and named Strohmeier purchasing agent. No school purchases are to be made without a written purchase order, signed by the building principal, approved by Strohmeier and endorsed by the clerk.

Supplies will be purchased in larger quantities, so save costs and freight. Purchases and payments will be rearranged to cope with the schools' financial powers.

The test case of the new policy was the soliciting of bids for a year's supply of light bulbs. Every merchant in the district who sells bulbs was asked to submit bids. Four bids were received. Differences in bids ranged up to $20. The lowest bid was accepted. It will save the board about $50 a year on this item alone.

Purchase and installation of a citizen's band radio system to be used between buildings, at an estimated cost of $1,200 to $1,300, might be financed if the Richland county civilian defense unit will pay half. But this is not a sure bet, so the board tabled the matter for the time being. Perhaps, it said, the cost could be lessened and some assurance of sharing it made.

The radio system would allow freer communication between Shiloh and Plymouth, which now requires a toll call. "Over a period of time, however, it would pay for itself on that alone. It would make the running of the schools smoother and easier", Strohmeier said. "The principals all agree it would help them."

Two indicted on forgery counts

The moral of this story is, don't pass phony checks on Henry Wiers at Mack's Foodland.

Two who did so on Sept. 13 last were indicted Thursday by a Huron county grand jury on two charges of forgery and uttering a forged instrument each.

Foreman of the jury was a Plymouthite, H. James Root.

The two are Northern Isaac, Jr., 18, Norwalk route 3, and his brother-in-law, Clarence Greathouse, 24.

They are charged with uttering a forged check in the amount of $75.31 against the account of Henry Wiers, Celeryville, and passing it upon Quentin R. Ream, who is also a teller in Peoples National bank, at Mack's Foodland.

A 21-year-old Plymouth man was arrested Saturday by Huron county sheriff's department on charges of intoxication and malicious destruction of property.

He is Lummie Reed, 100 Walnut street.

Two games slated on weekend card

Two important conference basketball matches are on the Big Red slate this weekend.

Tomorrow the Hostler-coached outfit goes to North Robinson to play red-hot Colonel Crawford in a Johnny Applesseed conference contest.

Fans who've never been to the Eagles' site should proceed south on Rt. 98 to Rt. 590, thence south to Rt. 30N, whence west to Rt. 602, thence south four miles to the school. Admission prices are $1 for adults, 50c for pupils.

Butler's Bulldogs, coached by personable Gordon Shipley, who's having a poor year, will come here Saturday to make up the contest postponed by the weather in December. It's also a JAC game.

If the Big Red can win both signs are the 1962-63 season will develop into the most successful one in many years.

Whether Tommy Barnard will be available for either or both games is problematical, Coach Ron Hostler says.

The political axis

No seismograph records the tremor of an America tuning on its political axis, yet that's what is happening in 1963.

California surpasses New York in population by a few thousand and becomes the most populous state in the union.

When re-apportionment of the Congress as a result of this fact becomes final, the California delegation will be the largest in the Capitol.

For many years, New York and the populous East controlled the greatest bloc of votes in the Congress, save for those instances when a question of white supremacy was involved, whereupon the solid South banded together and took advantage of the rules providing for large majorities to obtain approval of legislation to block it.

Now California will become the center of a nebula of states wishing to curry favor with the Golden State and thereupon obtain political support for their own pork barrels.

A case in point was illustrated only the other day. Because Skybolt is finished, 600 workers are being laid off by Douglas Aircraft Co., in Santa Monica, Cal. The wires to California's Congressional offices began to burn.

What if the Pentagon had decided that piloted aircraft are completely passe, that missiles must comprise the major force of our defense program? There's a ready-made obstruction to such a decision, because California controls the votes and won't stand idly by to permit the livelihood of so many Californians to be tampered with for any reason, national defense or otherwise.

We've lived for a long time with the influence of New York. By and large, it has not been bad. We hope that California's influence will be no less bad.

Mrs. Jacobs dies; Mrs. Weaver dead

Mrs. Martha J. Jacobs, 69, 57 Mill street, died in Willard Municipal hospital Friday night.

She was admitted there about 6:30 p.m. Friday after a stroke of apoplexy.

Born in Huron county July 23, 1893, she is survived by her husband, Carl; five sons, Lyle Biddinger and James Arthur and Robert Jacobs, Plymouth, and Gene Jacobs, Shelby, three daughters, Mrs. William Reed, Plymouth; Mrs. Lyman Sheely, Toledo, and Mrs. Dean Rox, Shelby; a sister, Mrs. Edith Vondran, Jackson, L. Sister of Mrs. Henry Trauger, Mrs. Ray J. Weaver, 56, Ganges, died suddenly at 5:15 a.m. Monday in Shelby Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Weaver was ill only briefly.

Born Helen Mae Humphrey in Norwalk Apr. 26, 1906, she was associated with her husband in operating a fruit farm at Ganges for nearly 27 years.

Last rites will be conducted today at 1:30 p.m. from Barkdull Funeral home, Shelby. Burial will be there.

Fido's grace cul by single day because of holiday

Since Jan. 20 falls on Sunday this year final day to register dogs will be Saturday, Jan. 19.

Tags have been available since early December and registrations are several hundred over any previous year so far, reports Bernard F. Kean, Huron county auditor.

Tags are available in Plymouth at Peoples National bank, or in person or by mail at the county auditor's office.

Last year about 3,200 dogs were registered on time at the auditor's office, 2,500 by the assistant registrars through the county.

A total of 7,732 dogs was registered in the county during 1962, including 176 kennel licenses.

Lexington downs Red in JAC contest there, 60 to 52

Plymouth held Lexington's Minutemen even in three periods Friday night but found that sins may be atoned for without obtaining forgiveness.

Because the Big Red gave up eight more points than it scored in the first period, and for other reasons, Plymouth was beaten, 60 to 52, in a Johnny Appessed conference game.

Neither team played up to its potential. Plymouth was without Tommy Barnd, injured in the last game at home and sitting this one out with a cracked ankle bone. But Phil Fletcher was back after an absence of several weeks.

Lexington was forced to rely upon a 5-8 junior, Dave Shaffer, up to this night a 12-point-a-game player, for 31 points to win this one. Shaffer's shooting was untimely and more than offset the tragic mistakes of the Minutemen's big three up front, three gooney birds whose combined height is more than 15 inches in excess of the Plymouth front three, yet who were consistently out-jumped and out-rebounded save in the first period.

Plymouth's shooting was a poor, particularly from the outside. Its free throw accuracy was abominable. The Red missed 16 shots in 34 tries.

BUT PLYMOUTH SIMPLY did not know what to do with itself on this big floor. Experienced coaches will tell you there should be no difference in style or method, let alone skill, of play from floor to floor.

Well, tell that to the Big Red. This was the second time this season that Plymouth has played on the road, the second time on a regulation-size floor, and the second time it was defeated after a lackadaisical performance.

The Big Red held a slight lead more than halfway into the first period before Shaffer began to spring through the Plymouth defense, what there was of it. Lexington had a PPA of 1.26 during the first period, scoring 19 points on 15 efforts, whereas Plymouth was low at .73, having 11 points on 15 tries.

four tries for field goal. But the pattern of play seemed to avoid giving him possession. Shaffer put the game on ice for Lexington with two successive baskets at 1:54 of the final canto. A defensive lapse by the Big Red all but gave him the second one.

Bucks could have won bowl; young Koy like old Ernie

Having thrown bricks at Woody Hayes and the Buckeyes for 10 to these many moons, the Old Schem must give credit where it's due. Through the smokes of this wigwam, it was clear that Ohio State, or Minnesota, or Michigan State, could have walloped the living daylight out of Southern California in the Rose Bowl.

Which is not to take any gloss off the magnificent performance of the Wisconsin Badgers, particularly in the last half. But the Bucks, the Gophers and the Spartans play a different kind of game, a game that the Trojans wouldn't have been able to cope with.

John McKay has some outstanding personnel, notably in Bedsole, Beathard, Wilson and Nellesen, and undoubtedly the Trojans would do well in any competition anywhere. But cope with the likes of Ohio State's bruising ground game, or Minnesota's punches? Not in the eyes of Schem's view they couldn't!

Wisconsin all but brought home the bacon, after a miserable first half that saw Southern Cal score almost at will. So where does John McKay come off saying that Wisconsin would be good enough for sixth place in his league?

John McKay may have been No. 1 choice in the Football Writers association as coach of the year. By our totem, he's a clump. No sportsman or gentleman would say what he said.

THE SPLENDID EFFORT of young Ernie Koy in the losing cause of Texas in the Cotton Bowl recalls the performance of his father, Ernie Koy, Sr., another Texas great, when he was playing baseball. Big Ernie saw service with the National league, but it is Brooklyn and Cincinnati in his record with the old Newark Bears of the International league that stands out in the O. T.'s memory.

The Yankees were running a successful operation at Newark in every way save at the treasurer's office. When transportation to the big city was so cheap, so fast and so available, fans found it more attractive to watch the parent club, the old New York Giants and the equally old Brooklyn Dodgers. The long-standing rivalry with Jersey City used to pack 'em in at Ruppert Stadium hard by the bypass in Newark only when the boys from Hagueville had a ball club. Which was damned seldom.

Koy labored in right field for the Bears in a day when Al Mamaux, the jolly left-hander who pitched for Pittsburgh, was manager and occasionally the pitcher. Later Bob Shawkey ran the club. Bob was a big fellow with Indian blood in his veins, high cheekbones and a mat of thick, black hair. When he waved that war club over the plate, opposing pitchers must have thought Geronimo himself had taken the warpath again.

ON THIS NIGHT of which memory is so pungent, Ted Kleinbans, a dandy southpaw, was pitching for Newark. Buddy Rosar was catching, Joe Gordon was at second base, and big Bob Seeds was playing center.

The opposition was the Cardinal farm at Rochester, making a run for the lead of an August night. The Redwings had a pretty fair ball club, notably a pitcher named Horace Lisenbee, who'd seen service in the big top for several years. For seven innings, he was fast as chained lightning.

Under the lights at Ruppert Stadium, he was all but unbeatable.

Along about the sixth, Rochester was nursing a one-run lead when Lisenbee brushed Seeds and after a hassle, the big centerfielder went to first base. Rosar singled to left and Seeds got no farther than second. The next two batters went out and Koy came to the plate.

Lisenbee uncorked a dandy right at Koy's head. He raised his arms and bat in that automatic gesture that batters since Abner Doubleday have employed to keep from getting skulled. The pitch broke, hit the knurled portion of Koy's stick beneath his big fists and caromed off his skull.

The big Texan fell like a stricken steer. After 20 minutes or so, they had him on his feet. The umpire ruled it, correctly, a foul ball. From the Newark bench came a pinch hitter.

But Koy would have none of it. The knot on his head was as big as a tomato and just as red.

He picked up the bat, stood in again, and play resumed.

Lisenbee broke a curve over the outside, as we recall, and Koy missed it a mile. Then he bunted foul down the first base line. With an 0-and-2 count, he waded into the next one, surely five or six inches outside, and broke a lamp in the light standard in deep right.

OUR SEAT WAS BEHIND the Bear dugout. That a Newark outfielder should have found the seats off Lisenbee was somewhat unusual. But that he should have done so after nearly losing his life because a fast one bounced off his skull was indeed a rarity. please see page 3

As Koy took his seat, he remarked to nobody in particular, "I'll teach that so-and-so to throw at me!"
"He wasn't throwing at you," said Mamma, "he was just throwing in close!"
Koy turned on him and snapped, "So what if he wasn't throwin' at me — as long as I think so, it makes me hit better!"
You can't hardly find that attitude no more. Young Ernie seems to have it.

Cihla re-named fire chief; Sunday night services planned

J. J. Cihla has been re-appointed chief of the Shiloh Volunteer Fire department.

His salary is $25 monthly. Cihla's appointment was confirmed by a joint meeting of the village council and Cass and Bloominggrove township trustees Friday night.

Beginning Sunday there will be an evening service at 7:30 p.m. each week at the Methodist church.

The Rev. H. H. Steving, Bruston Mills, W. Va., will be guest minister in Shiloh and Plymouth Methodist churches Sunday; the Rev. Harland L. Dague, pastor, announces.

Honoring her husband's birthday anniversary, Mrs. Harry Seaman invited a few friends to spend Saturday evening at their home. Those present were the Howard Noble family, Mrs. Glenn Swanger and daughter, Sally, and Neal Seaman. Refreshments were served.

Loyal Daughters will meet with Mrs. Maud Ruckman Friday evening, Jan. 18. Mrs. Gardy Dickerson will be co-hostess.

Shiloh Town & Country Garden club will meet with Mrs. John Gundrum Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cihla spent one day last week with relatives in Cleveland.

En route to Ashland, Garrett Van Sweringen, Findlay, was a caller Saturday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Bessie Miller.

Relatives received word recently of the birth of a fifth daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Dean England, Louisville, Mr. England is a former resident of this community.

Russell Stephanchick, formerly of Plymouth, and Mrs. Lorain, visited Barry Foster during the holidays.

Luther F. Ratliff, 21, Noble road, a patient in Willard Municipal hospital, told sheriff's deputies a cal. 22 revolver he was carrying accidentally discharged and the bullet hit him in the abdomen. He had been too. It would save time in trips between buildings for administrative purposes. Even though a serious effort is made to curtail toll calls, 35 were made from Shiloh last month and about 40 from Plymouth to Shiloh.

The clerk was authorized to borrow $30,000 Tuesday from Peoples National bank to meet the January payroll and pay current bills.

Yesterday the school heads of Richland county met with the county auditor, Norman L. Wolfe, and treasurer, Charles Payne, to discuss prompt payment of tax collections to the districts. Because the monies are so late in reaching the clerk, every school in the county has the same problem as exists here, not enough money on hand to hold out so small loans are made. This involves paying interest.

P. H. Root to mark 81st anniversary

Percy H. Root, veteran industrialist who lives at 45 Plymouth street, will observe his 81st birthday Monday.

He has no special plans, he says.

But remembrances are expected from his two daughters, Miriam and Ruth, who live in Elmira, N. Y., and his two sons, Paul, Shelby, and Thomas, Plymouth, both associated with him in the Fate-Root-Heath Co., where the elder Root remains active in the special products division. He has 13 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Recently he received from an old friend, Howard (Mike) Roe, for many years maintenance foreman of F-R-H, an account of the obsequies for Capt. Douglas Roe, former Plymouth schoolboy who died when his F101B Voodoo fighter-interceptor crashed seven miles north of Macwahoc, Mo.

Young Roe was interred in Green Acres cemetery, Scottsdale, Ariz., Nov. 23 at 4 p.m. After a funeral service in the cemetery's chapel, a military service was conducted at the grave. Pilots of young Roe's acquaintanceship flew from St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo., from California and the state of Washington to attend the rites.

AGRICULTURE IS OHIO

... the Growth State

Fertile Ohio has a total capital of more than $6 billion invested in farming. Much of Ohio's industry is directly related to farming; thousands of people supply farmers with production materials, and the agricultural industry also includes process manufacturers of farm produced items, wholesalers, and retailers of farm production.

As a producer of all agricultural products, Ohio ranks 12th among the fifty United States. Its green, rolling wooded land is one of the bountiful riches for all, producing a varied harvest: corn, wheat, soybeans, oats, hay, vegetables, fruits, potatoes, tobacco.

Bring the Ohio story to the nation. Clip these ads and mail them to people in other states with your comments. Our united efforts can assure a great future for Ohio — the Growth State.

Sir:

The Huron county chapter of "The National Foundation For The March of Dimes" has asked that I proclaim the month of January "March of Dimes Month" in the Village of Plymouth.

I need not tell you the significance of the drive the National Foundation puts on each year to raise funds for medical scientific research, professional education and medical care. Hundreds, perhaps thousands, will benefit by it as a result of the great strides made in each of the categories, particularly in the field of research, where many experiments have produced new ways to fight and control dreaded child and adult diseases. The monies derived from the drive will enhance further controls and thereby enliven our hopes for a healthy and lasting life.

In view of the significance of the drive and the need for financial support I, by the power vested in me, proclaim the month of January "March of Dimes Month", in the Village of Plymouth, Ohio.

Sincerely yours,
William Fazio

Reader praises Christmas issue

Sir:

All jokes aside, your weekly is one of the nicest I have ever read. The Dec. 27th issue was indeed impressive. Such wonderful, wonderful articles about nice youngsters, just think, you devoted your front page!

You will travel very far and like that issue.

I know you are trying through your paper to stimulate people to deeper thinking. I am sure there are many nice people in this area who will get the point.

Very truly yours,
W. E. Sutton

Sailor Arnett serves in destroyer

Ronald J. Arnett, fireman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Arnett, 12 1/2 East Main street, Plymouth, is serving in the destroyer USS English, operating from Norfolk, Va.

The English was a unit of the recent United States quarantine forces in the Caribbean, under the command of Vice Adm. Alfred G. Ward, USN.

Being a periodic, but irregular, presentation of human interest stories that come to the staff's attention yet seem for one reason or another not suitable for treatment elsewhere in the paper.

NO SOONER HAD WILLARD High school authorities protested to Perkins High school the conduct of some Perkins fans during and after a basketball game there on Nov. 30 than another hornet's nest burst in their midst.

Crestline High school protested the language and conduct of some Willard players and a coach during a game at Crestline Dec. 22.

At Perkins the Willard bus was damaged and there were the feelings and ethics of Willard fans, who felt the referees were partial and the Perkins fans more so.

So Perkins people offered to pay for the damage to the bus and admitted the other charges. An apology was extended.

So Willard will continue to engage Perkins in athletic contests, for a time anyway. What stuck in Crestline's craw was that a school dictionary was shabbily treated when he asked the Willard players to leave the floor during the half-time warm-up period, to prevent their disturbing a program being presented by Crestline's teams.

His authority was questioned by the players, he said, and a coach — identify not given — and some players — likewise not identified — used profanity. So a Willard player has brushed up on his grammar and punctuation and addressed a formal apology to the powers-that-be at Crestline.

One long-time Willard fan observed privately, "If conduct at games involving our teams, or anybody's teams, whether here or elsewhere, and whether or not Willard is involved, continues to be bad, there will be a strong movement to shift the games to after school periods."

Parents of boys participating in varsity football have received a note from William Flaherty, athletic director, requesting a canvass be made of closets, drawers and other storage places for non-extendable equipment issued to players during the 1962 season.

"Boys tend to be forgetful," Flaherty says, speaking from long experience, "and we've used this letter to jog their memories a little." Jerseys comprise the major part of the items not turned in, 35 of them of various sorts included on the list.

ADULT COLORING books, which lampoon the First Family, business executives and others, have now invaded the field of education. In a new one being published by Ego Publications, Westfield, Mass., some of the following appear:

Here is my classroom. Count the desks. Can you count to 57?

Here is my principal. He collects milk money. He has a master's degree.

Here is the milk for lunch. It is 10:15. Color the milk warm.

Today it is raining. There are 30 pupils. There are 59 rubbers. My! My! My!

This is our yellow school bus. I like the yellow school bus. It takes the children away.

This is our superintendent. I just flunked his son. Color

Warriors winners over staggered Red

Sam Nichols sank a bucket with 17 seconds remaining here Tuesday night and sank Plymouth's Big Red as well.

Ontario's Warriors pulled a 52 to 50 victory out of the fire with a tremendous last quarter surge that was marked by a fist fight and widespread dissipation with the officiating.

When the smoke had cleared, these facts were apparent: 1. Plymouth was severely crippled by cripples Jimmy Hamman is out for four weeks with a fractured thumb. Tommy Barns is still benched with a cracked ankle bone.

2. Ontario got almost all of the breaks.

3. The officiating was rank. There was no real control of the game after the first few minutes.

4. The visitors played the least sportsmanlike brand of basketball displayed here in a long time.

PLYMOUTH WENT INTO the final period with a three-point lead at 33 to 30. Ontario pared it down and with four minutes left, Phil Fletcher fouled out. Nichols converted the free throw and the Warriors were in the van. Despite desperate efforts by Dave Myers and Earl Hess, who canned field goals to establish brief Plymouth leads, it was Ron Walker who converted the free throw and the Warriors before fouling out to keep Ontario in contention.

Bob Young canned a twist shot with 65 seconds left to cut the lead to 49 to 48. But Walker sank his final free throw. Earl Hess tied it up with a minute left by bagging two free throws.

Plymouth missed two shots after Nichols slipped through the middle for his lay-up shot. Walker and Nichols each scored 17 for Ontario. Dave Myers and 16 for Plymouth.

Engineer on mend, son tells council; firemen get gloves

Bachrach Cattle Co. donated the use of a bulldozer for Forquer's request. "They came right out with it," he said, "I never charged us a dime."

Mayor Fazio said the ordinance requiring cleaning of the sidewalks within six hours after a snow storm will hereafter be rigorously enforced. The city is marking long periods in streets and alleys will be towed away at drivers' expense.

Although strong measures have been taken to minimize opportunity for defacing and damage to the women's rest room, Forquer reported, "the place is a terrible mess, particularly on Wednesday and Saturday nights."

The walls were painted a violent red to prevent writing on them with lipstick.

Fazio authorized Forquer to lock the rest room and keep it locked. "The women, whoever they are," he said, "will have to make other arrangements, if they can't behave themselves on public property."

COUNCILMAN CLARENCE O. CRAMER, a master plumber, volunteered his services free of charge to install flush tanks in Mary Fate park.

Solicitor Dush represented the village today in argument for the loss of profits.

PURCHASE OF HOBBS RIG by the board of public affairs was approved. Advertisement for bids will begin next week.
