

Where do we get more revenues?

Ohio's new governor has been sworn to his task.

His party controls the legislature and every Ohioan has a right to expect that something he done to get Ohio moving again.

Mr. Rhodes is committed to a program (if his campaign promises be taken at face value) that envisages much in the field of human welfare and education.

He also says he intends to do all this without raising taxes.

In 1960, Ohio ranked 35th among the 50 states in per capita taxes.

Each taxpayer in Ohio paid an average of $11 less than the national average. (Nebraska ranks 50th, but we note no great migration to Omaha.)

There is considerable pressure for a state income tax, which Mr. Rhodes opposes. So does Roger Cloud, the veteran legislator who is the speaker of the General Assembly.

Since the Democratic leadership is generally of the same mind, it seems safe to predict that no income tax will be enacted in Ohio during the next four years.

Nevertheless, some source of additional revenues must be found to meet increasing costs if personnel cutbacks and elimination of waste are not successful. Able Rep. Richard M. Christiansen, Richland county's bright young Democrat, says he thinks an increase of one per cent — from three to four — in the state sales tax will result.

This would yield about $85 million in new tax money, according to experts. If the sales tax at its present level were to be extended to services, such as laundries, dry cleaners, beauty shops, barber shops, shoe shine parlors, business services amusements and repair services, the state could count on an additional $40 million annually.

If the point at which the sale tax begins to be due should be lowered from 31 cents to zero, the state could count on additional revenues of $11.5 million. Put soft drinks under sales tax and the state would get an additional $21.3 million. Increase the cigarette tax by a penny and the state would get $13 million. Double the tax on beer to three cents a bottle and the state would get $30.3 million.

Certainly all of these possibilities will be explored during the current session at Columbus.

One or more of them seem certain of adoption.

Whether a state income tax is fair, reasonable or proper, and if so, what should be done about it, probably won't be debated at this session.

That more revenues are needed is as apparent as that Mr. Rhodes doesn't like his predecessor, or that Mr. DiSalle has no love for his successor.

The question is by what manner taxes should be increased.

We have long thought it is unfair to require less than the entire tax body to support exclusively improvements in programs benefitting that body. Consumers of tobacco, alcohol and soft drinks, frequenters of race tracks and hotels and relatively large investors in stocks and bonds ought not to be required to pay more for, say, education or human welfare than others who don't drink, smoke, travel, invest or watch the bangtalls.

It's highly unlikely the present tax levels on luxury items will be reduced. It's more likely they'll be increased. For our part, if it comes to this, we favor increases on cigarettes but not on cigars or pipe tobaccos.

Legislators in top posts

Huron and Richland county legislators hold important assignments in the 105th General Assembly.

Rep. Harry V. Jump (R-Willard), Huron county's representative, in addition to his assignment as GOP whip, is a member of the powerful rules committee, the reference committee, and the elections and federal relations committee.

Rep. Richard M. Christiansen (D-Mansfield), Richland county's representative embarked on a second term, is a member of the Democratic policy committee and is assigned to the welfare section of the important finance committee and to the taxation committee.

Sen. Roy B. Gardner (R-Mansfield), representing Richland, Ashland and Medina counties in the upper house, is chairman of the agriculture and conservation committee, member of the education and health committee, finance and of the highways and motor vehicles committee. Sen. Teanyson R. Guyer (R-Findlay), who represents Huron and five other counties, is assigned to education and health, liquor control, public utilities and public works and state government committees.

Electric contract expiring

Bids for new pact to be received Feb. 18

Advertisement for bids on Feb. 18 at noon to furnish electric current to the municipal distribution system for a 10-year period commencing Mar. 1 was authorized by village council Tuesday night.

Ohio Power Co. is the present supplier under a contract negotiated in January, 1953.

Its representatives, Carl Powers and Carl Bucklad, both of Bucyrus, told the council Tuesday night it is ready to submit a bid for renewal of the contract.

Whether other suppliers will file bids is unknown, the council said, but the field is open and any qualified supplier who can meet the specifications is free to submit a bid.

Children exceed adult readers by 400 per cent

Children exceeded adult readers by 400 per cent during 1962, Plymouth Branch library reports.

Mrs. Harold H. Shaffer, librarian, announced the circulation figures this week. Juvenile readers totalled 14,184 and adult only 4,119, making a total of 18,303 books borrowed.

Breakdown of the adult figure showed that fiction outdistanced non-fiction, 2,446 to 1,673, in readers' choices.

Juvenile fiction showed the same trend, 4,302 to 2,825. The very young readers of the junior "easies" numbered 7,057.

Mrs. Earl C. Cashman was reelected president of the library's board of directors Thursday. Mrs. David H. Bachrach is the vice-president, Mrs. C. R. Archer secretary and Mrs. Thomas F. Root treasurer.

Other board members include Mrs. Samuel Bachrach, Miss Jessie Trauger, Miss Virginia Fenner, Mrs. J. Harold Cashman, Mrs. George Hershiser and Mrs. Donald Dawson.

The board has received special gifts from Mrs. Karl Weber and Christen Weber and a contribution to the memorial fund from the staff of the Plymouth Elementary school in memory of Mrs. Ray J. Weaver.

Two Scouts get highest rank

Two Plymouth Boy Scouts were certified for the rank of Eagle Scout, highest achievement in the 51-year-old movement for boys, during a court of review at Shelby Pan. 9.

They are Gregory Cashman, son of the Earl C. Cashmans, and Arthur L. Paddock, 3rd, son of the A. L. Paddock, Jr. Presentation of the badge will be made at a public ceremony later.

Donald P. Markley, veteran Scouter, was reelected to a term on the executive board of Johnny Appleseed Area council at Mansfield last week.

Louis J. Ott, Mansfield, was reelected president.

THE PRESENT CONTRACT calls for payments of 4.25 cents a kilowatt hour for the secondary service. The primary rate is computed by multiplying the number of kilo-volt-amperes of monthly billing demand by 30. The secondary rate is computed by multiplying the same figure by 170.

A fuel clause, by which savings accrue to the village if the cost of coal for generative powers decreases, is included. Powers said the new tender to be made by Ohio Power Co. reflects a lower fuel cost figure, which should result in economies to the village if it should contract with the present supplier for a new 10-year period.

By 5 to 1 vote, Councilman Charles Vanslade proposed purchase of a road maintainer from the City of Norwalk for $300 was approved. The maintainer was taken on approval by the street supervisor "because it was in such good condition and the price was so low, we were afraid we would lose it if we did not take it when it was offered."

Frederick Lewis, a special patrolman in the police department, resigned effective Jan. 5. It was accepted.

Richland county budget commission has approved anticipated receipts from tax and other sources during 1963 of $369,090.14, of which $35,129.50 is anticipated general property tax revenue, $2,500 classified property tax and $140,216.80 other revenue, notably from sale of electric and water services.

THE COMMISSION'S ACTION limits expenditures in the several funds thus:

Warren Frank loses father, 83

Father of Warren Frank, Plymouth route 1, Aurora M. Frank, 83, died at his home, 76 Auburn avenue, Shelby, Friday evening.

He was a retired farmer. He was employed 17 years by the Pennsylvania railroad.

A daughter, Mrs. Fanny J. Blair, Shelby; two sons, Marion and Herbert, Shelby; five brothers, Orville Stanton, Mich.; Archie, Crawford county, and George, Wesley and Elza, Shelby, and a sister, Mrs. Clarence Hawk, Shelby, also survive.

The Rev. Robert Z. Lahr, pastor of United Church of Christ, Shelby, conducted last rites Monday afternoon from Dye Funeral home. Burial was in Oakland cemetery.

Mrs. Noecker's kin die: at Shelby

Great-granddaughter of Mrs. G. L. Noecker, Plymouth route 1, Tamara Carol Belsterli, almost one month old, died unexpectedly Jan. 8 at Shelby.

Born there Dec. 14, 1962, the child is also survived by her parents, the R. E. Belsterlis; a brother, Gary; a sister, Theresa, her maternal grandparents, the Carl Bendes, Shelby; her paternal grandparents, the Gilbert Belsterlis, Shelby; and her great-grandfather, Frank Evans, Shelby.

The Rev. Stephen Pressey, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, Shelby conducted last rites at Shelby Jan. 9. Burial was in Oakland cemetery.

Nimmons' kin succumbs at 88

Funeral services were conducted yesterday in Shelby for Mrs. Dessa Mayer.

She was a second cousin to J. Elden and Mahlon Nimmons.

Mrs. Mayer, 88, resided with her son, H. Clayton Mayer, in Shelby. Her sister, Miss May Nimmons, Shelby; a grandson and five great-grandchildren also survive.

Burial was in Greenlawn cemetery here.

Mrs. Reddick, 81, dies at Cambridge

Step-mother of Mrs. James Danals and Mrs. James Backensto, Shiloh, Mrs. Pearl Ernst Reddick, 81, Shelby, died Jan. 9 in Cambridge.

A son, Joseph Ernst, Marysville, former Shiloh village councilman; a step-daughter, Mrs. Joe Vance, Shelby, and a step-son, David Riddick, Shelby, also survive.

Last rites were conducted Saturday at 1:30 p.m. from Bundy Funeral home, Cambridge. Burial was in Newcomerstown.

March of Dimes in full swing here

"Where our contributions toward the March of Dimes actually go is worth looking into," says William Flaherty, Plymouth High school athletic director who heads the drive locally, "and I am happy to say that it goes right here."

During the past year, he reports, the Huron county chapter sponsored the last phase of an operation started in 1961, provided for five other operations, supplied braces for five victims, crutches for three victims, bars bells and other orthopedic equipment for two others. Fourteen polio cases and two birth defect cases were transported, enrolled and treated at Metropolitan General hospital, Cleveland.

"All this amounted to $80,000 and the chapter's deficit for the year is $23,000," Flaherty says.

Vigorous solicitation of prospective donors living in the village and throughout the school district will be climaxed Wednesday when a basketball carnival will be staged in the high school gymnasium.

Plymouth High school faculty team will meet Shreve High school faculty.

Two preliminary games, pitting Plymouth and Shiloh fourth and fifth graders, will feature the carnival.

"We are working on some additional ideas," Flaherty says, "and we hope to announce them promptly. We feel this deserving cause is entitled to the broadest support, especially since some pupils of the schools have benefited from its proceeds in the past."

Directors reelected by F-R-H Co., bank

The two biggest private businesses in Plymouth conducted annual organization meetings last week and re-elected directors for the ensuing year.

The Fate-Root-Heath Co. chose veteran John A. Root as president and his nephew, William E. Root, as vice-president and general manager.

Even the basketball coach suggests parents should take their children to see the remarkable exhibit of the treasures of Versailles in the Toledo Museum of Art. Just don't do it, he begs, on basketball night.

The exhibition opened Saturday. It fills 12 galleries and is composed of 184 objects associated with the fabulous palace of Louis XIII a short distance from Paris.

The Toledo run closes Feb. 17. The museum will be open until 9 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Admission for adults is 85 cents, for children free.

C. D. ALBRIGHT, FOR long manager of the Ohio Power Co. at Bucyrus, wasn't on hand for re-negotiation of the contract to furnish current to the village this year. He's seriously ill in an Indiana hospital, has been out of his office since mid-November.

WEATHER SIGN An icicle is one sign that real winter cold has arrived. Another is when you notice it takes more heat to keep you comfortable inside the house.

To provide this extra warmth your gas furnace works longer and harder. During the winter months, and especially during severe cold, you will be using more natural gas to heat your home. Your gas bill will be higher.

To meet winter demands your gas company has developed a precisely engineered delivery system. That's why so many people in this area can enjoy the comfort and convenience of gas heat for their homes — no matter how cold the weather.

Guthrie president of council; Sutter boy seriously ailing

Charles Guthrie was re-elected president of Shiloh village council during the annual organization meeting in the village hall Jan. 9.

Clarence (Joe) Harris was re-appointed village marshal at $600 annually. He is manager of the Shiloh branch of the Richland County Farm Bureau.

Marion Baker was re-named street commissioner. He will be paid $1.50 an hour for this work and $1 a day as custodian of the public rest rooms.

Village Clerk John J. Bryan, who is also village treasurer, reported balances in the several funds thus:

General, $3,768; light, $13,821.11; street construction, $1,879.67; state highway improvement, $359.70; water, $1,758.35; guarantee deposits, $985; sewer construction, $2,417.26;

Also, sewer revenue, $8,573.24; bond retirement, $5,053.87. Sum of all balances on Dec. 31, 1962, was $38,616.75.

James, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sutter, Noble road, is a bed patient in traction at his home because of hip-joint trouble.

He has been ill for almost two months and now is showing signs of only slight improvement.

He is a third grade pupil in Shiloh Elementary school.

Slides illustrated the lesson on meal planning presented by Mrs. Joseph Stanley and Mrs. David Barnhart when the Shiloh Home Demonstration group met Tuesday at the Methodist church for an all-day meeting. A pot-luck luncheon was served at noon.

Marion Baker, who has been a bed patient the past several days with an arm infection, is somewhat improved this week.

John Swartz, who visits the Scherers home in Springfield, occasionally will be glad to deliver food, clothing or whatever friends may care to send there.

WCSU will meet Monday evening for its business meeting. Mrs. John Barnhart will lead the devotions and Mrs. Jean Smith will be hostess.

Plymouth and New Haven Methodist societies will be guests. A special speaker will show pictures and give a talk on Asia.

I. F. club of Ganges met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Dorothy Graver.

Mrs. Woodrow Huston was hostess to the Rose Country club for the January meeting. Fifteen members and one guest were present. A covered dish luncheon was served at noon.

Mrs. Preston Steele was in charge because of the absence of the president, Mrs. Carl Clawson.

During the business session it was voted to contribute $10 to the March of Dimes. Next meeting will be Feb. 6 at the home of Mrs. Ben Johnson.

Local fire department was called Thursday to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lookabaugh, who reside in the house on the tenant farm of Mr. and Mrs. Earl White. They found no fire.

The gas stove in the kitchen exploded and immediately extinguished the blaze.

Larry D. Hamman is a page in the Ohio Legislature.

He is the son of A. Dewey Hamman and is a graduate of Shiloh High school and Ohio Northern university. He is presently a first year law student in Ohio State university's college of law.

County home costs reported

IT COST HURON COUNTIES about $9,006.38 to operate Shady Lane, the county home, during 1962, George Lawrence, county welfare director, reports.

With 15,455 resident-days, the daily net per capita cost was 58.3 cents.

The farm operations of the establishment earned $16,731 and supplied $2,400 in meats and produce for the kitchen. Expense of operation was $11,272.59, resulting in a net profit of $7,852.12.

The farm measures 168 acres under cultivation, 64 acres in pasture and woodlot.

THERE ARE A NUMBER of stories making the rounds about lies and liars, not all of which dare be repeated here. One we liked, which seems to bear no offense to anybody, goes like this:

The three biggest lies ever told are these:

"I put a check for you in the mail this morning."

"Alcohol doesn't affect me."

"My wife and I never fight."

Our younger one says she can tell a happy motorcyclist because he has bugs on his teeth.

Mrs. Hunter loses brother at Clyde

Brother of Mrs. Robert Hunter, Paul W. Newland, 48, Clyde, died Monday morning in St. Francis of Oak Ridge hospital at Green Springs.

He was in failing health for two years.

Prior to his final illness, he was plant fire marshal of the Whirlpool Corp., Clyde.

Mr. Newland was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran church, a former member of the National Safety council, a member of the Firemen's association and of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

His wife of nearly 26 years has two daughters, Mrs. William Whittington, Plymouth, and Martha Ann, at home; two sons, Paul W., Jr., and Jack, both at home; a brother, James, Willard; a sister, Mrs. Lewis Crooks, Warren, and his father, W. G. Newland, Willard, also survive.

Last rites will be conducted today at 2 p. m. from his church by the Rev. Ralph Houtz. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery, Willard.

Bird watchers found 27 species

For the fourth year, Plymouth's official bird watchers completed the annual Christmas bird census of the National Audubon society.

In an eight-hour period within a 15-mile radius a total of 985 birds was sighted, of which 27 species.

The observations were made on New Year's day by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haas, Maynard J. Coon, who came from his home in Mansfield, Mrs. Daniel M. Henry and Mr. and Mrs. Vance Snyder.

The following were sighted red-tailed hawks, two; marsh hawk, one; bobwhites, 16; mourning doves, 108; red-bellied woodpeckers, four; red-headed woodpeckers, 12; hairy woodpecker, one; downy woodpeckers, 23; blue jays, 34; crows, eight; black-capped chickadees, 28; tufted titmice, 18; white-breasted nuthatches, 19; brown creeper, one; catbird, one robin, eight; bluebirds, six; starlings, 143; myrtle warblers, three; house sparrows, 268; meadowlarks, four; cardinals, 28; towhees, one; slate-colored junco, 15; song sparrows, 11; snow buntings, 200, and tree sparrows, 34.

The lone catbird which was seen is unusual in this area during the winter months. Two of the myrtle warblers visited the William Root's feeder daily.

Recently an egret was seen in D. William Ellis' field. The bird is a rare one. Its location was even more rare: it was perched on the back of a cow.

Automobile changed administration of justice

The automobile has changed the administration of justice in Ohio.

The impact of Detroit has over 25 years drastically altered policing and punishment of that part of the population which uses an automobile to move from one place to another. This covers just about everyone in Ohio.

In small-town Ohio — about a third of the population resides in smaller towns and rural areas and slightly more than half outside the 10 major population concentrations — the facts of better and cheaper transportation over better roads have resulted in legislative changes in the structure of the justice establishment.

Have these changes been good for Ohio?

Consensus among those who deal with them every day is strongly affirmative. Some say there is need for further improvement.

Core of the justice establishment, the lowest court in the state, is the village mayor's court, which sits in 737 communities having a total population of about 1.3 million Ohioans.

ITS PRESIDING OFFICER is the mayor, by law a citizen-elect of the state, county and village in which he serves.

Village mayors under Ohio's "weak executive" system of government have few real powers, but one of them is that each is the chief conservator of the peace in his jurisdiction.

In a non-mobile population, or in one such as Switzerland, where railroads furnish such an important part of the total transportation system, such courts deal chiefly with misdemeanors of a personality pattern punishable by relatively small fines. In any progressive society, the number of these is small.

But in a society in which nearly everyone at some time or another moves from one place to another in an automobile, these courts become seized of a greater number of offenses, most of them misdemeanors and most of them connected with the automobile.

Where the court has jurisdiction over important road junctions, the volume of offenses is large. In some villages, they are a major business, contributing handsome revenues to the village treasury.

IT WAS THIS FACT, IN part, which resulted in enactment by the 102nd General Assembly of legislation restricting the jurisdiction of village mayors and establishing of county courts. Effective date of the change was Jan. 1, 1960.

Except for those villages where revenues were drastically reduced by this action, opinion is that county courts have been a substantial change for the better.

Only six years before, the General Assembly had enacted another important bill which made for a more honest and fairer administration of justice. Mayors and justices of the peace were after Jan. 1, 1954, required to pay the receipts of their courts to the treasuries of their jurisdictions. Therefore, these magistrates retained as income the proceeds of costs of trial in each case of which they were seized.

Although village mayors' courts convene in villages having a population of no more than 14 per cent of the state's total, the manner by which they are conducted affects every citizen who travels in an automobile.

Which is why the nature of the courts, who conducts them, how well or poorly they are conducted, is of vital concern to every citizen of the Buckeye state.

So it behooves the citizen to inquire thus:

Who are these mayors? How well are they qualified to administer justice?

What can they do?

What are a citizen's rights in their courts?

What, if anything, is wrong with mayors' courts?

What should be done to correct these wrongs?

The purpose of this series is to seek answers to those questions.

Richland county tax set at $41.80

Richland county residents of this village will be required to pay real estate taxes during 1963 at the rate of $41.80 for each $1,000 of valuation, says the Richland county auditor.

The tax rate is the highest of any political subdivision of the county.

Of the $41.80, $10 is assessed and collected under the general blanket authorization accorded by the Ohio constitution, that 10 mills of taxation may be levied without the consent of the citizen.

This revenue is distributed thus: $2 to the county, $1.50 to Plymouth township, $2 to the village and $4.40 to Plymouth school district.

The balance, $31.80, is as-essed and collected in pursuit of consents to do so accorded by citizens at the polls. Of this figure, $1.30 goes to the county, for general purposes; 30 cents to the county for health purposes, 20 cents to the state, $6.90 to the village and $23.20 to Plymouth school district.

School taxes thus amount to $27.60 per $1,000 valuation. The village collects $6.90. The balance of $5.30 is for township and county purposes.

A resolution to accept these rates of taxes was adopted by the village council Tuesday night.

Taxes in Plymouth school district are based upon an assessed valuation of $10,726,095. Those in the village are based upon an assessment of $3,974,140.

fund, $114.51; perpetual care, $8,225.39; sewer system bonds, $5,094.39.

After four hours of wrestling with appropriations, the council recessed until Tuesday at 8 p. m. with these appropriations firm:

Fire equipment and apparatus, $4,756; water, $32,637; sewer service, $62,340.75; electric, $78,950; cemetery, $6,483.32; civil defense, $868; street maintenance, $12,800.78; police, $11,235.03; general, service and safety less police, $24,139.36.

Ex-music teacher in hot controversy

H. DALE MOORE

A former Plymouth High school music teacher is the center of a boiling controversy in Perkins High school south of Sandusky.

He is H. Dale Moore, instrumental music teacher of the school, who is accused by some parents of unreasonable and unfair treatment of their children.

They alleged at a meeting of the Perkins Board of Education Monday night that Moore has barred some pupils from participation with the concert band because they refuse to play with the dance band.

Principal complainor was Mrs. Tony Sidoti, who says her son, Tony, whom she described as a "brilliant musician who has already won a music scholarship", received a lower grade in music after he dropped out of the dance band.

James Eppse said his son dropped out of the dance band because he found an after-school job. The boy was then excluded from the concert band by Moore, the father said.

Moore's position: "I have made a full report on this to the administration and any action or statement will have to come from there."

The board's position: "Let's hear both sides of this before we take any action of any kind against anybody."

ELECTRIC POWER IS OHIO

...the Growth State

Ohio has ever expanding facilities, providing low cost electric power to serve both homes and industries. Keeping pace with growing industrial needs and blossoming communities, Ohio's eight investor-owned electric companies plan to spend over a billion dollars for increased generating capacity within the next five years.

Electric power in Ohio is produced by public utilities, rural electric cooperatives, and by municipal generating plants. One-sixth of this total is produced by private manufacturers for their own use.

Additionally, Ohio utilities are among the fifteen private power companies which contracted with the Atomic Energy Commission to supply power for the AEC facilities near Portsmouth. The generating equipment developed has a capacity of 2,365,000 kilowatts.

Young Archie runs faster than father, elder San Romani was long on courage

By THE OLD TIMER
A wire service reported the other day that a four-mile relay team wearing the colors of the University of Oregon broke the world record for the distance in a meet in Australia.

The fact would have raised greater thunder save that Oregon only finished second. An Australian quartet was fourth of a second faster.

To an old track buff, whose interest dates back to the days of Jole Ray on the boards in New York and to the fabulous invitational meets at Palmer Stadium, Princeton, N. J., a name of one of the Webfoots brings back a fond memory.

Archie San Romani, Jr., ran the second leg of that race. His time was only 4:37.7. Certainly not record-shattering by modern day standards, when little Jim Beatty, with Miklos Igloi calling the shots, can come home in under four minutes any time he is of that mind.

But it is considerably faster than his great daddy ever ran. And San Romani Pere was one whale of a miler.

He wore the uniform of Emporia State Teachers college, Emporia, Kan. In the ivy-covered stadium at Princeton of those humid June afternoons, mention of such schools as Emporia State Teachers and Oklahoma Baptist, which had a sweet young hurdler named Sam Allen, evoked the chorles and harumphs of the well-bred crowd that apparently looked upon such alma maters with derision.

IT WAS SORT OF LIKE the magazine advertisement that was then at the end of its popularity: "They laughed when I sat down at the piano, but when I began to play —"

San Romani was cut from the cloth of another great Kansan miler, Glenn Cunningham, whose five duels with Jack Lovelock, the bounding New Zealander, and Bill Bonthon, Princeton's own, had electrified track enthusiasts the world over.

His running habit was spread jersey, white pants with slashed thigh and white running shoes. Across the jersey it said "Emporia."

The custom at Princeton was that you had to make your mark elsewhere before you could set foot on the hallowed cinders of Palmer Stadium. But this particular year the talent was thin and San Romani was invited only to fill out the field. He certainly wouldn't keep pace with the likes of Becaldi and Venzke and the Australian.

It was past six o'clock when they called the milers. San Romani broke two places out from the rail and held second for three laps. At the head of the stretch, just before the Australian moved, Archie poured the coal on and sprinted to a 30-yard lead.

How foes fared

How Big Red foes fared last week:
Lexington 57, Loudonville 52
Butler 59, Ontario 56
Crestline 64, Fredericktown 62
Union 84, Bellville 61
Mapleton 47, Hayesville 45
Lucas 67, Bellville 42
Union 67, Crestline 61
Monroeville 61, Mapleton 42
Loudonville 69, Shreve 42

Then, inexplicably, he sprang flat on his face. The Aussie leaped over his opponent and thundered on toward the tape. The remainder of the field pounded down the stretch.

And what of Archie? He punched the cinders with his left fist, threw himself with his feet and took out down the track. One, two, three runners he passed in what surely must have been the fastest eighth of a mile ever run by a miler.

He never did catch the champion. But he caught the Old Timer. Mention his name around our house and you're due to be cornered for at least an hour of fulsome praise of a good runner, a fine gentleman and a fellow who had more will to win than anyone we've ever seen. Bar one. And more of him later.

Big Red downs Butler, 62-43, finds Col. Crawford too much

Phil Fletcher and Dave Myers dominated play in the first half here Saturday night as Plymouth trampled Butler, 62 to 43, in a Johnny Appleseed conference game.

There was no question of the outcome after five minutes were gone. By this time, it was a matter of by how much Coach Ron Hostler wanted to win.

Fletcher and Myers scored all but four of Plymouth's 32 points in the first half in a splendid demonstration of rebounding power and inside shooting.

Dave Meeks, a redheaded corner man, scored 18 for Butler, which started a husky freshman, Bob Hoyt, 6-3 and 17 pounds, at center.

PLYMOUTH COULD have won by a much larger score for some unmythical luck with lay-ups and "bunny" shots.

Eagles too tall for Plymouth

Colonel Crawford's Eagles bided their time on their own floor Friday night and then stormed to victory by forcing Plymouth to make mistakes.

The final score 60 to 41, was no indication of the winners' superiority. Coach Mac Morrison substituted freely and took the pressure off when it was clear he would win handily.

Plymouth led by two after eight minutes and held a 17 point advantage with three minutes gone in the second period. But the Zaebst twins, Rick and Bob, began to hit from the corners and it was curtains for Plymouth thereafter.

AT THE END OF THE second quarter, it was plain how poorly Plymouth played. Its PPA was a creditable .87 in the first period. But during the second, the Big Red scored only eight points in 15 advantages for .53.

Plymouth was within striking distance as the second half started. Colonel Crawford held a four-point lead at 26 to 22. Bob Zaebst was the big gun in the third quarter, scoring nine of the 15 points collected by the Eagles.

Meanwhile, Plymouth could bag only four points, a basket by Phil Fletcher and free throws by Earl Hess and Allen Arnold.

Plymouth came back a little when the winners had the floor flooded with second stringers, but still failed to outscore the hosts.

corner shot.
For Plymouth, nobody performed outstanding service and it would be well for everybody — coach, players and fans — to forget about this one.

Offense offending

A good defense is the best offense applies everywhere but in football, opinion Coach Ron Hostler of Plymouth's Big Red.

"If we can get our offense going," he says, after a study of statistics so far, "we will have a mighty good record."

In the first nine games, Plymouth scored an average of 55.2 points a game, holding its opponents to 52 points a game.

The best offensive game saw the Big Red score 74, the worst only 39, against Loudonville, which hasn't a particularly outstanding defense.

They played their poorest, most lifeless contest of the season and got a deserved shellacking, 43 to 28.

Crying towel for Red coach understandable

All joking aside, as the fellow said, Coach Ron Hostler has a right to some sympathy if he gets out the crying towel.

In his second year as varsity coach here, he looked forward to a splendid season. After all, he had size, experience and ability coming back.

Blow No. 1: Roger Van Loo, a big center, counted upon as a leading rebounder, mugged from the district. A Michigan school is the lucky recipient of his several talents.

Blow No. 2: Phil Fletcher, whose soph year showed great promise, injured his back in football, missed the last three halves of varsity football and wasn't able to play in the first five basketball games.

Blow No. 3: Tommy Barnard, his ace corner man and possessor of a whizz of a corner shot, cracked an ankle bone and has missed four games, with the likelihood of more games on the bench.

Blow No. 4: Jimmy Hamman, sparkplug of the Plymouth attack, the playmaker, broke a thumb in two places and will be out a month. He's already missed three games.

SOLUTION? "PLAY WHAT WE'VE GOT, WORK HARD AND HOPE FOR THE BEST," says Hostler, who's called some sophomores from Coach Bill Flaherty's Reserve squad to be a part of the varsity club. Mike Ruckman and Eric Akers dressed with the varsity last week and Hostler called another, Chip Paddock, Monday.

"I don't want to break up that sophomore group, they're a good outfit," Hostler says, "but we can't have much of a practice with only nine players, so we'll need at least three to join the varsity."
