

More shrewdness, less lewdness, that's the ticket!

Whatever it is the mayor is up to, it is plain there are many who are unhappy about it.

We do not quibble with his rights under the law. The Revised Code of Ohio clearly sets forth the right of the mayor of a village corporation to make recommendations of the general character in which the mayor has so far indulged.

We find it difficult, however, to reconcile his method with his intent. Because the method cannot but alienate the very people he needs to win over to achieve his aim.

He has done, we think, a poor job of explaining that intent, so much so, that there are many, and we confess we are sometimes among them, who consider his motivations are more personal than otherwise.

We hold with the mayor that times and conditions have outmoded many of the mechanics of village government under the general umbrella of Ohio law governing municipal corporations. A charter, drawn expressly for the village's needs today and tomorrow, makes sense to us.

But we would resist with all the power that is in us any effort by the mayor or anybody else to grant more power and authority to one man than is healthy for a community that can't afford to pay a living wage to its principal officer.

Mayor or dogcatcher, nobody has the right to use the kind of language employed to describe an attitude in last week's session. It was obscene and vulgar, possibly prosecutable under the law that no person may use obscene language before a woman or a child under 15 years of age, certainly worthy of the moral scorn of all who heard it or heard about it.

For one whose single vote may have cost the village $20,000, he might be well advised to tread as if on eggs between now and election day.

It may very well be that management of the utilities by the board of public affairs has not been up to snuff. If the mayor has evidence to this effect, he should bring it forth. First, before the board. Thereafter, elsewhere, if no action is obtained.

Certainly there is no room for character assassination and low, vulgar remarks by anybody about anything. Most especially not by the highest elective officer of the village.

The rule is: "Less lewdness, more shrewdness."

Rubber-neckers should refrain from fire chase

Fire Chief Judson A. Morrison has a legitimate complaint.

"Too many rubber-neckers are following fire apparatus to the scene of the fire," he asserts. "This clogs up the roads and we can't get to the fire fast enough."

The fire department has been lenient so far. No one should be surprised if summonses are issued at the next fire. It is right that they should be.

A wise man, George Jean Nathan by name, once said that America is the place where a man need only stop in the middle of the sidewalk in downtown New York and stare at the heavens to create a longestation that defies the efforts of organized authority to unravel.

It isn't only New York where people behave this way.

A country fire, Grandfather said, is like a county fair: you see everybody you know there.

The curious, the nosy, the gossips, the stone-throwers and other assorted types join the ordinary citizen in rushing to the fire. The siren is no respecter of motive: it summons everyone.

Firemen and policemen should not be loath to make arrests for open and obvious violations of the law that prohibits close pursuit of apparatus en route to a fire.

Chest letters in mail for 1,000 families

All residents of Plymouth and Plymouth route 1 will receive the seventh annual Community Chest letter Monday morning.

The 1963 drive officially opens with the mailing of the letters and will continue until the end of the month.

This year's goal of $4,000 has been set with the hope of "A buck a day" from each residential contributor.

Last year's goal was not reached. Only 88 per cent was contributed.

Each participating agency received a pro-rated share.

MARY FATE PARK REceived $440, which the park board used to help defray the cost of installing new lavatories. The work is almost completed.

Plymouth Branch library received $176, which its board is using to help pay for a new set of reference books.

Plymouth Midget league used its share of $176 to help pay for equipment for the league's season. A total of $378 was spent by the league this summer for various items. The Pony league, which shares in the amount allotted to the PML, used its $88 for equipment.

PHS band was given $176, which went into the Band Mothers' general treasury. They have since purchased majorette uniforms and band equipment.

Plymouth Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts received $352 and $183, which pays their share of the cost in the scouting areas. This includes leader training courses, scouting activities and some camping expenses.

A total of $440 went to Willard chapter, American Red Cross. This is earmarked for the processing of blood, which is available to any Plymouth resident. The Willard chapter has used more blood than has been contributed to the bloodmobile visits. ARC swimming lessons, first aid courses and aid to servicemen in time of emergencies are also furnished to Plymouth.

The Salvation Army received $510. Twenty per cent of this sum is left in Plymouth to be administered by a local unit for emergencies.

The Shelby-Plymouth-Shiloh Canvasser chapter received $352. It will give financial aid to families requesting it for medication and supplies for home patients afflicted with cancer.

"Just about every family has something to do at one time or another with these agencies," Chest President William R. Miller said this week. "So it behooves all of us to do our share in the drive. You never know when you might need the help yourself."

PML ELECTS

Robert A. McKown has been re-elected president of Plymouth Midget League.

Russell Kamann and M. E. Mellott are vice-presidents. Mrs. Kamann secretary and Mrs. McKown treasurer.

Visit with family nearly tragedy here for Mrs. Stein

A weekend visit with her parents, the Leland Briggs, to attend the wedding of a cousin in Willard almost ended in tragedy for Mrs. Donald Stein of Fostoria.

Mrs. Stein was riding in the back seat of her mother's car with her year-old daughter, Dawn, when it was struck by a truck at Parsel road and Route 98 Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Briggs, who was driving, was on her way home when John Cok turned left into the highway, hitting her Falcon almost head-on and demolishing it.

Both women were taken to Willard Municipal hospital by McQuate's ambulance. Mrs. Briggs was badly shaken and bruised but not admitted. Mrs. Stein was admitted for treatment of her eye, into which small pieces of glass were embedded, and for observation of other injuries. The infant was unharmed.

Cok is being cited for failure to yield right-of-way by the Richland county state highway patrol.

Mrs. Seaholtz' kin escapes injury in fatal collision

Two Willard High school boys received minor injuries in a car-tractor accident Sunday evening which claimed the life of a farmer.

Barry Seaholtz, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Seaholtz of Willard and grandson of Mrs. Charles Seaholtz of Plymouth, was a passenger in a car driven by Clarence W. Briggs, guy of Willard. The Briggs car struck the back of an unlighted farm tractor in Route 224 near Ruggles. Vision was obscured by a small rise in the road.

Arthur A. Eschtruth, 62, was killed instantly in the collision.

A second car driven by William L. Whitmore of Nova also hit the tractor, which was still in the highway.

The collision was investigated by the Ashland Post State highway patrol and no charges were filed.

Two arrested for disorderly conduct; Shiloh loses license for 60 days

Harriers almost upset unbeaten Clyde

The test of a future champion is whether he can step up in class and hold his own.

By these standards, Plymouth's Big Red cross country squad has a big future.

Coach Guy (Pappy) Flora's outfit tackled Clyde here Tuesday afternoon and came closer to toppling the vaunted Flyer squad than any crew in 27 consecutive meets. The score was 25 to 32.

Clyde's superior balance won the meet, the Flyers taking third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh places.

Greg Cashman won it in 10:48. Nero Howard was second in 11:05. Robert Carter, one of two that family running for the Flyers, was third in 11:16. Other Plymouth placers: Jim Hook, eighth, in 11:31; Clyde Lasch, ninth, in 11:32.

BACK IN THE PACK were Freddy Buzard, 13th, in 11:35.5; Phil Bushey, 15th, in 11:56; Bob Dawson, 17th, in 12:19; Randy Davis, 18th, in 12:23; Girard Cashman, who fell, 19th, in 12:36; Phil Dague, 20th, in 12:48 and Dave Haver, 21st in 14:10.

For dollar input, the cross country program is certainly the most rewarding in which the athletic department engages. Its expenses are so low they can be measured in a piggy bank.

Every candidate is issued a uniform and competes in every event. Experienced coaching is assigned to each practice session. Competition is sought with neighboring schools having a cross country program. please see page 5

Drought fans brush fires

Fire Prevention week, observed this week, began with a good workout for Plymouth volunteer firemen.

In less than 24 hours five calls were answered. They began Sunday at 11:15 p. m. A woods fire on the Frank Ruckman property at Dingler road and Route 61 was subdued. Firemen returned at 12:50 a. m.

The first call Monday came at 3:40 p. m. when a grass fire started on the property of Charles Wyandt and the Peck-A-Boo inn at New Haven. Firemen were back at the fire house at 4:40 p. m.

Ten minutes later a call came from the Tiro department to extinguish a grass fire on the Wayne Keiss farm in Route 298.

The third call came at 5:45 p. m. just after firemen had returned.

This time it was the Shiloh department asking for mutual aid for a woods fire on the Bachrach property in Willet road.

It was at this blaze that the 1947 International fire truck gave up the ghost. The fuel pump quit.

It was immediately brought back to the fire house for repairs. While it was being worked upon, the last call for the day came at 8:15 p. m.

This time it was the barn behind the house occupied by Luther Sexton at the edge of the village in West Broadway.

The alarm was telephoned by Mrs. Charles Vanasdale. By then, the barn was almost consumed and neighbors were dousing windblown sparks on their own roofs.

Shiloh firemen responded on call and arrived as quickly as they could reach the scene. By this time, traffic was so congested in West Broadway by fire-watchers that equipment couldn't negotiate the route. Police Chief Robert L. Meiser cut off west bound traffic at Railroad street.

The next problem the firemen faced was the lack of water and pressure to fight the blaze. The tankers were used, however, and no damage was done to nearby homes.

William Link loses niece, teacher for four decades

For nearly 40 years a Monroeville school teacher, Miss Viola C. Link, 61, died in Fisher-Titus Memorial hospital, Norwalk, Saturday at 3 p. m.

She retired from her professional duties as mathematics teacher in Monroeville High school about three years ago.

Born in Monroeville Feb. 18, 1902, she was the daughter of the late Anthony and Matilda Phillips Link.

She was a member of the Rosary and Altar society of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, of which she was a communicant.

A sister, Lucille, Columbus; and uncle, William Link, Plymouth route 1, for many years New Haven township trustee, and an aunt, Mrs. Clara Bringman, Elyria, survive.

The Rev. George Schmitz, her pastor, was celebrant of the funeral mass Tuesday at 9:30 a. m. from St. Joseph's church. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

A memorial program in the high school took place at the time of the funeral and a number of former colleagues were excused from their duties to attend the funeral services at the church.

This is your Junior Fire Marshal watching a fire hazard...

ARE YOU A FIRE HAZARD?

Do you sometimes smoke in bed, overload your home electrical system, forget to clean storage areas periodically, or commit other little oversights that can lead to big fires? Or do you try to eliminate fire hazards—always?

THIS IS FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

As local sponsors of the Hartford Insurance Group's Junior Fire Marshal program, we urge you never to be "fire" careless. Instead, we ask you to join your youngster, or your neighbor's, and millions of American boys and girls who are helping to snuff out fire hazards through the Junior Fire Marshal safety program. Do it this week, and all through the year.

to her. Nor me, either. It's the high school age that everyone is after.

Researchers have estimated there are 11,065,000 high school girls simply dying to spend money. How right they are, as every parent knows first hand! It is estimated they spend over $6 billion a year on their own and influence the spending of a number of billions more.

EACH YOUNG BEAUTY is supposed to spend an average of $177 on clothes a year, buy a lipstick every other month and invest a goodly sum in eye makeup.

It really isn't so fantastic after all. It boils down to about $3.41 a week for clothes. How many mothers can get through one whole week without being nailed for something which is separately needed? This week we are agonizing over a gym bag. Last week it was stockings. It was a good thing I had a spare pair hidden away for myself or I couldn't have left the house. It's not that mothers don't want to spend money. They love to. There simply isn't time to do it properly. The result is every one who is manufacturing anything that girls, of whatever age, want is aiming toward the younger age groups.

THIS IS WHY MOTHERS are always so busy. You simply do not say, "I am going to look for a hat." Now you say, "We must look for a hat."

I find myself looking twice at choice little things to wear. How will it look on HER and will SHE approve?

We are really in an economic boom, no matter what Washington might say. It is a fantastic thing, really. A few weeks ago I peeked at a price tag of a leopard hat, out of curiosity. It was a small hat, too, of not very good leopard. It was the orange-y kind, which is not the Somali. But then the Somalis are getting scarcer each year because of the indiscriminate shooting for coats. To get back to the hat, it was a mere $115. Someone is going to buy it for sure. I am glad Poppe gave me mine — and coat to match — when he was flush!

If any mother would like to know where this chapeau may be bought so she can keep her daughter away from it, I will be glad to tell her.

OUR FEASANT FEATHER hat-making friend from Detroit spent the weekend with us and she came up with something all good cooks should know about. Her mother heard about it. No one has tried it yet, although it sounds fairly logical for some reason.

She says that a potato will bake faster with an aluminum nail stuck through the middle. If this is true, think what a booming business can result!

It most likely has to do with conducting heat, which I don't remember any more and firmly suspect I never learned it in the first place. On some school subjects, silence is golden. It's better than admitting you don't know and that the teacher is smarter than you.

We heard a lovely story the other day about a young man taking Latin I. His mother, who majored in it in college, offered her services, which he soundly rejected with great pride. Finally he couldn't stand her interference any longer and told her flatly, "Latin has changed a lot since you studied it, Mom."

Tough road faces Big Red

Write off any hopes of high placing in the 1963 Johnny Appleseed conference race for Plymouth's Big Red.

Coach Richard Carpenter's crew has three games remaining to complete the 1963 conference slate. In each of these, the Big Red will be such underdogs that, in the two instances, the wonder is whether scoreboards can count that high.

Fredericktown, the perennial powerhouse, is more powerful than ever.

After one licking, and that at the hands of the Freddie's, Ontario is riding high again.

And Clear Fork, despite an early-in-the-game problem with punchless Loudonville, is doing extremely well with what Coach Bill Frazier says is a good team with some power but not the speed we had last year.

IF THE BIG RED HAS ANY hope of making a fair season of this year's efforts, it must win the next two — with Crestview (read Union) here tomorrow and at Johnsonville tomorrow. In the three to follow a week from tomorrow — and point for one of those conference games in what would be the biggest upset since Alston took New York.

Not scheduled last week, Carpenter has been drilling his charges incessantly to overcome mental mistakes and errors of execution.

His theory is that in schoolboy football, the teacher ought to be able to teach strategy and mechanics sufficiently so that victory or defeat derives from two factors only — physical strength and spirit.

Over physical strength no coach has any control. Over spirit he has some, not enough, but sufficient in some instances to overcome the physical deficiencies.

"We've made a lot of mental mistakes because of inexperience," Carpenter admits, "and there's no substitute for play in a real game, when your mistakes cost you more than they cost you in practice, when the coach chews you out and maybe gives you an extra lap around the field."

"Also, some injuries, not injuries that have happened because we've been out of shape but just injuries, have handicapped us some. Phil Fletcher hasn't been in top shape about half the time and Eric Akers has a bum knee. I hope the rest has done them some good. Because we want to make a good showing against Crestview. It would be terrible if a school that's never played the game before should show us up."

IT IS THIS INSPIRATION he has sought to develop in the Big Red over the past 10 days.

No changes are anticipated in the starting lineup, which has for the most part had to go both ways this season.

Billy Goth and Norman Howard will be at ends, Red Bland and Bob Young at tackles, Bob Forsythe and Dick Foreman at guards and Chip Faddock at center.

Akers, Fletcher, Mike Ruckman and Gene Cousle will draw the starting assignments behind the line.

Old Timer prescribes bed for assortment of wounded

BACK IN 1935, THE LATE Joe Jacobs went to Chicago to see the World Series between the Cubs and the Detroit Tigers. The Tigers took it, four games to two.

Joe wasn't happy about the outcome, since he had a bundle laid on the Cubs.

When the 39-year-old manager of Max Schmeling, who'd already achieved a dubious fame by blurring "We wuz robbed" into a microphone on the occasion of Jack Sharkey's defeat of his man for the championship in 1932, returned to New York, he was interviewed by the press.

"I should of stood in bed," said the bedraggled Jacobs. His poor grammar notwithstanding, the remark became an American classic.

And it applies this week to: The New York Yankees The Old Timer Berlin Hts. Tigers, beaten by heretofore winless Western Reserve.

The New York Yankees Notre Dam's Fighting Irish, who manage to be eched out of victory in the last minute or two of play.

Georgia Tech's Engineers, defeated by LSU in an upset The Old Timer Heidelberg college's Student Princes, badly shellacked by Wittenberg

Ashland college's Eagles, defeated by an unknown

The New York Yankees Charley Bachrach, freshman in Trinity college, Hartford, Conn., is a candidate for the freshman eleven there. He's the son of the David H. Bachrach, Plymouth.

And a lad who learned his boating in the Huron river is an aspirant for a place in the freshman crew of the College of Marietta. He is Dennis D. Broud, son of the Paul D. Brouds, Monroeville route 2. CHIP FADDOCK, 144-pound center and linebacker for the Plymouth Big Red, is unique among 10,000 Ohio footballers.

He's the only player who's pulled the beard of the Conqueror Lion of Judah, Haile Selassie I, emperor of Ethiopia, now on an official state visit to the United States.

It happened in 1951 a Jan-hoy Meda, the celebrated race course in Addis Ababa, the Negus' capital. Chip's father had entered an Arabian horse in the Imperial Stakes. The boy often rode the animal and the emperor invited him to watch the event from his box. When the pack went down the back stretch, the emperor raised his binoculars. The boy — then only four — wanted to see, too. So while his father died 10,000 deaths of mortification, the boy tugged at the emperor's beard and demanded the glasses. The Negus smiled and handed them to him.

Reminded of this dubious feat, Chip says, "I'd rather make an all-Johnny Appleseed conference linebacker."

HARD wearing!

It's the toughest of hard-wearing heavy-duty finishes. Use anywhere — inside or out, for wood, cement, linoleum — most anything. Takes heavy traffic and repeated scrubbing, and comes up looking new for a long and beautiful life. Highly resistant to weather as well. A sound, long-term investment. Comes in ten colors to blend with any decorating scheme.

Illinois farm leader slated to address county group

Charles B. Schuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation and a stock and grain farmer near Sullivan, Ill., will speak before the annual meeting of Huron County Farm Bureau Federation Oct. 24 in Norwalk High school auditorium.

Shuman graduated with honors in 1928 from the University of Illinois college agriculture and in 1929 earned his master's degree in agronomy at the state university. His minor study was agricultural economics.

He lives on and actively participates in the farming operation of his 270-acre farm near Sullivan. The home farm has been in the Shuman family since 1853.

Mr. Schuman has a commercial herd of Angus cattle. The Angus herd of 55 cows is maintained to consume grassland on the farm.

Since graduation from college, Mr. Schuman has been active in Farm Bureau, cooperative and community affairs. He was elected a director of the Moultrie county Farm Bureau in 1932 and its president in 1934. He served as county president until 1938. He was elected to the Illinois Agricultural association board of directors in 1941 and was named president of the IAA in 1945, when Earl C. Smith, IAA president, retired.

Hew as elected to the American Farm Bureau Federation board of directors in 1945 and to the presidency of AFBF in December, 1954, after the retirement of Allan B. Kline. He was re-elected for two-year terms in 1955, 1957, 1959 and 1961.

President Malcolm Smith says the county farm bureau board expects a record crowd at this annual meeting. The committee has arrangements for 900 Huron County Farm Bureau members will be given preferred seating, since it is expected many non-members will attend this meeting.
