

Edward and Lucy Curpen, 50 years on S(s)quare

Curpen marks 50th anniversary

Changes have come fast and furiously in the last half century, but a girl's best friend is still the diamond.

Plymouth's oldest business man, Edward B. Curpen, says so.

This week he is observing his 50th anniversary in the jewelry business.

Young Eddie Curpen took over the family jewelry store when he realized that you can't marry a pretty school teacher on seven dollars a week.

A native of Plymouth, he was born Mar. 27, 1891, one of the seven children of Ferdinand and Emma Tyson Curpen.

His father came to Ohio from Germany when he was a young man of 21 and settled in Upper Sandusky. He had learned watch repairing in his own country and after a few years moved to Plymouth, where he opened his own store where he the Suttles building stands today. He ran it for 36 years until his death. Mrs. Curpen kept it open for several years afterwards until her son, who had learned his father's skills, took it over.

Eddie began his business life at the ripe age of 11 when he became the delivery boy for his Uncle Jake Brubaker's grocery store. For a wage of one dollar a week, he delivered groceries to Plymouth housewives in a small hand-pulled wagon.

He left high school during his first year to work for his older brother, John, who ran a grocery store where The Advertiser is now located. That is where he worked his way up to $7 a week.

About that time Lucy Voris arrived from Burgin, Ky., to teach the fifth and sixth grades in the Plymouth schools. Cupid's darts began to fly, and he took over the family business from his mother. At the end of World War II he purchased the building where he is now.

The mainstay of the jewelry business is the diamond Mr. Curpen says. Young men, middle age men and older men still buy them. The styles change. Today the trend is back to the single stone in settings similar to the old Tiffany settings. Yellow gold has given way to white gold today.

Trends in buying other items have changed. Today the greeting card business is "in". Years back the big thing was sterling silver teaspoons with engraved initials or names. That was the standard gift for a young girl when she graduated from school and made an ideal Christmas gift for her hope chest.

Watches and clocks have always had to be repaired now and then. The change here is in price. Years back an alarm clock was overhauled for 25c and an eight day clock for 75c. Today the price has changed quite a bit upward.

The Curpens, who make their home in Sandusky street, have watched their two daughters grow to womanhood and have seen the changes in Plymouth. Their daughters, Mrs. Ralph Fey, who lives in Oxford, and Mrs. James Domes who lives in Columbus, have two children each, giving the Curpens two granddaughters and two grandsons.

They keep Lucy Curpen busy. For years her hobby has been refinishing old pieces of furniture for her daughters' homes and "doing" for her grandchildren.

Fire guts home of L. Robinson

Fire gutted a dwelling at 145 Trux street Saturday evening and left the occupants of one week homeless.

The house, known for years as the Burkett homestead, is owned by Mrs. Charles Stein, Norwalk, and was occupied for the past week by Laura Robinson.

Plymouth Volunteer Fire department and civil defense volunteers battled the blaze for nearly three hours before bringing it under control.

Fire Chief Judson A. Morrison reported the building was insured for $8,000 and called it a total loss. He said the fire was caused "either by defective wiring or by a smoldering cigarette." An investigation is under way.

Auxiliary seeks aid for victims

Although some assistance has already been given, auxiliary of Plymouth Volunteer Fire department solicits additional help to relieve the Robinson family, which lost its clothing in the fire Saturday night.

The family has four girls, one size 12, two size eight, one size three; two boys size six and a baby.

Clothing for these children is urgently required. Mrs. Francis Guthrie or Mrs. J. A. Morrison will send for it if notified.

Construction of a second water tower struck a snag here Tuesday night.

W. R. Smiley, Floyd G. Browne & Associates, Marion, told village council a principal contractor for the tower, Chicago Bridge & Iron work, flatly refused to execute its agreement unless some expensive changes are made.

He reported he met with Chicago Bridge & Iron Works engineers and G. K. Jewell, soils expert, Monday. The contractors said they find subsoil at the Riggs avenue site "uncertain and insist the village adjust plans and specifications to overcome their objections.

THIS MAY BE DONE, Smiley said, by either of three solutions:

1. Remove top covering from virgin soil base, a matter of "from 11 to 15 feet of excavation", amounting to an estimated $2,000.
2. Install piling upon which the tower can be erected, at an estimated cost of $10,000.

3. Opt for an alternate site, in the rear of the Vincent Cole property in West Broadway, necessitating construction of about half a mile of eight-inch main and an access road, estimated to cost "over $18,000."

Board of Public Affairs in special session Tuesday night indicated it would choose the first alternative and recommended this solution to the council.

But Solicitor Joseph F. Dush said he thinks the whole contract will require re-advertisements and re-bidding, on the grounds the cost of the additional work represents more than 20 per cent of the original contract and its necessity is more in the character of "an unforeseen event than a legal emergency."

He will furnish the council with a formal opinion and until this is received the matter will be held in limbo. Dush will render an opinion as to whether the village can legally pay for engineering services performed for a case outside the village limits in connection with extension of a municipal water line. A bill of $51,96 from Browne & Associates hangs in the balance.

FINAL EASEMENT TO ESTABLISH roundabout while a new bridge is erected over the Huron river in Trux street was obtained Tuesday night. The roundabout will lay south of the bridge. Easements were obtained from Guy C. Knight, American Legion Post 447, Lois P. Seaman, Estate of Henry K. Stein, Ardiel, Jean and Nevin Border, Jr., John and Kathleen Ray, LaDonna Hampton, Crissie Hughes, Clyde and Martha Day and Elizabeth Weber.

An ordinance to increase the uniform allowance of full-time policemen from $100 to $125 annually won approval.

Payment of $5,333.33 for one-third interest in the Bittinger property, on which the village plans to install oxidation sewer lagoons, was authorized for Mrs. Mabelle Matthews, who reported she will vacate the property at once.

Offer of Roscoe Hutchinson to dig trenches for water lines in West Broadway at 10 cents a foot was accepted, provided he shows adequate insurance coverage.

Parking in the west side of Plymouth street between the north line of the S. C. Sponseller property and the junction of Routes 61 and 98 will be prohibited, the council ruled.

MAYOR WILLIAM FAZIO asked approval of an ordinance establishing rules for use of sanitary sewers, a draft of which he prepared personally. Since the draft included material by reference in a published state document which the council hadn't read, it was tabled.

The dessert committee is headed by Mrs. Leonard Fenner. She will be assisted by Mmes. Leonard Fenner, Kenneth McDougal, Marjorie Meiser, Thomas Root and George Teglovic.

Mrs. William R. Miller and Mrs. William Clark will be in charge of the coffee and milk. Their committee is Mmes. W. L. Cornell, Robert A. McKown, James Broderick, Wilford Postema, Karen Day, George Farnwall and Leonard Fazio.

Mrs. Strohmenger with Mrs. Max and Mrs. Byron Ream will be in charge of decorating the room and the tables.

The clean-up committee is headed by Mrs. Roy Carter and Mrs. William Whittington.

Others include Mmes. Vacys Dragunas, Franklin McCormick, Raymond Babcock, Charles Karnes, J. H. Cashman, George Hilton, Alfred Wood, William Van Wagner, Warren Hollenbaugh, Haldon Cheesman, William Adams, Robert Kessler, Veril Malone and Carl Wilford.

A special businessmen's table will be set up in the back hall for those who wish to be served quickly. Mrs. Frank Fenner will sell tickets at the back door of the school for it.

Tickets will be sold at the front door of the school by Mrs. Max Fidler and Mrs. Herbert Newmeyer. Mrs. Powell Holderby will take the tickets as guests enter the dining area. They will be sent by Mrs. A. H. Newmeyer and Principal Edward Kinsel.

Those wishing to take orders out will be assisted by Mrs. Jerome Waker. Proceeds of this annual affair will again be used by the mothers for school equipment.

Prom question in hot debate

Battle lines were drawn Friday night during a meeting of parents, school board members and the Classes of 1964 and 1965.

The annual junior-senior prom was under fire.

The meeting was called by Executive Head C. Todd Strohmenger after a group of parents had voiced objections over how the prom has been held in the last few years.

For several years the dinner and dance had been conducted in school buildings and the recreational activities, which have become a part of the annual affair, were in Mansfield.

Last year's prom was held completely at Sleepy Hollow Lodge near Mansfield.

THE PARENTAL OBJECTIONS settled on the facts it is too great a distance for the pupils to drive and that the money expended should be spent within the school district, where it was earned. A lesser sum should be spent, the parents argued.

Parents contended pupils are not capable of safe driving after being up since early morning on the day of the prom and staying up nearly until dawn of the next day.

Last year's prom officially ended about 2 a. m. For the most part, it was about 5 a. m. when most of the guests returned their homes, these parents said.

In rebuttal school officials said local buildings are not adequate to stage the prom properly. Facilities for the recreation after the dancing are not adequate, they added.

The cost, they said, averaged about $4 a person, which they feel is not excessive for a complete evening's entertainment and dinner.

STROHMENGER TOLD

Beeching resigns; funds running low

Resignation of Edwin S. Beeching, who is moving to Shelby, was accepted by Plymouth Board of Education Wednesday night.

Thomas F. Root will be sworn as the new member to complete Beeching's four-year term at a special meeting Nov. 25 at 8 p. m.

Executive head C. Todd Strohmenger, who has been investigating the possibilities of installing vending machines to relieve the cafeteria load in Plymouth Elementary school, recommended that action be tabled until a final legal opinion comes from the attorney general.

Under existing law, schools may not use official funds to pay for catering services and continued to receive monies from the school lunch program.

SCHOOL FINANCES WERE

briefly touched upon. Mrs. Kenneth V. Myers, clerk, has withheld paying some of October bills until she receives all the tax and foundation fund dues the district. She anticipates a total of $13,115.61 to be paid out by the end of the year from these funds.

Transfers will be necessary, however, within the appropriations set up early in the year, to cover additional expenses, which were more than planned.

The largest deficits are in building and bus repairs. Both are almost double what was planned. The administrative office is also in the red in the sum of $204.13. A total of $825 had been budgeted.

The board went into executive session before it formally adjourned. For the past several months, the closed sessions have been held before the meeting.

is held, there are always some who do not obey instructions, with dire results.

Final decision of how next spring's prom will be conducted will be left to the Board of Education.

The meeting solved nothing. It was apparent however, school officials would prefer not to have the prom in the school buildings.

Social functions

Wholesome social functions are a useful and desirable adjunct to education. But, like football, basketball and other sports, they must not be permitted to assume such importance that they become the tail wagging the dog. Pupils must not be encouraged to regard the junior prom, or any other social function, as an event of greater importance than, say, an

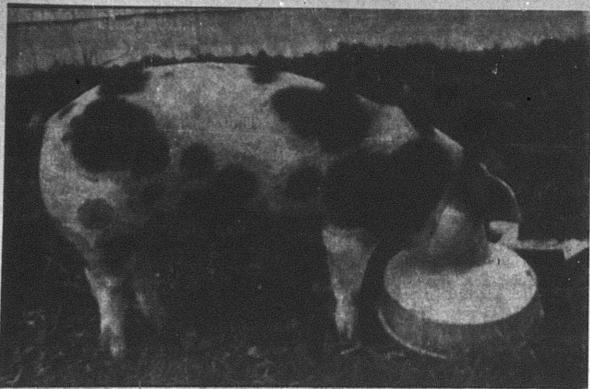

One way of insuring this is to restrict the scope of social activities.

It is reasonable, we think, that all social activities conducted by the schools be carried on in the school district, and only there.

It is reasonable, we further think, that no class or group of pupils spend more than a modest sum of money on any single event.

And finally, since the law of Ohio requires public schools to teach sound rules of public and personal health, it is not too much to expect that in social activities as well as academic and athletic activities the schools shall encourage good rules of personal and public health, which include going to bed, at home, to sleep, at a reasonable hour.

These, we think, are matters for the board of education to determine. The conduct and attitude of pupils here have been such that we are confident they will abide by any rules the board lays down without complaint. If the board, which is elected by the people to make policy for the schools, will act vigorously and promptly, the administration will escape criticism, which it can ill afford, and avoid loss of confidence by the pupils and parents, which is equally expensive.

McQuillens' hog wins prize

Dale and Darlene McQuillen's Spotted Poland China barrow took second place over all other breeds last week in the Pennsylvania Livestock exposition in Harrisburg, Pa. It was raised as part of their project for the Buckeye Farmers and Buckeye Farmettes 4-H club. During the Ashland county fair last summer, it received the grand champion ribbon in the same classification.

Dale is a 1961 graduate of Plymouth High school, where he was active in the agricultural class. Darlene was graduated in 1963. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo McQuillen, Shiloh.

Grange . . .

Plymouth Grange will be hosts to members of the Richland county Pomona Grange today at 8 p. m. in the grange hall.

Plans will be made for the annual awards banquet of the county granges Nov. 30 in Park Avenue Baptist church, Mansfield.

Homemakers . . .

Home Extension council of Huron county will have its annual Christmas workshop tomorrow in the American Legion hall, Norwalk.

This year's theme is, "Christmas Is Just Around the Corner".

During the afternoon session which will be from 2 until 5 p. m., Mrs. Martha Hutchinson of Milan will demonstrate the Japanese art of Shoji.

During the evening from 7 until 9 p. m., representatives of the Ohio Edison Co. from Elyria will show and discuss holiday lighting for the home.

Mrs. William Friend, president of the council, extends an invitation to women of the county to attend the sessions and to view the Christmas motifs made by members of the various county groups.

Library fetes retiring chief

Plymouth branch library board entertained Miss Lois MacKellar and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Dickinson Thursday night.

Miss MacKellar is the retiring head librarian at Mansfield. Mr. Dickinson will take over her position at the first of the year.

The board and its guests met in the library. Mrs. C. R. Archer reviewed "The Day They Shook the Plum Tree".

Red Cross offers free GI service

"Voice From Home" program, conducted annually by the American Red Cross in Richland county, starts Nov. 29, the day after Thanksgiving. Families who have servicemen or other relatives overseas may make "talking letters" to send for Christmas. There is absolutely no charge except for postage.

The Red Cross will cut records for 11 days. Eligible persons may call the chapter house in Mansfield, 524-0311, or the Shelby branch office, 31286, for their appointments.

A photograph of each family will be taken during the record-making, to be enclosed as an additional pleasure for the overseas servicemen or other relative. Families find that their conversation, singing, instrument-playing, baby-crying or other recordable sounds are appreciated by their far-away folks.

Mrs. Wayne Carleton of Shelby is chairman of the program again this year (she is a volunteer social welfare aide in the Richland county chapter).

Dana Call, veteran clerk of Huron county common pleas court, is a candidate for re-election. A Republican, he took out nominating petitions this week.

WATER TOWER —

the electric reserve fund on time of deposit in Peoples National bank from Dec. 1 was approved.

Claim of Richard Stover that he is entitled to $225.73 for overtime work between Oct. 1, 1959, and Jan. 15, 1960, is not confirmed by official records. Solicitor Dush told the council. Time sheets on file with the clerk show that Stover was overpaid by $30.50, he said. Stover will be asked to substantiate his claims.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mrs. Lynch raps lack of crossing squad

Sir,

This letter is directed to the Board of Education.

This is in regard to an item which appeared in The Advertiser Thursday, Jan. 24, 1963, as follows:

"Plymouth Board of Education will meet twice a month until it completes action on a series of proposed policies for school operation and administration. A special session Monday night dealt with transportation policies. A school patrol will be established and assigned to each school bus to furnish safety checks and establish orderly procedures in entering and leaving buses. A patrolman will descend from the bus at each railroad crossing and inspect the right-of-way before the driver proceeds. This is in compliance with state law."

Nearly a year has passed since where are those patrols that were supposed to watch out for the safety of the children who ride the buses?

I am speaking of one unguarded crossing which on a bus crosses four times each school day. If a car or truck happens to be following the bus, maybe someone will get out of the bus and proceed across the tracks, and maybe not!

The Board of Education and school superintendent never hesitate to ask the voters for money which they claim they need to run the schools. The voters said "Yes". But I feel sure when the public knows these facts they will ask themselves, "How about the bus my child rides on, does it have the patrolman that we were promised and is he doing his duty?"

The Board of Education demands the money to operate the schools to let the parents and taxpayers demand the protection we were promised and never got. I expect to see action immediately and if none is forthcoming, the public will hear about it.

Newsy notes —

Milford Croy of Tiffin visited his sister and brother-in-law, the A. J. Lowerys, Friday night.

School management under fire on issue of safety: for bus pupils, prom guests, in mailbox this week

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Louis Lynch, Sr.
A Taxpayer

Mother believes prom should be at home

Sir,

I am one of the mothers who attended the meeting about the junior-senior prom Friday night.

It was not a happy meeting. The children felt the parents were being "mean".

That is not the case. The parents want them to have the fun we all had when we were their age.

The high school I went to had its prom each year. They were just that. Everyone got dressed up for an evening of dancing. When it was finished, it was finished, and it was a beautiful memory. My parents weren't any stricter than any of the others, but neither they nor we even thought that it had to be an all-night party.

I've heard so many here tell about the fun they had at the lake after the prom. I suppose it became part of the whole thing to drive to the lake and come home at dawn. As everyone knows, the older a memory is, the better it becomes. From what I have seen of some of these all night escapades, it is lucky they are still here to tell the story.

It seems to me that a lovely dance and dinner can be held right here in our own school. It certainly isn't as nice as some of the newer schools nearby, but it is ours, and we should make the best of it.

We pay taxes, too, so I am interested in the cost of the school. We all know our schools need many things, but there is never enough money. The children start earning money in the junior high for the proms, and it all comes from the same pocketbook. There is only so much there.

Some of the mothers were in favor of having the proms out-of-town and seemed to approve of spending large sums of money. I hope the members of the school board will stop and think that there are some of us who gladly will vote for the school's needs and pay our taxes if it is money well spent. Surely in the whole new addition of the high school, a good happy prom can be had.

Thank you for this. I request that you do not print my name. I have children to live with, but a husband who agrees.

Respectfully,

One Mother

SHELBY

Isn't it ever thus? Trap laid for husband springs on wife!

By AUNT LIZ

The man in our house is fond of recalling the good old days. Mostly how bright he was and what a good child he was and how hard he worked as a boy.

There are times when I get tired of this. And some times when my credibility is strained. I am told by those who've been wives longer than I that this is endemic among married women.

And they also tell me that just when I am about to say how much I disbelieve his claims, it is ascertain as the sun getting up in the morning that he will embarrass me by proving them.

Which is just what happened, only last week.

THE MAN IS FOREVER saying that when he was a college boy, he hadn't much money and on Saturday nights he went to Bohemian (the emphasis is on the capital B) bakeries and bought leftover kolaches, some of them filled with apricots, some with prunes, some with cherries, and with a pint of milk he had enough to hold him until his board job resumed on Monday.

There were a good many Bohemians, and Czechs, and Slovaks, and others from that handsome region of Central Europe in the city where I grew up. But the circles in which I moved were mostly German and Austrian by extraction and I never had any experience with the others.

Besides, who ever heard of a kolache?

Well, dear friends and gentle hearts, I have now heard of them, I have eaten them, and I am all but combing them out of my hair. I think the man who had dumped the batch of dough on my head if he had the chance.

AND AFTER HE HAD strutted across our gymnasium of a kitchen the seven struts he is allowed for such a tour de force, I was allowed to copy the recipe.

Here it is:
 1/2 cup of lukewarm milk
 1/2 cup of sugar
 1 tsp. salt
 2 envelopes active dry yeast

1/2 cup warm water
 2 eggs, unbeaten
 1/2 cup shortening
 4 1/2 cups of flour
 Combine milk, sugar and salt. Sprinkle yeast on warm water. Let stand five or six minutes. Stir well and add milk mixture. Add eggs and minutes. Stir well and add enough flour to make soft dough, first by spoon, then by hand. Knead until smooth and elastic. Cover with tea towel. Place over register and allow to rise until double in bulk. Punch it down. Let it rise again until almost double in size. This takes about 35 minutes. Shape the golf-ball size or a little bigger, not quite so big as a baseball. Cover with tea towel again and let rise until they are light, perhaps 15 minutes. Make a depression in the center of each ball and fill with stewed prunes, sieved steamed apricots, or cottage cheese mixed with raisins, the yolks of two eggs, a dash of mace and a tablespoon each of lemon juice and sugar.

Put them on a greased baking dish and bake in a hot oven about 20 minutes.

These are kolaches, and take it from me, they are mighty good.

THE MAN CLAIMS HE IS the best cook in three counties but readily admits it takes a whole platoon of cleaners-up after him (just call me Platoon after this), insists one has to be "fey" or "green thumb" or something like that to do a good job on pastry.

And he claims the reason he doesn't ever do any baking is that he isn't "fey".

If he can make kolaches right off the top of his head

(although I suspect he asked somebody or looked up a recipe somewhere, but I don't know now he knew in advance I was going to call him on this one particular item of his memories) he can sure as heck bake pies for the athletic banquets and the cakes for the bake sales.

And I can sit with my coffee and read Aristotle.

Fletcher, Forsythé win MVP honors for Red

Four Big Red footballers, three of whom have played their last game for Plymouth, received honors during the annual football-cross country banquet in Plymouth Elementary school Thursday night.

Phil Fletcher was named most valuable back. He plans to enter Morehead State college, Morehead, Ky., next year.

Bob Forsythé won the award as most valuable lineman. Gene Crouse was labelled the most improved player on the squad. He will be ineligible by reason of age next season.

CHIP PADDOCK WILL captain the Big Red next year.

Fletcher, Forsythé and Norman Howard, sophomore end, received honorable mention on the all-Johnny Appleseed conference teams chosen by coaches of the league.

Coach Guy Flora of the successful cross country squad praised Greg and Girard Cashman and Nero Howard as the backbone of a unit that, in four seasons, has risen to the top in its class of competition. The Cashman twins were on the first cross country squad as freshman. Howard joined the next season.

Old Timer says B stands for 'bush'

Matters have come to a pretty pass when a high school coach refuses to schedule a game with another school because he disapproves of the judgment of electors of that school district.

Yet that's what's happened at Lexington, where John Barr refuses to let the Minutemen play the Big Red at Plymouth.

His official argument is "your floor isn't big enough". What he's really saying is that he knows more about running Plymouth school district than its electors.

And if this is the kind of attitude we are apt to encounter at Lexington when that town finally fields a football team, perhaps it is just as well that Plymouth overlook putting the Minutemen on the schedule. Barr is apt to say that the Big Red's field is too hard, or too soft, or too something.

B stands for Barr, all right. It also stands for bush.

STUBBORN BASEBALL owners have for long called a halt to major league seasons with the final weekend in September.

But those big crowds in Cleveland and other stadiums to see professional football during September have changed their minds.

In 1964, the major league baseball season begins later than any time in modern history and will extend to the second weekend in October. Imagine the task of the sports editor! A World Series, a full slate of NFL and AFL games, a complete collegiate schedule and the Olympic Games at Tokyo, all in one ball of wax!

They'll have to declare a national holiday for all sports fans on the following Monday just to read up on things.

IT WILL BE INTERESTING to see how well Western Reserve's Roughriders do this season without their goony bird.

Mike Hyde has a music scholarship at Ohio State and won't be available to bail them out and pop them in for the 'Riders.

JUBILANT BOB Forsythé and Phil Fletcher exhibit trophies as MVP's with Assistant Coach Robert Rahall. Forsythé was top lineman, Fletcher top back.
