

County school board reveals vocational educational survey

First steps toward establishment of a vocational school in Richland county were launched Nov. 20 before 300 educators, business, industry and civic leaders assembled for dinner in Mansfield High school, Mansfield. Richland county board of education and the county superintendent, Dale B. Kinney, planned the presentation, featured by a report of a preliminary summary of vocational aims of 4,200 pupils in the 11th and 12th grades of high schools in the county.

Prof. Byre R. Shoemaker, director of the division of vocational education, Ohio Department of Education, presented and analyzed the summary.

SALIENT POINTS:
75 per cent of 2,688 pupils said they desire vocational field, and Shelby, Clear training. (Survey group: St. Peter's High school, Mansfield, Crestview, Ontario, Lucas and Plymouth High schools.)

69 per cent (1,037 pupils of 1,500 surveyed) in Mansfield high schools said they wish vocational training.

14 per cent of the 2,688-pupil group said they plan to undertake training at the college level.

46.5 per cent of pupils surveyed in Mansfield high schools (696 of 1,500 surveyed) said they plan to undertake training at the college level.

C. Todd Strohmeier, executive head of Plymouth schools, assembled the data for high schools in the county system.

THESE DATA APPLY TO Plymouth High school:

- 139 pupils want vocational training
  - 53 pupils plan to attend college
  - 68 pupils do not plan college training
  - 35 pupils want vocational training only
  - 40 pupils want vocational training but have no plans to attend college
  - 13 pupils have college plans only
  - 3 pupils have non-college plans only
  - 10 pupils are undecided
- (Note: Obvious overlap occurs in choices expressed by pupils)

Strohmeier's data show Plymouth pupils are in close harmony in their desires with other pupils in other county schools. Only a percentage point or two of variation was revealed in the tabulation of wishes in other county schools.

Principal choices of Plymouth pupils in the vocational field were stenographic, 13; agriculture, 16; beauty operator, 18; auto mechanics, 11; electricity and electronics and computer skills, seven each; drafting skills, six.

Other principal choices of lesser choice are machinist and welding-sheet metal skills, four each; general, clerical, auto body and fender repair, carpentry, commercial art, commercial cooking, dental assistant, three each.

WHAT IMPLEMENTATION of these plans would mean in the form of new schooling was discussed in workshop sessions after the presentation.

It was the consensus that 1. A new program would take the form of specialized training at the county level for pupils who would attend these sessions, probably at a different site from where their classes regularly convene, on a part-of-the-school-day basis.

2. Financing of the new program would be accomplished from present revenues of the several school districts participating.

3. What Mansfield city district does will vitally affect what is done at the county level; how much of a program the city district wishes to undertake itself, rather than cooperate or participate in a county-wide program, will determine what can be done for all pupils.

Mothers' club . . .

Junior choirs of the Methodist, First Evangelical Lutheran and First Presbyterian churches will provide a musical program Tuesday night at the meeting of the Mothers' club at 7:30 p. m. in Plymouth elementary school.

Thankfulness

The tragedies of the past week compel us all to consider whether it is profitable to observe a day of thanksgiving today.

But there is much indeed to be thankful for.

It will be far less difficult to empanel an unbiased jury to try Jack Ruby than it would have been to try Lee Oswald. One hesitates to contemplate the poor image of America that would have been projected had Oswald indeed come to trial.

Despite the terrible loss of its leader, the republic still lives, a little less certain of itself, perhaps, but not one whit less vigorous, less capable, less desirous of achieving the aims of decent people everywhere.

The new president is an experienced legislator, seasoned in the give-and-take of the Congress, respected as such by most of the delegates on both sides of the political aisle in each house, the kind of man in whom legislators put their trust and confidence. He is the sort of man who will get things done, not spectacularly, perhaps, but who cares about style so long as the ball goes over the fence?

For these facts we have much to be thankful.

The tragedy at Fitchville strikes home to all of us. There are few among us who had absolutely no connection with the Golden Age Rest home, leveled by fire early Saturday morning, taking 63 lives.

If the occupants of the home died in the flames to convince the body politic it should exercise greater care and caution in the regulation of such institutions, whether public or private, perhaps this expensive price is not too high.

It is bizarre that we should recall, today, what was said to us on another Thanksgiving eve 20 years ago. A sergeant of artillery, assigned as forward observer, reported to a command post after a German attack had wiped out half a battalion.

Burned-out tanks and their occupants, blooded and torn beyond recognition, were strewn everywhere. And the sergeant said, quietly and with great respect, "Count your blessings, lieutenant, the artillery is here and things is gonna be different."

Let us all unlimber our artillery, count our blessings and push on with the great fight to achieve our common desires.

Santa and ZIP

We protest. Violently and vigorously.

The cotton-pickin' government is going too far!

The post office department announced from its biggest branch, in New York, N. Y., that children who write to Santa Claus MUST know the zip code for the North Pole, which is 99701, and their own their own neighborhood zip code in order to receive an answer.

Our protest is not the first, but it would have been if the post office had been as prompt about this as it is when our mailing account is too low to support next week's (next week, mind you) mailings.

Mrs. Virginia Douglas, who's 74 now, and a grandmother, protests. She is the Virginia who, as a little girl in 1897, wrote to Francis Church, editor of the now defunct New York Sun, inquiring if indeed there were a Santa Claus. His celebrated reply, "No Santa Claus! Ten thousand years from now, Virginia, nay ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood", is remembered in every household in the country.

And Mrs. Douglas says, "What a ridiculous idea!"

Amen, Mrs. D.

We guarantee that every child who addresses a letter to Santa Claus in this community will get a reply, and he won't have to include the cottonpickin' zip code number of the North Pole OR his neighborhood post office, either.

Mr. Postmaster-General, take due note!

Fitchville fire kills 63 aged

SIXTY-THREE PERSONS, including Reuben Eichelbarger, Plymouth's oldest resident, perished in Saturday's fire which leveled Golden Age Rest home north of Fitchville, worst toll by fire in Ohio in 33 years. Twenty-one escaped the blaze.

A 96-year-old New Havenite perished in the holocaust at Fitchville early Saturday when the Golden Age Rest home burned to the ground in the worst fire in Ohio in 33 years.

Sixty-three persons died in the fire.

Reuben Eichelbarger, a retired farmer, had lived in the home 27 months. He was born in Wood county.

A widower, he is survived by a son, Donald, Plymouth route 1, four daughters, Mrs. Linus Phillips, Plymouth route 1; Mrs. Ernest Ayres and Mrs. Walton Fink, New Haven, and Mrs. George Shirey, North Fairfield; 27 grandchildren, 72 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Warren Wilke, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Willard, conducted a funeral service Tuesday at 2 p. m. from McQuate Funeral home. Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven township.

The Rev. Warren Wilke, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Willard, conducted a funeral service Tuesday at 2 p. m. from McQuate Funeral home. Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven township.

For a time two other Plymouthites were seized with panic that their kin were among the 66 persons trapped in the blaze. Early reports identified the rest home by its location in Fitchville, where there are two other rest homes. Mrs. Thorr E. Woodworth's mother and Fred Lewis' uncle live in Mayer's Rest home in Fitchville proper.

Civil defense unit here was announced at 6 a. m. Saturday and remained at the site until 7 p. m. The rescue and fire-fighting vehicle was staffed by James C. Davis, is captain, Robert Garrett, Robert Seel, Weldon Stroh, Gordon Hunter and Theodore A. Ross.

Golden Agers . . .

Plymouth Golden Agers met Thursday night for a Thanksgiving dinner in First Presbyterian church.

Forty-seven members dined at tables decorated by Girl Scouts.

Three turkeys prepared by Mrs. Vedder Puryear, F. B. Stewart and Mrs. Albert Marvin were served with the covered dishes brought by the other members.

Games were played during the social hours afterwards.

Robert Cornell to head Masons

Robert Cornell will be installed Monday as worshipful master of Richland Lodge 201, F & AM, Monday at 8 p. m. in the first open installation ever conducted by the lodge.

A potluck supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. to members and their families.

Robert Fogleson, a past worshipful master, will be installing the first open by Wayne George Ellis.

Other officers to be installed are Gordon Figley, senior warden; Gene Sparks, junior warden; Karl Lindauer, treasurer; Norman B. McQuown, secretary.

Also, Toy Patton, senior deacon; John Fazzini, tyler deacon; Robert Lewis, junior deacon; Robert Lewis, tyler deacon; Robert Lewis, tyler deacon; Robert Lewis, tyler deacon.

Prom outside district approved by Plymouth school board

Facilities in Plymouth schools are inadequate for a junior-senior prom, Plymouth Board of Education ruled Monday night in approving unanimously an administrative-drafted resolution permitting the affair to be held out of town.

THE RESOLUTION READS:

Four churches' Thanksgiving rites to begin at 8 a. m.

Roman Catholics will offer up thanks to Almighty God for His bounties during a special mass in St. Joseph's church at 8 a. m. today. The Rev. William Conces will be celebrant.

Union Thanksgiving service will be conducted in Plymouth Methodist church at 9:30 a. m. The Revs. Harland L. Dague, host minister; Robert Mace and John H. Worth will participate in the service.

A solemn requiem mass was sung in St. Joseph's church Monday at 9 a. m. for the repose of the soul of John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 35th president of the United States, shot down by an assassin in Dallas, Tex., Friday afternoon.

First Presbyterian church conducted a memorial service Monday at 11:15 a. m.

Lutherans may partake of Holy Communion at 8 a. m. and at 10:30 a. m. Sunday, the first Sunday in Advent.

A nursery will accommodate children up to four years of age during the 10:30 a. m. service.

Luther league will meet Sunday at 6:30 p. m. to see a film, "The Gift".

Finance committee of the church will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the church.

"Whereas, the size and nature of school facilities in this district do not lend themselves well in accommodating a Junior-Senior Prom, and

Whereas, attendance at such activities is voluntary and parents have the right of restricting attendance of their children for all or any portion of said activities to which they object, and

Whereas, it is the recommendation of the high school principal and executive head that plans for this year proceed with their approval, and

Whereas, it is the opinion of the Board that a majority of parents of this district consider supervised activity in one location with extended hours a desirable undertaking,

The Plymouth Local Board of Education does hereby resolve the following:

1. The Junior-Senior Prom will be allowed to continue as planned for this school.

2. The location of said prom shall be approved by the executive head before final arrangements are completed. Such location shall be the nearby facility which provides the required space, equipment and arrangements suitable for such activity.

3. The administration of the district is to properly supervise fund raising and expenditure for such activity to see that good judgment and value are considered.

4. The above regulations and procedures shall hold for future proms until such time as enrollment, facilities or parent opinion shall cause the Board to reconsider. In addition, the administration of the school shall make every effort to finance future proms through class dues rather than fund raising activities.

THOMAS F. ROOT was sworn as member of the board, succeeding Edwin S. Beeching, resigned.

Hardness of the village water supply will be the subject of inquiries by Strohmeier with the board of public affairs. A water pump removed from Plymouth Elementary school was exhibited to illustrate how water hardness has compounded maintenance problems.

Strohmeier reported $140 has already been spent this year to remove sediment, mostly calcium, from pipes, coils and pumps.

Mrs. Roy Carter asked Strohmeier for his impressions of a letter published in The Advertiser last week, signed by Mrs. Louise Lynch. He said since there was no formal approach in the matter to him or to Edward M. Kinsey, transportation supervisor, he should not dignify the letter with a reply.

Then he addressed a staff member of the newspaper. He said he doesn't "see how you can live with your conscience". He objected to the placing of a headline on a letter to the editor and said the subject never should have been discussed in this form. He said the newspaper showed bad judgment in publishing a letter critical of the administration without first transmitting it to the school. He accused the newspaper of "editorializing in news stories".

New member Root said, "I second that."

NEVERTHELESS, DISCUSSION on the subject developed. Strohmeier said it is particularly difficult in some bus runs to obtain poised and mature children to serve as bus patrolmen.

Next year, owing to deficiencies in appropriations by the state legislature, Strohmeier said, state contributions to transportation will amount to $2,014 less than this year.

He urged members to demand of legislators that additional school funds be appropriated.

Almost no turkey, saved by airplane

By AUNT LIZ

A lot of my favorite bird has passed across my plate in the 40-odd years since I first saw light of day.

I can and will eat turkey, hot, cold or lukewarm, any time.

Were I to go to the gallows tomorrow, the warden would be told my last meal would be roast turkey and dressing.

I remember so well my first Thanksgiving abroad. We arrived in the bombed out harbor at Genoa in the SS Marine Perch on Thanksgiving morning. Never for one second did I dream that within the hour I would be sitting down to a sumptuous turkey dinner. American style, in the home of the Lester L. Schnaers, the American consul general and his wife.

IT WILL BE 18 YEARS come next June that the man and I have been married. We've had our ups and downs, but we always have had a turkey for Thanksgiving.

There were times when it wasn't so easy. Oh, we had the money, all right. It was simply the turkey that we didn't have, or knew where to get, very easily.

The closest we ever came to not having one was in 1949, in Addis Ababa.

An English family living over the top of the mountain was known to have two live turkeys, but since one was a hen she had to be saved for the eggs. The other, the tom, was surrendered to the American ambassador.

After he was slain and drawn, Mr. Tow, the Ambassador's Chinese cook, inquired, in his all but flawless English, "But how will Mrs. Turkey have babies now that Mr. Turkey is dead?"

A moment of panic swept over us before somebody remembered that Mr. T had already done his darnedest, because the eggs were in the nest.

THIS MADE A TURKEY for the principal representative of the President of the United States of America. But it did nothing for the lesser representatives.

The one that lived in our house was off somewhere in the Dead Sea, gone on a two-week jaunt to the bush country to see what the natives were up to, why, and for how much.

There are two ways of travel in that country by land and by air. By land you can walk, ride a camel or take a chance that a truck will hold up long enough to get you where you're going. By air you get there all right, but you've got to go when the plane goes, and you have to ride with goats, sheep, unwashed Somalis and Gallas, and bales upon bales of chili peppers and ghat, a green plant that looks like privet but is used as the chewing gum of the Middle East, because it has a soporific effect. The plane from Jigjiga

(the name never failed to fascinate me) comes twice a week, or did in those days. The plane from Aden was a daily thing. The plane from Asmara was twice a week. Only the Aden plane operated on Thursdays, because that was the day of the regular international service to Cairo, and Ethiopian Air Lines in those days didn't have any fan jets or many other planes to go around.

By noon Wednesday I was sure the man wouldn't get home for Thanksgiving. The ambassador had heard nothing, not even a cryptic note on the radio maintained by the CIA. The mails, generally unreliable, except to and from Aden, Cairo and Nairobi and Asmara, produced no news.

Along toward five o'clock, the telephone rang.

"Meus Pah-duk, here is E-tec-opo-yan Air Lye-ten. Come to air pawt at once."

I tried to get more information but it was hopeless.

So with kids, dogs, nursemaid and purse, I set out for Haile Selassie I airport in our doodle bug.

We got to the airport just as a strange plane was putting down. It was not like any I ever saw. It came up to the passenger station and the little door opened.

The pilot got out and walked inside.

We saw no one else and started to go inside when we heard a shout.

IT WAS THE MAN, climbing out backwards. He had hitched a ride with Count von Rosen, a Swedish flyer who was training the Ethiopian Air Force.

Over one arm he had his valise, over the other his coat, and held in his arms in front was a canvas bag that said, "Department of State, USA, Diplomatic Pouch."

The kids swarmed on him, the nursemaid seized his bag and his coat, and he handed me the pouch.

"But I can't handle this," I said, "this is official mail."

"Yeah," he said, "from Turkey. It's your Thanksgiving bird. I picked it up from a ship captain in Djibouti."

It was as good as turkey as I have ever eaten.

Segregation set for debate here

Six members of the Twentieth Century circle will debate the problems of integration and segregation Monday night when the circle meets at the home of Mrs. J. Harold Cashman.

Members who will talk on the pros and cons of the subject are Mrs. H. H. Fackler, Mrs. P. W. Thomas, Mrs. Harry Dick, Mrs. H. James Root, Mrs. Verda T. Weller and Mrs. Earl C. Cashman.

Roll call will be answered by each member giving her own opinion on the problem.

Coach's skill on line in cage season

This is the year that Ron Hostler finds out just how good he is as a basketball coach.

The big ex-Ashlander has the thinnest material, with less experience and that has important factor in round-hall — height, that has confronted a Plymouth cage mentor in the past nine seasons.

He has made the final cuts in his squad and has settled on seven seniors and five juniors to carry the flag for the Big Red in the 1963-64 season.

PLYMOUTH OPENS against Loudonville in a Johnny Appleseed conference game there tomorrow night. The Big Red has scrim-maged three times, against Hillsdale at Hayesville, Norwalk St. Paul's and South Central. In the last two, the Big Red acquitted itself well, partly because it had home floor advantage.

"We will have to play ball control this season and we will have to emphasize good shooting, because we don't have the height to control the boards. If our board men, Phil Fletcher and Bob Young, mostly, get into foul trouble, then we're in trouble," Hostler says.

His first five is comprised of three lettermen, Young, Fletcher and Chuck Kaylor, who is the playmaker. The others are the Cashman twins, Girard and Greg, the former with some varsity experience, the latter out after a season away from the game. Only two players exceed six feet in height.

Eric Akers, a junior, and Terry Hamman will be the sixth and seventh men until big John Selick, a junior who will be ineligible until mid-January, is available.

The others on the squad are Bill Conley, a senior, and Freddy Buzard, Chip Padlock and Mike Ruckman, juniors.

BEST ROUTE TO LOUDONVILLE:

Take Route 603 east from Plymouth to Millfin, thence east in Route 30 to Route 60, thence south to Loudonville. Game time is 7 p. m.

Praise heaped on Reed, Hamman

Capsule comments from Charley Hilty, sports ed, Bluffton News, about ex-PHS athletes at Bluffton college: "Running of Dayton (Hub)

Reed in Adrian game was the best by any QB in Beaver uniform these eyes have seen in 10 years.

"Jimmy Hamman is exactly as reported by The Plymouth Advertiser — absolutely fearless. He will tackle anything that moves. He saved a couple of touchdowns this season by nailing ball carrier headed for paydirt."

President of Class of '65 favors out-of-town prom

Sir, Being a member of the junior class, I am involved in the controversy over the prom.

I would like to express not only my feelings but the feelings of the majority of both the junior and senior classes.

At the class meeting Nov. 4, we voted on whether to have the prom in or out of town. The vote was 82 in favor of having it away, four opposed.

The reasons for wanting it out of town are not to get away from our parents, and certainly not because we're ashamed of our gym, but simply because our school is not large enough.

The main argument of the parents is the money. But isn't it true they will go out of town to shop? To decorate our gym would cost more than if we rented a place out of town. And I state this as a fact because we have checked on it. As far as taking the money out of town, I would like to say all products used such as decorations and food are purchased from our merchants.

Many parents are worried about the students running off to the lake.

I have had many students tell me if the prom is here, they will just attend the banquet, then go elsewhere, because there is just no recreation in Plymouth or Shiloh. If the parents can't trust their

THANKSGIVING 1963 . . .

"In a short time the people of this Nation will observe a holiday which is symbolic of our heritage. The establishment of the Thanksgiving Day tradition by our forefathers was one of the several ways they chose to illustrate their belief in God and the need for His guidance in the creation of a strong and free Nation.

Through the years there have been many and varied assaults on this land of the free, but none has succeeded.

All of us have much for which to be thankful. Thousands have died to win and preserve the rights we enjoy. Now it is up to us to insure that our children will have the right to observe Thanksgiving Day and Freedoms for which to be thankful."

Mrs. Searle, grandson mark birthdays

Mrs. George J. Searle celebrated her 93rd birthday at a tea given by her daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Searle Whitney, at her home in Bradenton, Fla., Nov. 2.

Her grandson, Searle, a freshman in Yale university, New Haven, Conn., flew to Bradenton that weekend to visit his grandmother and celebrate his own birthday,

Nov. 14. His grandmother had a special birthday cake for him, decorated in the Yale colors of bright blue and white, topped with a large football of spun sugar.

For the tea Mrs. Searle wore one of her own birthday gifts. It was a powder blue chiffon afternoon dress especially made and designed for her by Phillip Hulitar, one of America's outstanding fashion designers. Each year he and Mrs. Hulitar have remembered Mrs. Searle with a special creation. With it she wore lapis lazuli and pearl jewelry, which Mrs. Whitney brought to her from India.

Another of her gifts was a bouquet of 94 red roses, which her neighbors send each year, one rose for each year and one to "grow on".

While Mrs. Whitney was visiting her mother, she took part in the Fort Philpot Crusade service in Plant city. She has also been named to the planning committee of the International Debutante ball, one of the social events of New York, N. Y., to be held next month.

Sketch

Being a periodic, but irregular, presentation of human interest stories that come to the staff's attention yet seem for one reason or another not suitable for treatment elsewhere in the paper.

Aliens bearing passports issued by the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics may not travel in some areas of the United States.

This is a sort of tit-for-tat arrangement which the Department of State has promulgated because bearers of United States passports may not travel freely in the Soviet Union.

Recent publication of the restrictions on Soviet and satellite travelers in this country shows some neighboring districts are on the prohibited list.

Soviet citizens may travel the Ohio Turnpike and presumably may stop in any motel bordering it. But they are forbidden from entering a 13-mile-wide belt beginning at the shoreline of Lake Erie and extending south.

This means almost all of Erie county, including the NASA installation at Plum Brook; almost all of Ottawa county, including Camp Perry, and a portion of Sandusky county adjoining the city of Bellevue.

It also includes all of Lorain county, all of Cuyahoga county, all of Lake and Ashtabula counties, including the city of Cleveland.

Parts of Lucas county, including the city and port of Toledo, are off limits. The restriction extends also to parts of Monroe county, Michigan, contiguous to Lucas on the other side of the state line.

But citizens of Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Rumania and Poland may visit the counties bordering on Lake Erie. They are restricted from visits to seven Ohio counties, including Montgomery and Pike counties (Dayton in the former is the home of Wright-Patterson field, Pike has an atomic plant), and may not visit Akron or Youngstown.

Presumably the government doesn't believe the NASA installation at Plum Brook, where there is a large atomic reactor and a new cold tank laboratory that will test materials at temperatures in excess of 300 degrees below zero, is the kind of thing that satellite travelers may not see.

Soviet citizens detected traveling in forbidden zones will be arrested and summarily deported.

American Red Cross Bloodmobile will call again at Willard Dec. 12, from noon to 6 p. m. with a target of 125 pints. J. Harris Postema, local chairman, announces.

Wayne H. Strine, Don W. Einsel, Jr., J. Harris Postema, Quentin Ream, the Rev. John H. Worth (ninth pint), Robert N. MacMichael, Virginia Alley, Paul D. Risner, William C. Enderby, Dr. Vacy's Dragomas, Robert Garrett, Duane Hunter, Gary Utiss, Terry Lindsay and Harold Hughes.
