Record cold wave paralyzes area

Bitter, sub-zero cold, snow and high winds that blew hard drifts seized Plymouth over the weekend. Temperatures as low as 22 below zero were recorded south of the village. Schools remained closed. The Fate-Root-Heath Co. sent its employees home Monday at 9 a. m., two hours after they reported for work. One worker said the temperature in his room was four degrees.

A number of villagers employed out of town reported drifted snow, extremely cold temperatures and power failure as reasons why they couldn't punch the time clock for much of this week. Many householders reported water services frozen. So far as the village hall was informed Tuesday, there was no instance of a health hazard because of freezing of water service.

Power failure at Norwalk Monday forced industries to send their employees home at about 7 p. m. Some Plymouthites, among them Bonnie Endersby, Jack Arthur, Willard Osborn, Jr., Franklin Holt and Larry Taylor, reported drifted roads between Norwalk and Plymouth.

Peru Center road was clogged with snow and a jammed truck Monday morning. Drifts all but closed Route 61 south of the railroad underpass. William Reed, Willard automobile dealer, hurried his errands here "so I can get back to Willard before the road closes up".

Although north-south roads were most seriously affected, there were drifts up to four feet deep in some east-west roads. Mayor Elizabeth C. Paddock received Monday some requests of residents in West Broadway that it was shut because of deep snow.

Patrolman Frank Hodges took the police vehicle to Stillman road Sunday night and found a radiator was damaged. Police Chief Robert L. Meiser reported.

Pipes froze in Plymouth High school during the coldest weather and burst.

A crew of workmen labored all day Tuesday to correct the leakage.

Newsy notes . . .

The Jess Robertsons, Mansfield, were visitors of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Elton Robertson, Tuesday.

Mrs. C. R. Archer returned Saturday from a month's visit with her son, William, and his family, Cuba, N. Y.

Paula Postema, a student in Mansfield General hospital school of nursing, is spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Postema.

Plymouth Fire Ladies will meet Monday at 7 p. m. in the fire house.

Bank thermometer registered one degree Tuesday at 10 a. m. Three hours earlier it was minus five. And 30 hours earlier, it was minus 20!

PEA submits new demands

Negotiations for a new contract between Plymouth Education Association and the board of education have reached the stage of demands by PEA. His list of requirements was submitted to the board Monday afternoon, whereupon the board went into executive session.

By agreement with PEA, the board is forbidden from discussing publicly any demand by the association without its permission.

Meanwhile, members of the board went on three hour shifts to watch the heating system of the high school to avert freezing.

The section of the building heated by the hot water system -- that part added to the old high school in the first building phase -- is the most critical, officials said.

Cline given second term

Councilman Frank Cline was reelected president pro tempore by Shiloh's village council Jan. 12. Pay increases for the fire chief, Howard Cuppy, and the assistant chief, Harmon Sloan, were approved. Cuppy will now draw $500 a year, an increase of $125, and will be paid $375 a year, a $100 raise.

John Barnhart was reappointed zoning inspector and Dwight Keaysi street superintendent.

Shiloh's request for fiscal support for a new water treatment plant doesn't qualify under priorities established by the Ohio EPS, Mayor

Grady McDonald reported. The village's request will be held on file.

Donis Starks resigned as a fireman for reasons of health. David Kucinik was appointed to replace him.

New committee assignments among councilmen are: Harry Foster, chairman; David Spiger and Charles Bell, streets, sidewalks and police; Clarence O. Harris, chairman; Foster and Spiger, industries; Mrs. Kenneth Shaffer, chairman; Harris and Cline, buildings, safety, utilities and recreation; Harris, chairman, Mrs. Shaffer and Foster, finance.

R. E. Van Wagner succumbs to 86

Rollo Ellsworth Van Wagner, 86, Route 598, New Haven, died Sunday in Willard Area hospital. He retired as a tool and die foreman in the Fate-Root-Heath Co. after 49 years of service.

Born at Norwalk Feb. 15, 1892, he always resided in or near New Haven, where he was a member of the United Methodist church. He was a member of the Maccabee lodge and a 55-year member of Richland Lodge 201, F&M, which conducted memorial services at McQuate Funeral home Monday at 8 p. m.

Services were conducted there Tuesday at 11 a. m. by his pastor, the Rev. Charles McCoy. Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven township. Mr. Van Wagner is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Alice Grabach, Lakewood, and Mrs. Louise Groscon, Sandusky. He also has grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. His wife, Jessie, and a son, Richard, died earlier.

Myers wins tractor pull

William Myers, Shiloh, was the first place winner in the 12,000 lb. unlimited tractor pull Sunday at the Coliseum, Richfield. This was one of the events of the National Tractor Pull which was an international meet.

The tractor he entered was one he built himself. Among the spectators were his niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Laser, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Laser.

Tax bills late, Arthur warns

Real estate tax statements for the first half of 1976 delayed because of the six year reappraisal will be placed in the mail early in February, according to John M. Arthur, Huron county treasurer. Final date for payment without penalty will be Mar. 10.

Council puts off replacement of destroyed water tanker

Assistant Fire Chief William L. Van Wagner pressed hard Tuesday night for council approval to purchase a chassis and tanker to replace the one demolished Dec. 19, when a fireman was killed.

He said the firemen have found both, at a total cost of about $11,000. The chassis is a 1976 model.

Councilman James L. Jacobs, Sr., agreed with him and urged the council to purchase a chassis and tanker to replace the one demolished Dec. 19, when a fireman was killed.

He said the firemen have found both, at a total cost of about $11,000. The chassis is a 1976 model.

Councilman D. Douglas Keenan and Toy Patton said the decision to allow Brumbach two more weeks should stand.

Jacobs suggested the village be instructed as to what type of equipment could be purchased by the federal funding agency.

ment is dependent on back-up service from nearby departments. The subject was broached later in the day, a member of the fire department said he is "fed-up" with the delaying tactics of the council.

Jacobs again said the new tanker should be purchased with the idea that federal matching funds are forthcoming, they could pay for it.

Brumbach replied the village might be instructed as to what type of equipment could be purchased by the federal funding agency.

Hubert V. Akers and John Ray were absent, the matter was tabled.

Jacobs was confident that such a levy would be approved by the voters, especially if they could see the outmoded equipment now in use.

Police Chief Robert L. Meiser said that Mayor Elizabeth C. Paddock upped two of his police officers by heractions on New Year's eve.

Mrs. Paddock said she walked into the American Legion hall after seeing the cruiser parked at the back door with the motor running and found two patrolmen sitting at a table eating. She asked why they were not working, considering what night it was.

Meiser told her several days later he was aware they had stopped for supper and that he was at his home, where he could answer calls and contact them immediately.

The officers had not informed her of this fact on Jan. 1, the mayor said. The keys of the cruiser were handed to her and both officers said they wouldn't work any more, so she then called another patrolman, who arrived shortly to take over, she added.

The mayor suggested the police officers should have a hearing to air their objections, but Brumbach said it should be settled at the council meeting.

The problem ended with the mayor and one officer exchanging apologies.

How to catch up with the utility billing was discussed. Brumbach suggested that two months be billed together next month. Now the November bills are out, with December and January yet to be sent. The December bill will reflect the quarterly charges for water and sewer and Mrs. Joseph Maynard, utility clerk, said it would be unfair that December should be combined with January, since the former bills are so much higher.

What a difference a year makes! Northwestern's wrestlers whipped Plymouth, 75 to 0, in 1976. But on Saturday, Plymouth outkicked the tables on the Huskies, 45 to 25. And in the bargain, the Big Red trimmed Norwayne, 39 to 24.

After six dual meets, of which Plymouth has won five, three wrestlers are undefeated. These are Mike Messer, Bob Combs and Mike Adams. Three have lost only one match. These are Bob Schreiner, Mike Dent and Steve Engliott.

Try polenta for economy

By AUNT LIZ

When you want to open and close your draperies, do you grope around for the cords?

Do you get down on all fours to start a fire in your fireplace?

Those are becoming rather outdated, oldish methods to do such things. A young couple in Oregon decided such things were dumb to do, so in their new house, which sounds like an architect's dream or maybe a nightmare, they solved it.

On either side of the bed in the master bedroom, they installed consoles which electronically control such things. Just push a button and the draperies open and close and a gas starter then gets a roaring fire going.

They also have a sauna in which the steam can start up by the button method, and they do not have to go outside to get their jacuzzi going.

That is real living, yes? Once you find your first diamond mine, maybe your living conditions can improve.

MEANWHILE, best you start saving some moola just to pay current bills for the necessity of ordinary living.

This is tasty, nourishing and a real bargain for at least six.

It is called Timballo di Polenta or polenta casserole or a cornmeal mixture.

Boil three and three-fourths cups of water. Mix one a half cups of fine cornmeal in another three and three-fourths cups of water. When the first batch of water begins to boil, slowly add the cold mixture, and stir.

This recipe really needs about two or three palms of arms, because while it is cooking it requires stirring.

Bring it back to a boil, add two teaspoons of salt, turn the heat down so it simmers nicely for almost an hour.

When it is smooth, thick and creamy, it is done. Pour it onto a large breadboard or even a clean kitchen counter to cool it. It should be about a half inch thick.

Then melt six table-spoons of butter (unsalted if you have it), add a half pound of plum tomatoes, canned ones will work, but chop them up. Let boil and stir for five minutes. Add a pound of finely chopped mushrooms, and let them cook until the mushrooms look really done.

Spoon some of the tomato sauce (save the mushrooms) onto the bottom of a casserole.

By now the polenta has cooled and you can cut it up to fix the size of the dish. If you are using a rather small, deep casserole, you can build layers with the sauce in bottom, and on each layer sprinkle shredded mozzarella cheese.

On the top layer, toss some grated Parmesan over it all.

Into the oven it goes at 350 for about a half hour.

This is a sturdy dish and is really a version of lasagna.

The hospital beat

Grim forecast

It's no news that this heating season's been colder than usual. Unfortunately, the worst is yet to come. The National Weather Service predicts colder than normal weather over the next few months. This means your furnace must use more gas to keep you warm.

On top of that, rate increases caused by higher wellhead prices will also boost gas bills substantially this winter.

What can you do to hold down rising gas bills? The best way is to lower your thermostat. Simply cutting back from 72 degrees to 67 degrees will reduce consumption by 15-18 percent.

Call us for tips on additional conservation methods. Save gas for all of us. Save money for yourself.

Running a power plant is a lot like flying a 747.

It takes a lot of experience. And just like pilots who have been flying for years, power plant operators must keep on learning and training so they can continue to perform quickly and efficiently in any emergency.

That's why we have a control room simulator in our power plant training center that works much like a pilot's flight simulator. It helps our people sharpen their skills by simulating totally realistic equipment failures that, if not handled quickly, could wind up being power failures.

Why do we go to this extreme? Because keeping the power coming is a complex and demanding responsibility.

It takes hundreds of experienced, specially-trained, highly-skilled people throughout our company.

Engineers, technicians, power plant personnel, line crews, dispatchers, computer experts, people who man the consoles at the control centers...everybody plays a critical role in making sure the power keeps flowing to our homes and factories.

But, while we're doing everything we can to maintain dependable service and electric supply, there's one thing we can't do.

Make sure none of that electricity we make is wasted.

That's your job. Turning off unused lights and appliances, making sure refrigerator and freezer doors aren't left open, and washing only full loads of clothes and dishes will not only conserve electricity, it can help you keep your bills in line.

Properly insulating your home and energy-saving devices like an electric heat pump can help even more.

Working together. It's the best way we know to see that you continue to get the power you need, when you need it. And the most out of it when you get it.

Red nips Ontario in overtime, 71 to 69

A team that refused to quit in the face adversity hung on long enough at Ontario Saturday to prevail by scoring six unanswered points in the first overtime period for a 71 to 69 victory.

Steve Shutty, an unheralded 12th grader, was the hero for the Big Red. His 13-foot shot from the end line with 25 seconds remaining in the overtime sent Plymouth into the first lead it has had since the 2.03 point in regular play.

Shutty has made some important shots in his career and may make some others. But none ranks, so far, with this one.

The game ended with the Warriors jumped off in the three minute overtime with two quick buckets, one by Steve Santmyer, who at one time in the second period connected with seven straight shots, and one by Rick Bayer.

Four points in the ruck, Plymouth fought back. Jay Haver made the first of a one-and-one opportunity at 1:47. Mike Carthy missed the first of a one-and-one at :05 after bagging both shots 11 seconds before. Then came Shutty's dramatic effort. Hemmed in on the end line, he whirled to his left and fired over the heads of two defenders. It didn't even touch the rim.

Carthy's free throw with two seconds left gave Plymouth a two point lead. But the suspense was not yet ended.

Al Waterhouse unloaded a 23-footer at the buzzer. It swished through the net and the Warrior fans leaped up in elation.

But Russell Pitts, certainly the most capable black referee Plymouth has seen in some time, held his ground and refused to allow the shot. There was no complaint from the Ontario bench.

Plymouth had several opportunities to put it away in regulation time, after struggling from the field, 60 to 54. It dominated the backboards, 40 to 22. What hurt the Warriors was that they made too many mistakes -- there were 27 turnovers -- on offense and too many mistakes on defense -- Plymouth shot 29 free throws, of which 12 fell outside the net.

Shutty and Holly Tuttle shared scoring honors for the Big Red with 15 a piece. Santmyer, of course, led all scorers with 20.

Plymouth got yeoman service from one of its back benchers, Randy Adams, who scored four before he fouled out.
