

Warriors tomahawk Plymouth

Plymouth girls stepped out of class against state-ranked Ontario here Tuesday and were outclassed, 39 to 32. It was only the second loss of the season for the Red team. The visitors were rated fourth in the state polls with Class AA teams last week.

Plymouth trailed throughout. Save in the last quarter, when Ontario was 3-for-16, the Warriors simply shot the basket to shreds. They were eight of 14 in the first period, nine of 14 in the second and eight of 18 in the third.

Plymouth correspondingly, was five of nine in the first quarter, only one of eight in the second, just four of 11 in the third and a poor one of nine in the final period.

Ontario's two big guns, Ann Weikel and Deb Zimman, led all scorers with 17 and 16, respectively.

Plymouth fans were treated to a splendid exhibition. Coach Mike McFarren said his team played one of its better games, fundamentally, but there's no beating a team like Ontario has. It has eight first class shooters and plenty of height. I doubt they'll lose a game all year. And they play well. They could beat most of the boys' freshman teams I've seen this year and some of the reserve teams.

Linda Osborne scored 10 for the Big Red, the only Plymouth player in double figures.

Ontario out rebounded Plymouth, 37 to 29. The Warriors were charged with 10 turnovers, Plymouth with 21. Plymouth missed six of 16 free throws, Ontario seven of 10.

Martin McKenzie, son of the Perry McKenzies, 137 Plymouth street, also an 11th grader, is the alternate delegate.

He is a varsity wrestler, a varsity footballer and an honor pupil.

Echelberry kin succumbs at 47 at Columbus

Son-in-law of the Robert Echelberys, Lawrence R. Schell, 47, Shelby route 2, died Friday in University hospital, Columbus.

His death is the second bereavement in the Echelberry family in two weeks. John N. Echelberry, brother of Robert F., died in Shelby two weeks ago.

Born in Tiro, Mr. Schell lived most of his life in Shelby, where he was a member of the Eucharistic Heart of Mary Roman Catholic church and of the Knights of Columbus. He was also a member of the Marine City Yacht club.

He was employed 17 years in General Motors Corp., Ontario.

Survived by his wife, Wanda; two sons, Joseph and Lawrence, both at home; a daughter, Beth, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Clarence Stockmaster, Shelby route 2, and Miss Florence Schell, Shelby route 4, and a brother, Sylvester, Shelby route 4. His priest, the Rev. John Oltiver, was celebrant of the funeral mass from the church Monday at 10 a. m. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

That decision came Thursday afternoon over the objection of Councilman D. Douglas Brumbach, who maintained again, as he did Feb. 15, that faulty maintenance by Village Administrator Thomas F. Baker and the water department is largely responsible for water shortages.

Robert Saltzgeber said he can't guarantee that water will be found in any greater quantity, or even the same quantity. And he strongly advised the village to start looking for an alternate source of water.

Mayor Elizabeth G. Paddock on Feb. 15 urged the council to consider whether its own or from the Willard reservoir, which would entail pumping water uphill, should be pursued.

She pointed out there is a permanent injunction against the use of the old quarry on the John F. Stambaugh property.

The injunction dates from 1927 and is the result of a law suit lodged by the late Samuel Bachrach against the village, whose mayor then was J. B. Derry, a high school teacher. After a resolution by the trustees of public affairs and the village council to buy the reservoir was passed in 1926, a remonstrance petition was filed. Bachrach sought to prevent execution of the resolution until after the referendum. He was the father of David H. Bachrach, now of Oakland, Cal., and for many years a partner in the Bachrach Cattle Co. here.

Then W. H. Fetters, father of Mrs. Francis Guthrie and of former Mayor Luther R. Fetters, petitioned the court to be made co-defendant with the village. He said in his prayer that Bachrach wasn't really a plaintiff but was in collusion with the council to obtain a court decision favorable to the defendants.

By the time Fetters' petition came to be heard, the people had spoken: 91 yes, 271 no. So Judge James W. Galbraith on Mar. 17, 1927, granted a permanent injunction against the village from purchasing the property from the village site.

Other items are for repaving, engineering fees, the new film, repairs done by village employees, additional inspection and clean-up.

The bonding company estimated repairs to be about $7,500, based on its contractor's estimate after seeing the telecast of the film. It would not approve this until he could view the film. He finally obtained it after a year and a half wait.

When he did review it with Charles Haley, foreman for McDaniel Construction Co., Amherst, it was decided the film was inadequate to be used for repairs. The council then gave its approval to having a new film.

From the new film Gerken and Haley have come up with a figure of $162,846.05 to make the necessary repairs.

Cost of the American Red Cross service for Plymouth during 1977: $662.54, to assist two families burned out in fires; 37 units of blood used by patients having Plymouth addresses in local hospitals.

Receipts from the village and Plymouth route 1: $178.65 and 10 units of blood by replacement. Result: Failure of the program to be self-supporting.

Federal $ at stake

Storm damage here $137,350

Damages from the winter storm are estimated to be $75,000 on the Huron county side of the village and $62,350 on the Richland side.

These estimates were laid before the state coordinator in Norwalk Thursday and in Mansfield Friday by Mayor Elizabeth G. Paddock.

The village was notified by Urban Lyngvold, Jr., Huron county deputy engineer, on Feb. 9 that the figures of damage had to be in his office the next day. A meeting had been held in Norwalk on Feb. 8 but Plymouth was not notified of it.

The figures were immediately sent to Norwalk. Meanwhile, there had been no word from Richland county.

On Feb. 17 all political subdivisions were asked to meet in Norwalk with the state man. At that time the mayor inquired if the village could apply for damages to both counties. He said it could. On Thursday the mayor listed these for Huron county: $9,000 for debris clean-up; $2,000 for cleaning of catch basins; $2,000 for snow removal; $3,000 for repair of streets; $4.00 for broken water lines; $3,000 for repairs to the roof of the water plant; $500 for frozen water lines at the water plant, $5,000 for frozen lines to private homes, and $50,000 for loss of business during the storm.

The figures given to Richland county include replacement of a 500-foot water line, estimated at $2,500; repairs to one well which over-pumped during the water line break, $1,000; $50,000 for street repair; $850 to repair the dump truck; $2,000 for snow removal; $2,000 to clean catch basins, and $4,000 for debris removal.

"Should any federal money be forthcoming," the mayor said, "we will have to substantiate all our claims with receipted bills. Some of our figures are accurate and some are estimated. One Huron county trustee remarked while we were waiting our turns to talk to the state coordinator in Norwalk that he does not believe a Republican governor can convince a Democratic president that Ohio should be declared an emergency."

Damages were listed under two categories, those from snow and those from low temperatures.

"None of us can really tell how much damage has been done to roadways and it will be several months before it is all evident," the mayor added.

R. L. Reber takes bride

Linda Sue Hord and Robert Lee Reber were married Feb. 12, in St. Edward's Roman Catholic church, Ashland, by the Rev. Jerome Turins.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hord, Ashland, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Reber, Plymouth route 1, are the parents of the bridegroom.

Music was by Mrs. Bernard Murtagh, organist.

During the double-ring ceremony, the bride wore a floor length gown of white Chantilly lace featuring a mandarin collar, bishop sleeves and sweep train edged in a double ruffle flounce. Pearl and sequins accented the yoke and white satin ribbon encircling the waistline. A headband caught her floor length veil edged in chantilly lace matching her gown.

The bride carried a Lafayette bouquet of pink roses, white and blue miniature carnations with blue immortals.

Mrs. Sharon Roberts, the bride's sister, matron of honor, wore a sleeveless A-line dress and jacket ensemble of light pink. The jacket featured a V neckline, set-in waist and peplum with multicolored lace trim. Shirley Hord, sister of the bride, bridesmaid, wore a gown identical to the matron of honor save in sky blue. Each carried a bouquet of white roses with pink and blue miniature carnations.

Richard Reber, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Steven Schroeder, Edward Hord, brother of the bride, and Ronald Reber, brother of the bridegroom, ushered.

Mrs. Hord chose a pink polyester floor-length gown. She wore a corsage of pink and blue miniature carnations. Mrs. Reber was attired in a blue polyester floor-length gown. She also wore a corsage of pink and blue miniature carnations.

A reception took place at the church. A second reception was held at the First Federal Bank social hall. Hostesses were Joyce Butler, Karen Reber, June and Joan Reber, Patricia Seibert and Phyllis Hord.

Karen Reber attended the guest book.

After a wedding trip to Louisville, Ky., they will reside in New Washington route 1.

Mrs. Reber is a 1971 graduate of Ashland High school employed by Ashland Tire, Inc. Her husband is a 1969 graduate of Plymouth High school and is engaged in farming.

Pre-nuptial parties were given by Joyce Butler, Sharon Robert, Lucy Shirley and Phyllis Hord. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hord, New Haven, the bride's grandparents, and Mrs. Isabel Reber, Shelby, the bridegroom's grandmother.

The 'list of shortages seems to grow with each passing day.'

It is being predicted that by Halloween, which for some reason is the peak of chocolate sales, the price will really be way up there.

The reasons: production has dropped from last season, and the Russians are on a chocolate eating binge. They have given up vodka for cocoa.

That should do something for Bloody Marys and make them a real bargain.

Now there is a new side-light to saving energy. Should it be at all possible to take a really hot bath, do not pull the plug when you get out. Let the water sit until it is cold and it will heat up your house a little. Some environmentalist has come up with the idea that a hot tub is worth 10,000 BTUs, which will warm a house for an hour.

It was a great shock to find that Columbus hotels have cut back their water heating systems. For $40 a night, I looked forward to about a dozen really large hot baths, and the water wasn't even lukewarm. I must say, though, they are doing their bit. It seemed to me that Columbus was doing much more than the communities around here. One store had its escalators turned off and one walked up and down.

Don't think all this snow is going to help the water table too much. It was told years ago that 10 inches equals one inch of rain, now I find out you need 30 inches. Still, it is all good for gardens.

HAVE YOU EVER heard snow being called 'the poor man's manure'?

To start with, it forms a natural insulation, which a lot of towns discovered the hard way when they carefully plowed their streets and ended up with frozen water lines. Snow melts with a slow trickle and penetrates deeply into the ground, whereas rain causes erosion. As it melts, it does things to the physical texture of the soil; what it is I do not know, but it is good, so everyone should have excellent backyard gardens this summer.

watching your little plants grow until it is time to put them outside, munch away on these cookies.

Beat two sticks of margarine with a cup each of white and brown sugar until creamy. Beat in two eggs then a teaspoon of vanilla. Have ready in another bowl two and a half cups of flour, a teaspoon each of baking powder and soda, a cup of rice cereal, three ounces of canned Chinese noodles, and a half cup each of seedless raisins and chopped up walnuts.

Mix it all together, chill, then make little balls, roll them in sugar, and bake Everett Eckstein spent Feb. 12-13 in Hocking county taking pictures of ice formations, which is his hobby.

Second son of the M. Fate Christians, Shelby route 3, who was born in Shelby Memorial hospital Feb. 9, has been named Zachary Paul. His grandfather was the late Paul Reeder. His mother is the former Deborah Reeder.

Mrs. J. Harris Postema and her mother, Mrs. John Eyer, Willard, visited the Postemas' daughter, Mrs. Richard Murray, Ontario, Feb. 15.

Mrs. Glenn Frakes visited Mrs. W. C. McFadden, Crestwood Care center, Shelby, Feb. 13.

Granddaughter of the Harold E. Daups, Shiloh, three-year-old Laura Lee Ruckman, Mansfield, is Crawford County Heart Sweetheart for 1977.

She underwent emergency heart surgery Nov. 2 to correct a congenital heart defect.

Her father is Michael Ruckman, a 1965 graduate of Plymouth High school now teaching science in Madison schools. Her mother is the former Barbara Daup, also a graduate of Plymouth High school, now teaching physical education in Colonel Crawford schools at North Robinson.

This is a typical Lexington team, big, fast, well-drilled and opportunistic. It won its 14th of the season in this one.

There are two defeats. In league play, the Minutemen are alone at the top with an 11-and-1 record.

In a game that sometimes resembled an autumnal sport, the Big Red went to the line 19 times and succeeded with 14 shots. The Cougars were much less accurate - eight of 26.

Red reserves hung on to win, 37 to 35. Tom Miller shot the winning basket.
