Village to raid reserve fund to pay overdue power bill

Faced with an upcoming third month billing by Ohio Power Co. in 10 days, village council agreed to take money from the reserve fund to pay one of the two outstanding bills owed the company.

The June bill is for $16,904.65 and the July bill is $15,407.37, making a total the village owes $32,312.02.

Mayor Elizabeth G. Paddock told the council it could expect the next bill to hover between the last two in amount.

The electric reserve fund now totals $8,724.73. The next question is just how much of this sum is invested in time deposits and how much in liquid funds in the general fund of the village.

This is to be investigated by the clerk and mayor.

On Tuesday night's agenda the mayor placed the following line under the electric committee, "Discussion: should the village attempt to sell the system or upgrade the rates".

Councilman Toy Patton said there is no doubt in his mind that a rate increase is needed but to wait until the billing is caught up.

Councilman D. Douglas Brumbach said he would never consider selling the system under any circumstances.

None of the others spoke.

The electric fund as of Aug. 31 was operating in the tune of $29,932.12 in the red, with the two months Ohio Power bills outstanding.

The mayor blamed it solely on the rate structure and said when every other community was applying the fuel clause, Plymouth did not, "with the hope it would all go away, and that is where the trouble started." The village has increased rates 40 per cent since 1972, while other communities had to double theirs to keep up with costs.

An attempt is to be made to send out double utility bills for the next three months so that when the utility clerk starts to bill the November bills in December, the village will be caught up and delinquent bills will be charged penalties.

A property owner in Maple street questioned the village's collection of utility bills. His renters left him owing rent, a problem to clean up the property, and the village has a bill of about $500, which it would like to collect from the property owner.

"Someone goofed up" was his comment, "and let the bill get out of hand". The house was eventually disconnected for non-payment but it was during the period that bills were late in reaching householders and no penalties were being enforced.

Solicitor Robert A. McQuate is to check the village ordinances to determine if the village can sue the owner of town property owner liable for his renter's bill.

The first four inch test well drilled where it was suggested by J. E. King, OEPA, Bowling Green, and James Schmidt, Department of Natural Resources, is in good water bearing gravel. It is in a straight line between existing wells. However, the two other test wells to the east and west of it are non-producers.

The council will now seek further advice from both men before it attempts to put in an eight inch well, which they suggested. Brumbach contends a larger screen is needed and did not think the eight inch well size would be adequate.

It is estimated that the well will produce 150 gallons of water a minute.

PERMISSION TO TIE into the sanitary sewer system was given to Charles Gibson in Park avenue, who says he has had problems on and off for three years since the construction in that street and believes there is a broken tile.

Piggy-back sales tax may start Feb. 1

Public hearings will be had in Norwalk Nov. 3 and 7 before Huron county commissioners take final action on a new piggy-back sales tax of one-half per cent to be applied to all transactions in Huron county.

Mayor says - Loitering nettlesome at Shiloh

Complaints that loitering is nettlesome lodged with Mrs. J. Grady McDonald by residents of Main street in Shiloh prompted him to ask village council Sept. 14 to support a new ordinance to prohibit loitering.

Solicitor Franklin D. Eckstein will be asked to prepare an ordinance to warrant authority to call the parents of juvenile violators into his court.

An ordinance in effect now prohibits children under 17 from being on the streets between 11 p. m. and 5 a. m. On Oct. 1, the time restriction drops to 9 p. m.

United Methodist church has asked for authority to install three downspouts to spill into the street adjoining the building. It was suggested that a storm sewer running there be extended so the downspouts would empty into it. No action was taken because there needs to be an estimate of costs.

Mrs. Kenneth Schaffer, a councilman, said she has heard complaints that from a pack in the driveway next to the fire station and block traffic.

The council was told Scott street ought to be widened and its berm improved.

Feb. 1, 1978, is the target date for enforcement of the new tax.

Reason for the tax? A projected budgetary deficit of from $250,000 to $350,000 by the end of next year.

The tax would be applied to all retail sales save food. The commissioners have the option to exclude vehicle sales from the tax.

The tax will raise about $500,000 a year.

Action to schedule the public hearings had to be taken Thursday because one of the commissioners, Roy Palm, is heading for Cleveland to have open heart surgery. He will be back for about six weeks.

Earliest date the commissioners can vote on the new tax is Nov. 7.

Reed, the auditor, has for 60 days. The action has the endorsement of the county budget commission, Kenneth W. Reed, the auditor, Richard Hauser, the prosecutor of the common pleas of the common pleas, and John Arthur, the treasurer. They said it is the fairest tax of all.

Patron moved to call for the public hearings. Commissioner Thomas Carabin, who's said he wants to be sheriff so badly he can taste it, seconded the motion. Commissioner Maurice Smith voted for the resolution, in spite of the fact he promised in his last campaign for office he wouldn't vote for any new tax unless it is submitted to the electorate. He did so this time, he explained, so that public hearings can be held.

Whether the permissive motor vehicle tax of $5 will be dropped if the piggy-back sales tax is enacted is uncertain. Smith claims the commissioners have discussed this possibility.

Final enactment of a piggy-back tax will do competitive businesses in such border communities as Bellevue and Plymouth want to discuss.

There was any effect on such communities as Milan and Norwalk, which are not far from Sandusky.

Railroad tax offer rejected

The budget commissions of all counties affecting the local school district have turned down the offer of Penn Central railroads to pay back taxes at the rate about half on the dollar.

The subdivisions which are owed back taxes by Penn Central have until Oct. 19 to accept one of two offers by the bankrupt carrier. One is to pay 44 cents on the dollar, the other is to pay half of all taxes due since the railway declared bankruptcy in 1970.

Huron county's budget commission decided Sept. 12 to accept a plan to pay the county budget commission had earlier decided upon the same course.

Richland county budget commission and Crawford county budget commission have opted identically.

The Voice of The Advertiser -

Quit fooling!

The council must take us all for fools!

Here're the facts: we took in, from Jan. 1 to July 31, a total of $128,348.36. We paid Ohio Power during that period (and are still two months behind) $112,462.71 That leaves $15,985.65 to "play with". We're obligated to put 10 per cent of billings in the reserve fund. Deduct $12,834.83, leaving $3,148.82 to pay salaries and other expenses. Salaries alone during the seven month period were $8,597.62.

No amount of argument that when we catch up on billings we'll be all right can convince us. Nor, we suspect, anybody else. Average monthly billings are $17,000. Average Ohio Power billings are $16,000. We couldn't even put 10 per cent in the reserve fund at this rate, let alone pay our staff.

The council owes us an explanation. And fast!

CAC aid available Tuesdays

A representative of the Erie-Huron Community Action commission will come to Plymouth with a van each Tuesday.

Services include transportation for medical visits and shopping, help in filling out governmental forms, advice on family planning, insulation of homes, legal advice and special services such as the drug and alcoholism centers.

Persons wishing to use these services may leave their names and addresses in the village office.

Musical set here Nov. 18, 19

An innovation in the music program of Plymouth High school will come to fruition Nov. 18 and 19, when the vocal music department will present performances of "On a Solemn Day".

This is the first time that a musical production has been staged in the autumn. Heretofore, the production occurred in the spring. After this year's production, there was inquiry by the board of education as to why the school would not have a musical production in season of performance is the result.

Miss Janeane Cunningham will again direct. Patron tickets at $10.50, which entitle the purchaser to five seats that can be used in any combination of performances, and at $5, which entitle the purchaser to two seats that can be used in any combination of performances, are on sale at the school. Businesses wishing to advertise in the program may do so for $20.

A dress rehearsal will be presented Nov. 16 at 7 p. m.

Mike the Knife scores three

Messer leads Red to comeback over Hopewell-Loudon, 24-13; defense limits Chieftains to 94 yards overall

Kurt Weill made a fortune by composing "The Blue Rony Open" in which he included everybody's favorite, Mac the Knife.

Coach Mike McFarren is writing another opera at Plymouth High school and his star is Mike the Knife. Mike Messer (and messer is the knife) in German for knife), a 195-pound 11th grader whaled Plymouth to a 24 to 13 victory over Hopewell-Loudon on a muddy field at Wascon Friday night.

All Messer did was score three touchdowns, carrying the ball 32 times for 160 yards. And he played a tough game on defense, as well. Once again the Big Red had to come from behind in the final period. But the scenario this time was different.

Plymouth completely dominated the first half and went to the halftime break with a 12 to 0 lead. The Big Red scored the second time it got its hands on the ball. Messer to advance with the kickoff, John Ross punted 31 yards to the Chieftain five. Terry Brickner, a star stand-in for his injured brother, who killed Plymouth last year, punted 29 yards to the 38. A fine runback put Plymouth in business at the Hopewell-Loudon 20. Messer ran it in from the one with 4:42 on the clock. The Big Red needed six shots to score. A had snap from center cost Jim Wallace a chance to make it 7 to 0.

Plymouth was relentless with its defense in the next series, although a 15-yard holding penalty against the Chieftains cost them a first down. A FUMBLE BY WALLACE cost Plymouth a second touchdown toward the end of the period. The Chieftains took over at their 29. But they were forced to punt and Plymouth came storming back. A splendid reception by Marty McKenzie, in a crowd of Chieftains, netted the Big Red 28 yards and a first down. From the 14, Tom Miller rolled out and into the end zone with 9:19 on the clock in the second period.

An interception by Terry Tash at the Plymouth 49, a shoestring catch, stopped the Chieftains after they halted a Red drive to their 16. Miller sought to pass on both third and fourth down and lost heavily, 10 yards on third down and six on fourth. With time running out, the Chieftains went to the air, only to see Tash nail it. Whatever the Hopewell-Loudon coach told his team in the bus during the halftime break, it worked.

An age-old trick, a reverse with the kickoff produced a clear field for Brickner and he ran 85 yards down the sideline for a touchdown. Bloom's left-footed place kick for PAT was good. Plymouth's offense was stymied during the entire period and early in the final quarter, Ross sought to punt. He got a high pass, all but over his head, and the Chieftains recovered at the Red 27. After a five yard penalty for delay of game, Brickner ran the sidelines for 32 yards and the go-ahead score. Bloom's place kick was not good.

The Big Red struck back but ran out of downs (and it was anybody's guess where the first down line was, the field was so soggy the yardage lines were obliterated and there was some doubt that the referee knew where he was in relation to the rectangle of the field) at the Chieftain 37. But on the next play Co-Capt. Jay Adams recovered a fumble and Plymouth was back in business. It needed nine plays to make it to the end zone. Messer carried for eight of them. He got the last seven at 3:27, despite protests from some along the sidelines that he had stepped out of bounds. Miller's pass for PATs was not good.

THE CHIEFTAINS gambled in the next series, with time running down, and their gamble went up in smoke. Deep in their own territory -- they started from their 16 with the Red kickoff -- they went to the air and completed the only throw of the night, a six yarder. On fourth down, they faked a punt and ran the ball, getting only three yards.

Plymouth had another opportunity and did not miff it. Messer got 22 yards up the middle and then cracked off tackle for the final TD. A run for PATs was short, Miller being smeared with plenty to com: from behind to win. It showed character in doing so. But it was Red mistakes that led to its difficulties, leading to support of the observation that "it's not what you do that wins, but what you don't do that loses!"

The failure to defend against the kickoff cost the Red an 85-yard kick return for a score. Inability to punt in the last half -- one was blocked owing to a poor pass from center and the other resulted in a fumble because the pass was too high for the kicker -- could have cost more. It was fortunate the opposition could not capitalize on either break.

Red favored by six to win over Lucas here tomorrow

Plymouth opens its home season in Mary Fato park tomorrow, favored to win a Band Parents' night contest over Lucas by a touchdown.

Tomorrow's game is significant for a number of reasons, not the least of which is it will be the first time the band has shown off its new set of uniforms, which cost about $15,000, most of it raised by the Band Parents' club, before a home crowd.

It will also be significant because no Red team in the past several seasons has strung together two victories in succession at the beginning of the schedule.

IS THIS A TEAM OF destiny? It's too early to tell. Lucas will be tough but not so formidable that Plymouth can't win.

The Cubs overtook Crestview last week and won a 15 to 6 victory. They depend on Randy Harvey, of a long line of Harveys, at quarterback and on the running of Albert Lape and Gene Yoh. One highlight of Saturday's victory for Lucas was the first successful kick for extra point since Lucas undertook varsity football, said by the athletic director to be about 15 years.

It came from the toe of Larry Ashcraft, a tackle who scales 270 pounds.

WHAT IS MYSTIFYING about Plymouth's record is that it has held two quality opponents to less than a total of 200 yards in offense in two games, yet it has given up 25 points in those two games and has had to claw from behind to win. The answer is "those single mistakes can kill you."

Two mistakes at Greenwich cost the Big Red a touchdown apiece. A mistake at Bascom cost it a touchdown and another mistake led to a second touchdown.

Nevertheless, this team has shown substantial improvement and if any outfit should be ready for a tough conference season starting Oct. 7, this one is it.

PLYMOUTH'S STRONG POINTS tomorrow will be experience and depth and Mike the Knife, Mike Messer, the burly running back who's scored five touchdowns so far this season, in only two games.

A word should be said about the half handling in the backfield. Tom Miller has progressed substantially in a year and his handoffs are of a better calibre than Plymouth has seen for some time.

Crestview drops out of JAC

Crestview will drop out of the Johnny Appleseed conference.

Its board of education ruled last week that the Cougars will leave the conference at the end of next year's play.

Which seems certain to toll the death knell of the league, which has been dominated in the big team sports -- football and basketball -- but the big schools, Ontario, and Lexington and Clear Fork.

What will occur is anybody's guess, according to the experts.

Runner

Big Red expects good yardage tomorrow from Jim Wallace, 11th grader, who runs at fullback in starting backfield.

Disappointed cook resorts to old standard recipe

By AUNT LIZ
There is nothing so self-satisfying as creating something tasty to eat. Last week I did so. We ate it with relish and I was about ready to copy-write my made-up recipe.

After a couple of days of thinking I am an extraordinary cook, I picked up something and discovered what I had created has been a favorite recipe of all of Greece for centuries.

It was a letdown, but still it is good. It is merely a form of lasagna using slices of eggplant, which is partly parboiled, instead of pasta.

The only difference with our recipe, which is called Mousaka, is that the put some red wine in the meat sauce, which we did not do, for the simple reason I did not think of it. Furthermore, we did not have any.

You should make it a day ahead and let it age. It is really better the second day. Our casserole made two meals for two.

You can do the same thing by using slices of zucchini, too.

But best you save your zucchini for a couple of other things like cookies and cold soup.

For the cookies, grate enough zucchini, skins and all, to make a cup. To it add a teaspoon of baking soda, a cup of sugar, a half cup of shortening and a beaten egg. Mix well. In another bowl mix two cups of flour with a teaspoon of cinnamon and a half teaspoon each of ground cloves and salt. Blend the two bowls together, then add a cup of chopped walnuts and a cup of raisins. Drop the batter from a teaspoon onto a greased cookie sheet and bake about 14 minutes at 375 degrees.

The soup recipe is about the only one I can think of that requires a tape measure. You want two zucchinis - eight to 10 inches long and about two and a half inches in diameter. Just ignore the people who stare at you in the grocery store while you are measuring.

Once you find them and get them home, slice them up. Chop a green pepper and an average size onion. Simmer them in three cups of chicken stock, which should be one can of broth plus one of water. Do this covered for 20 minutes. Then strain the vegetables, saving the stock.

In the blender, put in a cup of sour cream with a tablespoon of finely chopped fresh parsley and a half teaspoon of fresh dill with some salt and pepper. If you do not have fresh dill, a quarter teaspoon of the dry will work. Add the cooked vegetables to this, turn on the machine and add the stock, but be sure you have the lid to the thing handy. We once had to wash our kitchen wall unnecessarily.

Taste it and if it needs more seasonings, add them. Chill well. It can be served in ordinary soup bowls with parsley and dill sprinkled on top. But since it is so liquidy, it can be served in a goblet and gulped down.

Being a new grandmother is really an experience. A couple of times I got carried away with little tidbits that can come in handy right now, like a diaper service, mobiles, a sun suit which promptly was outgrown. But that sunsuit got around. It was sent to California, where that baby wore it for a month. Since we are so far away from each of them, I am going on the idea that we do things for the future, and a good friend came up with a terrific idea.

It can work for both boys and girls. Start them out with a calendar towel for each year. You know eventually they will probably come to the stage of life where they need dish towels. By then, they will have a good supply. It took me three weeks to do it. First, it was able to find two 1978 towels and only one for 1977. Frankly, I was ready to advertise for the second one when I walked into an elementary school library and there is one on the wall, which I will get on Dec. 31.
