Second of the turkey suppers staged by the Big Red Booster club produced profits of about $820, which will be applied to the high school athletic program.

Mrs. William Wheeler was chairman of the supper, at which 440 persons were served in the dining room and 225 persons were served by carry-out meal.

About 100 persons - parents, pupils and athletic boosters - worked on the supper. Boosters will meet Dec. 18 to plan the serving of a dinner and brunch during the Johnny Appleseed conference wrestling championship which is to be conducted here Feb. 17.

Council votes $679,440.66 for expenditure in 1978

The village council got down to brass tacks Nov. 21 and came up with a 1978 appropriation ordinance in the amount of $679,440.66.

Councilmen G. Thomas Moore and Michael Taylor provided the leadership in determining what each fund will spend. They based their figures on what Clerk-Treasurer Raymond L. Brooks had furnished for what had actually been received and spent in each fund for the first 10 months of the year.

After almost four hours of working with the figures, it was finally done. One council member said, "Now we must add it all up." Fortunately, Councilman Ervin Howard had kept a running score of the expenditures and the total was readily available.

The ordinance, however, was not formally passed. Mayor Elizabeth G. Padock suggested it would be better that the clerk start with a clean form and present it at the next meeting. By the time the figures had been arrived at, each council member's copy was a great blotch of "chicken scratches" and hardly readable.

The councilmen seemed to realize that the general fund is the big problem. Its income can only be guessed at. No one knows for certain what the mayor's court will bring in for the year nor what estate taxes can be expected. What it boils down to is how many DWI contracts, which carry a minimum fine of $250 plus court costs, will come before the court, or who will die, leaving a sizable estate. This is the big problem because the police department income comes from the fund.

It has been earmarked at $78,913 for 1978. Expenditures for the fire department were whittled down to $16,883.92, which is in keeping with the two half mill figures but leaves a surplus of $62,029.92. The fire department has been able to share with the township.

The ambulance fund was left at the original figure of $6,908.17 for the year with good management, it is holding its own with fees charged for runs and ambulance sharing with the township.

Two make 4.0 grades at Shiloh. Two Shiloh Junior High school pupils made 4.0 grade-point averages during the first six week period.

Thirteen were named to the honor roll and 25 to the merit roll. Perfect grades were recorded by Vickie Brown, eighth grader, and Chris Elliott, seventh grader.

Forty-three were named to the honor roll (3.0 and above) and 75 to the merit roll (3.0 to 3.49). Perfect grades were recorded by Kristina Glawson, Jerry Hartman, Margaret Hudson, Beth Kraft, Sally Von Stein, Thomas Watts and Teresa Wright, 12th graders.

Honor roll grades went to Timothy Thomas, Lisa Baldrige, Jeffrey Fenner, Rick Hawkins, Dawn Robertson, Amy Echelberger, Fayette Hudson, Frank Lawrence and Rhonda McDonald, eighth graders; Amy Thompson, Kaitlyn Chad McGinnis, Kelly Saunmons, Valentina Wagoner, Ray Brubaker, Kim Daron, Kris Drake, Frank Garber, Brian Howe, Julie Bess, Kim and Karen Branham, Darrell Hale, and Charlene Sams, seventh graders.

The park is also holding its own and is budgeted at $4,400. The cemetery was pegged at $13,420 and seems to be staying within its budget.

The street fund was settled at $34,000 with $1,873 in the state highway fund. A discussion over expenditures began when Taylor asked if snow removal should not be entered as a separate item. With so few village employees, he was told, this is almost impossible.

The electric fund was estimated to have expenditures of $302,130.14. Of this amount, $16,900 is for personal service and $286,130.14 for operation and maintenance, the bulk of that amount to be paid to buy wholesale from the Ohio Power Co.

Water fund is $82,282.43, which will include the bill not received as yet by the village for the digging of the water line. The sewer fund created a problem because the village had borrowed $60,000 from First National of Mansfield, with which it completed the repair work, and money paid out for it were included in the operation and maintenance fund.

These payments totaled $36,359.34, of which $24,859.34 was paid to Needles & Associates, Sycamore, and $11,500 to the Bachrach Co. The latter amount was in two payments, $3,000 for damages which the company claimed to have been done during the construction and $8,500 which the contractor also claimed as damages and offered to do the repairing itself. Actually, the amount the Bachrach Co. offered to do the work was less than Needles' estimate, so about $4,000 was saved.

In other action, the council approved on a second reading two ordinances which will involve the police department in mutual aid agreements with other police departments in Huron and Richland counties.

While decreasing enrollments always add up under the present state support formula, to less state money the figure of about 108 pupils a grade approaches the ideal set by the celebrated educator and president of Harvard university, Cambridge, Mass. Dr. James Conant, who said that enrollment "makes as ideal a school system as we can now conceive."

Increasing enrollments also mean less demand upon taxpayers to fund new housing for pupils. Replacement of housing that deteriorates or fails to meet state standards will be the issue in the next 10 years.

Car strikes two pupils. While most villagers were in their dining room tables Thursday afternoon, a Memphis, Tenn., man was knocking poles down with his car in Sandusky street.

Paul A. Haves' car went out of control hitting the poles in front of Hill's Jewels & Gift Shop and Mr. Pizzo. He was charged with drunk driving and reckless operation by Plymouth police.

Also, Denise Cook, Steven Mowbray, Shirley Reeder, Kerry Renner, Barbara Shaver, Rob Smith, Betty Swind, Angie Tallman and Renee Taylor, ninth graders.

Merit roll grades were recorded by Dianna Baker, "Scott Baker, Annette Carey, "Rhonda" Garity, "Sue Courtright," Kristina Glawson, Jerry Hartman, Ann Hopkins, Joseph Miller, Gregory Renner, "Helen Rose, Ronald Scheller, George Shoykhet, "Kevin Spencer, and David Tackett, 12th graders.

Also, Terry Baker, "Joseph Beck, Tina Buzard, "Lori Cappy, Pamela Garrett, Karen Gibson, "Kenneth Gilmer, Tammy Hale, "James Hendrickson, "Tammy Jennings,

The village already has fire agreements with most of the other municipalities, but this is the first time an arrangement has been attempted with the police departments.

An emergency ordinance was also passed to approve a new five year contract to buy electrical power from the Ohio Power Co.

The last contract for 10 years will expire Dec. 23. The company asked the village to agree to the same contract, but for only five year period. It was presented at the Nov. 7 meeting but no action was taken because each council member asked to have a copy of the contract. The clerk prepared them immediately and they were available the next day.

However, no councilman picked up a copy until Nov. 20, when Taylor and Councilman David A. Howard came to the village office and Moore, who appeared at the special meeting, got his.

Disaster! Tree's up!

Disaster struck the village crew this week. On Monday, by pre-arrangement, it went to the Terry Fenner house in Trust street to remove a pine tree donated by the Fenners for the Public Square Christmas display.

When the tree was taken down, the top of it broke out. Administrator James C. Rod notified Mayor Elizabeth G. Padlock of what happened. She undertook to solicit another tree.

While she was doing so, Mrs. William Wheeler, the utility clerk, learned that James R. Broderick in Portner street would donate a tree.

So that's what's up in the Square.

Red overcomes Monroeville; Ream scores 21 points

Plymouth defeated Monroeville in the season's opener for both teams at Plymouth Nov. 22. The score was 77 to 63 and the Eagles never were a factor after the first three minutes.

And based on what it did in this one, neither team has any call to be excited about prospects for the future.

The Big Red committed 32 turnovers, the Eagles 27. Plymouth outrebounded Monroeville, 35 to 26, and since the Big Red isn't a tall team, these facts suggest that Monroeville may have an uphill time of it to be competitive in the Fire-Igods conference. Because rebounding and defense are the name of the game in schoolboy basketball.

Joe Hamilton scored the first basket of the 1978-79 season with a 17-footer. After that it was all Plymouth. The winners bagged the next eight points and outshot the visitors for the remainder of the period, when Plymouth led, 15 to 7. Plymouth shot 14 times and made six, whereas Monroeville went three-for-11.

The Big Red's shooting percentage on its home floor improved in the second quarter when Jeff Ream began to find the range. He contributed two buckets. Greg Gillum had a pair and Plymouth scored 19 points with seven baskets in 13 shots. Monroeville was five-for-14.

Plymouth had a comfortable halftime lead of 34 to 21.

THE WINNERS MANAGED 20 points in the third period, outscoring the Eagles by three. Ream went to the foul line seven times and was successful with six of them and had three field goals. He was to wind up as the game's highest scorer with 21.

Mike Berberick, a starter for Plymouth who did little during the first half, began to get untracked in the third eight minutes and finished the game with 18 points.

Down by 54 to 38 after three periods, Monroeville began to get it act together. The Eagles succeeded with nine of 19 field goal efforts during the final eight minutes and outscored the Big Red, 25 to 23. Mickey Hofacker, who led all Monroeville scorers with 14, bagged eight of his total during the final quarter, with two field goals and four free throws.

Monroeville cut down on its turnovers during the last period - it committed only four - while Plymouth, with less experienced players on the floor, Coach Keith Diebler having substituted liberally, made nine.

Overall, Plymouth shot exceptionally well for an opening game. Its record was 27 of 50. It missed 14 of 29 free throws.

Two Monroeville players, Steve Hofacker and Rich Reser, fouled out. Hofacker was gone early in the third

Minutemen favored by 11

Plymouth opens its last Johnny Appleseed conference season here tomorrow, underdog to Lexington, for years the powerhouse in the league.

By how much an underdog is debatable. Lexington was beaten by Class AA Wynford, 69 to 85, to overtime last week. It was the first game of the season for the Minutemen. The defeat was a surprise, because Lexington had big leads at several points in the game.

Wynford's coach said he relied on Lexington's inexperience. Indeed, it is that factor that may lead to Lexington's failure to win the league championship this year. Clear Fork is now a clear favorite. The Colts defeated Malabar by plenty last week.

Lexington's meter is to go at it in a hurry. Against Wynford, the Minutemen shot the eyes of the basket and ran the fast break from the opening whistle. Brent Yates, a slippery guard, makes the plays for the Minutemen. His forward line is composed of Greg Junk, a 10th grader who stretches six feet five inches; Wes Lammon, a 12th grader who measures six-three, and Brian Timberlake, a 11th grader who goes six-four. Plymouth has no size to contend with that line.

Lammon scored 18. He is the most experienced player on the Lexington team.

Lexington can shoot. Its players have had a lengthy pre-season opportunity to practice, since few were involved with the ill-fated football season. In Coach Don Cooper, Lexington has a seasoned and cool-headed director who knows what he's about and doesn't panic.

The Minutemen will be tough to beat.

Plymouth plans no changes in its lineup, which was enough to defeat Monroeville. Up front, Coach Keith Diebler will start Jeff Ream, Ron Schuller and Greg Gillum. In the back court he will call on Terry Tash and Mike Berberick.

If the home court advantage is taken into account, and Lexington's size and level of competition are measured, Plymouth should be considered to be an 11-point underdog.

Vikings win
Billy Anspach scored 10 to lead Plymouth Vikings past Springmill Celtics, 32 to 14, in Friendly House play Saturday.

The Vikings have won four straight without defeat.

Sixth graders drew a bye for Saturday. Fifth graders will play Bailey Distributors at 1:25 p.m.

Starter

Letterman Ron Schuller, 12th grader, plays in front line of Coach Keith Diebler's 1978-79 Big Red basketball team. He's good rebounder, took down 10 against Monroeville, and good shooter underneath.

What would graying grandma do without Scotch tape, a Yule help?

By AUNT LIZ

Is there anything more sad than a gray-haired grand mother trying to wrap up holiday presents with no Scotch tape? Gray-haired grandmothers simply cannot do it. Maybe when they were a little younger, they somehow could have four hands by stretching fingers. Now they need help.

The tape as we all know it did not come into being until some thing like 1941 or 1942. We were all out of school, when Minnesota Mining dreamed it up. Today there are many other companies putting it out, but they were first.

It was a terrific thing for them and probably what gave them national recognition. They were so pleased about it all that they had little contests among their employees about who could produce the best decorated holiday package. One of my dearest friends who was a secretary there — she started out as the lowest file clerk and within two years was the personal secretary to the president — always won the first prize. We always exchanged little presents, and Barb would look with complete disdain on my wrappings.

Now I look back and wonder how we stayed friends through a lifetime. She could be very obnoxious to anyone else and was. But we all humored her and stayed friends. I would think, "the heck with how the dumb thing is wrapped, it is what is inside that counts." That was back in the days when I knitted fancy little mittens for everyone. She didn't even know what a knitting needle was but made more than the rest of us. That was back in the '40s, when I had a really good job — and you believe — $65 a month. That was the going salary of any first year school teacher in Minnesota. Back then you could buy the very best cologne for about $1 a bottle. Chanel was something like $2.50, which had to be a gift because we could not afford it.

Somehow we must all be thankful to MMM for coming up with Scotch tape. How did we ever live without it? They started out as a little local industry and thank heavens there were people who believed in them or they would not exist today, with all they have done to fortify our civilization. One of my grandfathers helped, they were local and new; he bought some stock just to help them out. Strange, isn't it, how some of our great industries got started by pure luck. This is what has made our country so great.

I think everybody knows by now that I am really not a woman's libber, but we must give the American woman and cook the credit of also making this country what it is.

Who really does the cooking in the average household? Sometimes we do have you know who brew up something and I end up following him around the kitchen with a broom and dustpan to pick up pieces and peelings. His offerings, I must say, are very tasty. If you are not too tired to eat after all the picking up.

Another holiday is coming, and I gather we all start planning ahead. Before Thanksgiving a friend who planned on having 18 members of her family for dinner said she had already spent $100 and this was not an exceptional dinner, just the regular things you have in November.

There will be all those daily meals and Sunday dinners coming up before that great feast.

This recipe should help and the best part is that you can use it for a Sunday dinner and to it before you go to church and let it sit in a warm oven.

It is Swedish meatballs on rice. For the rice all you need for six is two cups of rice, two of water with a little butter and salt, cook it up so it is ready.

Then mix a pound of ground beef with a pound of ground pork. Then mix in three-fourths of a cup of instant potato flakes, a quarter of a teaspoon of salt, about three shakes of ground up fresh pepper, a half-teaspoon of all-spice, one egg, a tablespoon of grated onion, a half cup of half and half, a half cup of water and two tablespoons of cooking oil.

Get in there with your hands and really mix it all up but good. Then mix in one tablespoon of soft butter (cheat and use your favorite margarine, it is all the same).

Shape the mixture into small balls and do a few at a time with butter in a skillet.

When all are done and are sitting on some brown paper like an ex-grocery bag, save the drippings in the pan and start the sauce.

You must have this heated and ready; two cups of beef stock, which can be canned bouillon, heated, with a half cup of half and half.

To the drippings in the skillet add two tablespoons of flour, and when that is stirred together as it should be, pour in the liquid gradually to make a beautiful sauce-like gravy. This then goes over the meat balls, which are now arranged on the rice in a casserole and stashed in a slightly warm oven until you are ready to eat.

If you would like to be more daring with this recipe, get out your little can of nutmeg, and do three good shakes into the meat mixture.
