

Some reasons why water was(is) 'dirty'

One reason why water was "dirty", until last week that is, is that ground was too wet between Well No. 4 (foreground, above); Well No. 3, in background, is shut down, because it pumped only 10 gallons a minute) for Saltzgeber Drilling Co., Mansfield, to install iron pipe between wellhead and treatment plant. Result: production of new 12-inch well was pumped via fire hose directly (see next photo)

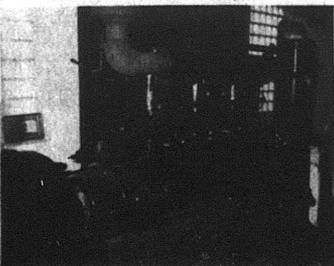

... to clear well. This meant the new production went directly to consumer's lines without treatment. Sediment and such was not filtered. Improved weather has permitted installation of permanent pipe and new production is now completely treated.

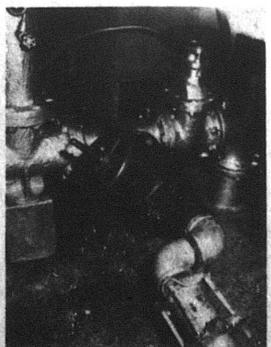

Roof leaks ...

That water plant needs massive infusion of money is agreed to by almost everybody. This is view of roof, showing vast area of leakage. Village Administrator James C. Root estimates cost of repair at $4,000.

Standby generator, to furnish power to pump water if electricity fails, is out of order. Root means to solicit expert advice to repair generator, "but it's kind of hard to do when the water fund is so low."

This valve is new. Valve it replaced was clogged last time there was water shortage, which was reason for it.

Commissionership, auditor's post at stake

Electorals will go to the polls in Ohio's annual primary election Tuesday. Polls will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m. Huron county electors of both parties have some Democrats will choose between Maurice Smith, incumbent commissioner, and John Jacob, Willard fire chief, for the nomination to contest the election in November. Republicans will choose between Joseph Sherman, Harland township farmer, and John Baltes, Norwalk contractor, for the commissionership nomination. Incumbent Kenneth Reed, in a change of heart, will seek reelection as auditor. He is opposed by

C. B. Koscoe, who is director of the regional planning commission, and Roy Johnson, a political neophyte from New London. Judge Thomas Heydinger, incumbent probate and juvenile judge, is unopposed in his party. Neither is there a Republican candidate. Richland county electors have more choices to make. Certainly two of them have been controversial from the outset. After the county bar association prevailed upon the Ohio Bar association to level formal charges against James J. Mayer, the incumbent common pleas judge, resulting in a divided decision ordering him to retire for health reasons, the lines were drawn for a hot fight. Mayer had already declared himself a candidate for reelection as an independent. Regardless of whether the Ohio Supreme Court upholds the decision of the panel of judges, Mayer says he'll run in November. Four Republicans, one of them an incumbent judge, and a Democrat aspire to the office. GOP candidates are Vincent Phelan, Shelby; George Murray, Mansfield; Max Chilcote, Ontario; and Ralph Johns, Mansfield. Democratic candidate is Donald Lett, Mansfield. Norman L. Wolfe, who has been county auditor longer than any man in Ohio's history, has resigned. Two Republicans and a Democrat aspire to that office. The Democrat is Freeman Swank of Bellville, incumbent commissioner, who also seeks to be appointed to Wolfe's job by the county executive committee. Incumbency is a powerful weapon in a general election. The Republicans are Dale Bricker, who was for many years director of elections, and George Clark. Both live in Shelby, although Bricker is a Johnny-come-lately to that city, having resided in Mansfield for many years. Sherrod Brown, the incumbent Democrat in the General Assembly from the district that includes Mansfield and all of northern Richland county, is unopposed. Three young Republicans seek to oust him. One of them will be chosen Tuesday. The candidates are Robert Bush, John Buker and C. David Robinson. Arthur Touby, incumbent Democratic commissioner, seeks reelection. He is opposed by Roy Walters, a councilman at Lexington. Dale Cook, who was unsuccessful in the race for commissioner once before, is the only GOP nominee for member of the board of elections and withdrew. Eric J. Akers is a write-in candidate for member of the Richland county Republican central committee.

Tax bills due to be paid by June 30

Huron county real estate tax statements for the last half of 1977 will be placed in the mail early in June, says John M. Axinur, treasurer of Huron county.

If a taxpayer has changed his or her address or if for any reason he fails to receive their statement he is urged to call the office of the Treasurer so his statement may reach him before June 30, the final date for payment without penalty.

Mayor to hear two drivers accused of DWI

Two will appear in Mayor's court Monday on charges of drunken driving. They are James Steel, Crestline, and Dale Citine, Shelby.

Roger Cantu, Mercedes, Tex., was fined $25 plus costs for improper backing in mayor's court during May.

Barbara Hughes pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding and paid a fine of $25 plus costs.

Lloyd Sexton, Shelby, pleaded guilty to reckless operation and was fined $50 plus costs.

Richard Swert, Monroeville, charged with speeding, was fined $14 and costs.

George W. Haines, Willard, pleaded no contest to a charge of divided highway and was fined $10 plus costs.

Waivers were posted by Patricia A. Perkins, Willard, speeding, $32; Gerald Hammond, Jr., malicious destruction of property, $50; Dennis Mulligan, Shelby, speeding, $28; James Enderby, speeding, $33; Raymond Klemm, improper turn, $28; Gary E. Young, Tiro, following too closely, $35; Kenneth E. Lucas, speeding, $23; Gerald D. Dow, Shelby, speeding, $23; Randal H. Dawson, Shelby, stop sign violation, $20; Kenneth L. Bolla, Shelby, reckless operation, $63, and Charles L. Gilbert, Mansfield, speeding, $33.

Flea market set by Lions Saturday

Plymouth High school will be the site of buying, selling and bargaining, when the first annual "Bite 'Em" flea market takes place Saturday. The flea market is sponsored by Plymouth Lions club and will take place rain or shine, beginning at 9 a. m. and lasting until 6 p. m. Tables for the flea market are available for $7.50 each and can be reserved by calling a member of the Lions club. There is no admission charge.

Money raised by the Lions club will be used for Plymouth community betterment projects. D. M. Eichelberger (687-4241), Strine Advertising (687-8942) or Plymouth Pharmacy (687-5332) will furnish more data.

A bake sale is planned along with the Lions club flea market Saturday at Plymouth High school.

Wives of the members will contribute homemade items. Mrs. Kirby Nesbitt is chairman of the table.

A stolen car was recovered Friday by Police Chief W. Robert Seel.

Plymouth police had been notified by Shelby police that the car was missing. It was found during a routine check of Mary Fats park with two 15-year-olds driving it.

Wolfe resigns as auditor

Norman L. Wolfe has resigned as Richland county auditor, the post he has held for two generations, owing to health reasons.

Wolfe recommends that Mrs. Mildred Brady, his deputy for many years, be appointed by the Richland County Democratic committee to succeed him. Freeman Swank, incumbent commissioner, who is a candidate for election as auditor, has said he will accept appointment if it is offered. When he does so, he must resign as commissioner.

Taylor named to council

A retired Air Force colonel, Michael Taylor, was appointed a councilman during the recessed meeting Tuesday night.

His name was proposed by Councilman David A. Howard, who had rejected Councilman G. Thomas Moore's suggestion of another name twice.

A newcomer to the village, he has lived here over a year after retiring from the U. S. Air Force. The Taylors chose Plymouth because Mrs. Taylor's family lives in Greenwich, and they wished to be nearby.

He is a native of New Haven, Conn., but grew up in New York, N. Y. He is a 1938 graduate of Long Island University, where he received a bachelor's degree in science. His military service spanned 26 years and he served around the globe.

The Taylors have a daughter, Renee, an eighth grader, and a son, Kevin, a fourth grader.

Street head quits at Shiloh

Eugene Kirkpatrick resigned May 24 as Shiloh's street commissioner, giving no formal reason.

Dwight Keesy is temporarily replacing him. Pay of Johnny Shepherd, helper in the street department, was advanced 25 cents to $3 an hour.

An ordinance prohibiting parking in Mechanic street from 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. while the schools are in session won approval over the objection of Councilman Harry Foster, who says he lives in that street and that no parking could cause a hardship on some occasions.

Mrs. Charles Rowe complained that children waiting for school buses loiter in her yard and sit on the family cars. Local and visiting school buses and cars also block the Rowe driveway.

Mayor Grady McDonald said steps will be taken to prohibit parking in the no parking area.

A new transformer will be needed to service the new junior high school building, trustees of public affairs have learned. Cost to the electric system will be about $5,000 for a three-phase transformer.

Auntie considers lowly ant a pest —

By AUNT LIZ
It may be hot and humid, which everyone last January was saying he wanted, and we need not worry about being snowed in for a while. Still, the season has its disadvantages or else our house is really unique.

We never had an ant until last summer. It was about July we were capturing several large black ones walking around the kitchen counters each day. Our daughter-in-law gave us some lovely poison which did the trick, no more ants. Now they are back, one at a time, and we cannot figure out where they are coming from nor how to really get rid of them. This year's poison is not working at all. I am convinced we have a queen living someplace near our back door, but since ants are really more intelligent than people, more fascinating to please see page 5 when it invades the kitchen counter!

watch, too, we will probably never find her. After three years in Africa, I consider myself a real authority on the critters. Once the queen is gone, they are all gone. If anyone has an answer to this large household problem, I will listen like mad. It is embarrassing to have a friend drinking coffee at your kitchen table when one walks right smack across it. Our other big problem is how to continue to eat. People who know us probably are saying, "You don't need to, there is enough stored food to last months by the way you look." Things are rough at the check-out counter, but we are not the only ones having a problem. In fact, we are better off than most countries. Ground beef in Japan is over $4 a pound and margarine is $1.78, if the figures I am quoting from are right. Eggs are not too bad, just $1.12 a dozen, but forget ice cream. It is $16.66 a gallon. Very surprising is the price of sugar, only 56¢ a pound which sounds reasonable, but a five pound bag comes to $2.80. There certainly will not be many jelly makers this season there.

IF THE AMERICAN housewife is smart, this should be a real jolly-making year in every house. For the first time in years, we were completely out of the stuff and forced to buy a couple of jars for toast. That did it. No matter what it costs, this summer is going to be devoted to making jelly every weekend. It will still be cheaper, and we will be ahead, because prices are not going to go in two directions: just one up.

Somehow we all can scrounge up enough for a chicken for Sunday dinner. They are still within reason. And somehow chicken on Sunday is a real American tradition. It may be steak every Saturday night in many houses, but it has come to the point that you cannot have it two days in a row. This is for Ginger Chicken. Start with about three pounds of cup up, which should serve four. If there are six of you, just double it.

Buy an envelop of instant chicken flavored broth, follow the directions and mix it up. Let it sit.

Then mix together a fourth of a cup of flour, a teaspoon of ground ginger, a half teaspoon of salt and some white pepper. Dip the chicken pieces in it until coated, and save what is left. Brown the chicken pieces in about three tablespoons of margarine. When browned, throw in the dry ingredients and the broth. Cover it and simmer until the chicken is tender.

Add a half cup of half and half to it and serve it either on rice or broad noodles.

There is one thing about our country, we can borrow recipes from the rest of the world because we are such a mixed-up nation, while the average country like Italy or France sticks right to what it has eaten for centuries.

McDonald's, however, is slowly changing that.

THE ONE WITH EXPERIENCE? George Murray has 28 years of law experience in Richland County as a successful attorney.

THE ONE WITH A KNOWLEDGE OF THE LAW? George Murray has a massive knowledge of the law as an experienced trial lawyer. He knows the Richland County Court system; its fine and stronger points, its poor and weaker points.

THE ONE WHO CAN COMMUNICATE? George Murray wants to be the catalyst for improved cooperation and communication between all judges in the courts. He knows how to communicate.

THE ONE WHO'S BEEN A CIVIC SERVANT? George Murray has served 15 1/2 dedicated years as a City of Mansfield Board of Education member, three years as president. And he's served as president of the Richland County Bar Association, too.

THE ONE WHO WANTS THE JOB AS A JUDGE? George Murray wants to help improve the morale of the courts, to help it become more efficient and re-earn its public trust and respect. Not trust and respect because it's a court; but because it's a good court, a fair court, an open court.

Adams 3rd in Ohio

Jay Adams hurled the 12-pound shot 53 feet 3 inches at Columbus Friday to win third place in the state Class A track and field championships.

Bruce Matter of Bluffton won the event with a heave of 56 feet 1/2 inches. Jim Leichter, North Jackson Milliter, was second with a throw of 34 feet. Tally Dent was eliminated in the 100-meter hurdles. She finished third with a time of 15.7 seconds.

11 errors by Red lead to loss, 11 to 1

Plymouth's second trip to the regional baseball championships ended in disaster at Urbana Friday in an 11 to 1 defeat by Botkins, Shelby county. The Big Red defense collapsed. It was charged with 11 errors of commission and one of omission, plus two passed balls and two wild pitches. Only twice did Plymouth mount any threat at all to the slants of Mike Van Horn, who struck out 12 Plymouth batters.

Back-to-back doubles by George Brown and Marty McKenzie produced a run in the fourth. The Big Red loaded the bases with two down in the seventh but Brown fanned for the third out. Botkins scored in every inning.

Mike Counts led off the fifth with a homer over the left field fence. Morris led off the sixth by reaching on Schuller's error. Two walks and another miscue at third base and Morris was home. The winners batted around in the sixth, which saw Jerry Furr, who relieved Miller in the fifth, carried from the field with a painful injury of the leg, received when a line shot caromed off it. Chris Lortidge led off with a double and went to third on a passed ball. Munger was safe on a fielder's choice, scoring Lortidge. After Morris flied out, Stutzman drew a pass. So did Poppe. Leugers popped out to Brown. But Counts and Van Horn hit safely and two more runs were in.

All told, Botkins managed nine hits. Plymouth was limited to five. McKenzie had two doubles. Botkins drew seven passes from two Plymouth pitchers, who fanned three of the winners.

Urbana fine facility

By THE OLD TIMER About three dozen Big Red fans traveled roughly 90 miles to Urbana Friday in perfect baseball weather to see what turned out to be a much less than perfect game. It was Plymouth's second appearance in Class A regional play. The time before, Plymouth was defeated, 2 to 1, in the first round. That was at Leipsic in 1967.

This time, the Big Red took a sound 11 to 1 lacing at the hands of Botkins, which didn't hit the ball all that hard, it didn't need to. Plymouth handed the winners nine runs, certainly, and perhaps 10. The facilities at Urbana college, a small institution with 300 students in residence, another 300 in extension instruction and perhaps 150 more in two penal institutions, Marysville Reformatory for Women and Lebanon Reformatory for Men, are outstanding. The field was in great shape, handsomely fenced, with a poke of 315 feet to right or left required to clear the barrier. Botkins supporters said their team bus was on the road about an hour. Botkins is in Shelby county. Plymouth's bus was certainly two hours en route, hardly conducive to the best play upon disembarking. And since the Big Red was in the second game, it had to await the finish of the contest involving Fenwick of Middletown and South of West Alexandria.

Which is to make no excuses. Tom Miller summed it up. Told by a sympathetic fan, "Cheer up, son, there'll be other games". He ruefully said, "Not for me there won't!"

Nevertheless it was a good season and to the coach, Dave Dunn, everybody owes plaudits for keeping the squad together.

There haven't been many products of the Mid-gee leagues that've made it to the varsity... that team 11 seasons ago had some outstanding ones in Dave McKown, Bill Godd and Jack Hoffman -- but this one was an exception, seven of the starting nine in Friday's game came up via the sandlots of Shelby and its Little League program. One of them played Midget League here, the ninth was a latecomer who never played much ball before this season. But he showed that he can knock its cover off when he's of that mind.
