

Wanted: One darn good idea!

"What do you find to write about in Plymouth, nothing ever changes here, it's always the same. Nobody ever has any new ideas."

A high school pupil made that remark to us on Monday. It was a day when pupils everywhere were at odds and ends because schools were closed.

He's between a fourth and a third of our age and perhaps his comments ought to be rejected out of hand because he doesn't have much experience. But we long ago learned, in raising two youngsters, that a man is a fool if he does not listen to always, and heed sometimes, what comes from the mouths of babes.

And so we looked it up, as Casey Stengel always advised.

Ten years ago, Judy Fenner, now a matron of the community, was the winner of a $50 prize given by BPOEIKs in a citizenship contest. Norman Howard, now living in Texas, was named to the dean's list by Kent State university. A teacher in Crestline was sent home because he was wearing a beard, and the editor didn't like that! And Plymouth's basketball team was even then having a hard row to hoe in the JAC.

Fifteen years ago, Plymouth was covered with 13 inches of snow. Three Shiloh boys, Robert Guthrie and William and James Conley, were injured when their car left Route 61 about 100 yards south of Route 224 and struck a tree. The Big Red cage team was beaten by Buckeye Central and Crestview. Players included Phil Fletcher, Eric Akers, the Cashman twins, Bob Young and Chuck Kaylor. John F. Root was elevated to the post of chairman of the board of directors of the Fate-Root-Heath Co. His son, H. James, succeeded him as president. His brother, Percy H., was reelected vice-president. Miles W. Christian was named executive vice-president and general manager. And Thomas F. Root was chosen secretary.

Twenty years ago, the Enderby site was chosen for the new post office. The $500 report submitted by Professor Gee of Bowling Green State university recommended converting the present high school to a junior high and building a new high school on 15-20 acres east of Plymouth "and close to Shiloh, the geographical center of the district". Board members thought the report a waste of time and said so. Local fans were so incensed by the performance of a referee in the Plymouth-Union game, which Union won, that Police had to escort him out of town.

Nothing ever happens in Plymouth? Indeed so, our young friend. Events take place every day that affect each of us. Some of these events affect us more than others, but hardly any, and certainly none reported in these pages, do not affect more than one of us.

There was for many years affixed to the wall of our only local attorney a placard that captivated us. "Small minds talk about people, middling minds talk about events, but great minds talk about ideas."

Perhaps this is what our young friend was referring to. That we tend to talk about people, most of all, and events to some extent. But almost never about ideas. And those who want to talk about ideas are almost always shouted down, labelled as crackpots or worse.

There is this to be said about discussion of ideas. Ideas never cost anybody a darned dime. Implementation of those ideas did, most assuredly. People have a way of wanting to look into all facets of an idea before they spend any money on it. Which is, it should be, what Plymouth could stand right now is one heck of a good idea.

Shiloh hires new solicitor

Neil McKown will be hired as the new solicitor at Shiloh, village council there decided Jan. 10.

He will be paid $500 a year. The contract with the young attorney, admitted to the bar only last autumn after graduating from Claude Pettit College of Law, Ohio Northern university, Ada, will be affirmed Jan. 24. McKown is employed by the law firm of his father, Robert A. McKown, and Jon Schaefer, Shelby.

Howard Cuppy was reappointed first furnace room Sloan as lieutenant. Robert Evans was reappointed superintendent of utilities. Frank Cline was reelected as president pro tempore of the council.

44 parcels sold in 1978

Forty-four properties in the Huron county side of the village changed hands during 1978, Recorder John Elminger reports.

Tucker home hit by fire

Plymouth firemen answered a call Thursday at 4 a. m. to the last house in the fire district.

The home of Cyrus Tucker, London West road, was partially damaged by a blaze that started in a stove.

Boy, 18, held in burglary

Johnny Ray Hall, 18, 420 West Broadway, pleaded not guilty to a charge of burglary when arraigned in Huron county common pleas court Jan. 12. Bond was set at $2,000 cash and he was released when he paid 10 per cent of that amount.

He was arrested Jan. 10 by Plymouth police and immediately indicted by a grand jury. He is accused of taking ham radio equipment from a home in West Broadway.

Fire levels repair shop

Fire believed to have started in or near a furnace levelled a garage and repair building operated by Ray Carey in Henry road south of here Tuesday afternoon.

It was hampered by failure of the large water tanker, whose storage battery gave up the ghost in the middle of the square. Water was supplied by the Shiloh-Cass-Bloomington department in a futile effort to contain the blaze, which had all but consumed the building by the time firemen arrived.

Four hurt in collision in Rt. 13

Four Plymouthites were seriously injured Jan. 9 at 5:30 p. m. when their car was struck by that of a 1964 Oldsmobile Greenview driver on Route 13, a mile north of Shenadoah.

Thomas A. McGee, 21, driver of the Plymouth car, and his three passengers were taken to Mansfield General hospital.

McGee was admitted to intensive surgical care with a cerebral concussion and a fractured leg.

His passengers were Frank D. Combs, 18, fractured ribs and facial injuries; Bobby L. McGee, 23, and Victoria McGee, three, both with multiple cuts and bruises.

Their car was struck by that of Robert E. Mitchell, who turned into the path of the McGee vehicle, headed south. Mitchell was treated and released at the hospital. State highway patrol summoned him on a charge of failure to yield the right-of-way.

Water quality improving, administrator tells council

An improvement in water supply should be noticeable by Monday.

Administrator James C. Root said Tuesday before village council the zeolite beds were cleaned this week (this resulted in several complaints of muddy water) and the new zeolite is being put in this week.

Members of the Bowling Green EPA staff made their annual inspection of the water plant Jan. 10. Root said they gave it a "clean bill of health" since they realized what improvements were in the process of being made.

With the use of the new well, they found the supply of water to be adequate.

Root said, though, that in the future, perhaps by 1980, the village will be required to hire a qualified licensed water operator and that most likely a "sludge" lagoon at the water plant site would have to be installed. Presently waste waters from the plant are being allowed to simply run out in the fields.

Councilman Michael Taylor said the village owes Root a great deal for the efforts he has made to put the water system back on its feet.

A new arrangement will be attempted to equalize the loads on the three transformers that furnish electric power to the village. This should result in a lower charge by the Ohio Power Co. for the use of the transformers, which is costing the village about $1,000 monthly. The charge, Root explained to the council, is based on the highest usage of any one transformer.

After looking at income and outgo in the electric fund, Councilman G. Thomas Moore said he thinks the increase is not really helping the fund. Moore and Clerk Raymond L. Brooks planned to go through all the figures. Brooks said he has been paying off back bills which had accumulated and that they are fairly well caught up.

Solicitor Robert McKown was offered and accepted a new one-year contract. Councilmen Ervin and David Howard contended that the solicitor's contract, according to ordinance, should be renewed only in even years.

McKown was first appointed on Jan. 1, 1972, but as Moore said he thinks his contract was inadvertently renewed during a year when it should not have been.

His fees will be the same as in his previous contract. These are $1,800 annually plus $300 for supplies.

The council accepted the resignation of Councilman

James L. Jacobs, Sr., with regret. No new name was suggested. The council has 30 days, or until Feb. 15, to select a new member.

Mayor Elizabeth G. Paddock was called on the carpet by the council, which said she was withholding a report from a candidate for a master's degree whom she had invited to the village last summer for a three week internship to fulfill his academic requirements.

The mayor contended that the council was not involved with the Army colonel and that she alone was responsible. McKown, when asked his opinion, said that anything the mayor does as the mayor is public, so she agreed to send in her report of his observations of the village operation.

Taylor and Ervin Howard have met with part of the village employees regarding a pay raise, and once they meet with the police and firemen will submit their findings to the council for consideration.

Householders and businesses are reminded that Section 145 of the last revised set of ordinances requires that sidewalks be cleared of snow and ice after 9 a. m.

Woman named treasurer

Mrs. Ardeth Chupp, 47, North Fairfield route 1, is the new treasurer of Huron county.

She was chosen by the county GOP central committee Jan. 9 to succeed John Arthur, who retired Dec. 31. Mrs. Chupp sought the nomination for the job in 1972 but was defeated by Arthur. She then worked eight months for the county board of elections.

Mrs. Chupp went back to school at 39 and earned a business degree from Oberlin School of Commerce. Lately she has been studying in Torry Technical institute, Fremont.

Her husband Jack, has retired. The Chupps have a son, John, who works for Greenlawn Mill Elevator Co. at Boughtonville.

Other candidates for the post were Dorothy Meyers, who was named to succeed Arthur for 30 days and who may continue as chief deputy clerk, and Paul Hoxsorn and William Johnson. Johnson was defeated by Arthur in the primary in 1978.

Jim Wallace is a 12th grader and he'd like to go out a winner, which he was on the gridiron as captain of the Big Red in 1978 and as outfielder and third baseman on the baseball team in 1978. He and teammates face uphill battle at Lexington tomorrow and at Western Reserve Saturday night.

Mrs. Cramer, 87, dies at home

Mrs. Clarence O. Cramer, 87, 57 Sandusky street, died there Saturday of an illness of three months.

Mrs. Cramer received a hip injury and complications that set in led to her death.

Born Rachel Danner in Plymouth, she lived here all her life. She and her sister, Florence, rode the trolley car to Kent to complete letter training and she taught a year in a one room school near Shiloh, two years in Richmond township and three years in North school, in the building at Route 98 and Henry roads.

She was an alumna of Plymouth High school in 1909. She was a member of the first class in the state normal school at Kent. She married Clarence O. Cramer, who came here from Findlay, in the First Methodist church there on Dec. 24, 1914.

Police heard 552 complaints

Annual report of Plymouth police department prepared by Police Chief W. Robert Seel shows the department received 552 complaints, assisted other departments 163 times, received two reports of stolen vehicles and four of missing persons.

Non-traffic arrests totalled 27. There were 127 traffic arrests.

Seventy-five collisions were investigated and assistance was given to 33 funerals.

Investigation of nine breakings and entries was made. A total of 128 items was stolen and 28 recovered.

The department also investigated and solved six obscene telephone calls reported to it.

During 1978 the cruisers chugged up 44,628 miles, using 6,750 gallons of gas and 260 quarts of oil.

Ten tires, three headlights, one transmission, one clutch for an air compressor and one wheel bearing were replaced.

The village has been using state patrol vehicles, which have been purchased for about a fourth of what a new cruiser would cost.

Last-second bucket wins for Ontario

After 32 minutes of basketball on the Sandusky street floor Friday night, the difference between Ontario and Plymouth was exactly one field goal, scored with seven seconds left by Marty Jarrell of the Warriors.

Thus Plymouth went down to its eighth straight defeat and to the cellar of the Johnny Appleseed conference.

The Big Red trailed throughout until a spurt late in the game brought it even.

The tying basket came with 2:20 left in the fourth period, when Jerry Wheeler threw one in from the corner.

Eleven seconds later, Wheeler fouled Tom Grov and he went to the line for two shots, both of which he canned.

Why not a national flower (guess which)?

By AUNT LIZ
There is a large controversy going on in our country, but because it is a really decent one, there isn't too much being written about it.

This is a real shame. Actually our national pride is at stake.

We do not have a national flower. State flowers, yes, but not one for the whole country.

We are the only major power of the world without one. More than 30 countries have found one.

Over the years several have been suggested but got nowhere. In 1949, two girls in congress, Senator Margaret Smith and Ohio's Frances Ballou, introduced resolutions in both the senate and house to declare the rose (just any kind, just so it was a rose). None of the guys paid any attention to them.

Then someone came up with the corn tassel. It got nowhere. Finally, that lovable Senator Dirksen from Illinois came up with the marigold, and I am glad it got no place because it smells miserably and frankly, does not have the dignity that even a stupid petunia has.

Roses have charm, grace, beautiful names and simply smell deliciously. Something really should be done about it all, and it would be a great project for any little garden club or even a high school government class.

Some of the countries that have chosen national flowers are really interesting. The ones I know about are:

Japan, chrysanthemus; Mexico, dahlias; India, lotus; Israel, almond blossoms; Germany, cornflowers; Brazil, the cattleya orchid; Switzerland, the edelweiss; and Scotland, the thistle. Plants are not left out either. Ireland chose the shamrock, New Zealand the fern (which variety, I do not know), and Canada has come forth with a maple leaf.

We do have a lot of things to choose from: apple blossoms, pine trees, lilac bushes, anything that can grow could be a choice, but somehow, the rose really wins over all of them in my book.

Did you realize that the traditional flowers were not new mothers by that fathers are roses? That should tell you something.

And what is the predominant flower in every bridal bouquet?

Roses are not only pretty to look at, you can make jelly from the petals, and the petals are the very basis of pot pourri, which when mixed with a few other things becomes something commercial called sachet.

Every housewife knows what a lovely little gift it can be to use up dresser drawers. They are great for sheets and towels, too, and a cheap way to luxurious living.

With the price of hamburger zooming each day, sachet may be the only taste of luxury left.

One of our weekly meals for years has been pasta. We love it, and I especially like my own meat sauce. Now we have the problem of the tomato people not producing, along with the rise of meat prices. It was a cheap meal for years even though to brew it up took a whole afternoon, but once made, put into little containers, it could last for maybe three months. Now where do we turn?

And we are only two to feed. It really makes me feel badly that I cannot come up with any good ideas for those mothers who have growing families. Having been a mother, I always divided what we ate into how much per serving, and back in the good old days came up with the idea that beef filets were the cheapest thing we could eat. And they were. No waste, and shot cooking time, so that was our stock menu about four out of seven days. Today this does not work.

Now that we are friends with the Chinese and they are popular again, best we adopt some of their cooking methods.

They are great on leftovers and bits of this and that. A pound of good meat can serve endless numbers when it is added to vegetables.

Dig out some of those recipes you cut out of this paper and that, and you will have a good meal, but there does come a time when you need something extra.

There is nothing like a real homemade lemon cake. You simply cannot buy one like it. Make it a Sunday treat.

Beat a half cup of butter into a cup of sugar, and cream well. Then beat in three egg yolks, add one teaspoon of grated lemon rind. Have ready two cups of cake flour mixed with three teaspoons of baking powder and a fourth of a teaspoon of salt. Add it to the creamed mixture in stages with three-fourths cup of milk.

Bake it in two greased layer pans at 375 for about a half hour.

Frost the layer in between and top with this (and there should be enough to do the sides, too).

Use the three egg whites left over with a cup and half of sugar, five tablespoons of cold water, a fourth of a teaspoon of cream of tartar and a teaspoon and a half of light corn syrup. Put in a double boiler and when the water starts to boil in the lower half, beat with a whisk for maybe six or seven minutes. You can tell when it gets stiff.

Remove, add a teaspoon of vanilla and beat until you think it will spread properly.

'Hot lunches not welfare, over 60s welcome'

The hot luncheons served at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church Mondays through Fridays at noon to persons 60 and over are made possible by Title 7, the government nutritional program.

"This is not a welfare program," says Mrs. W. H. Walker, Route 598, coordinator, or who will take reservations at 687-1474.

"Participants are encouraged to leave a voluntary donation or food stamps if they are able to do so. Anyone financially unable to contribute may dine at no cost. Carry-out meals are provided for shut-ins or those who can't get out. An interview with the coordinator is required before carry-out meals are authorized."

A bus runs from Willard Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays and collects diners in Plymouth on Tuesdays.

Here're menus for this week:

Today: Salisbury steak, parsleyed potatoes, pickled beets, buttered pudding, bread and margarine, milk.

Tomorrow: Macaroni and cheese with tuna fish, tossed salad, orange, bread and margarine, milk.

Monday: Breaded veal sandwich, creamed vegetable, applesauce, pineapple upside down cake, milk.
