

State minimum $9,500 salary adopted by school board

State minimum salary schedule for certified personnel was adopted by Plymouth Board of Education in special session Thursday.

Henceforth, minimum starting salary for successful candidates for a degree in education will be $9,500.

Negotiations with Plymouth Education association are continuing and the basic salary levels for experienced teachers will be fleshed out in closed-door conference.

Miss Debra Dohney, Grafton, a candidate for a degree at Bowling Green State university, was engaged as high school art teacher, replacing Miss Estella M. Easterday, now on sick leave pending her resignation at the end of December.

High school pupils whose last period of the day is a study hall may not leave the building at the beginning of that period, the board ruled. All pupils must attend a full day of school, save those enrolled in OWE and Work Study programs.

One 12th grader, Jeffrey Ream, was accorded permission to attend class for half a day on the understanding that he shall attend class in Mansfield campus, Ohio State university, for the other half.

The board accepted a federal participation program for handicapped pupils in the amount of $18,322.

A tour of all buildings in the district preceded the session.

An executive session to discuss teacher contract negotiations concluded the session.

The Voice of The Advertiser - Dare we hope?

Children went back to school yesterday. For the first time in our memory, there was no schoolboy patrol to assist the younger ones across the streets.

Appeals for adult volunteers have fallen on the deaf, the lazy or the can't be bothered. The police department isn't sufficiently staffed to furnish this protection. And all of the fifth graders have been bused out of town, which robs us of their useful talents. Their preceptors think fourth graders are too immature.

Time was when a vigorous parent group would have seized this issue by the horns and resolved it, some way, some how. Dare we hope that its present successor will try to do the same?

A .92 mill levy, comprised of four one mill of new taxation and 42/100 of a mill of renewed taxation, will appear on the Nov. 6 ballot, Pioneer Joint Vocational school's board of education ruled Aug. 20.

This is the same tax that was soundly defeated in June.

Did village err in contracting with county?

Village council has been asked to rescind Ord. 9-79 enacted July 24.

Knepper, White, Arter & Hadden, Columbus law firm which represents the Ohio Contractors association, contends the council acted illegally when it gave its approval to the Huron county engineer to tar and chip several streets within the village.

The firm said it was in violation of the Ohio Revised Code which allows amounts up to $2,500 to be spent without bidding.

The Huron county engineer agreed to do the work for $3,319, which is to be paid from the Huron county from the Huron county license fee permissive tax.

The work was advertised and two bids received. One from the Mansfield Asphalt Co., Mansfield, was for $7,697 and the other from Acme Paving and Sealing Co., Greenwich, was for $17,090.

When the bids were received, councilmen through they were excessive and instructed Village Administrator James C. Root to investigate the possibility of the county doing the work, since it was to be paid for from county funds.

No action was taken by the council at last week's meeting pending further investigation of the charges by Village Solicitor Robert A. McKown.

A copy of the letter was also sent to Urban Lavenog, Sr., Huron county engineer, who turned it over to Richard Hauser, Huron county prosecutor, for his opinion.

Mrs. Hatch, 86, dies at Willard

Mrs. Roy Hatch, 86, for half a century a women's ready to wear retailer here died Friday morning in Hillside Acres Nursing home, Willard, of a lengthy illness.

Born Estella M. Turk in Scioto county, she came to Plymouth as a young girl. At one time she was a telephone operator here. She was married to the late Roy Hatch.

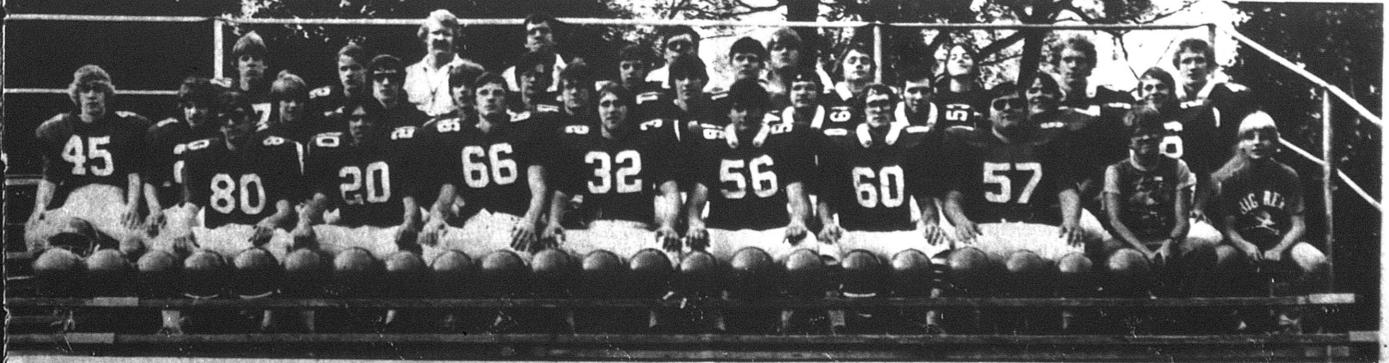

She opened Hatch's Dress shop here in 1929. She operated a dress shop in Willard for 10 years.

Mrs. Hatch was a member of First United Presbyterian church and of the DUV. She formerly served as member of the Huron county Democratic central committee. She was an organizer of the Golden Years club.

She is survived by a daughter, Doris, now Mrs. Thomas DeWitt, a brother, Robert Turk, Killbuck, and a grand son.

Her minister, the Rev. Julian Taggart, conducted services Monday at 1 p. m. from McKean-Secor Funeral home. Burial was in Greenlawn cemetery.

Red opens with Bucks

A green, somewhat small Plymouth Big Red team opens its 1979 season here tomorrow against an opponent it's never played on the football field before.

Buckeye Central is touted as the class of the North Central conference, with at least two players of all-state character, and ought to be the favorite in this contest.

"We've got an excellent game plan for them," says newcomer Coach Dave Coulter, "and if we can avoid mental mistakes and injuries, they'll know they've been in a ball game."

Coulter has just six lettermen among a squad of 27 players. Twenty 12th graders were graduated from the 1978 squad. So the new mentor has had to do some experimenting, notably with players who've never before played interscholastic football (and in at least one of them, Jerry Miller, a guard, he's come up with a gem) or who're new to their positions (such as Co-Capt. Doug Miller, weighing less than 150 pounds but performing splendidly at guard).

These and the remainder of the Red team will be tackling a tough assignment in containing 205-pound Duane Stacklin, a linebacker who goes two ways; Scott White, last of a line of Whites, the quarterback (he's 5-10, scales 165); Steve Heydinger, the fullback, who weighs 188, and Ed Lucius, a 190-pound tackle.

Coulter plans to start Reggie Ganzhorn at left end. Two lettermen will get the call at left tackle. These are Gary King and Gary Ryman. King has been plagued by a shoulder separation, the last of which occurred during the Hillsdale scrimmage Saturday.

Doug Miller will play left guard, Jerry Miller right guard, Rick Echelbarger, a hefty kid, will snap the ball. Jeff Burren, originally a center, has more than earned his spurs at right tackle. The slot end, the player to carry in the plays, will be shared by Tim Keene and Mike Branham.

Steve Tackett will be the starting quarterback. His throwing hand was damaged.

by a dog bite but he'll be well enough to start tomorrow. A letter winner, this 11th grader is tall enough at 6-1 and heavy enough at 165 to see over the defense and run through it if need be.

Co-Capt. Gary Blankenship will be the starting fullback. Another letterman Bill Hudson, will be the slot or wing back.

James Jamerson and Scott Harris will divide duties at running back. Harris will probably be the starter.

Busy summer for Bob Davis, college letterman in tennis

It's been a busy summer for Plymouth's only tennis player to win a college letter in that sport.

Robert M. Davis has been working as tennis instructor at a country club in Ashland.

When he has free time, he engages in tourneys.

He played in the City tournament at Mansfield in men's singles and doubles.

He won neither of them, but those who ousted him went on to the finals.

Consider:

- July 19, vs. Tom Young, 7-5, 6-1;
- July 22, vs. Bob Gordon, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3;
- July 26, vs. Clem Karcic, 6-0, 6-1;
- July 29, vs. Bob Vetter, 2-6, 0-6.

And in doubles, playing with Bob Hanna:

- July 27, vs. Swigart and Harting, 6-3, 6-2;
- July 30, vs. McCall and Alt, 7-7, 6-1, 6-4;
- July 31, vs. Dowlett and Hurley, 6-3, 2-0 (match defaulted because of injury);
- Aug. 2, vs. Vetter and Schaub, 0-6, 1-6.

He entered the Ashland tourney and was seeded. An unseeded player, Bill Radler upset Davis in the semi-finals, 5-7, 6-2, 6-2. But Davis had the satisfaction of seeing Radler defeat the No. 1 seed and win the tourney.

Younger son of the James C. Davises, young Davis will be a junior in the University of Akron next month.

To be famous, invent recipe!

By AUNT LIZ
You've got to give credit where it is due.

Right now I think it goes to those home economics majors who did not go into teaching but found jobs with some of the big food producing companies.

To perk up the sales of their products, they have gone into the recipe producing business and have come up with some really good ones.

Throwing a bunch of things into a pot or a baking dish can take some imagination and ingenuity to get it to be tasty.

But the real test comes once the recipe works out: what to name it.

This is where someone really shines. Everyone knows that Caesar salad was first dreamed up by Caesar Ritz, who was the owner of the famous Ritz hotel in Paris, and that Peach Melba was dreamed up by someone for the famous opera singer, Nellie Melba. You can go on and on.

We even have a recipe in our house called Beer Balls Paddock. They are delicious, but learning the hard way, they are strictly a family deal.

One we asked some friends for dinner and thought, boy, what a great treat. They took one look at our meatballs on rice and almost sneezed. I guess they expected prime ribs, which I consider kind of mundane.

All you really have to do to make a recipe sound plain exotic is to give it a foreign sounding name.

Right now anything in the eastern Pacific ocean is popular, especially some of those islands.

This is a truly American recipe made with everything any market has, but it is called Polynesian Chicken. Exotic, yes?

For four, start with four half chicken breasts, brown them, pour off the fat. In a bowl put a 15 oz. can of tomato sauce, a cup of peach preserves, two tablespoons or so of chopped onion, one and a half tablespoon of soy sauce and a fourth of a teaspoon of ginger. Chop it up, pour over the chicken, cover it and simmer for about one and a half hours. Midway, turn the breasts over.

When it is finished, throw on about a half cup of toasted, thinly sliced almonds.

There should be enough sauce to serve it with a portion of rice.

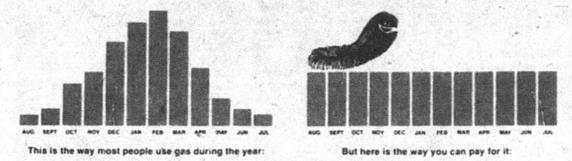

There is no reason why any of us cannot go down in history, just create a dish, and put your name on it and stay away from geography. Cooking is pure fun, but you do have to be in the mood for it. There are many nights we end up with soup and we did the other night. We had a little left over spaghetti sauce simply loaded with mushrooms, and not enough for barely one serving. I simply mixed it up with a can of tomato soup, and it was great.

Those who are harvesting peas and if you are not, you can simply buy a can of them, can heat a tablespoon of butter with two of maple syrup then gently fold in the peas and cook. This can also make a beautiful casserole to heat in the oven.

Potatoes are our old stand by. Everyone can do scalloped ones. When we lived in Africa and mixed with all sorts of foreigners, the one thing they would dive into when we had them for dinner was that. They did not have the recipe since it was so thoroughly American.

Back then, they had to be made from scratch, but now living in this great land, they are even tastier. All you have to do is open a package, follow the directions and add a can of either cream of celery soup, mushroom or chicken. Mix it up, put in a casserole and bake until done. Throw in some curly powder for flavoring.

Level Off Your Gas Bills For Easier Payments!

This is the way most people use gas during the year. But here is the way you can pay for it. It's Easy to Budget Your Gas Bill... if you know what it will be each month. Take advantage of our Budget Payment Plan... it costs you nothing and you pay only for the gas you use each year. August is Start Up Month. You enroll simply by paying the budget amount shown on the bill. We review your account at the end of the heating season and bring you into line by adjusting the monthly payment, if necessary. The bill rendered for the twelfth month balances out your actual usage with the gas you have paid for, so it might be higher or lower than the normal budget amount.

How to stop wondering about your next electric bill.

If you'd like to smooth out the ups and downs of your electric bill, we have a way.

It's called the Equal Payment Plan.

And it's simple. We average out your electric usage and bill you a fixed amount each month based on that average. You'll continue to receive a bill each month showing your actual usage, but you'll pay the fixed amount.

The twelfth month is "settle-up" or final payment month.

We'll automatically review your account every six months, so that you'll know whether your electricity costs are going up, or down, or staying about the same.

If an electric bill you can budget for sounds like a good idea (and it does appear to a lot of our customers), simply contact us. We'll take it from there.

Underdog Big Red to open the position in the next series and the two will spell off Blankenship when he needs a rest.

Plymouth has had three scrimmages. In the middle one, with Lorain Central Catholic, the Big Red held its own against a seasoned ball club that brought only upper classmen here.

It's too soon to say how well Plymouth is likely to do. And it'd be too much to forecast a sensational season. The numbers and experience simply aren't there. But this will be a respectable team that will be beaten by superior numbers and experience, not by itself.
