Planners want end to trailers

No more house trailers in the village is the aim of the village planning commission, its chairman, Mrs. Charles E. Pritchard, said Dec. 1.

Intent of the commission is to exclude any additional house trailers from the village and to prohibit the replacement of existing house trailers.

Miss Luella Vandover, a commission member, said she would wish that owners of existing house trailers be notified of the commission's intent, since they may be contemplating purchase of replacement trailers.

Cars collide block apart

A collision occurred Saturday at 6:25 a. m. at 88 Plymouth street.

The northbound car driven by Steven Cole, 18, Willard, went left of center and into the parked car of Lantie R. Walters, pushing it into a large tree.

Both cars were extensively damaged.

Cole was charged with driving left of center.

Findings absent in report

No apparent findings for recovery of funds were found by the examiners of the state auditor's office, whose report was received by the clerk-treasurer and the mayor this week.

The audit covered the period from July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1981.

Because the village was under a financial emergency and the state appointed firm of Ernst & Whinney, Cleveland accountants, had untangled the village funds to the examiners' satisfaction, the period covered by the state examiners was only from Jan. 1, 1980, through June, 1981.

The state examiner reported he accepted the accountants' figures for the year-end fund balances of 1979.

However, he found the federal revenue sharing fund records were inadequately maintained, so he was unable to say the village had complied with the applicable statutes and regulations governing the fund.

Auditor says he's not ready to end oversight

Withdrawal of the declaration of fiscal emergency condition for the Village of Plymouth can't be predicted yet, the state auditor's office said Monday.

Plymouth was declared to be in a fiscal emergency condition on May 20, 1980, after it was determined the village ended 1979 with deficits in nine funds and had failed to meet payment obligations on two notes, totaling more than $66,000.

An audit released Tuesday for the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1981, showed, among other things, that the village ended fiscal calendar year 1980 with deficit cash balances in only three funds. Examiners also said the two notes were fully retired as of Sept. 29, 1981.

Examiners said Plymouth ended 1980 with deficit cash balances in the following funds: Sewer Debt Service, $30,015.78; Fire, $740.87, and Cemetery, $673.09.

After the declaration of the fiscal emergency on May 30, 1980, a financial planning and supervision committee, controlled locally, was appointed to oversee village fiscal affairs. The Ernst & Whinney accounting firm

Car fire, engine called

Plymouth Fire department was called to Walnut street Saturday morning for a car fire.

The motor of a car belonging to Thomas Needs became overheated.

Car fire, engine called

The report states the village has not made any attempt to use the encumbrance system (which is to account in fund balances for expenditures contracted for but not yet billed or paid) during 1980, but that now the system has been adopted.

One procedural fault was found in that as of Dec. 31, 1980, obligations for the sewer debt service and cemetery were being paid from other funds, which is contrary to the Ohio Revised Code.

The report also stated that the village should have control sheets for each service (water, sewer and electricity) in order to verify accounts receivable, billings, penalties, adjustments, cash collections and rebates; that control should be under the supervision of a person not directly connected with the utility billings; and a trial balance should be taken on monthly billings to ascertain if they balance with the control cards.

The report was reviewed Aug. 27 by Mrs. Sidney Ream, clerk-treasurer, James C. Root, village administrator, and Councilman Ervin Howard, all of whom found it satisfactory, according to the official report, because they did not reply to it within the set time limit.

Council declines to surrender ownership of water line

Complete ownership of the water line between Willard and the village was declined Tuesday night at the suggestion of Mayor Dean A. Cline.

He read a letter from Paul Capelle, Willard's city manager, asking the village do this so that Willard could begin to serve other customers along the water line.

Complete ownership, according to the contract with Willard, stipulates that once the line is in working order and water is forthcoming to Willard, the line from Willard to Skinner road will be under Willard's ownership.

The mayor pointed out that to state Plymouth is not receiving the contract.

James C. Root, village administrator, said he has not been asked to meet with Willard personnel concerning the lift station now have the necessary gauges been installed.

Root later said the village is in desperate need of the water because a pump went out on one well Tuesday, making the well inoperable.

Cline told the council he believes there will be some legal work involved to transfer the ownership and merely signing a letter of release is not enough.

Resolutions were approved to furnish ambulance service to both townships.

The agreements will coincide with the fire contracts. New Haven will be for two years and Plymouth for three years.

(Councilman James Holloway said contracts have been worked out with both townships.)

New Haven will pay a fee of $2,200 the first year and $2,000 the second year.

Plymouth will pay $2,500 for the first year, $2,750 the second and $3,025 the third.

Individuals using the service will pay $100 a run within the area.

Approval was given to the codification of the village ordinances. However, the updating of them has not been determined. The village was offered a five year contract with the Justinian Publishing Co. to keep them updated for $500.

Some councilmen thought this had been included in the contract signed to do the codifying, but it had not.

No decision was made pending inquiries which Councilman Ervin Howard will make before next week, to determine if that rate is still applicable. In the long run, the council agreed it would be cheaper than paying on an annual basis.

Howard submitted his resignation as of Jan. 1, 1982, saying he had tried to withdraw his name from the November ballot but could not, and he wished to resign for personal reasons.

The meeting was recessed until Tuesday at 7 p. m., when the council will discuss 1982 appropriations and very possibly pay raises.

For the first time in history, one councilman appeared in formal evening attire.

Councilman G. Thomas Moore fashionably wore a tuxedo with a ruffled front light blue shirt.

He excused himself before the end of the meeting to attend another, for which he was appropriately dressed.

Wrote alma mater, Dr. T. S. Davis dead at 82

The man who wrote Plymouth High school's alma mater died Friday in Cleveland.

He is Thoburn S. Davis, 82, who was superintendent, teacher and coach here from 1921 to 1926.

A graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university, he came here on his first job. He left to teach history in Cleveland Hts., where he became assistant principal three years later. In 1934 he was promoted to assistant superintendent.

He was appointed superintendent at Rocky River in 1940.

After retiring from public school administration, he worked another four years for Baldwin-Wallace college at Berea. Thereafter, as a volunteer working in John Raper school in Hough, he visited truant children to seek to work out their problems.

His alma mater conferred an honorary doctorate upon him in 1956. He had earlier earned a master's degree from Columbia university, New York, N. Y.

Rt. 603 crash injures five; one in hospital

A collision in Route 603 about 2.5 miles east of Shiloh injured five persons Saturday at 8:45 p. m.

The collision involved three pedestrians.

A westbound vehicle driven by Randall E. McDaniel, 37, Shiloh route 2, swerved to avoid the pedestrians. An eastbound vehicle driven by Willard P. Corbin, 68, Shiloh route 1, swerved to avoid the McDaniel car. Corbin lost control and sidestepped a westbound vehicle driven by Kenneth P. Grager, 37, Shiloh route 2. The pedestrians, Henry D. Hammond, 31; Guy M. Hammond, 18, and Kevin L. Hammond, 16, all of Route 603, dove into a ditch.

Corbin and three passengers in his car, S. Eudora Falkenberg, 74, Toledo; Norman Falkenberg, 74, Toledo, and Kathleen Corbin, 64, Shelby route 1, were injured. So was Zeannie Crager, 36, Shiloh route 2, a passenger in the Crager car.

Mrs. Falkenberg was taken to Mansfield General hospital, where she was in fair condition Tuesday morning.

Wrestlers win two over Pirates, Hillsdale

Plymouth's wrestlers took on Cardington and Hillsdale at Hillsdale Saturday and came away with twin victories.

Plymouth swamped the Morrow county team, 66 to 12. Its margin over the Ashland county squad was just slightly less, 58 to 18.

Dual winners for Plymouth:

Dan Munes, 98 lb. class; Jesse Miller, 105-lb. class; Clarence Moorman, 112-lb. class;
Mike Stims, 119-lb. class; Joe Messer, 145-lb. class; Richard Cunningham, 175-lb. class; division.
Junior Adams, 185-lb. class;
Bill Sexton, heavyweight

Other Big Red winners: Larry Brooks, 125 pounds, vs. Cardington; Shawn DeWitt, 132 pounds, vs. Cardington; Steve Jamerson, 138 pounds, vs. Hillsdale; David Burkett, 155 pounds, vs. Hillsdale; James Will, 167 pounds, vs. Hillsdale.

Offense collapses Clyde's late surge wins, 70 to 56

Plymouth's offense collapsed in the fourth period here Friday night and Clyde walked away with an easy 70 to 56 triumph in what had been a close contest.

The Big Red actually led several times in the game, played before a paucity of spectators, and entered the final eight minutes only five points down.

But a dry spell of four minutes 32 seconds during which the Big Red failed to score a single point spelled doom for the home forces.

Even so, the Fliers were having their own problems during the second half. They went nearly four minutes without scoring a point during the third period, and the Fliers went to the attack early on and showed remarkable accuracy for only the second game of the season for the Sandusky county team. In the first period, the visitors got off 24 shots at the basket and converted 12 of them. In the second period, they went five of 18. In the third it was nine of 15 and in the final period nine of 20.

Plymouth was not getting so many shots but its accuracy was equally encouraging. The Big Red converted half of 14 shots in the first quarter, seven of 16 in the second, seven of 18 in the third, but only four of 13 in the fourth.

cope with the Fliers. Two other visitors were in double figures, Scott Keegan with 13 and Terry Miracle with a dozen.

Each of the Plymouth players who got onto the floor managed to score, save for Bob Jamerson.

Had Plymouth managed to make a game of it in the fourth period, the outcome could very well have been different. Five points at that juncture was not too great a margin to overcome. But the Big Red made more turnovers in the fourth period than during any other - seven - and had Clyde not matched this performance, it is likely the difference in score would have been greater.

Clyde's Joe Wilken stretches six feet five inches, but he did not kill Plymouth on the boards so much as was expected.

Flames singe Big Red, 53-35

In rebounding, the Fliers edged Plymouth, 40 to 34. Each team was charged with 21 turnovers.

Brad Postema scored 16 points for the home forces, his high for the season.

Greg Polachek contributed 10.

In the third period Rob Smith threw consternation into the Clyde bench with four successive buckets, the only four shots he took all night. After the fourth, the Clyde coach angrily called a time out and adjusted his defenses.

It was simply a matter of too much Marc Streeter, who wound up with 24 points, that Plymouth was unable to Mansfield Christian turned on Plymouth in the third period on the Flames' floor Dec. 1 and walked off with a convincing 53 to 35 victory in Black Fork Valley conference play.

Plymouth led after 16 minutes, 24 to 19, but could not keep up in the third quarter, when the Flames poured 21 points through the hoop. The Big Red could not buy a basket and concluded the period with just four points.

And it wasn't much better in the last eight minutes. Its defense could not contain the Flames, who scored 13, and its offense was impotent, producing just seven.

Mansfield Christian showed familiarity with its own floor and succeeded with 24 of 35 tries for field goal. It missed four of nine free throws. Plymouth was producing much less accurate, producing only 16 successes in 58 tries for field goal and five of 10 free throws.

Cougars edge girls, 52 to 51

Crestview spoiled Plymouth's debut in Black Fork Valley conference girls' basketball here Monday with a narrow 52 to 51 defeat of Plymouth.

The Big Red is defending champion.

Plymouth took a lead of six points at 41 to 35 into the second half. The Cougars got hot and outscored Plymouth by nine in the third period.

Plymouth's frantic efforts to catch up fell a point short.

As it turned out, Plymouth lost it at the foul line. Each team made 24 field goals. The Big Red missed three free throws, the Cougars five.

Suzi Harman scored 20 and Kim Kochheiser 12 for the Cougars.

Renae Taylor had 22 for Plymouth and Lisa Daron 12.

Psst. Save some energy tonight.

Like all Americans, you're for saving energy. Chances are, you may have already added insulation to your home. Caulked windows. Weather-stripped your doors.

Still more can be done. Little things that don't cost you a cent. Things that change old habits which waste energy.

Doving Energy Savers

Starting tonight, lower your thermostat as low as comfort permits. Each degree over 68° can add 3% to the energy used for heating.

If you're entertaining, lower the thermostat a degree or two before your guests arrive. People generate heat.

Close off unused rooms. Turn off lights as well when removing food from the refrigerator. plan your total needs and open the door no more than necessary. Repeated openings waste energy.

When the sun sets, close the draperies to hold in heat.

When the fireplace is not in use, close the damper tight. An open damper allows warm air to be pulled out of a room.

Set your water heater's temperature at a moderate 140°F or as low as possible to allow for enough hot water.

Use fluorescent lamps wherever possible. They produce four times the light per watt as do incandescent bulbs.

Turn off all unneeded inside and outside lights before going to bed.

One final tip.

For dozens of additional energy-saving ideas, visit or call our office and ask for our free "SAVE" booklets. They'll get you in the habit of saving energy morning, noon and night.

We give it our best. OHIO POWER COMPANY

Priest named as counselor to bishop

By AUNT LIZ
There is nothing nicer than having a cup of coffee with two old friends.
What is really nice is that they start to think back and bring up local gossip that is about 60 years old.
If anyone thinks the countryside has gone to rack and ruin today, it is amazing how it ever survived what went on way back when.
The stories were a ball, even though I really did not know the names involved. What went on then has gone on today. People simply do not change that much.
Since we have been around here, I think the best story is the night that a police officer and another village employee decided it was too cold to carry on in a car in a back road, and moved into the woman's job of the village hall. It was a good idea about midnight, but they did not realize that the village clerk would decide to come to do some work, which was done. The clerk realized two rabbit-like creatures were hemmed in. They were kept there for about three hours. They, apparently realized the clerk was there, and they dared not leave.
From what I know of that story, that was kind of the end of a great romance.
This sort of thing really happens, and it should be faced, where people simply work together eight hours a day for five days a week. They really become friends, and sometimes they think perhaps it is better than being friends.
Over the years we have heard all sorts of quaint stories. Like the time a local mayor had a good friend whom he took to the moving pictures in Cleveland and ended up sitting next to his hometown neighbors, who had decided they had to see the same movie.
I can go on and on, like a local bootlegger, who is the greatest-grandfather of a bunch of really nice people, buried a keg of hooch but was seen where he dug, and when he went back for it a couple months later, it was gone.

Stories better told than printed

Then there is the great story, which we never dared publish, of local people that really happened in another Huron county community which I will leave unnamed.
Back in the 30's the re-venuers caught up with a young man who had a really good still going. So one night they closed in. Someone shot out a couple of lights in the shed, then they kept on shooting here and there.
Fortunately, no one got hit except the barrels of hooch which flooded the place.
So some of you might wonder why your kids are doing just what is not right. Simply look back to what they heard their grandparents and great-grandparents did. They really lived it up.
We had a thing in our family that came out one Sunday at the dinner table when I was in college. My mother was simply terrified, but my grandparents, who were great, just laughed like mad. Grandpa caught Grandpa red-handed carrying on in New York with a chorus girl. He was really only there for a couple of days, and I kind of guess Grandma figured it was not a lasting thing, but she bailed out something really lasting, a diamond necklace which in later years we all got our share of. Grandma was a lot smarter in the long run. Poor Grandpa, and I adored him, had a night to howl, and that was it.
That Grandmother, when she went to her kitchen, could cook like mad. She always had someone to do it for her, but for special deals, she appeared.
Once our pet dog developed a skin disorder and the answer was to feed him beef hearts. She would cook them up like mad. The dog got the meat, and we got the pure broth, which was strong in flavor and great.
Try it, the ground up hearts can always perk up a meal, and you will have really sturdy soup with a few croutons floating on top that will be good.

Girls defeat South Central

Plymouth girls decimated South Central there Thursday, 51 to 38.

The Big Red led all the way.

It did so because Renee Taylor, its rangy center, scored 20 points. And two other players, Tembre Tackett and Lisa Daron, were in double figures.

Plymouth fired for field goal 71 times and was successful with 20. The Trojanettes, meanwhile, threw up 58 attempts and converted 16.

At the free throw line, Plymouth was a sound achiever, with 11 of 19 good ones. South Central missed 10 of 16.

Miss Taylor took down 11 rebounds, Becky Turson 23. All told, Plymouth had 28 offensive caroms and 20 on defense. The Trojanettes amassed a total of 31 rebounds.

Angry? Upset? Direct your boos to commissioner, not host school

There was some dissatisfaction with the refereeing during the South Central vs. Monroeville basketball game in Firelands conference play at Monroeville Dec. 4.

The South Central coach, Jacques Daup, a Plymouth alum who played baseball at Spring Arbor college in Michigan, said the officiating was uneven. "They should call 'em at one end the same way they do at the other."

Monroeville was the home team. At first glance, the criticism should fall upon the Monroeville athletic department, which pays the officials.

Not so. All officials of varsity football and boys' and girls' varsity basketball contests in the Firelands conference are chosen, engaged, supervised, disciplined and promoted by a 35-year-old Bowling Green State university graduate who's principal of Willard High school.

His name is Jerry Stackhouse, who came to Willard 11 years ago from Springfield. He's been an administrator nine years, five of them as principal at Willard.

What's more, he's a member of the Northwest district athletic board, which sets up two tournaments in the three classes of high school competition in the district.

Some officials are engaged two or three seasons in advance.

How are officials evaluated? "At the end of every season, each coach sits down and rates the officials he's seen during the season," says the affable Stackhouse. "Those that rank at the top get the tournament assignments. As a member of the board, I see those ratings and so I can tell which of our officials are doing a good job. Those that don't are quickly phased out. If half of the schools don't want a particular official, we don't assign him there or we don't retain him on our staff."

When a candidate for a license as a football or basketball official passes the test, he or she receives a T rating. This means "temporary official." The official must comport himself satisfactorily for two years before he passes into the "R" category.

"It's hard to find junior varsity officials, whether in football or basketball. In football, the hours are strange and often don't fit in with work schedules, since games are usually played in the afternoon or on Saturday mornings. In basketball, the young official naturally thinks that after he's served two years in the 'T' category, he's ready for varsity work."

"But it doesn't work that way, at least, not all the time."

"Young officials who want to get into the Firelands conference need to show that they can perform up to our standard. How? By volunteering to work scrimmages, grade school games, whatever, where I or one of the coaches can see him."

The official who works a reserve game must impress the commissioner or one of the coaches to be promoted to varsity games.

What's it worth? In the Firelands conference now, varsity referees draw $35 a game, reserve referees $17.50. (In the Northern Ohio league, it's $40 and $20, respectively.)

Advice to a young official?

How did he get this job? "Three years ago, an administrator at South Central and another at Mapleton suggested I might apply for it. I did and I got it. I've been happy in it so far and I hope the members of the conference are just as happy."

There are some little Stackhouses at home. One of them, an eight-year-old in the second grade, male, bright as a button, has the most engaging telephone personality in Huron county. And he can spell and record a telephone number given by a complete stranger like they're going out of style!

Another increase in interest rates for U.S. Savings Bonds.

Growing Bigger... Faster

That's the good news about U.S. Savings Bonds.
The Series EE Bonds you buy today grow bigger, with an increased interest rate of 9%. And they do it faster, with a shortened maturity period of only 8 years. Interim rates have been improved, too. Bonds earn 6% after 1 year and 8½% if held 5 years.
These changes make Bonds much more desirable. And with the Payroll Savings Plan, it's easier to save more, in a shorter time.
In fact, almost all outstanding Savings Bonds will benefit from a 1% increase to their next maturity.
So take another look at Bonds. They're still easy to buy through the Payroll Savings Plan; they're safe, guaranteed. Take a look at the tax benefits. The new interest rates. The shortened maturity.
And you'll see Bonds do make sense.
For you, and for your country.
