

How will Shiloh arrange to pay new street head?

How to pay the new street superintendent occupied Shiloh's village council Feb. 11.

He is John Shepard, who succeeded Robert Adams, resigned or fired.

Board of trustees of public affairs proposed that the cost of Shepard's pay raise of $1 an hour be divided equally between them and the council.

Mrs. Barbara Music, a councilman said the council should not pay half of Shepard's salary if he will be working more than half of his time on the streets.

Councilman Delmar Nesbitt moved to send the proposal back to the trustees with the suggestion that the council pay 25 per cent and the trustees the other 75 per cent.

Mayor Francis Gowitzka was displeased with this suggestion and said so. "What are you going to do if the trustees want 75 per cent of Shepard's time?" he asked.

The council took the position that the trustees were paying 90 per cent of Adams's salary, which they do not now need to pay, and therefore they should be able to pay more of Shepard's salary.

Nesbitt's recommendation was approved unanimously. Mrs. Robert Boock, clerk-treasurer, again objected to the untidy appearance of the village fund. She said she will not work there any more but will do her work at home. She further said she will not stand over CETA workers to supervise the work.

She previously said they do not do a good job even when supervised - nor will she remain in the building while it is untidy.

The council agreed to look into the problem. Michael Bauer, proprietor of a market, asked what has been done about limiting parking to two hours in Main street. Mrs. Boock found an ordinance passed in 1968 calling for two hour parking.

The ordinance says parking shall be limited to two hours between 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., whereas the signs posted by the village read until 6 p. m.

Police committee will meet Mar. 25 with Sheriff Richard Petty to discuss a staffing contract.

He was born and lived most of his life in Olena. He was assigned as a machinist when he worked here.

$2,500 put in street fund - Brumbach angry: only four show to discuss water

Angry that less than a quorum appeared at a meeting he had arranged with an expert in Plymouth's water situation, Councilman D. Douglas Brumbach criticized his colleagues Thursday night.

These are Councilmen James H. Cashman and G. Thomas Moore and Eric J. Akers, who did not appear. Nevertheless, he is giving them another chance and has asked that a special meeting be called for Tuesday at 7 p. m., although he doubts that any representative from the Saltzgeber Drilling Co. will be present, since "they had wasted an evening last week."

Convinced that Plymouth has enough underground water to supply its needs, Brumbach has suggested that even if the village goes to Willard water supply, it must take care of the interim period if a water line is installed to bring water from Willard.

Approval was given to Councilman Ervin Howard's suggestion that $2,500 be credited to the street fund for repairs from income tax money.

He also asked that $3,000 from the income tax be given to the park fund. Moore objected, saying he wants to know exactly how the park board intends to spend the money, so the matter was tabled.

No action was taken on Administrator James C. Root's request that $507 be spent for a fire hydrant and about $1,400 for new water meters. Root suggested the bills be paid from the water reserve fund.

The village administrator was told it would be considered at the next meeting. A West Broadways resident, Lonnie Tackett, who is employed in Willard, complained to the council that he is paying income tax money both there and here, which he said was reflected on his W-2 form. The local income tax department is to check it out. He also said that he is having a problem with his next door neighbor and had called the mayor about it. He said he was told that the neighbor is a client of the mayor, who is a lawyer, and was referred to take the complaint to Councilman Dean A. Cline, president pro tempore of the council, who presided Thursday night in the absence of the mayor.

No action was taken on an ordinance to establish the salary of the director of the income tax department. Mrs. G. Thomas Moore has been working under a salary scale of $5 an hour for a 35-hour week. When the tax was being set up, Mrs. Moore donated a number of hours for which she was not paid. Once the salary is established, Mrs. Moore could receive about $9,000 annually plus fringe benefits.

Newly appointed Police Chief David Gibson has inquired about his vacation time and longevity pay. Cashman said the records show that Gibson had worked part-time for the department for 12 years, which would equal four years of service.

Cashman also inquired about the bill submitted by former village solicitor, Robert A. McKown, and was told the bill is currently being studied by the financial planning commission.

He also wanted to know when the state auditor's office would audit the village books and was told by Brumbach "when they get ready to do it."

Free shots go out; $2 fee after July 1

Free vaccination of children against childhood diseases will not be offered by the Huron county health department after this summer, Dr. H. C. Sparks, health commissioner, says.

Ohio Department of Health no longer will fund the program.

County board of health voted Mar. 5 to charge $2 for each immunization, effective July 1.

Vaccination of children residing outside the health district will be done at $5 a dose.

$27,000 top bid to rent 141 A.

Walter Stockmaster, New Washington, was the highest bidder among five for the rental for farming purposes of 101 acres at the sewer lagoon site and 40 at the water plant.

His bid of $27,000 for three years was accepted by village council Thursday night.

The four other bidders were Thomas Alt, New Washington, $24,840; Claude Owsley, Willard, $22,680; Z & S Farms, Plymouth, $16,500; Richard Reber, Plymouth, who has had the previous three year lease, $15,300; and Marvin Tanner, Plymouth, $13,500.

The winning bid works out that $65 an acre will be paid a year for the three year lease. Reber, who farmed the land, paid $1,800 for a three year lease the last time around.

He is survived by his wife, nee Thelma Willet; a son, James, Ooltewah, Tenn.; four daughters, Helen, now Mrs. Wayne Gebert, Plymouth; Florence, now Mrs. Richard Dickenson, Apple Creek; Geneva, now Mrs. Donald Smith, Perrault, N. M.; and Alice, now Mrs. John Slabach, Crestline; 14 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The Revs. Alan C. Pease and Richard E. Dickinson conducted services Monday at 10:30 a. m. from Burkhart Funeral home, Shelby. Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven township.

The Voice of The Advertiser -

Are police doing job?

It is easier to complain than bring forth a compliment.

One incident occurred early one morning last week. A citizen wished to report to the police something he thought was important and should be investigated.

There was no one on duty and no one to answer the telephone, according to his report. Granted, there is not always a dispatcher available at all times. Somehow the feeling is that the police should respond when needed.

Another fact has been brought to light this month: the mayor's court.

There were no cases at last week's court, which meant no summonses issued for even a traffic violation.

The previous court had two persons appear to answer charges of driving without a license and one waiver was paid for a traffic violation.

Meanwhile, some report seeing cars exceeding the speed limit on the village streets mainly in Route 61, the main thoroughfare of the village.

Fortunately there have been hardly any incidents of breaking and entering within the village for sometime, but what protection is being afforded local businesses daily?

One business discovered its back door had been left unlocked for a week and had received no call from any officer on duty.

Does this mean the officer on that particular shift is no longer making nightly rounds in the Square?

The police department in view of its salary raise, which the mayor and three council members felt it deserved, should show that it is worth every penny of it.

Meanwhile, the June ballot will carry a fresh three mill levy for the expenses of the department. The levy is designed to take the burden off the income tax money, which is currently being used to make up the difference in salaries and operational costs.

If the members of the police department and the legislative body of the village hope and want that levy passed, then someone ought to get going to see that the citizens know they have the complete protection of the department and can feel they are doing a good job.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir: There is a book published recently by the Rev. Jerry Falwell. His "Old Time Gospel Hour" is a No. 1 religious TV syndication in the top religious programs daily. Everyone in America that is concerned with our heritage should read it. His book's title is "Listen America".

He has the doctorate degree beside being plain "reverend" and several degrees in education. He has been in Cambodia and several other countries ruled by the Communists and tells of the peoples' sufferings and other horrors.

I had thought these atrocities had been abolished since Russia has become U.S.S.R. He starts with the state of our nation following the Revolutionary war. Few other countries enjoy the privileges that Americans enjoy and don't really appreciate. So it behooves every red-blooded American to stop, look and listen. With the election of President Reagan some people are already criticizing him. "As Rome was not built in a day" is a very old adage and I believe if our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ were permitted to come down to earth, He would also be taken to task.

President Reagan has already started to fulfill his promises if he were elected. Welfare recipients where the dishonest enjoy the privileges of the honest that have to suffer will be entirely eliminated.

Sincerely, Donna Russell

Consider those Down Under: they're thick with crocs!

By AUNT LIZ
If you think living in Ohio is dull, just be thankful you do live here.

The citizens of Darwin, Australia, are not having one dull moment.

Crocodiles are keeping them alert, hopping around. It seems that they are outpopulating people and moving in. They show up at picnics, go after swimmers, and like to lounge on diving boards to sun themselves.

And like us, Australia has some strong regulations about what animal can be disposed of. Crocodiles are considered a threatened species.

Because the skins are marketable in places like Japan and Hong Kong, enterprising people are starting "farms" to raise them for making shoes and pocket-books. Belts, too.

This is where the catch is. Those raised in captivity can be disposed of, but those that are walking around nice neighborhoods threatening every one in sight cannot. It is kind of a crazy world, yes?

And right here in our own country the Secret Service has discovered that inflation has hit those happy people who print their own money.

In the past a nice looking $10 or $20 bill was something, but now they are finding the price has gone up to more $50 and $100 bills being pawned off.

If you are not among the lucky ones to have such bills and must eye a smaller one, then try this version of the old housewife's standby, meat loaf.

Purchase two pounds of ground beef and a package of sharp cheddar cheese so you have a cup. The rest you should have in your cupboards. You need a half cup of bread crumbs, a fourth of a cup of chopped onion, two eggs, a shredded carrot and a half cup of Thousand Island dressing.

Mix it all up and bake at about 350.

What goes with this very nicely for families with hungry kids is a Swiss potato dish called Rosti.

Boil the potatoes, drain them and peel, then shred them. Sprinkle a little salt on them, then bring out your best frying pan, put some shortening in it, then the potatoes. A little bit of cut up onion adds to it all.

Cook away, and you have a real international treat which is usually called "home fries" here.

Years ago I somehow learned that the ordinary things we take for granted on our dinner table are universal but do have different names. What it really adds up to is that you can invite guests and say we are having such and such which is really special and they fall for it, only to find it can be the same beef stew they grew up on.

What has really fazed me up is the new sauerbraten recipe which I have found. It is definitely German, but comes from a restaurant in West Virginia. It is marinating now, and if as good as it smells, it will be printed.

Will five join four-school BFVC? Invitations sent

In what may be an effort to force the hand of the Firelands conference, Black Fork Valley conference on Feb. 11 invited four Firelands schools to join it, together with Hilldale of the Wayne County league.

Hilldale was a member of the Firelands conference through 1968.

The four schools are South Central, Mapleton, New London and Black River.

James Sertell, principal of Lucas High school and president of the BFVC, said "There is interest from the schools in joining our league. We have good vibes, we've gotten a positive feedback from these schools. I'd like to emphasize that we don't have any formal commitment from the five schools. I do feel, however, that we should get a 'yes' or 'no' from the schools we invited in the next two weeks."

Formal letters of invitation were sent to the five superintendents Mar. 11.

South Central, Black River, Mapleton and Hilldale sent representatives to the Mar. 11 meeting at Lucas, New London did not.

The Firelands conference invited Plymouth and Crestview, both members of the BFVC, to file formal applica-

Moorman ousted in Class A

Plymouth's only entrant in the Ohio Class A wrestling championships at Columbus over the weekend was ousted in his first bout.

Dale Moorman, grappling at 119 pounds, was defeated by Craig Ferguson, Caldwell, who was undefeated prior to this bout, 14 to 0. Moorman closes his final season with a fine 37-and-7 mark.

6th grade in finals of tourney

Arguments that led to summoning of Plymouth police marked the victory of sixth grade Vikings over Madison, 31 to 28, Saturday.

Steve Hall scored 18 points for the Vikes.

The Vikes will play for the championship tomorrow at 7 P. m.

Plymouth won the winners' bracket by whipping Mansfield Christian, 51 to 22. Hall, Doug Barnd and Randy Fagg had 10 apiece for the Vikes, whose season record is now 29-and-0.

Plymouth trimmed Ashland in the Friendly House tourney, 53 to 25, Hall getting 15 and Barnd 10.
