No insurance, no registration

It is an established concept of common law that every dog is entitled to one bite. One bite, that is, until he may be labelled a menace to society and dealt with as society may direct.

The concept has, until the end of the year, anyway, been extended to the driver. He who operates a vehicle over the public highway without injury to himself or another need not be insured against damages. There are scores of careful drivers, folks well into their twilight years, some of them operators who were among the first to be licensed by the state when licenses were required, who've never been involved in a collision (please note the choice of word, "accident" hardly describes what occurs when two vehicles collide, for someone or something is always at fault). And there really is no reason to compel them to buy liability insurance. Like the dog that has never bitten, they are presumed to be free of sin now and for all time.

Compulsory insurance has been a mixed bag for a long time. Even some insurers opposed it. "We don't want to have to bother with the high risks," they've said. "Those who've had two or three collisions, those in the 'high risk' age bracket (read 16 to 24, male, unmarried, especially not living at home), the elderly - they cost us money and force the premiums up and make it harder to sell the average customer."

Those who've been burned say otherwise. Particularly those whose property damage has been enormous and who may have relatively large floors of deductible repair costs in their own insurance coverage policies.

So Ohio has, in a way, straddled the issue.

Come Jan. 1, every person who renews his license tags must show evidence that he has an effective liability insurance policy in force, so that he is capable of paying for other party damages in event of a collision. This he may do by posting a certificate of deposit of monies or securities, posting a surety bond, or posting a certificate of self-insurance.

Whichever way he chooses, he cannot but be the loser, no matter how careful he may be as a driver or how careful those who drive his car may be. The insurance policy cost will be a burden to him. If he has means, he is unlikely to want to tie them up, without the opportunity to trade in his securities or bank deposits. Certificates of self-insurance don't grow on trees, and in any case, to submit one means that he who submits it also submits his personal finances to the scrutiny of a clerk in a deputy registrar's office who may very well be his neighbor.

The damage done by automobiles is staggering. Ohioans rejected an effort to reduce it, somewhat, at least, by refusing to raise the legal drinking age on Nov. 8. Those who are innocently maimed, or worse, or damaged materially by automobile collisions need absolute protection.

There are other ways of doing it that wouldn't put safe drivers to needless expense. But the General Assembly didn't ask us for advice.

Four firms get contracts for fire house

Four bids totalling $63,063 to build an addition to the fire station were accepted by village council Tuesday. The finance committee plans to meet Monday to make a decision.

The public hearing for a federal grant to help finance a local business was almost forgotten, both by the council and certainly the public, since no one appeared.

The village will seek a grant of $125,000 earmarked for Tri-County Asphalt, Inc. The electrical work will go to the J & J Electric, Monroeville, for $4,565.

Construction can begin as soon as the council works out the financing.

It was not included in this year's appropriations, which means it can be held off until the first of the year, when a new appropriation ordinance is enacted, or the 1983 ordinance can be amended.

The White House Proclamation

By the President of the United States of America

Since the Pilgrims observed the initial Thanksgiving holiday in 1621, this occasion has served as a singular expression of the transcending spiritual values that played an instrumental part in the founding of our country.

One hundred and twenty years ago, in the midst of a great and terrible civil conflict, President Lincoln formally proclaimed a national day of thanksgiving to remind those "insensible to the ever-watchful providence of Almighty God" of this nation's bounty and greatness. Several days after the dedication of the Gettysburg battlefield, the United States celebrated its first national Thanksgiving. Every year since then, our nation has faithfully continued this tradition. The time has come once again to proclaim a day of thanksgiving, an occasion for Americans to express gratitude to their God and their country.

In his remarks at Gettysburg, President Lincoln referred to ours as a nation "under God." We rejoice in the fact that, while we have maintained separate institutions of church and state over 200 years of freedom, we have at the same time preserved reverence for spiritual beliefs. Although we are a pluralistic society, the giving of thanks can be a true bond of unity among our people. We can unite in gratitude for our individual freedoms and individual faiths. We can be united in gratitude for our nation's peace and prosperity when so many in this world have neither.

As was written in the first Thanksgiving proclamation 120 years ago, "No human counsel hath devised nor hath any mortal hand worked out these great things. They are the gracious gifts of the most high God." God has blessed America and her people, and it is appropriate we recognize this bounty.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Ronald Reagan, President of the United States of America, in the spirit of the Pilgrims, President Lincoln and all succeeding Presidents, do hereby proclaim Thursday, Nov. 24, 1983, as a national day of Thanksgiving, and I call upon Americans to affirm this day of thanks by their prayers and their gratitude for the many blessings upon this land and its people.

Your energy-saving options are as easy as:

- 1 Electric Thermal Storage.
Electric Thermal Storage, ETS, a very efficient whole-house heating system that works in a unique way. It stores enough heat at night to heat your home for the rest of the day.
Because ETS uses electricity at night, when the cost of electricity is less, ETS customers qualify for special rates. So you'll get lower electric rates for heating. And for all other electricity you use at night. What's more, the same lower rates apply all weekend.
ETS not only heats your home, it also heats your water. Individual room heaters are available, too.
- 2 Add-On Electric Heat Pump.
Another very modern option to save energy and money.
An Add-On Electric Heat Pump works with your existing furnace — no matter what kind of fuel it uses — to heat your home more efficiently all winter long.
In summer, it's a central air conditioner, cooling and dehumidifying your home.
So an Add-On Electric Heat Pump can actually work year round for you and save you money on your winter heating costs.
- 3 Add-On Resistance Heating.
Another add-on option. Your third way to save energy and money.
Add-On Resistance Heating is simply an electric element that's slipped into the duct of your furnace. It takes over for your furnace on weeknights and weekends when the cost of electricity is less. And, as an Add-On Resistance Heating customer, you pay special lower rates for nighttime heating — as well as all other electricity you use during those same hours.
For a low initial investment, Add-On Resistance Heating can be a real comfort for your nighttime heating costs.

Ed Taylor scored 168 points - '56 team unbeaten, tied by Berlin Hts.

COACH ROLL

MIKE MCKENZIE

CHAD MCGINNIS

DARREN BRANHAM

Cochran Richard Roll selected co-coach of the year and Chad McGinnis, 12th grader, first team defensive end on the all-Northwest district Class A football squad by the Associated Press.

Darren Branham, 12th grader, offensive end, second team; Mike Kennedy, Monroeville, defensive end, second team; Mike McKenzie, Plymouth, running back, second team; Rod Bernhard, Crestview, and Bryan Gadd, Western Reserve, offensive tackles, second team; Ken Earnest, Western Reserve, linebacker, second team, were the other conference choices.

Until this season, Big Red fans smiled over Ed Taylor's achievements of the 1956 squad, who won seven, lost none and tied one and won the North Central league championship.

The team, called the Pilgrims, was coached by Lew Petit, then his second season with some seasoned players he inherited from Fred Kreuzfeld, who was recruited to come here after an undefeated season at Butler in 1962.

There were 12 lettermen. These were Ray Einel, probably the best quarterback Plymouth ever had until Rodney Hampton challenged him for that honor, Eddie Taylor, certainly the best running back in Plymouth history; Ted Fox, the best all-around athlete ever to wear a Plymouth uniform; Jim Hunt, Dick Akers, Jim Jacobs, Franklin Eckstein, Mickey Hampton, John Elliott, Duane Utise, Jim Wasserman and Don Barnhouse.

Some of them are still living hereabouts. Barnhouse is a member of Plymouth Board of Education. Fox lives at Greenwich. Jacobs lives here. Einel is a banker in the Chicago area. Taylor lives in Lexington and represents a textbook publishing house. Hunt works for National Cash Register in the Dayton area. Akers is an engineer with two master's degrees and lives in Macedonia. Utise works for Empire Steel at Mansfield and lives there. Wasserman is a psychiatrist in the Army, last assigned in Arkansas.

The league was comprised of six Class B teams. In addition to Plymouth, these were Westfield's Red Raiders, Lodi's Tigers, Seville's Barbers (they consolidated some years later and now are parts of AAA Cloverleaf), Townsend-Wakeman and Berlin Hts.

The one blemish on the Pilgrim record that season was a 7 to 7 tie with Berlin Hts. in a game here. It was marred by the ejection of two outstanding players, Einel, Plymouth's passer, and Dewey Acord, now a barber in Berlin Hts. but then the scourge of this region as running back. His coach was Carroll B. (Snag) Sanders, now principal of Edison High school, a North Fairfield product who went to Ashland college. Acord and a running mate, Paul Olin, ripped through all opposition save Plymouth that season.

Acord and Einel had a disagreement and the umpire threw them out. Plymouth fans roared with disapproval. They said the fight was provoked. Subsequent research, years later, revealed that it was planned, indeed. But not that Acord should be involved.

It was the fourth game of the season. Plymouth had already beaten Green Springs by 45 to 0 and Seville by 45 to 0. After the Seville game, the Pilgrims sailed over Lodi by 42 to 0, over Westfield by 44 to 6, over Townsend-Wakeman by 62 to 0 and over Burlington by 62 to 0.

Taylor, who was a 12th grader, concluded two seasons of varsity play with 352 points. He scored 168 of them in 1956. Others on that squad were Taylor's brother, Bill, who lives here and is cemetery sexton; Lynn Cashman, in the insurance business in Shelby; Jim Fidler, who lives in New Haven and works at Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.; his brother, Dick, who lives here with his parents; and whose son, Chad, was an outstanding performer on defense for the Big Red this season.

Also, Jim Lawrence, who now lives in the west. Mike DeWitt, living in Dayton; Doug McQuate, who lives here; Arnold Renz, Lawrence Wilson, Ronald Evans and Mickey Hampton, Rodney's uncle and daughter. Plymouth's first bona fide all-state performer. Petit now owns a driving school. Plymouth district is one of his customers.

Drop cookies easy to make, just ticket for holiday events

By AJUNT LIZ
 All housewives seem to get really shook this time of the year.
 They have to make this and that for little bake sales and sometimes for schools and clubs.
 This can really leave their families a little on the hungry side.
 Make something easy and call it a meal.
 All anyone has to do is maybe hole up for about a morning or four hours in a kitchen and bring out those little extras that perk things up.
 This will live any dessert of easy come ice cream or sherbert: West Indies cookies.

nice gelatin deal.
 This can be made ahead, and it makes almost enough for two meals unless you have "snacking" people who will snatch it.
 Start with a large package of orange gelatin dissolved in a cup of boiling water. Then stir in a pint of orange sherbert. After that add two small cans of mandarin oranges, drained, add a small can of crushed pineapple, also drained. You can save the juice for something else, if you remember where you stashed it. Best you label it because it is very unusable.
 Pour into a dish for chilling.

 This should give you time to go out to gather up the things that Santa Claus is to bring.
 Don't ever, ever underestimate the intelligence of today's child. He has good, young teachers who are really doing a job, and you will be very pleasantly surprised at what little ones are learning.
 If in doubt about a book or game, go talk to the teachers. Little ones really cannot read so well as senior citizens like some of us, so you can read it to them. The big thing is that they will remember it all like mad because either Grandma or Grandpa read it to them.

 The one thing we can give out little ones is their American heritage. Make them proud they are Americans, so go back and dig up the beautiful stories of the boyhoods of Lincoln and some of our most wonderful people.
 You don't have to be famous to be wonderful, give your kids some of your memories of your grandparents and great-grandparents, that really counts.

Last of Akerses, Mrs. Chorpensing dies at Ashland

Last surviving child of the Lafayette Akerses, long time Plymouth residents who moved here from the northeast corner of Crawford county during World War I, Mrs. Clifford W. Chorpensing, 92, Ashland, died Saturday evening in Samaritan hospital there.
 She was ill only briefly. Born Mildred E. Akers in Drawford county Dec. 10, 1890, she lived in Ashland almost half a century. She attended Basewood school, which stood at what is now the intersection of Route 103 and Scott road 50.
 On June 29, 1910, she married an Ashland attorney who subsequently became county prosecutor and municipal judge. He died July 29, 1960. A daughter, Phyllis, also died earlier. Her brother, Donald E., Plymouth's only attorney for a generation, and her sister, Helen, a retired teacher, both Plymouth residents for many years, died in 1982 and 1983, respectively.

 She was a member of First United Methodist church, Ashland, and of its Friday Bible club.
 She is survived by a daughter, Joanne; three sons, Robert, Lima, and Oliver and Judge Paul, Ashland; six grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.
 The Rev. Alfred Sprague conducted services yesterday at 10:30 a.m. at Ashland, where burial was in Ashland cemetery.

is to be made for it.
 The village is also seeking a grant to replace street signs, by which the village contributes 10 per cent and the grant money 90 per cent.
 Root said the Richland county application is ready and he is working on completing the Huron county report must be done by Dec. 16.
 Fraise was heaped on the village's only four-legged police officer. Police Chief Frank Hodge proudly told the council that Duke is not only trained to seek out law violators, but he has been trained to find lost children.
 Mayor Dean A. Cline said he is an asset to the village.
 Hodge also informed the council that from now on regular monthly reports of the activities of the department will be forthcoming, as they had been done a number of years ago, but then neglected.
 The council went into executive session with Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine over pending litigation for a short period.
 When the meeting resumed the mayor complimented Mrs. Terry Jump on her election and said that as in the past, a woman is an asset to the council.
 Councilman G. Thomas Moore suggested the council declare a special day to honor the Plymouth High school football team as Firelands conference champions. The day will be decided later.

Ohio Geology

Notes from the Division of Geological Survey of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources

THE SURVEYING OF OHIO

In the years following the Revolutionary War, Ohio, as part of the Northwest Territory, was the western frontier of the United States. The area that is now Ohio was controlled by the newly formed federal government, except for an area in northeast Ohio claimed by the state of Connecticut (the Connecticut Western Reserve) and an area in southwest Ohio claimed by Virginia (the Virginia Military District).

It was during this time of post-Revolution westward expansion that the rectangular grid surveying system of townships and ranges was developed and later became characteristic of states west of Ohio. Ohio was an experimental area for various surveying schemes, and consequently no other state has so many different kinds of original surveys. These original survey lines are still recognized today, and are the basis for real estate transfers and all legal matters dealing with land, such as deeds, leases, and title abstracts.

What's black & white and read all over?

Everyone knows that—a newspaper. But did you know that no other medium can come close to newspapers, in terms of the depth of information provided to you, or in the number of people reached (3 times, as many people will read a newspaper today as will watch a network news broadcast), or in terms of advertising placed (Newspapers place more advertising than T.V., radio and magazines combined)?

Moreover, a newspaper gives you the freedom to decide what you want to read or reread, whenever you like, and almost wherever you go.

As timely as this morning's events, and as timeless as the words of Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, the newspaper is a friend and servant to all. And it's even more vital to your life today than ever before.

Get ahead in your reading—read the newspaper.
