After successful season on reserve team, Darrin Branham, No. 44, looks ahead to next season with variety squad. He'll be a 12th grader. One more victory will be an improvement.

Chad McGinnis scored three points in sectional contest with New London and hopes he'll have opportunity to do more, and more often, next season. He aspires to starting role on 1983-84 squad.

Jeff Fenner was a swing player on 1982-83 Big Red squad. He played his last game as schoolboy at Ashland Monday night, when Plymouth concluded 2-and-19 season.

Co-Capt. Greg Polach aims for stardom on diamond now that basketball season is finished. He'll catch for Big Red nine. He's righthanded all the way.

No. 22, Rick Hawkins, didn't score much this season. Nor had he much chance as eighth or ninth man on squad that won only two. He aims for college but hasn't decided where.

Craig Thornberry, 12th grader, played his last basketball game for Plymouth, save for all-star contests, against New London. He'll be candidate for first baseman and leading hitter on Big Red nine.

Harreses buy drive-in

The third sale of a retail business in Plymouth in 30 days was recorded Tuesday when Mrs. Florence Kieffer, Willard, transferred Curly's Drive In at 199 Sandusky street to Scott Harris, a management employee of Center Mfg. Co., Bellevue, now on indefinite layoff.

The closing hour is tentatively set for 7 p.m., "but if business warrants, we'll stay open longer to accommodate diners."

And diners is a word they choose advisedly, the Harreses say.

"We intend to upgrade the quality of what has been served, with less thought of price. We will increase the size of hamburgers and we will promote the serving of a full meal. In addition, we'll create a better grade of ice cream."

The first step in the plan is and growth of the village was development of what

Man, 51, charged with DWI

A 51-year-old Plymouth driver charged with drunken driving Feb. 23 after his car ran off the south side of Base Line road east of here.

Joe Hale was not hurt. Two cases were continued and warrants for two who failed to appear were issued during mayor's court session Feb. 22, when Mayor Dean A. Cline fined four drivers and two others.

Lisa M. Hopton, Norwalk, charged with speeding, and Donald F. Fraley, Shelby, charged with drunken driving, did not appear.

D. Justice, New Haven, charged with drunk driving, and Bradley S. Snider, Plymouth, accused of failure to halt within an assured clear distance, won court-continuances.

Billy Allen Sexton, Plymouth, was convicted of disorderly conduct. He pleaded no contest and was fined $40 and costs.

Terry E. Miller, Plymouth, charged with criminal trespassing, also pleaded no contest. He was fined $40 and costs.

Drivers fined were Stephen Swartzmiller, Attica, speeding, $15; Jack E. Wilkinson, Willard, speeding, $15; George R. Freund, Mansfield, speeding, $15, and Patricia Monahan, Shelby, stop sign violation, $15. Each was charged court costs of $19.

Dead dogs, mystery for while

Two dead Great Dane dogs, one gutted and then sewn together, were found Opydke road south of Feb. 21, police report.

Similar incidents were reported about four years ago.

Richland county sheriff's deputies are investigating. They say one of the dogs, a tan male, was dismembered and sewn up. The other, a large black female, was not touched.

Police say the dogs were put to sleep by a veterinarian but not suitably interred.

Food gift to needy: nine tons

Two local businesses have made about nine tons of potatoes and onions available to the needy through the Salvation Army in Mansfield.

John F. Swartz, Jastor road, Shiloh, onion and potato grower, and John F. Stambaugh Co., owned and operated by Charles Hartline, Plymouth, made the contributions, which were loaded and delivered by Swartz and his family.

School records found in order by auditor

A review of school district accounts for the May 1, 1979-Dec. 31, 1981 period showed only one mistake, the state auditor says.

The district charged 1981 expenses against 1982 appropriations, contrary to the Ohio Revised Code.

Examiners found $5,200 in bills due by the food service fund were carried over from 1981 to 1982.

Some recommendations were listed in the review, which was discussed with the treasurer and the board before it was made public.

Some mistakes of a procedural nature but none of a substantive character were found when state auditors examined the books of the pupil activity funds of Plymouth High school, Plymouth Elementary school and Shiloh Junior High and Elementary school.

The audit was for the period May 1, 1979, to Dec. 31, 1981.

Mistakes were:

1. Pay orders in the three schools did not always have proper documentation to support expenditures. All pay orders should be itemized and invoices attached.
2. Installment purchases were made by the high school.
3. Shiloh did not record payment to the fund and canceled checks in numerical order.

3. Plymouth Elementary school failed to reflect year-to-year totals when closing out ledgers each month.

4. Checks of Plymouth Elementary school were signed before they were drawn.

5. Checks at Shiloh were drawn to cash.

6. Board of education did not formally accept donations to pupil activity accounts.

Mayor asks Continental to explain

Mayor Dean A. Cline said he has been trying with no avail to reach Continental Cablevision to receive a clear explanation of charges for expanded services now offered to village viewers.

He also said that workmen doing the new installations are "pounding holes in houses without permission."

At the suggestion of Councilman G. Thomas Moore, to yield sign at Route 61 and the parking area in the north end of the Square will be replaced by a regular stop sign.

Police Chief Robert Conley said it is a wise move, since

Village native back from Illinois speaks out —

What's wrong with Plymouth?

Sir:

This commentary is an extension to the letter written and published in a previous edition of The Advertiser. It is about a small community that in 1971 was similar in size to Plymouth but containing 6,400 inhabitants and which has grown to a population of 23,000 and still growing.

It began as a farming community with open fields, lagoons, and farm lands within the corporate limits some 35 miles from downtown Chicago. Progress was slow in the beginning, similar to that of Plymouth, but the influx of new inhabitants and city officials with progressive notions brought on unbelievable growth and progress.

The political climate in the area began to change in the late 60's. City officials and organizations within became aware of the resources available and set out to promote them. Schools, churches, recreation, transportation, an utility systems all became a part of the promotion program. Carl Sandburg High school was one of the leading high schools, scholastically, in the state. Several denominations of the church (Catholic, Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian, and others) existed within the community. Recreation and transportation facilities were more than adequate. The fire department boasted of a full-time fire chief and full-time fire fighters, although primarily a volunteer department. The police department was one to be proud of and all necessary utilities were more than adequate.

The first step in the plan is and growth of the village was development of what they referred to as a PUD (Planned Unit Development) and building and zoning ordinance. This provided for orderly growth and development without a strain upon the services to be furnished. The planning commission and zoning board joined forces with the Chamber of Commerce, businessmen's association and neighborhood organizations to promote commercial, industrial, and residential development. The PUD and zoning ordinance were strictly enforced. Developers were required to submit their PUD's to the Planning and Zoning Boards and although certain concessions by the developer were required and heavily debated the village has grown to its present size of 23,000 inhabitants, two large shopping malls with approximately 200 retail establishments, six shopping plazas with an additional 100 to 150 retailers, sixty three restaurants (family fast food, and supper club)-two large building and loan facilities and five large banks, several industries (light and heavy) a four unit theater building, and many business offices.

It is my firm belief there is potential for this type of economic growth in Plymouth. Most of the area indicated to me there is considerable area available for growth and a combined effort by all its inhabitants could bring it to fruition. It will not be an easy task. Although a zoning ordinance was finally adopted and the water and sewer problems were alleviated, there are other factors that must be considered:

1. Various factions within the village working against each other. Most concern themselves only with what will benefit them, with little concern with what will benefit the entire community. In the end, cooperation and a combined effort by all concerned would benefit all.

2. Areas contiguous to the corporate limits which refuse to annex to the village. This refusal hinders and even halts growth and development. The difference of approximately three miles of taxation discourages these areas without realizing that annexing would mean better services and benefits that would far exceed the extra millage of taxes. Meanwhile, annexation could mean lower taxes since overall property valuation within the village would increase revenues and make it possible to reduce the millage and lessen the tax burden on each taxpayer.

3. Favoritism toward certain individuals and fac-

many other developing communities in the area, all vying for the same retailers, industries, and consumers. It was a matter of persuasion, who did the most and best to offer.

It is my firm belief there is potential for this type of economic growth in Plymouth. Most of the area indicated to me there is considerable area available for growth and a combined effort by all its inhabitants could bring it to fruition. It will not be an easy task. Although a zoning ordinance was finally adopted and the water and sewer problems were alleviated, there are other factors that must be considered:

Meanwhile, annexation could mean lower taxes since overall property valuation within the village would increase revenues and make it possible to reduce the millage and lessen the tax burden on each taxpayer.

3. Favoritism toward certain individuals and factions. Favors make friends, but if the favors are not extended to all members of the community then cooperation by other citizens cannot be expected. Services extended as favors should not exist unless it benefits the entire community.

4. Patronage of retailers and other businesses. Consumers are patronizing out-of-town businesses and local retailers and the community as a whole are suffering. Sales taxes that would normally be distributed locally are being distributed to other localities simply because the consumer insists on shopping out of town. Sales taxes are an important source of revenue and many communities thrive on it. As in the case of the described community $2,500,000 in retail sales taxes are returned to the community as a result of it's growth. This adds to their ability to render more and better services without an increase in other taxes. On the other hand Plymouth is losing this source of revenue because it lacks adequate retailing and businesses that meet the consumer demand for goods and services, and the consumer has no choice but to shop elsewhere.

5. Pride and care of personal property. An outstanding selling point for a community is its appearance and the impression it makes on potential inhabitants. A community that is clean and appears to be thriving draws outsiders, creating an interest that encourages them to invest in its future. Property values increase as well.

7. Financial institutions and their participation in the community's growth and development. A rapport with the local financial institutions expressing cooperation and commitment to economic growth and stability must be developed. Financial institutions have a responsibility to the community to provide not only banking services but services that provide the financial assistance that enhances business and residential growth.

8. Salaries of elected officials. Salaries in Plymouth are so low that they serve as no benefit to the community and to anyone who might have an interest in serving the community in an elected capacity. Anyone concerned and interested in serving expects to be and rightfully should be adequately compensated. The financial assistance that provides the responsibility and effort inherent of the position. In the past years Plymouth has experienced a shortage of interested candidates for public office. Moreover, qualified and capable candidates will not avail themselves to the thankless and abusive position of an elected official unless adequately compensated. Plymouth's shortage of elected officials is evidenced by the present makeup whereby from members of the present council and the clerk-treasurer are serving as appointees. Serving as an appointee is not to imply that the appointees are not just as interested or concerned as if elected, but the fact remains that these are elected offices and should be occupied by elected officials.

I hope I have made my point that all is not lost and that there is still hope.

Wildcats rio Pirates overcome Big Red

Red, 74-46 in tourney

New London took an early lead in the first round of the Class A playoffs at Ashland Monday night and blew Plymouth off the foot in the second half en route to a 74 to 46 victory.

It was the second time this season that the Wildcats have beaten the Big Red.

It was really no contest after the first three minutes of the second period, by which time New London had opened a lead of 22 to 14. The Wildcats led by 14 at the half, 35 to 21.

New London broke it open at the start of the second half. Led by Kurt Cooke, who scored 18 for the night, 12 of them in the third period, New London ran off to score 26 points while holding Plymouth to just 14 and as a result, the last period was played merely to make an official record of it.

Ben Patrick, who learned his basketball at Shiloh, scored 21 points, game high for both teams. Kevin Dunn, the big Wildcat center, had 13.

New London won because it outshot Plymouth, 34 to 20, from the field, it outrebounced Plymouth, 44 to 25, and it made no more mistakes on the floor. Each team was charged with 13 turnovers.

The Wildcats got off 69 shots and missed five free throws. Plymouth fired for field goal 55 times and missed two free throws.

Mike McKenzie scored 12 to lead the Big Red, which had nine scorers on the book but no other in double figures.

The Big Red thus concludes a dismal season of 2

Sharon Niedermeier's free throws lead to 45 to 37 win over St. Paul

If she lives to be 100, Sharon Niedermeier won't forget her performance at Willard on Feb. 22.

She came in cold off the bench in the fourth period and fired in six free throws without a miss, an output that ignited Plymouth in a 13 point win with 17 points, Miss Daron with 11.

St. Paul's got off 42 shots at the basket and 13 free

Roughriders outlast Red in tourney, 58 to 45

Big Red girls' reached the end of the tournament trail at Willard Saturday, going down before vaunted Western Reserve, 58 to 45.

The Roughriders seized the lead in the first period and never looked back.

The lead by four after eight minutes, by nine at the half.

The Riders did so because Plymouth couldn't stop big Ann Knoll, the MVP of the Firelands conference, who scored 10 of her 16 points in the first half, and Carla Mueller, who scored only four but was all over the floor for Coach John Speer's crew.

Plymouth put up a stiff fight in the second half, coming within four of matching the Riders point for point, but it was not enough.

Rhonda Branham scored six for the Big Red in the first half, and Carla Mueller, who scored only four but was all over the floor for Coach John Speer's crew.

Two to vie in district

Plymouth scored 39 1/2 points, good for 10th place, in the sectional wrestling tourney at Fremont Friday and Saturday and qualified two competitors for the district tourney at Fostoria tomorrow and Saturday.

These are Terry Parrigan, 98 pounder, and Dave Burkett, 155-pound division.

Parrigan was runner-up to Frank Wise, Monroeville, who showed the Big Red entrant the rafters in 1-03 of their final bout.

Burkett placed fourth in his weight class. He was defeated by Mark Stacklin, Seneca East, 13 to 1 in the consolation final.

Plymouth blew a lead that was as much as 12 points in the third period and went down before Black River, 78 to 72, here Thursday in the final game of the season.

It was a fight to avoid the cellar of the Firelands Conference and the Pirates won with a come from behind performance that was right out of Frank Merriwell.

Black River scored six points in three ticks of the clock at the end of the game to win it.

The contest was tied four times and the lead changed hands twice in the fourth before the visitors prevailed.

The Pirates deserved to win because they outplayed and outlasted Plymouth in the last quarter. The Big Red led by eight going into the final minute of the game.

The teams exchanged baskets, then Black River scored eight unanswered points. In the middle of this string, Coach Dave Dunn asked for a time out to regroup. This came at 5:47. The Pirates kept firing away and tied it at 66 with two free throws by Clifford at 4:27. Craig Thornberry converted a rebound to restore Plymouth's lead. Rick Myers tied it again. McKenzie got one home from 17 feet out, whereupon Steve Hertz tied it once more.

Herte had two chances to build a lead but failed with a pair of penalty shots. Brian Vredenburg jammed his way through the middle for a tying basket to offset Herte's next shot, a field goal, and tie it at 72. Vredenburg was awarded a penalty shot but it skittered off the rim.

From that point on it was all Black River.

The Pirates shot for field goal 73 times and scored with 34. They made 10 of 22 free throws. Plymouth got off 60 shots and made 31, a fine record, but it was not enough. The Big Red also shot 11 free throws. It missed eight.
