

How should we help youth?

The county's juvenile judge, in the preface to his annual report, says he thinks one explanation for a decrease of 10 per cent in new complaints against juveniles in that more of their parents are not now working, they have the time to supervise their children, and as a result, the children don't get into trouble.

Some time ago, the No. 2 person in the Chicago, Ill. Post Office told us that when snow falls to a depth of three inches, absenteeism in his facility approaches 70 per cent. Why? "Most of our employees are black females. When the snow is three inches deep, the Chicago schools close. This puts a lot of kids on the street. Our employees stay home to keep their kids out of jail."

We don't question the judge's view, any more than we questioned what the postal officer said. But isn't it a sad commentary on our society that we must experience severe economic (and with it, deep emotional) distress before we get to the point that we will see to our youngsters?

Only last week, we left an evening meeting and encountered three juveniles. Two of them we know quite well. The third is almost a complete stranger. After passing the time of day, or night, we inquired what they were doing.

They gave vague answers. And one of them looked us right in the eye and said, "I'm on my way to the pay phone so I can tell my folks where I'm going and when I'll be home."

We felt good all over. And we told that boy's father that when we saw him again.

"If you hadn't seen him, and if he hadn't known you're such a stickler about these things, he never would have called us. It's the first time he's ever done so. I hope it won't be the last."

One whose judgment we had occasion, once, long ago, to form in want to say, "If you're going to travel in the fast lane, you've got to expect the scrapes and dents that go with it."

What he's saying is that in this society, when children grow up, or think they grow up, much sooner than we did, and are subject to the peer pressures and media exposures of conduct that tends to be different from the local norm, it's usual for offenses by juveniles to be more frequent, more serious and more damaging, to them, their families and their victims, innocent or otherwise.

Both formally and informally, we seek to apply effort to cope with such conduct, aiming principally to avoid embarrassment, shame and humiliation, and at the same time to channel young energies into useful pursuits, or at least those that do not cost us to deal with.

To do so, funds are needed. And there are as many difference ideas as to how to raise funds as there are needs for them. The capacity of a given society to sustain such free will contributions is governed by size, income and disposition of its members.

How much is enough? Where should it be spent?

The best integer we've seen for quite some time comes from a dissertation, not yet published, by a doctoral candidate. He says this: spend what you can; give priority to expenditures on boys at age 10 and on girls at age 14.

There are perhaps a hundred or so pages of explanation why, and we'll be happy to show them to anyone who's interested. But the figures may be used as a suitable guideline for a society, such as this one, that has limited capacity to support a broad program that meets the needs of everyone.

Feb. 17, 1956!

Chamber conceived in Plymouth street in 1955

Plymouth Area Chamber of Commerce is the result of an organization that first saw light of day at 78 Plymouth street on Dec. 3, 1955, when the editor of The Advertiser invited the late Walden M. Cornell, the late E. Beryl Miller, R. Harold Mack and the late Elton A. Robertson to share libation for the purpose of discussing a business organization.

The Chamber organized formally Feb. 17, 1956, and elected R. Earl McQuate president, the late William E. Root first vice-president, Mack second vice-president, Miss Madeleine H. Smith secretary and Paddock treasurer.

Gov. Michael V. DeSalle addressed the organization on its fourth anniversary on Mar. 17, 1960.

By this time, Carl M. Loffand, a veteran banker, had died. A plaque in his memory was established by the Chamber to recognize a resident of the village whose contributions in the previous year were judged to be outstanding.

The late John A. Root, president of the Fate-Root Health Co., was the first winner. The late J. J. Nimmons, then president of Peoples National bank, was the second winner, in 1960. Maynard J. Coon, superintendent of schools, won it in 1961. The late Dr. Darrell B. Faust was the winner in 1962.

Thereafter winners were Edward O. Ramsey, R. Earl McQuate, James C. Davis, the late Robert L. Meiser and the late Luther R. Fetters.

In the 1950's and 1960's, the Chamber sponsored village bargain days - one of them was Pioneer day - and promoted off-street parking, chiefly the lot owned by Edward O. Ramsey in the rear of the old theater building.

Miss Smith's departure for a full-time paid post as secretary of the Bucyrus Chamber of Commerce was a real blow to the struggling organization, which always had difficulty in obtaining attendance at regular meetings.

Two of its organizers became disenchanted in 1959 and did not actively participate in it thereafter.

The Chamber assisted in organizing, at a number of its members were incorporators, of a non-profit group to fund repairs to the Fetters building in West Broadway so that it could accommodate a medical doctor. Dr. Vacys Dragunas was recruited from a state hospital in Illinois and he came here in 1962. He left in 1974.

The first Easter egg roll in Mary Fate park was organized by Paddock, appointed to do so by the Chamber. Gold and silver eggs made and painted by a son are still used in the annual event which is now conducted by Independence Chapter, Order of DeMolay.

For a time, the Chamber supported its president, Franklin W. McCormick, in the publication of a bi-weekly shopping journal.

Mrs. McQuate succeeded Miss Smith as secretary. She was in turn replaced by Mrs. Donald Fidler, who held the office when the Chamber finally gave up the ghost.

Miss Smith subsequently married Joseph McClure, a veteran chamber member of commerce worker, and when he retired, they returned to live in Willard. On his demise, the victim of cancer, she returned to her home town and began to encourage interest in reviving the old organization.

That it was an office, which she staffs, is entirely her doing. The Chamber recognized her in 1960 for "service above and beyond the call of duty" for her activities with the organization.

Never before has the Chamber sought public input into selection of the Loffand plunger winner. Each previous winner was singled out less for contributions during the immediately preceding year than for sustained contributions over several years.

When it conducts Recognition Day on Apr. 21 at 6:30 p.m. in Elnet-Parrel Post 447, American Legion, it plans to single out businesses and business people with long tenure in the village as well as to introduce the 1983 winner of the Loffand plunger.

By this time, Carl M. Loffand, a veteran banker, had died. A plaque in his memory was established by the Chamber to recognize a resident of the village whose contributions in the previous year were judged to be outstanding.

The late John A. Root, president of the Fate-Root Health Co., was the first winner. The late J. J. Nimmons, then president of Peoples National bank, was the second winner, in 1960. Maynard J. Coon, superintendent of schools, won it in

Read your family these facts of life.

Electricity is one of the most convenient and dependable forms of energy we have. But care must be taken when you're around it, because contact with it can injure or kill. So treat electricity with respect and make sure you follow these safety rules:

1. Never go near any fallen lines. If you see a victim of electrical shock, don't touch him if he's still in contact with the wire.
2. Don't use electrical yard tools when the ground is wet. And make sure they're double-insulated or properly grounded with a 3-wire plug.
3. When using a ladder, make sure it will not come in contact with any power lines.
4. Before installing a CB, TV or ham radio antenna, make sure it's at least one and one-half times its total height away from all power lines.
5. If you're trimming trees, painting a house, repairing a roof or putting up aluminum siding, make sure you're well clear of overhead power lines.
6. Before you do any type of digging, contact your electric company to make sure there are no buried electric cables.

If it's not the right season, make potato salad anyway!

By AUNT LIZ
Don't ever overlook a good spring (or summer, or fall, or winter) bake sale.
Some people cheat a little. I will be, and should be ashamed. A number of times when I had to whip something up, I bought a package mix. I only feel guilty on that score because I always added nuts, raisins or whatever to it so it would be a little disguised.

So long as I am confessing, I might as well admit that I have gone out to buy pies to donate to something or other.

But made sure they came from a trustworthy bakery.
Maybe I have done this about 12 times out of 100, so the score isn't so bad.
One memory I still have from years back was the time I did two truly beautiful pecan pies for an affair.

Afterwards one of our kids came home and said, "Mom, you know what happened to your pies?" My first thought was that he dropped them on the way.
The answer was, "The people doing the serving took one look at them and ate them themselves." So hardly anyone knows that I can bake a pie.

Right now with the world kind of messed up about who has what misale and where, perhaps a good bake sale between us and you-know-whom would do much for pure friendliness. The Russians are truly good cooks.

Their standby salad is a real treat. It is merely a mixture of cooked vegetables like carrots, potatoes, turnips and beets cut up in cubes in equal parts plus as many peas as you want to throw in. Marinate them in a little French dressing, drain, and mix enough salad dressing to hold it all together.

In an expensive restaurant this is called Salade Russe, but in any ordinary kitchen it can be called Salad to Use Stuff. Even left over meat can go in it.
This is a more updated version of their basic potato salad called Salad Olivier.

Start with a package of scalloped potatoes. Cook the potato slices in about three cups of water until it boils, then cover and simmer until they are tender. Rinse, drain and set aside.

Next, mix the package of sauce mix with a cup of water, heat until it boils, and stir it all the way.
Add a half cup of mayonnaise, a half cup of sour cream, three-fourths teaspoon of dried dill, some salt and pepper.
Divide it in half. With the first half mix the potatoes, two cups of cubed cooked (starch) chicken, two chopped hardboiled eggs and a half cup of chopped dill pickles. Chill this with the other half of the dressing for maybe four hours.
Then shape it into a mound, spread the extra sauce over it and put cucumber and tomato slices around it.
This will not serve 50 people, more like four, but it can be doubled, tripled, or any amount you want to deal with.

PAYING MORE TAXES THAN YOU THOUGHT?

AN IRA CAN HELP.

It's that time of year again. Time to pay Uncle Sam his share of your hard earned income. But there is an easy way to reduce Uncle Sam's share. By opening or depositing to an IRA (Individual Retirement Account).

You see, an IRA deposit reduces your taxable income by the amount of your deposit. A $2,000 contribution will save you approximately $600 in current taxes if you are in the 33% tax bracket. And, you will be building a sizable retirement nest egg.

Stop by today for complete details. Remember, you have until your tax filing deadline to make your deposit for 1982.

Social Security protects you.

That's why your Social Security Card is important to you. It answers the call in case the alarm rings for four basic needs. If you are disabled, it pays disability benefits. If someone you care and depend on dies, it provides survivor benefits. When you retire, Social Security benefits help you enjoy the things you worked so hard for. And when you reach 65, or if you've been getting Social Security disability checks for at least two years, Medicare helps pay the hospital and medical bills. If you have any questions about your Social Security protection, call your Social Security Office. It's listed in the phone book under Social Security Administration.
