

What mistakes?

What is worth reflecting upon of a hot evening in early July, the nation not yet sure of whether it's emerging from a dreadful economic slump that has already left ineradicable scars on this town, fears that will become more conspicuous in days to come.

A distinguished American once said, "If we do not learn from the mistakes of history, we are doomed to repeat them."

What mistakes?

Sometimes it's difficult to take one event, or one cluster of events, and devolve from them a lesson that can be laid down in concrete to defy the ravages of time.

But at other times there is something to be derived from a given set of events that can, if we will but consider them, furnish us guidance for the future.

Fifty years ago this week, Plymouth Board of Education formally moved to reduce all salaries by 20 per cent.

Its superintendent, R. R. Miller, having completed six years here, resigned, to go, of all places, to Bloomville, in Seneca county. Plymouth school district survives. Bloomville was long ago swallowed up by Tiffin, probably with a superior brand of education.

Five hundred persons marched on Columbus to try to persuade Governor White to take some action to relieve their distress. About 75 of them reached Norwalk, where county commissioners loaded them in trucks and hauled them to Plymouth, whence Richland county commissioners trucked them to Bucyrus. Kicking distasteful matters under the rug is nothing new.

The local factory got orders for five locomotives. Such an order today would delight its management and this community.

A Plymouth native, Rear Adm. Benjamin Franklin Day, who served under Admiral Farragut after graduating from the Naval academy, and who sat with Fred Kirtland and an unidentified young woman from Plymouth in the theatre while Booth shot President Lincoln, died at 92.

On July 6, when The Advertiser was issued, John J. McGraw and Cornelius McGillicuddy, better known as Connie Mack, led the all-stars of the National and American leagues in the Century of Progress game at Chicago. That game was renewed yesterday.

Plymouth Post office was reduced to third class rank. Even then customers complained that the service wasn't worth the cost.

Marsh run drainage was to be improved, provided that beneficiaries would hold still for assessments.

The mayor of Tiffin, John Dreitzler, only 51, died of apoplexy.

And during this week only 13 years ago, the incumbent mayor sought to get rid of the veteran police chief. The controversy raged, and that is the proper verb, for several weeks, with maneuvering that would become an America's Cup yacht, before the chief was permitted to serve until retirement, but not without subsequent efforts to oust him, on the strength of his public self-flagellation and eating of humble pie.

So the present difficulties with the police department, while they may be of a different character than those of 1970 and of 1972 and of 1975, are nothing new. Plymouth has a history of such difficulties and those who by reason of having been around a long time can look upon two or more generations of events will tell you that it is so. And they will say, rightly or wrongly, "What else did you expect?"

It's that notion, that idea, that we need to stamp out.

Reunions filling Mary Fate park until Sept. 15

The season for Mary Fate park began May 8, when the Sannier family from four states reunited.

For years the Sanniers have "opened and closed the park", Mrs. Wayne Gebert, who handles the reservations, says. "Since the Boy Scout hut is more usable, they are coming earlier and later. Last year they even invited their husbands to have Thanksgiving dinner with them," she reports.

On May 20-21 the Girl Scouts used the park facilities. On May 28 the Lykins family reunion took place. Vicky Feeman staged a graduation party.

On May 29 the Roy Edlers engaged tables for a graduation party for their daughter, Nancy. The Tanner family reunited that day. The Frisby reunion was June 5, June 6-9 was the Girl Scout day camp.

Willard Christian church staged a congregational picnic on June 11. The Crouse and Tackett reunions were June 12. The Ripley Chapel had its annual picnic June 19 and the Nordyke reunion was that day.

Members of the Nazarene church, Willard, picnicked on June 25. Three family reunions, Holbrook, Hart-Linder and Miller, took place June 26. Sunday was the date of the Bland and Ramey family reunions. Next Sunday the ecumenical council of churches will stage its annual picnic and the Montgomery, Ross and Conley reunions are planned.

On Wednesday members of the Auburn Baptist church will have a congregational picnic. Future reservations are for the Rome Community church, July 16; the Reed, Watkins, Harshiser, Davis please see page 3

Shilohan, 31, sent to prison; villager held in MTD theft

A 31-year-old Shilohan was sentenced to two to 15 years in the Columbus Correctional facility by Richland county Common Pleas Judge Max Chilcote Friday.

Sammie G. Deskins, 39, High street, was convicted of burglary on Mar. 22, an accusation to which he pleaded guilty.

Two co-defendants, Soren A. Smith, 19, Henry street, Shilohan, and Dale Strong, Main street, Shilohan, received lighter sentences.

They were handed prison terms of two to 15 years, both of which were suspended. Each was ordered to serve 30 days in the county jail and to serve three orders of probation. Judge Chilcote agreed to hear Tuesday evidence that Smith and Strong have cooperated in the recovery of two shotguns and a chain saw, in which case he might suspend the remainder of the jail sentences.

Three plots sold in village

H. Lee Welker has acquired from Worley and Verna Triplett Lot 160, Portner street, Huron county recorder reports. Kenneth W. and Sandra K. Edgson bought Lot 160 in North street from Bill R. and Joyce A. Collins. Ronnie W. and Linda L. Akers bought Lot 70, North street, from James D. Cunningham and his wife, Charlene G.

'82 grad on dean's list at Tiffin

A 1982 alumnus of Plymouth High school is among 126 Heidelberg college students named to the dean's list for the spring semester. He is Stephen M. Mowry, only son of the Keith Mowrys, Shelby route 3, a major in computer science. To qualify for the honor, a student must have achieved a grade point average of 3.5 or better in at least 12 semester hours.

'No work' force larger

Huron county unemployment rose to 19.3 per cent during May, an estimated 4,235 persons unemployed. The rate during April was 18.7 per cent. A year ago, the May figure was 17 per cent. Richland county unemployment held at 13.9 per cent, or 7,975 persons out of work.

Village to spend $35,228 to pave streets here

Bids to resurface several village streets will be opened Aug. 1 at noon in the village office. James C. Root, village administrator, estimates a sum of $35,228 will be needed. The funding will come from several sources: $15,165 from Federal Revenue Sharing money, $5,000 from the local income tax fund, $2,600 from the Huron county per-

Cunningham hurt

A Plymouth octogenarian and his wife were injured in Willard Monday when their car was struck at Woodland and Main streets. D. Guy Cunningham was admitted to Willard Area hospital with four fractured ribs and other internal injuries. His wife, Pearl, a passenger, was less severely injured. She will report to the hospital for further examination. Cunningham sought to turn left from Woodland into Main street when his vehicle was struck on the left or driver's side.

'Acy' Brumback dead at 86

Arthur (Acy) Brumback, 86, 1120 Sandusky street, an outstanding high school and sandlot player in his youth before World War I, died in Shelby Memorial hospital Saturday of a brief illness. He was born near here and lived here until he finished his military service during World War I, whereupon he moved to Shelby. He retired in 1962 after a lifetime in the employ of BeVier's Dry Goods store. He was a life member of O'Brien post, American Legion, Shelby.

His first wife, LaRue, nee Beelman, died in 1975. He is survived by his second wife, Elba, the widow of Arthur (Jake) Myers, a daughter, Bonnie, now Mrs. Joseph Black, Shelby; a sister, Mrs. Viola Meloy, Shelby; a step-daughter, Maxine, now Mrs. Robert I. Bachrach, Plymouth; a step-son, Richard Myers, Shelby; two grandchildren and three step-grandchildren. A brother, Leroy M. Plymouth, died earlier. He is also survived by two sons, Gary and James, both of Shelby. The Rev. Daniel P. Ramaley, minister of Trinity United Methodist church, Shelby, conducted services at Mansfield Tuesday at 10 a. m. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery, Cass township.

Computer draws library crowds

Busiest place in town is Plymouth Branch library, where a mini-computer with printout device is available for use by the public, subject to rudimentary rules. And it is used! "Nothing we've ever undertaken here, not even putting 'In Peyton Place' on the shelves, has developed such broad interest and application for use," says Mrs. J. Harold Cashman, librarian. Telephone her at 687-5655 for an appointment to use the computer.

Estate of Coy Hillis, New Haven, has been inventoried at $21,900 by Huron county probate court.

Russell seeks to oust Lasch

A 1974 alumnus of Plymouth High school will challenge the veteran incumbent, Joseph J. Lasch, for clerkship of Plymouth township. He is Richard Russell, Route 98, whose father, R. Eugene Russell, has for many years been a trustee of Cass township. It is only the second time in his long tenure that Lasch has been opposed. Forrest E. Peters, Lettimer road, will seek election as trustee of Bloominggrove township.

Fly catching? Trigonometry part of baseball skill

Imagine the process of judging a fly ball. As soon as the ball is launched — either batted or thrown — the fielder must estimate the early stages of its trajectory, decide where the ball is going to come down, and then run to the predicted landing point at an appropriate speed.

The best outfielders are able to make this judgment so surely that they can turn their backs to the ball, run to the chosen point and wait for the ball to arrive.

One of the unique aspects of this skill is that there is no way to explain it in words, or to teach someone how to do it. There do not seem to be any coaching techniques or helpful hints that could aid the process of learning or improving one's ability to judge fly balls accurately.

If there is no conscious technique for judging a fly ball, then how is it done at all? In particular, what information does the fielder use subconsciously to decide where the ball is going to land?

Peter Brancaccio, a physicist at Brooklyn college, addressed this subject at a recent Joint Meeting of the American Physical Society and the American Association of Physics Teachers. In 1968, Seville Chapman, a physicist at the Cornell Aeronautics laboratory, proposed that a fielder unconsciously uses trigonometry to judge a fly ball. The specific factor identified by Chapman was the angle of elevation of the ball, the angle that a fielder's line of sight to the ball makes with the ground.

Chapman claimed that the fielder sees the tangent of the angle of elevation increase at a constant rate when he is waiting at the landing point.

If the ball is going over the fielder's head, he will see the tangent increase at an increasing rate (Chapman's homer). If the ball is going to fall in front of him, he will see the tangent increase at a decreasing rate. Moreover, when a fielder runs forward or backward to catch a fly ball, he does so at a speed that keeps the tangent of the angle of elevation increasing at a constant rate.

Chapman's theory of "trigonometric outfielding" was based on the assumption that air resistance does not affect the flight of a baseball in any significant way. Unfortunately, this assumption turns out to be incorrect.

Brancaccio computed the effects of aerodynamic drag on the trajectory of a baseball, and discovered that for the typical speeds and times of flight that occur under game conditions, a batted baseball travels about 60% as far as it would in a vacuum.

Moreover, air resistance distorts the shape of the trajectory of the ball so that it is noticeably different from a parabola. When aerodynamics are taken into account, the tangent of the angle of elevation does not increase at a constant rate as seen by a fielder who has judged the flight of the ball correctly.

Having shown that the tangent of elevation is not a useful cue for judging a fly ball, several other geometrical or trigonometric features of the trajectory were examined, including the player-ball distance and the velocity of the ball at right angles to the line of sight (the speed with which the ball appears to move against the background of the sky).

None of these seems to show any characteristic variations that would tell an outfielder which direction he has to move to catch the ball. It would appear that the information used subconsciously in judging a fly ball lies at a deeper level than mere geometric or trigonometric factors.

The mystery of how a fielder judges a fly ball turns out to be one manifestation of a much larger problem. At the present time, psychologists have only a partial understanding of how an individual determines the location in space of a rapidly moving object, or how he coordinates this information with the movement of his body.

Binocular vision aids in depth perception by providing two slightly different views of the object, one from each eye, as it moves against the background. However, depth perception, with a single eye is also possible; a one-eyed outfielder, with practice, learn to judge fly balls.

It may well be that the most useful information for the fielder is not even visual information. Whenever an individual follows a moving object with his eyes, he ordinarily moves his head as well, and the motion of the head and eyes must be finely coordinated to keep the eyes fixed on the object.

For example, if you fix your gaze on some stationary object and turn your head from side to side, your eyeballs must move just as rapidly in the opposite direction to maintain their lines of sight.

It turns out that these compensatory motions of the eyes are primarily guided not by visual feedback, but rather by signals triggered by the motion of the head from sensors in the inner ear, the same sensors that enable us to tell up from down and to maintain our sense of balance.

Thus, it is possible that the sudden and rapid motion of the fielder's head as he looks upward to follow the light of the ball off the bat may provide the sensory information that directs the player's body toward the eventual landing point.

This coordination of sensory input with body motion evidently follows a neural pathway that has been established thru the familiar behavioral process of learning by trial and error. We may actually be judging fly balls by ear.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Junior Cunningsham were hosts at a family gathering Thursday night to honor the 63rd anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Guy Cunningsham.

Miss Taylor to wed July 23

A 1982 alumna of Plymouth High school, Miss Renee Lynne Taylor will be married July 23 at the home of her parents, the Michael R. Taylors, 320 East Main street, to Keith Diebler, teacher at Shiloh and head high school boys' track and field coach.

Two receive AC degrees

Two Plymouth residents were members of the 1983 graduating class at Ashland college. Cynthia K. Anderson, 1961 Skinner road, received the master of business administration degree in executive management. Michael S. Mahoworth, 187 1/2 West Broadway, was awarded the bachelor of science in business administration degree in marketing. He is the son-in-law of the John Fazzinis.

PLW girls capture three June wins

PLW fast pitch girl softballers won three games to close out June. On June 22, the girls defeated Woody Ridge, 17 to 12. On June 27, they defeated Secor Funeral home, 8 to 2, on 12 hits, three of them by Jamerson, two by Kamann and two by Paulo, who pitched in relief of Gibson and struck out three while walking two. Gibson fanned four and passed one. On June 29, PLW trounced the Moricians, 32 to 6. Gibson smacked a homer and a double. Jamerson and J. Branham also hit doubles for the winners. Lann Laser got two hits and Jennie Young two hits for the losers.

Yankees dominate in PML action

Thirty-three runs crossed the plate in Weber stadium June 27 as the Reds whipped the Indians, 20 to 13. Yanks whitewashed the Tigers, 9 to 0. On June 23, Brian Beebe and Mike McQuate hit inside-the-park homers as the Yankees trimmed the Reds, 18 to 2. Cubs walloped the Indians, 21 to 1. On June 20, Tigers nipped the Tribe, 12 to 11, and Reds edged the Cubs, 11 to 7.

In Tee ball, on June 28 the Royals defeated the Force, 10 to 3, and the Blitz outscored the Raiders, 18 to 10. On June 24, the Raiders won over the Force, 17 to 12. Blitz fell to the Royals, 13 to 12. On June 21, Blitz ran up 22 runs to win over the Force, 22 to 14, and the Royals clipped the Raiders, 18 to 7.

GE closing to rip Bellevue to core: study

Just how much closing of the GE plant at Bellevue is apt to cost that community aside the Huron-Sandusky county line is shown by a survey.

In addition to four per cent of school income from local sources and 14 per cent of the city's income, losses would extend to $200,000 in hospital revenues, collapse of one of the three banks in Bellevue, failure of from five to 10 businesses, increase in number of bankruptcies and foreclosures and reposessions and a huge chunk of the United Way collections, to which GE employees contributed as much as 17 per cent in years past.

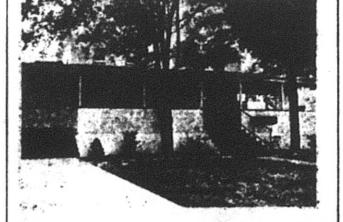

Bellevue's largest employer is the railroad industry, which now hires about 1,200 persons. Bellevue has no choice, says its mayor, George Smith, than to find a tenant for the GE building. Consider the lowly umpire, Clifford "Bud" Hill. Shelby, ejected the pitcher of the BPOE's team in an Industrial league slow pitch softball game because he refused to reduce the arc of his pitches. The player returned after some time and slugged the umpire. Result: Hill filed a charge of assault in Shelby Municipal court.

Crawford county officials don't like the implication of Frankie Williamson, assistant planning director, Ohio Health department, that the county has too many hospitals. Williamson said she is concerned that too many beds are available and there're not enough patients to fill them. She cited low occupancy rates in Galion, Crestline and Bucyrus, the only towns where hospitals operate. All of them are tightening their belts and each of them is losing money. Crestline Memorial reports enormous increase in outpatient services, 300 per cent last year, 40 per cent so far this year. And each of the hospitals is scurrying to obtain state and federal grants to fund winterizing and other energy-saving programs.

Reunions set at park

and Lofland family reunions and the Wyandot Freewill Baptist church, July 17; the Taylortown church, July 23; the Gayler, Austin, Garrett and Polechek family reunions and the Richmond United Methodist church, July 24; the Johnston family reunion, July 30, and the Burras and Hicks reunions, July 31; Reservations for August are for the Cole, Caudill and Merle Steel reunions, Aug. 7; the Keimeth, Hamman, Farmer and Onye reunions, Aug. 21; the Lykins reunion, Aug. 27, and the Fidler, Feltman and Fox reunions and the North Broadway Baptist church picnic, Aug. 28. The Shepherd and Holmes reunions are planned for Sept. 4; the Newmyer and Wilson reunions, Sept. 11; the Eby family, Sept. 18, and the Strine family, Sept. 25.

Stick these ideas on your refrigerator.

- Whenever possible, use a toaster, toaster-oven or an electric frypan instead of your large oven or range.
- Never use the oven as a heater.
- Place pans on the surface units of your range before you turn on the heat.
- Use a small amount of water when boiling eggs and vegetables. Use tight-fitting lids, too.
- Place the most often used items in the front of your refrigerator shelves so you can get to them quickly.
- Make sure refrigerator door seals are tight, free of grease.
- Don't wash your dishes until you've got a full load. That's usually after dinner.
- Turn off the lights, radio and TV before you leave.
- Don't let the hot water run while you're shaving. Fill the sink halfway instead.

The more you use, the more energy you'll save.

- If you can, use an electric razor. It uses less energy in a year than the hot water your hand razor uses in a week.
- Set your water heater's temperature at a moderate 140°F or as low as possible to allow for enough hot water.
- Take shorter showers.
- Wash and dry only full loads of clothes.
- Keep your thermostat at 68° or less in the winter, at least 78° in the summer.
- In winter, open drapes and shades to let sun heat your home. When sun sets, close them.
- In summer, close drapes and shades to keep your home from getting overheated.
- Don't heat or cool unused rooms. Close them off.
- Keep the damper on your fireplace closed when not in use.

Auntie objects to 's---w'

By AUNT LIZ.
Maybe I am more "small town" than I have been thinking.

There is no question that people can be as nasty and mean in a village as in a large city.

But they are much more polite about it all — I think.

Over the years I have known a lot of characters such as mayors, council presidents and council members and they do try to get along once they realize they are smacked with each other.

Never have I in all these years read in a paper what was said in Cleveland by its council president concerning the candidacy of a former mayor for a council seat.

Frankly, I am really kind of floored that what was said was actually printed. You simply do not use the word "screw" in that context.

In case you do not read the Cleveland paper, Council President Forbes said, "He screwed us for two years, and now we are lining up to screw him."

Kind of sounds like he hates the former mayor, which can happen. Once some people hated me so much, and perhaps they still do, that they printed little tags and passed them out the night before an election. I had almost forgotten it all until I found one way back in a kitchen drawer not long ago.

I must say they probably spent hours dreaming it up because it really was clever:

"There is nothing wrong with a good political joke as long as SHE doesn't get elected."

Maybe it should be framed as an example of how to lose an election without really trying.

There is one good thing in this world, you can invite friends to dinner, not the ones you don't like.

There can be a big BUT to that: give them something they like.

We have one friend who hates white foul meat and eats only the dark. For years I did not know that and tried to remember how many times he got stuck with some of our best of chicken recipes.

This will be liked by just about everyone because just about everyone likes hamburger in one form or another, and sauerkraut.

Maybe I am the only soul in the world who does not like the latter, but it is kind of diagnosed this way:

This recipe won third prize in the Ohio Beef Marketing contest. It comes from a gal in Mt. Orab and she estimates that it costs 56 cents a serving and will serve eight, which makes it a nice bargain.

Mix two pounds of ground round with two slices of dark rye bread that have been soaked in water. Throw in one egg, a half of a teaspoon of caraway seed, a half of a teaspoon of pepper and salt if you want it to be salty.

Mix well, divide in half, and pat it into a 10 inch skillet like a pie crust.

On top of it, spread three fourths of a cup of well-drained chopped sauerkraut but don't spread it all the way to the edge of the meat. On top of it, spread a fourth of a cup of Thousand Island salad dressing. Then scatter a half a cup of shredded Swiss cheese.

Pat the rest of the meat over the top. Press it gently around to seal the edges.

Cook on top of the stove for about 10 minutes.

Then pop it under the broiler for about five minutes. Sprinkle another half cup of cheese on top, and broil an additional five minutes or so.

Don't you think this should have won first place?

Some people expect soup to be hot, but when it is hot outside, a nice cold cream of leek or even plain potato can be very tasty and what is easier than opening a can, chilling it and eating?

A daughter was born Thursday in Shelby Memorial hospital to the Douglas Tallmans, Greenwich, Councilman and Mrs. Richard Tallman, Shiloh, are the paternal grandparents.

Aspirants for queen invited to step up

Girls 15 through grade 12 who reside in the Plymouth Fire district may enter the 1983 Fire Queen contest.

They will seek the title worn last year by Michelle Hanna.

All entries must be filed with Timothy Redden by July 13. He can be reached at 687-6645.

Van Loo, Smith appointed by Legion

Joel Van Loo has been appointed judge-advocate and J. Benjamin Smith public relations chairman by Ehret-Parrel Post 447, American Legion, which has also chosen Vance C. Hoffman, Sr., as service officer, Glenn Haas as chaplain, James Caull as sergeant-at-arms and Arden Kessler as historian.

Commander Theodore A. Ross says plans for his term involve expansion of community service programs and continuance of veterans' assistance services.

Because It's Free!

Every year the Government publishes thousands of books. And every year the Government Printing Office sells millions of these books to people in the know. Now there's a book that tells you about the Government's "best-sellers" — but it's not for sale... it's free!

It's our new catalog of almost 1,000 of GPO's most popular books. Books like Infant Care, Merchandising Your Job Talents, The Statistical Abstract, Starting a Business, The Space Shuttle at Work, How to Select a Nursing Home, Vogel at Saturn, and Calling Energy Costs.

This catalog includes books from virtually every Government agency. So the subjects range from agriculture, business, children, and diet to science, space, transportation, and vacations. And there are titles on military history, education, hobbies, physical fitness, gardening, and much, much more. There's even a special section for recently published books.

Find out about the Government's bestsellers. Send today for a copy of the book we don't sell. Write—
