

Some thoughts on lessons of balloting last week

What are the lessons, if any, to be drawn from the ballot of Nov. 6?

Certainly the vote cast for president hereabouts is hardly significant in the national total, and while it goes along with the national consensus, it has no special meaning of its own.

Not so, however, with how the results turned out at the county level.

It seems clear that in Huron county, voters are attuned to the party concept. In one race for commissioner, one who hardly made any noise at all, limited his campaigning to some pressing of the flesh and relied on his good reputation for the most part, came mighty close to ousting the incumbent, who was endorsed by every medium in the county that gave an endorsement. Had he been accorded the support that was diverted to his independent opponent, who incurred some dissatisfaction with Democrats because he declined to submit his name in the June primary, he might well have defeated the incumbent.

And in case anybody doubts it, the evidence is once again clear; candidates from Norwalk have a head start on everybody else in the county, candidates from the northern tier of townships, for the most part, gain preference over those from the southern tier, and the middle tier.

Traditional methods of publicizing one's campaign seem to have been set aside for other techniques. The Chinese drop-of-water-on-the-head approach by the successful candidate for sheriff is an example of this.

Glibness and garrulousness took a back seat to guts and gumption.

A furor over access to records, with accusations and counter accusations, produced no positive results for the plaintiffs, so far as we can see. In one instance, if an earlier start had been made, the result may have been closer, but it is doubtful that it would have been different; can see. In one instance, if an earlier start had been made, the result may have been closer, but it is doubtful that it would have been different.

So the armchair political scientists can relax, assured that the old system is intact: the way to the top in Huron county is via the old party line; service in the trenches is its own reward, because it pays off when one's hat is in the ring.

In Richland county, it is proper, we think, to observe that a young man's transgression, if indeed it was that, was expensive but not fatal. Frank Sawyer's statement to J. Anthony Lukas in the New York Times's 8,500-word piece boomeranged on him. Nobody, not even in his party, figured that the Potato King of Shiloh would make such a run for it. Nevertheless, there are other conclusions to be drawn from the results in this race. Some of them relate to public perception of the candidates, others to coattailism.

The major medium in the county came out against the successful candidate for recorder. So did some minor ones. Nevertheless, he prevailed, the while thumbing his nose at convention, expectation and formal performance. The family name carries clout and, like Norman Wolf, he may go on till Doom's day.

One party pretty much controls the courthouse, although the board of commissioners will change hands in January. It wouldn't be so if the ruling party had straightened its candidate out last June, after the primary, and adjusted her image, when there was still time. Her defeat, and that of two outstandingly capable women of the opposite party, do not bode well for the future of women in public office in Richland county.

The old rule that one is often judged by the company he keeps, or doesn't keep, proved true in the race for coroner. If Gordon Morkel were dressing every day with the varsity in Mansfield General, he would have won hands down.

Engineer to be engaged —

Council pledges to correct drainage in Willow drive

A qualified engineer will be asked how to solve a drainage problem in the Fen-For development in Willow drive.

Village councilmen meeting in their monthly committee session Monday night heard complaints from William Chronister and Keith Sellar.

Chronister said he has made his property look presentable and that Sellar wishes to do likewise, but if Sellar does so, water then will run off onto the Chronister property.

When the development was put in in the early 1970's, not enough storm water drainage was provided.

James C. root, village administrator, said it is a natural ravine and that water simply follows its course.

To install a 24-inch tile from the two properties to the river will cost close to $20,000, Root said.

Mayor Dean A. Cline and the council agreed the problem must be remedied. They hope to do it economically.

What to do about the request of Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., to negotiate a contract with the village on its own rather than with the coalition is to be studied further.

The service committee and mayor are planning a meeting next week with Jerry Tischer, district manager of the company.

Councilman Bill Taubee said he believes the village would be better off rate-wise to stick to the Middle Ohio coalition for future rate negotiations even though the village is part of a group is paying more for gas now.

Councilman Keith Hebble said Columbia's offer of a five cent raise over a five year period looks more like a 90 cent raise when all aspects of the proposed contract are considered.

The problem of numbering buildings in the village was broached by Root, who said the present ordinance should be changed. This is much simpler than changing house numbers, he said.

Some streets are numbered in accordance with the ordinance and some are not.

It was agreed the ordinance will be amended.

Douglas A. Dickson, who heads the village planning commission and is president of Plymouth Historical society, asked for a resolution to request funding from the Ohio Historical society to make a survey of all structures in the village.

Most of the structures in the Square pre-date 1900 and they fall under the requirements of historical preservation.

The cost of photographing and making the survey will amount to $1,750 Dickson said, and $875 would be requested.

The village's share will most likely be only for photographic supplies, since most of the survey will be done by volunteers.

Root told councilmen a survey for a new village fire insurance rating will be made next spring after the village acquires a new fire pumper.

The village has been rated Class 7. Root said since 1973, when that rating was determined, the water system and fire fighting equipment have been improved and he believes the village is Class 6 now. This one class upgrading does not change residential rates but will be a substantial savings to businesses and industries.

Three 12th graders aim for Junior Miss

Three Plymouth High school girls are among candidates for the crown of Junior Miss.

One of them will compete in the pageant at Willard High school Nov. 23 at 7:30 p. m.

Graveside services were conducted in Pensacola, Fla., Nov. 6. He is also survived by a son, Al, Citra, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Betty Reed, Eatonon, Ga., and a brother, Richard, Bare Foot Bay, Fla. A sister, Mrs. David E. Cook, Plymouth, died earlier.

Shilohans convicted at Shelby

Two Shilohans were convicted and fined in Shelby Municipal court Nov. 7.

Stephen W. Poth, 27, pleaded guilty to drunken driving. He was sentenced to three days in jail and to pay a fine of $300 and costs. His license to drive was suspended for one year.

Destry K. Shepherd, 30, pleaded no contest to driving while under suspension and was fined $100 and costs.

Robert R. Sutter, 27, Shiloh, paid $33.60 for a stop light violation.

The others will vie in Lexington High school tomorrow at 7 p. m.

Renee Lynn Carter, 17, elder child of the Richard Carters, 186 West Broadway, is an honor pupil in Plymouth High school. She is a candidate for the diploma in June and plans to enter nursing studies in Mansfield General hospital. She is a member of Louis Bromfield chapter, National Honor society; is president of the band, plays in the marching, jazz and concert bands, is co-captain of the varsity cheerleaders and is current Plymouth Fire Queen. She was a Homecoming attendant as a 10th grader and participated in the musical last year. She played in the Firelands conference band as a 10th grader and in the county band last year. She will perform, as will the other 12 contestants, a nine-minute dance routine to rock and roll music.

Her classmates, Barbara Harness and Lenora Caudill, will compete in the Richland county contest.

Daughter of the Arnold Harnesses, Shiloh, Miss Harness will face her classmate, daughter of the Wayne Caudill, Plymouth, and 17 other Richland countians in the pageant. Two are from Senior High school at Mansfield, three from Madison High school, two from St. Peter's High school, four from Mansfield Christian High school, three from Lexington and three from Shelby High schools.

Ryman named all-conference on defense

Co-Capt. Scott Ryman closed his schoolboy football career with first team selection as linebacker and second team running back on the all-Firelands conference team. A 12th grader, he will be graduated in May. He plans on college, but hasn't decided where. For details, see story on page 3 today.

Robinson wins plaque: Legionaire-of-year

A 60-year-old World War II veteran who has held every office in the post save commander, adjutant and finance officer was chosen by Ehret-Parrel Post 447, American Legion, as Legionaire of the Year and winner of the Gerald W. Caywood Memorial plaque Monday night.

He is Harvey Robinson, Jr., father of three daughters and a son and grandfather of six.

He is the second winner of the plaque, given to the post by two of the late Mr. Caywood's oldest friends, Arthur L. Paddock, Jr., and his wife, both former members of the post. The plaque was delivered shortly after the honoree's death on Sept. 30, 1978, but was not issued until last year, when Joel Van Loo, former commander, was the recipient.

Robinson is employed by Schaaf Auto Body and Motor Sales, New Haven. He is an expert auto body repair man.

He is also a member of Richland Lodge 201, F&AM, and a frequent volunteer in its fraternal activities. Continuous membership pins were handed to 20 veterans by the adjutant, William Fazio.

These are Jay P. Moser, William C. Enderby and John E. Hedeon, 35 years; Donis Starke, 35 years; Frank Anderson, Frederick Ervin, William Phillips, Chalmers Spencer and Van Loo, 15 years; Thomas Baker, Dr. Pierre E. Haver, Robert Metcalfe and Merton Kessler, 10 years; and William E. Bland, Elmer L. Caudill, Douglas McQuate, Richard L. Reddy, R. Thomas Secor, Robert Waldruff and H. Lee Walker, five years.

Ah, woe! Problems of Yule shopping!

By AUNT LIZ

To some this may be hunting season and to others pre-holiday season.

They are wrong.

It is Grandmother season.

This is the time when they all get going for the future. Some are much more successful than others and can polish it all off with one big shopping jaunt. A few may take up to two jaunts. Then there are the stragglers.

That's us.

It is only November, and I am completely beaten down.

My first "major" purchase, that I really spent time on, was a flannel nightgown, cute and practical. I figured a seven-year-old would wear a size eight.

Her mother says no. A 10, so who needs a nice little size eight nightgown? I cannot return it, because I threw the sales slip away when I unwrapped it.

The next thing was some books of riddles, which our little ones are really into. They were highly recommended by a school librarian, and I was gloating over them.

Then their grandfather decided to look them over and plainly announced they are for the birds, and will drive their mothers mad with silly questions.

What is really going to happen in our house is that grandma will have her little presents and grandpa will have his for everyone.

All I have to say to him is that we will end up with three granddaughters who will be experts on harness racing coloring books, puzzles, you name it.

It isn't too bad, really, they will simply know something the other second graders have no inkling of and just might become the authorities in their classes on race horses.

We are also involved with just one Cabbage Patch doll at the moment. IT needs clothes, even used ones, I have been told. Then I discovered there simply are no used baby clothes around because they are now being worn by the dolls.

Let this be a dire warning to any couple that is thinking of another child. The poor kid will go naked because the older ones will take all the clothes for their dolls.

Somewhat I just want to throw up my hands, go into a tizzy, and hole up in my favorite room, the kitchen.

Close the door so the wafts of delicious flavors stay put. Once it's the oven, it really smells good.

This is an old recipe that my mother and every other made.

Frankly, it is still around today from people like us.

It's for pecan cookies. As far as I know, they never had an official name.

They are expensive but worth it. Cream a half pound of real butter with five tablespoons of powdered sugar. Add two tablespoons of real vanilla. And two and a half cups of sifted flour. Mix well and mix in two cups of pecan bits.

Shape into balls, small ones, and bake at 300 degrees until they are golden. Do this on an ungreased sheet.

When finished, sprinkle them immediately with powdered sugar, which has colored sugar mixed in it, to give them a sparkling look. They are very delicate, so take care. You can actually shake them, a few at a time in a bag with sugar, but very, very gently. Once cooled, they do get a little sturdier. Don't try to send them anywhere, get everyone to your house to eat them.

Fidler scores two touchdowns

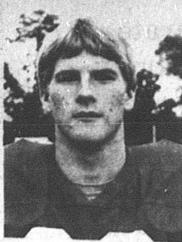

Ashland career ending in glory

Doug Fidler, who grew up in Base Line road east of here, scored two touchdowns Saturday as Ashland college walked Valparaiso university.

He will be graduated in June as a major in business administration. A letterman also in baseball, he plans to compete for the Eagle nine in March "if my injuries heal enough". He is the son of the Earl Fidler and the grandson of the late Anthony Fidler.

TODD FENNER

MIKE HAWKINS

LARRY BROOKS

For fall sports --

Fenner, Hawkins, Brooks, Trout, Miss Robinson, J. Beck honored

Four 12th graders received awards and two 10th graders won MVP honors when athletes in fall sports were recognized by Plymouth High school Monday night.

Todd Fenner won the football sportsmanship award, Co-Capt. Mike Hawkins the scholarship plaque and Larry Brooks the Ideal Vique award.

Sarah Robinson was named MVP of the volleyball squad. Each is a 12th grader.

Larry Trout, 10th grader, won the MVP prize in golf and Jamie Beck, also a 10th grader, in cross country.

Twenty-four varsity letters and 12 reserve letters were handed to football athletes.

These were Bill McVey, fourth year, Co-Capt. David Burks, Tim Deskins, Co-Capt. Scott Ryman, Rod Beverly, Troy Keene and Co-Capt. Mike Hawkins, third year, Jamie Brown, Walter Laser, Terry Mansfield, Eric Rath and Fenner, second year, Brooks, Matt Archer, Shawn Moore, Paul Manuel, Clarence Porter, Scott Thornberry, Steve Hall, Jeff Redden, Greg Burks, David Powers, Rod Reed and Rod Stumbo, first year. McVey, Burks, Deskins, Ryman, Brooks, Marcher and Moore are also 12th graders. Keene, Beverly, Brown, Laser, Mansfield, Rath, Manuel, Porter and Thornberry are 11th graders and will be back next year.

So will Hall and Redden, 1-4 graders, and Greg Burks, Powers, Reed and Stumbo, ninth graders.

Varsity lettersmen returning for the 1985 season number 15. Reserve awards were given to Bill Collins, Brian Flaherty and Randy Myers, 10th graders, and Gary Brown, Billy Castle, Scott Edler, Eric Scheibler, Terry Hall, Scott Heesen, Tracy McVey, Jeff Staggs and Lacy Shepherd, ninth graders.

Kevin Beverly and Heath Hall, managers, received awards.

Third year letters in cross country went to Kris Barnhouse, Terry and Tim Parrigan, 11th graders, and Rob Beck, 12th grader. Second year monograms were given to Jamie Beck and Jeff Burton, 10th graders, and Mike Studer and Ryan Wilson, 11th graders. Lance Combs, Bryan Carnahan and Robert Smith, ninth graders, and Charles Evering, 10th grader, won first letters.

Ed Fletcher and Shawn Ousley, 10th graders, and Gary Horner and Steve Roethlisberger, ninth graders, received reserve letters.

Richard Pash, 12th grader, and Chris Runkle and Kevin Taylor, 11th graders, got second year monograms. First year letters to Scott Gano. Reserve letters were given to Craig Runkle, 11th grader; Glenn Welker, 10th grader, and Aaron Barlow and Ron Stephens, ninth graders.

Among girls, Bertha Hall, Miss Robinson, Kelly Wilson and Buffy Wright, 12th graders, won third year letters in volleyball. Tracy Keene, 12th grader, got a second monogram. Debbie Shrader and Sharon Williston, 12th graders; Sandi Polasick and Krist Staggs, 11th graders, and Michelle Collins, Laren Thornberry and Beth Roethlisberger, 10th graders, won first letters.

Tenth graders Barbara Click, Sandra Elliott, Lana Laser, Janelle Miller, Christian Thompson and Barbara York and ninth graders Donnell Branham, Jenny Cole, Tammy Isaac, Tammy Montgomery and Kathy Welker received reserve letters.

Miss Thornberry was named most improved athlete.

Cheerleader awards went to Renee Carter, Lenora Caudill, Angela Cole and Kelly Wilson, 12th graders, third year, Karmel Edler and Marilyn Tackett, 11th graders, and Lana Laser, 10th grader, first year; Jodi Arnold, 11th grader; Becky Eldridge, Shelly Cole and Michelle Hess, 10th graders, and Jennifer Burkhalter, ninth grader, reserve letters.

Staggs fails of election

Supt. Douglas Staggs sought to be elected to an unexpired term as Class A representative on the Northwest Athletic board, OHSAA, and fell short. He got just two votes. So also did Dr. Milton Levy, Monroeville superintendent. Winner in a run-off was Robert E. Condon, St. Henry, who defeated James Berry, Cory-Rawson, 38 to 37. They tied in the first ballot at 12.

Varsity cheerleaders assert they're handsomest in past seven seasons, a contention that some dispute. They'll have to do so with the girls concerned, from left, seated, from left, Angie Cole, Renee Carter, Kelly Wilson, Lenora Caudill; rear, Karmel Edler, Marilyn Tackett, Lana Laser.

Ryman named all-league; McVey pick on 2nd team

Co-Capt. Scott Ryman is Plymouth's only selection on the 1984 all-Firelands conference football team.

Ryman, a 12th grader who scales 185 pounds on a frame of six feet one inch, was chosen as linebacker.

Bill McVey, another 12th grader, made the second team on defense. So did Ryman. McVey was chosen at tackle, Ryman at running back.

Walt Laser and Co-Capt. Mike Hawkins won honorable mention on offense.

Dave Kezei, Monroeville's talented quarterback, was chosen most valuable back. He was named quarterback offense and corner back on defense.

Four other Eagles and five Roughriders made the first offensive team.

Four of Western Reserve's undefeated squad were chosen to the first team defense.

New rules for ADC clients begin Dec. 1

Beginning Dec. 1, certain Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) and food stamp recipients will be required to submit a monthly reporting form to remain eligible for benefits, according to Huron county Department of Human Services.

Reporting permits the county agency to determine continued eligibility of a client and the amount of benefits he will receive. The requirement will affect only ADC and food stamp applicants who have been employed within the last three months, or recipients who have earned income other than through self-employment.

After the initial two months of eligibility, recipients' grant amounts will be calculated on a retrospective basis. For example, the amount of income reported in December, 1984, will affect the benefit level in February, 1985. If a recipient had an increase in income, benefits will be reduced. Monthly reporting forms must be received by the county agency by the fifth of the month. Reports received after the deadline will delay payment to the recipient and could result in a reduction of benefits.

Recipients failing to return a monthly report without good cause are subject to termination of their case.

Klemans celebrate silver anniversary

Married Nov. 14, 1959, in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church by the Rev. William Conese, the Raymond Klemans observed their silver anniversary yesterday.

Discharged by the Navy, he took up barbering and was engaged in that calling when he married the daughter of the Leland Briggses. He is the son of Mr. Peter Kleman and the late Mr. Kleman. He is still a barber, albeit part-time. He is employed by Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.

The Klemans dined at Ontario with their family last night. They have four daughters, Mrs. Paula Buckingham and Barbara, Laura and Lisa, and a grandson, Nicholas Machiusi. The Briggses and Mrs. Kleman joined them for the celebration.

Three gifts made to library fund

Donations in memory of Jack E. McQuate have been received by Plymouth Branch library from Mrs. Clinton Sourvine, Mrs. Wanda Lynch and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Amick.

Gardeners set Christmas party

Plymouth Garden club will meet Monday at the home of Mrs. Nevin Border, New Haven. It will be the club's holiday party with a potluck dinner at 6:30 p. m. and a gift exchange.

Jameses' kin ends studies

Son-in-law of the Roger Jameses, Plymouth route 1, Airman Allen B. Sizemore, son of Burley Sizemore, Mansfield rural route 5, and of Nora A. Sizemore, 441 Emerald avenue, Mansfield, has graduated from the U. S. Air Force telecommunications systems control course at Keeler Air Force Base, Miss.

He is a 1983 graduate of Madison High school. His wife is the former Lena James.

All about town . . .

The Lowell E. Keiths were hosts Monday to their daughter, Mrs. Owen Clem, Newark, and two colleagues, Mmes. Joyce Leboski, Heath, and Garnet Thomas, Johnstown.

Christopher Brown, a graduate student in Purdue university, West Lafayette, Ind., will arrive Wednesday to spend the holiday weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Florian A. Brown.

The Rev. William Conese, former pastor of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, is seriously ill in Shawnee Manor Rest home, 2535 Port Amanda road, Lima.

The John E. Hedeons were hosts Sunday at a birthday dinner for her brother, Robert Guthrie, Shelby.

Mrs. Cashman appointed to health board

Mrs. J. Lynn Cashman, Shelby, has been appointed to the Richard County Board of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities.

Her three-year term will begin Jan. 1, 1985.

Mrs. Cashman, the daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Cashman, is a graduate of Ohio Northern university, Ada, and a registered pharmacist.

HOSPITAL NOTES

James Musby, Shiloh, was admitted to Shelby Memorial hospital Saturday.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS FROM FRIENDS TO FRIENDS. I'm perfectly fine. I can drive with my eyes closed. There's nothing wrong with me. Are you joking—I feel great. What am I—a wimp? I'm in great shape to drive. You're not serious are you? What's a couple of beers? Nobody drives my car but me. I've never felt better. I can drink with the best of them. But I only had a few. So I had a couple. I can drive rings around anybody. I can drive my own car, thank you. I'm not drunk. I drive better when I'm like this. Who says I can't drink and drive? I can hold my booze. I know what I'm doing. I always drive like this. I can do it with you. Trust me. What's a few more drinks? Nothing to me. I'm fine with my eyes closed. I can drink with me. I can drink
