

A symptom?

A lament by the high school principal, set forth in the annual report of the public schools, merits further consideration and comment.

What he complains of is symptomatic of what's wrong with us and at the very least suggests what we ought to do about it.

What is more difficult to consider, even to swallow, if swallow we must, is whether we want to do anything about it.

He says that he can't get enough volunteers to assist teachers in doing their job. Set aside, for the moment, the question of whether teachers who're paid an average of $19,111 a year ought to have, even need, an assistant. That the pattern calls for assistance is sufficient to lament the scarcity thereof.

Why there is such a scarcity might conceivably be a useful subject for a doctoral dissertation. But who would read it? Doctoral dissertations don't often circulate beyond the review committee and a handful of scholars of the same discipline, more's the pity.

And we won't dwell on what we think those reasons are, or what might be done to correct them.

But it may be useful to set forth some considerations that relate to the symptom.

Consider that no movement forward in public education has been made in this district over the past 30 years without the literal or figurative revolver of the state department at the temple of the school board or its administrator. It is probably true for the preceding period; we shall not comment on events that transpired before we were here to witness them.

What are some of those movements? The annexation of the Shiloh district, made at gunpoint; the inception of the joint vocational school, made at gunpoint; the inception of the joint vocational school, made at gunpoint; required inoculation of pupils, made at gunpoint; assignment of guidance counselors at the high school and junior high school levels, made at gunpoint; adjustment of commencement day so that 12th graders may complete a 180-day school year, made at gunpoint; additional requirements for the diploma, made at gunpoint.

That leadership by professionals has been conspicuous by its absence, or at least by the lack of visible results, may be symptomatic of what ails us. Is there any real evidence that professionals were encouraged to innovate? Or did they wait until they thought the public would hold still for innovation? If so, they obviously waited too long.

It was and is this sort of thinking that has resulted, in part, at least, but certainly significantly, in developments that, regardless of whether they were inevitable and irrespective of whether they are in the long run either necessary or good for us, have inalterably changed life in this community. Has it changed for the better?

There is no local bank. Both banks are owned and controlled from without Plymouth.

There is no local industry. What we have is owned and controlled from without Plymouth.

How and when and where we worship God is determined, to a great extent, less by us than by guidelines, conditions, circumstances and obligations laid down outside the village limits.

We were compelled to put ourselves in hock until well into the next century to establish a sanitary sewer system.

Every time we turn on the tap, our water comes from without and we are, when it comes right down to it, at the mercy of our neighbors.

To keep the cold out and the light on means that we must make our obeisances to forces from without rather than within the community. There isn't even a representative of either force present here; it requires a toll call to Mansfield for the one and the intercession of assistance from without for the other to restore service if it should, for whatever reason, be interrupted.

If we wish to oppose the system, to seek to please see page 4

Zoning variance to allow cooler will be approved

A variance to the village zoning

Ellis given 60-year pin by Masons

A 60-year membership pin was handed Monday night by Richland Lodge 201, F&AM, to Carl V. Ellis, veteran trustee of Greenlawn cemetery and former clerk of the village.

He is a 1922 alumnus of Plymouth High school who moved to Greenwich after attending Ohio State university briefly. He served as trustee of public affairs there for several years. He returned to Plymouth, worked briefly for the Fate-Root-Heath Co. and has lived here since.

He is a past worthy patron of Plymouth Chapter 231, OES, and a past worshipful master of Richland lodge. He served the Eastern Star chapter as sentinel for many years.

Ex-football star to be heard Tuesday on four charges

Four charges against a former Big Red football and wrestling star were continued in mayor's court Oct. 30.

Michael A. Messer, Shelby route 1, will be heard Tuesday on four counts: speeding at 58 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone, drunken driving, driving with an expired license and possession of marijuana.

Charges of speeding 50 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone against Ernest A. Cole, Plymouth; of assault against Michael L. Weaver, Shiloh; of disorderly conduct against Michael F. Gowitzka, Plymouth, and of speeding 63 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone

Taylor winner for speech

Kevin Taylor, 11th grader, only son of the Michael R. Taylors, 320 East Main street, was unanimously chosen winner of the 1984 Voice of Democracy declamation contest in Plymouth High school Oct. 31.

He defeated four finalists, Marina Castle, Susan Beebe, Angela Beverly and Michael Hawkins.

Mrs. Bradley Ream organized the contest. Principal Jeffrey Slangon was master of ceremonies. He defeated four finalists, Marina Castle, Susan Beebe, Angela Beverly and Michael Hawkins. code to benefit Mack's Super Valu will be approved by the new village board of zoning appeals as soon as application therefor is submitted by Charles D. Mack, operator.

The board, meeting for the first time Monday night since it was constituted earlier, began by choosing C. Joseph Runkle as its chairman. The only woman member, Mrs. Eugene O. Roeder, was selected as secretary.

The proposal by Mack is to erect an addition at a cost of $10,000 to house a cooler. Details of the proposal were laid before the board but no formal request for a variance was filed by Mack.

After discussion, the board decided to approve the variance if and when Mack makes application for it and if, during the required public hearings, there is no valid public outcry in opposition to it.

Public hearing must be advertised in a newspaper of general circulation in the village and any resident of the village, whether citizen-elect or otherwise, may object. An objection by one whose freehold is not directly affected by the proposed variance is not likely to receive much, if any, of the board's attention.

Clerk resigns; Miss Ritchie to be successor

Mrs. Judy Hedge has resigned as utilities clerk and will be replaced by Nancy Ritchie, formerly dispatcher in the police department.

Mrs. Hedge will assume management of a women's ready-to-wear shop in Mansfield. Its owner is her former employer.

against Patricia A. Monahan, Shelby, were continued to Tuesday.

Oma L. Hall, Shelby, accused of disorderly conduct, and Rosetta Handshoe, Plymouth, charged with display of improper license tags, did not appear. Bench warrants will issue. The former was earlier incarcerated at Shelby for failure to appear and was released because the village concluded to pay the daily charge to Shelby would be more than it could recover in a fine.

Four charges against Richard S. Riser, Willard, who did not appear, resulted in forfeiture of his bond. He was accused of permitting an unlicensed driver to operate his vehicle, possession of marijuana, mishandling of a firearm and disorderly conduct. Elaine E. Beaght, Willard, charged with display of improper license tags, also did not appear.

Charge of speeding 37 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone against Timothy Sexton, Willard, were dismissed.

Disposition of other cases: Leonard Barnett, Willard, carrying a concealed weapon, pleaded not guilty, found guilty, $100; disorderly conduct, guilty, $50; Craig Pooch, Bellevue, speeding, $28; Donald E. Gibson, Plymouth, speeding, $20.

Also, Kevin D. Brundage, Willard, speeding, $46; Helen C. Gawron, Greenwich, stop sign violation, $18; Dorothy Seaman, Plymouth, open burning, $15; Douglas Smith, Shiloh, open burning, $15.

Also, Ralph E. Gayhart, Willard, failure to signal a turn, $15; land, failure to signal a turn, $15.

By AUNT LIZ
Most of us seem to live in our little world.
It is a rare treat to get in on another one that we hardly know exists.
Artists stick with artists, train collectors know other train collectors, and one and on.
A few weeks ago I had a good look at a world I knew had to exist but had never really met any of the people. It was an experience.
We had been invited to a luncheon on horse breeders, racers and trainers.
The food was poor, straight out of the freezer, but the people were fascinating.
They look and act like ordinary people, and they have one passion, those four legged animals whom they consider to be people.
We sat at a table with six others who knew each other, so you can guess what they talked about. I just sat and tried to look as though I knew too.
Frankly, my record with horse racing isn't too bad. Over the years I have been very lucky in picking Derby winners. Granted, my method is not acceptable to those who really know. I just pick out a number I like and a name, and they seem to win.
The guest speaker at this deal was a vet from Ohio State, and now I know all about feeding horses. This should be interesting: they need to eat all the time, not just three meals because of the way their innards are constructed. I know: he showed all 96 feet of them. So if you have a horse in your backyard, let him graze away. It was a real lesson in anatomy.
The day ended with door prizes being given out, and they were very valuable for any horse owner. It costs a great deal for a lady horse to meet up with a good gentleman here for a drink or two plus what a lot of people do for nothing. They must have given out about a dozen free such prizes, and there I sat hoping our two numbers would not be drawn since we only have a cocker and not a horse.
Who would ever believe me if I won a "free state service"? Fortunately, we didn't even win a horse blanket.

I'm sure they all had a good time and headed back home for something really decent to eat that they were wise enough to prepare ahead.
This can be done ahead, but many, many will say it is all wrong because there are no beans and there is simply not a way you can make decent chili without them. Just try it.
Brown a large minced onion in about three tablespoons of margarine. Add a pound of good ground beef, and when it is finished, move it to a large kettle, such as a Dutch oven.
Mix in two minced cloves of garlic, one and a third cups of canned tomatoes, a minced green pepper, a half teaspoon of celery seed, a good dash of cayenne pepper, a teaspoon of crushed cummin seed, a bay leaf, two tablespoons chili powder, a dash of basil, a bit of salt and three cups of water.
Simmer it until it is thick after bringing it all to a good boil.
And if you can't resist it, throw in a can of drained kidney beans at the end. And if you want it kind of hot, throw in some jalapeno peppers, a few small ones dried.

Mounties ride over Red, 26 to 12

The big league Plymouth band strode onto Robert A. Lewis Memorial field in the chill Friday night and toolied its roster number, a tune that is big league but has of late been characterized by a minor league team, one that no longer frightens its opponents into submission before the first whistle.

The real words to that song speak of "calling thunder from the sky". Little did the Big Red suspect Friday that this call for thunder would erupt in 26 straight points in the second and third periods and a thumping by Mapleton in the final game of the season. The score was 26 to 12.

It was Band Parents' night and the musicians acquitted themselves with precision and good technique. And they said goodbye, and a few minutes early, to the 12th graders who've served the outfit so faithfully and so well over four seasons.

They also said goodbye to a football team that only once this season showed any signs of being big league and, fraught by mistakes that were mostly of its own making and repetitive ones, including another 15-yard assessment against the bench, bringing the season's total to six penalties and 90 yards, has played like lower bush league for most of the time.

Aside from a part of the fourth period, Plymouth did not play well at all. At Mapleton, which entered this contest with the same record as the Big Red, came to play and play well.

Which is what this smaller and less experienced eleven did. Consider that the Mounties had to suspend their athletic program a couple of seasons back because of shortage of funds, an action that forced some talented players to enroll in other schools.

Five veterans seek places on girls' five

A 20-game slate under a new head coach faces Plymouth girls basketball team.

Opening contest is with Mansfield Christian here Nov. 29.

Five scrimmages have been set: Shelby, here, today; Fremont St. Joseph's, here, Saturday; Seneca East, here, Tuesday; Willard, there, Nov. 17, and Ontario, here, Nov. 24.

Remainder of the varsity slate: Dec. 4, Crestline, here; 8, *St. Paul's, there; 11, *Edison, here; 13, *Mapleton, there; 18, *South Central, here;

Jan. 3, *Black River, there; 8, *Crestview, here; 14, Wynford, there; 15, *Monroeville, there; 17, *New London, here; 22, *Western Reserve, there; 24, Lucas, here; 29, *Black River, here;

Feb. 2, Colonel Crawford, here; 5, *Mapleton, here; 7, South Central, there; 12, *Crestview, there; 19, *Edison, there; 21, Lucas, there.

Five letter winners, all 12th graders, boasting 10 varsity letters among them, are candidates for McDaniel's first squad. So are nine monogram winners off the most successful reserve team in Big Red history.

Letter winners are Rhonda Branham, Lisa Baker, Patti Payne, Jodi Pitzon and Lori Fidler. Miss Branham has three, Miss Fidler one, the others two.

Reserve players up from last year are Karen Howell, Dianna Hudson, Angie Martin, Tami Tackett and Carol Tullis, 11th graders, and Michelle Collins, Kay Niedermeier, Christian Thompson and Karen Thornberry, 10th graders.

Red rated 20th in computer ranks

Western Reserve's Roughriders completed an undefeated 10-game season and finished first in Region 14, Division IV, to capture a place in the state playdowns.

The Collins eleven, capably coached by Dick Taylor, will meet Evergreen of Marietta in Bloss stadium at Fremont tomorrow at 7 p. m.

New London placed 22nd and Edison 27th in Region 14, Black River 2nd and Crestview 22nd in Region 13, also in Division IV.

Among Division V schools, Monroeville placed fifth in Region 18, St. Paul's 14th, Plymouth tied for 20th, with St. Joseph's of Westfield, and South Central 25th. In Region 17, also in Division V, Mapleton placed 22nd.

The slogan of the real Mounties, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, is that they "always get their man".

Friday night was a perfect example of that.

The Mounties blunted the opening Plymouth drive and produced a score with their third possession of the game.

Plymouth pressed in to the Mapleton 18 with the opening kickoff and ran out of downs after three incomplete passes. It was the passing game that got it to that point, Troy Keene's throws to Shawn Moore having gained 22 of the 49 yards that Plymouth covered in this drive.

But the home forces surrendered possession and on fourth down Dion Bowersock punted to the Plymouth 47. On second down, Co-capt. Mike Hawkins couldn't get an errant pichover by Keene and Mapleton recovered at the Red 49. On the fourth play thereafter, Bowersock booted 37 yards to the Plymouth nine.

On first down Keene passed. It was a high, wobbling throw that was intercepted by Shannon Pelton and run into to the Plymouth 28.

Mapleton needed six plays to score. The touchdown came on a shot of two inches by Davyl Young, the quarterback, Kevin Hickey's run for PATs did not succeed.

The clock read 9:49.

Eight minutes later, the Mounties were again in the Plymouth end zone.

After a punt of 30 yards by Junior Porter carried to the Mountie 43 to Scott Cooper, he ran it in to the Plymouth 40. The Mounties needed eight plays to cover the remaining distance. A 27-yard pass play that Young telegraphed when he emerged from the huddle connected to Cooper at the Red 14. Young got almost a first down in two shots and on third down at the Red four, the Plymouth defense stiffened and threw the Mountie charge back less than the length of the ball he needed for fourth down.

The Big Red had momentum here.

But the wheels spun.

The right side of the Red line chug on the fourth down was snapped and the ensuing penalty of two yards gave the visitors first down at the Plymouth 20. Hickey burst home on the first play. He ran the PATs and Mapleton led by 14 to 0 with 1:40 remaining in the half.

Save for the 14 points on the scoreboard, play was even during the first 24 minutes.

The Mounties in 31 plays had five first downs, two of which were credited because they scored touchdowns, and a net of 45 yards on the ground. Uhey had thrown five times, completed two, lost one by interception, and gained 36 yards. With 30 plays, Plymouth had four first downs, 69 yards by rushing and 22 yards by passing, with four-of-12 and one interception.

Mapleton punted in its first series of the second half. Plymouth did likewise.

Porter's punt carried to the Mountie 20, whereupon the visitors struck for their third touchdown.

It came for three reasons: Brian Mohrman, who was to gain 102 yards in eight carries, burst through the left side of Plymouth's line for 47 yards and first down at the Plymouth 47; a personal foul penalty gave Mapleton first down at the Red 29; Young found Greg Forbush with a pass that was good for 18 yards and the third touchdown. The clock read 8:08. A kick for PATs was not good.

The Mounties weren't finished.

The next time they got the ball, after Scott Ryman fumbled away possession at the Mountie 45, Mohrman on first down bolted through tackle for 55 yards and the final Mountie score. Bowersock's run for PATs failed.

Such as Plymouth could achieve it was merely to reduce the size of the rout.

Mapleton kicked to retain possession at Plymouth 18 with the effort. With the ball at the Red 43, Keene threw for eight to Moore and on third down Tim Deakin got 13 around the end. On first down, Keene lofted a pass that Steve Hall gathered in behind the Mountie secondary for the first score. Randy Myers' kick for PAT was blocked.

Successive penalties of 15 yards, one for face mask violation, the other for personal foul against Terry Mansfield, who was ordered off, gave the Mounties possession at the Plymouth 17. A five yard penalty set them back and on fourth down they threw, incomplete.

The Big Red took over at its 20, on first down Keene passed. It was cranked out its second and final score.

On successive plays, Keene threw for eight yards to Deakin, for 17 yards to Ryman and for 42 yards to Deakin. From an 18, on first down, Ryman drove for 16, then for two for the score.

Keene threw to Hall for the PAT but Plymouth was ruled to have had an ineligible receiver downfield. The 16-yard penalty required an effort from the 23. It failed.

The clock read 6:30 remaining in the game.

Plymouth braced and forced Mapleton to punt in the next series. Rodney Beverly blocked the kick and ran with it to the Mapleton 40. The Big Red attacked and on fourth down, from the 23, sought to pass to Hall. It fell incomplete. Coach Richard Roll shouted for an interference penalty and the referee shouted for Roll to cease his mouth. The referee won. Plymouth also lost 15 yards. "Truth to tell, Hall punted the defender first."

Plymouth was fine and Roll manfully extracted the veteran players who were wearing the Red and White for the last time, to a smattering of applause by those still assembled this cold night.

Mapleton reserves now came into the game and were on the march at the Red 15 when time ran out.

It was not a pretty performance. Plymouth completed its season at 3-and-7, only 2-and-5 in the southern division of the Firelands conference, a far cry from its lofty perch of 1983, when it won all the marbles.

The defeat also brought Roll's three year service at the helm here to 15-and-26.

Snuggle up with a portable electric heater.

More and more families are using a portable electric heater to keep warm and cozy. It makes sense because a portable electric heater costs less than a gas or kerosene heater. What's more, the electric heater is safer and easier to use. And it's much cleaner, with no fumes or odors.

The beauty of an electric heater is its portability. You can use your heater in any room of your house, whenever you want to use it.

Portable electric heaters come in many different models and sizes. Find the one that's best for you, and you'll be comfortable all winter long.

Boys fined at Shelby for use of alcohol

Three Plymouth High school boys were convicted in Shelby Municipal court of consumption of alcohol while less than 19 years of age.

Each was fined $45.50. These are Timothy D. Tuttle, 18, Plymouth Villa; Todd C. Fenner, 18, Plymouth-Springmill road, and Brian E. Hesse, 18, Route 603, Shiloh.

Lack of volunteers to assist teachers continues to be a concern of Plymouth High school, its principal, Jeffery Slauson, says in the annual report of the school district.

And attendance by parents at conferences with teachers was not all it should be, Slauson said.

He complains that the conference sessions, scheduled twice a year, are "basically poorly attended."

Experienced coaches, supervisors and directors of extracurricular activities are "in short supply" and tolerance by the public is needed until experience is obtained, he said.

Classroom space is at a premium. Some teachers must give up a classroom during planning periods to accommodate other class sections. Storage space is in short supply as well, he said.

Average teacher experience at Shiloh, Edward M. Kinsel reported, is 11 years. There are seven teachers with 16 or more years, 12 with from 10 to 15 years, 10 with from six to 10 years and 10 with five or less.

Enrollment at Shiloh numbers 293 boys and 281 girls, a total of 574. There are no crossing guards for elementary pupils attending classes at Plymouth and there is no health clinic for children who become ill during the school day. Mark E. Sheely, assistant principal in charge of the building reports.

Enrollment is 116 boys and 119 girls for a total of 235 pupils.

There are 73 certified staff members, 29 non-certified and one library aide, for a total of 103 persons on the payroll.

Average classroom teacher's salary is $19,111.

Female teachers comprise 57.5 per cent of the staff, male 42.5 per cent.

Average classroom teacher has 11.4 years of experience and training.

Total enrollment is 1,243 pupils, of whom eight are black, seven are of Spanish origin, three are Oriental-Americans.

There are 72 pupils enrolled in Pioneer Joint Vocational school, seven mentally handicapped pupils receiving special instruction and two physically handicapped pupils.

What's the point?

It is that He helps those who help themselves. What it takes is leadership, of which, we are constrained to say, there is all too little hereabouts. And what there is, we must add, is either unwilling to lead, having been seared in the past, unfairly and sometimes rudely, or unable to command broad support.

This is the first time in the 134-year history of the local lodge that a member has been so honored.

After the ceremonies, there will be a reception.

54 per cent increase in income reported by Banner Industries

A 54 per cent rise in net income for the first quarter ending Sept. 30 is reported by Banner Industries Inc., parent firm of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc.

Sales volume increased 20 per cent.

International sales accounted for 40 per cent of the firm's quarter business and rose 18 per cent despite the advance in strength of the U. S. dollar abroad.

The aviation aftermarket group accounted for 65 per cent of total sales. It specializes in aircraft replacement parts and new and retrained aircraft tires throughout the world.

Net sales for the quarter amounted to $30,048,317, up almost 85 million from a year ago.

Net income rose to $826,984, up from $604,157 in 1983. This amounted to 21 cents a share, up eight cents from a year ago.

Snyder burial here

Interment took place in Green-lawn cemetery Saturday for John W. Snyder, 63, Mansfield, who died at his home Thursday morning of a lengthy illness.

Born in Galion Jan. 9, 1921, he lived in or near Mansfield all his life. He was a retired truck driver and a member of AMVETS Post 26.

A brother, Clarence M. Norwalk, Cal., and a sister, Mrs. Dewey Brown, Bellville, survive.

Leroy Bumpus, Perry Church of Christ, conducted the last service at Ontario.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS FROM FRIENDS TO FRIENDS. I'm perfectly fine. I can drive with my eyes closed. There's nothing wrong with me. Are you joking—I feel great. What am I—a wimp? I'm in great shape to drive. You're not serious are you? What's a couple of beers? Nobody drives my car but me. I've never felt better. I can drink with the best of them. But I only had a few. So I had a couple. I can drive rings around anybody. I can drive my own car, thank you. I'm not drunk. I drive better when I'm like this. Who says I can't drink drive? I can hold my booze. I know I'm doing. I always drive like this. Trust me. What's a few thing to me. I'm with my eyes with me. drink
