

What of 1985? Some thought on what to do

It is difficult to be sanguine about the prospects for the New Year.

Economic recovery on a national basis is an established fact. Locally it is not.

And there are no immediate signs of improvement. There has been a steady, almost inexorable decline, over the past several years. During 1983 (the last year for which detailed data are available), for example, retailers doing business in Plymouth Local School district obtained less than nine per cent of the expendable income of the 2,152 families residing therein.

Truth to tell, there is absolutely no sign that when the data for 1984 are available, there will be any improvement. Nor is there reason to believe that 1985 will be any different. Indeed it is likely that the steady decline of Plymouth as a market place will continue.

What can or should be done about it, and by whom, are questions that we, at least, expect to deal with later on. But in some conclusions we are fixed.

One is that government ought to stay out of it. Government is neither geared up to do the job nor equipped to do it right. If concessions are needed, indeed assuming that they are required, it is for government to act for the body politic. If there is insufficient stimulus to private enterprise and private investment to accomplish what is necessary to survive, then it follows that government cannot achieve the same ends. Besides, we have seen clearly that whatever government asserts it can do, private business can do faster, better and cheaper.

Another is that unless building costs suddenly drop, making it feasible to construct commercial buildings to house going retail enterprises, any improvement in the services and goods offered to the consumer in the local marketplace is hardly likely.

It follows from these that a third conclusion is evident: that since our children cannot hope to find career employment here, or nearby, given the trend to eliminate blue collar jobs and to replace them with service occupations that command a far lower pay scale, we must prepare them to compete in the fast lane a considerable distance from home.

It is time, perhaps long past time, that we should expect more leadership from the educational establishment. The professionals need to encourage their elected overseers to see the light and to make progress along lines that we have so far neglected or nor dealt with at all.

What lines?
Consider what our children need.
First, they must be capable of digesting and mastering a glut of information, visual and verbal, that will make today's "knowledge explosion" pale in comparison.

Second, they must become increasingly adept in defending their right to think for themselves, in detecting and resisting mental manipulation and the increasingly more sophisticated propaganda, disinformation and advertising that bombards them and us all.

Third, they will be called upon more and more to identify for themselves standards of ethics and morality that will no longer be routinely provided for them by their major social structures, by which read family and church.

Fourth, they will need to live, rather than just know, the truths they are defining, to come to grips with the ultimate purposes of man, in order to cut through the relativism and nihilism of an increasingly techno-centric age and achieve some semblance of contentment and self-worth.

The first two are matters of process, of knowing how. The last two are matters of content, of knowing what. These can be taught simultaneously. Unfortunately, we are not doing a complete job of it now. And unless we start, and start soon, we'll all sink.

Frank heads Scout council as of Monday

George F. "Bud" Frank Jr., Rochester, N. Y., will become Scout executive of Johnny Appleseed Area council, Boy Scouts of America, Monday, says Thomas Doty, council president.

Frank comes to this area from the national council, B.S.A. Irving, Tex. He will succeed Arthur N. Adler, who accepted the position as Scout executive of the Northwest Suburban council in Arlington Hts., Ill.

Frank began his professional Scouting career in 1961 as a district executive in Rochester. Since then, he has been field director of camping in Rochester and Minneapolis, Minn. His most recent position was in the international division of the Boy Scouts of America, where he has served as an assistant director. His responsibilities included: raising financial support for World Scouting, director of the 29th World Scout conference, and as an advisor to the Scout Foundation in Geneva, Switzerland.

A reception to welcome him to the council will take place at Tappan-Ott lodge, Camp Avery Hand, Jan. 17, 1985 from 7 to 9 p. m. All Scouters and supporters of the Johnny Appleseed council are invited.

Rape claim found to be 'consenting' sex act

Outlandish sex acts complained of by a visitor to 104 Sandusky street Dec. 21 at 8:23 p. m. were found to have been a consenting sexual liaison, Plymouth police report.

Sharon Diane Gilbert, Norwalk, in town with her sons, said she went to quarters occupied by her former husband, Randall Oney, where he demanded fellatio and bestial copulation, which she refused. Examination at Fisher-Titus Memorial hospital, Norwalk, disclosed that conventional sex had occurred, which authorities said was consenting.

No charges were filed. Kimberly Adams, 83 Park avenue, complained on Dec. 28 at 4:20 p. m. that her former husband, Jeffrey, Willard, had assaulted her.

No charges were filed. Donna Russell, 81 Railroad street, reported Dec. 30 at 8:42 p. m. that vandals broke a window.

Mrs. Walter C. Dawson, 17 East High street, reported at 8:49 p. m. that vandals had made off with 12 Yale lights.

1983 alumna in honor society at Rio Grande

A 1983 alumna of Plymouth High, Janet Walters, daughter of the Homer Walters, was chosen for membership in the honor society of Rio Grande college, Rio Grande, where she made a 4.0 grade-point average for the fall quarter.

Ex-businessman included - Police nab four in theft ring

A former Public Square businessman and the son of a school board member were arrested Dec. 21 and 22 by Huron county authorities on charges of grand theft.

Their alleged accomplice, a Trux street resident, was also accused of grand theft. Another accomplice, a Willard resident, is charged with breaking and entering.

In what may have been his swan song, because he left office at midnight Monday, Sheriff John Borgia said the arrests solve 202 separate burglaries in Huron, Lorain, Medina, Ashland, Richland, Crawford, Seneca and Wyandot counties.

The arrests were made on:

John Linville, 39, 33 West High street, formerly operator of a used furniture business at 6 East Main street;
Dale Strong, 23, 103 Trux street;
Anthony Reinhart, 21, 65 Railroad street;
Gary Lacey, 26, Willard Mobile Homes.
Lacey is charged with breaking and entering, the others with grand theft.
Reinhart's father is Charles, a member of Plymouth Board of Education.
Huron county sheriff's deputies and Plymouth and Willard police enforced search warrants to recover some stolen items, among which are chain saws, lawnmowers, bicycles and mopeds.

Mayor objects to pay scales

Pay raises for village employees were approved Thursday night by the council over the protests of Mayor Dean A. Cline.

When the ordinance was reviewed last month by the council committee, approval seemed certain. The following night, however, during the Dec. 11 regular council meeting, Councilman Terry Hopkins voiced objection that some employees would be receiving a higher raise than others.

Tax rate at $52.60 for village during '85

Freeholders in Plymouth will pay Richland county real estate taxes at the rate of $52.60 for each $1,000 of valuation during 1985, Daniel F. Smith, treasurer, announces.

Breakdown: $7.10 is county levy, $1.80 is Plymouth township tax, $32.90 is school tax, $10.80 is village tax. Only Shiloh has a higher village tax among Richland county communities.

Taxes in Plymouth township within the school district will be assessed at $44.90, including $7.10 county levy, $32.90 school tax, $4.90 township tax. Shilohans will pay at the rate of $56.30.

Breakdown: $7.10 is county levy, $2.30 is Cass township tax, $32.90 is school tax, $14 is village tax. Cass township taxpayers will pay at the rate of $43.30, of which $32.90 is school tax, $3.30 is township tax and $7.10 is the county levy.

Bloominggrove township tax rate in the school district is $43.60, of which $7.10 is the county levy, $32.90 is the school tax and $3.60 is the township levy.

Water fee increased by 20% at Shiloh

A 20 per cent increase in water rates takes effect in Shiloh next month.

Village council there considered Dec. 26 a recommendation of trustees of public affairs to raise rates by $2 a household to $12 a month and divided evenly. Councilman Frank Cline, Charles R. Reeder and Dan Hockley voted yes, Councilmen Delmar Nesbitt, Barbara Music and Richard Tallman voted nay. Mayor Francis Gowitzka's ballot broke the tie.

J. Michael Bauer, chairman of the trustees, was present to explain what the trustees believe is a genuine need.

Mrs. Music, Nesbitt and Tallman insisted there is enough revenue now and no raise need be effected.

Bauer introduced data showing revenues in 1982, 1983 and 1984 and says they show diminishing margins of profit. He said major improvements of service in Superior street are called for and money to fund them is needed. A bigger line should be installed to the industrial park, Bauer said.

Last rate increase took place in 1978.

Increase to Plymouth Local School district will amount to $50 a month to $200.

Only two metered areas will be affected. These are Big Oak Campgrounds and the automatic laundry.

Rates to these establishments will now be 96 cents for each 1,000 gallons for the first 7,000 gallons, then 66 cents a thousand for the next 10,000 gallons and 54 cents a thousand for consumption over 17,000 but under 67,000 gallons a month. Usage over that figure will be billed at 36 cents for each 1,000 gallons.

Cline completed his service as councilman, his resignation having taken effect Monday at midnight.

everyone knows what it is. Your family should have something a little special too. This recipe for either rabbit or duck comes from "A New Book of Cookeries" written in the good old days, 1615.
Parboils any of these, and half roast it, launch them down the breast with your knife, and slice them with two or three Cloves. Then put them into a Pipkin with half a pound of sweet Butter, a little white Wine Verge, a piece of whole Mace, a little beaten Ginger, and Pepper. Then 'mince two Onions very small, with a piece of an Apple, so let them boyle leisurely, close covered, the space of two hours, turning them now and then. Scum them in upon Sippets."
The translation of it is a rabbit or duck cut in serving pieces. Parboil for half an hour. Save two cups of the broth and add a fourth of a cup of butter, a fourth of a cup of white wine vinegar, an eighth of a teaspoon of mace, a half teaspoon of ground ginger, two onions minced, and a large apple peeled and cored and cut into wedges. Cover and cook slowly until the meat is tender.

Red nips New Riegel for third in tourney

Plymouth rescued third place in the first annual Colonel Crawford-Buckeye Central Holiday tourney at North Robinson Saturday night.

The Big Red rallied to defeat New Riegel, 61 to 50, thanks to Steve Hall's bucket from 15 feet out with just 10 seconds left on the clock.

The lead changed hands 12 times and the game was tied nine times before the issue was settled. It was closer than the seventh balcony at the opera house throughout.

The Big Red led after eight by four points at 14 to 10, mostly because Jeff Lasch had his outside shot working well. The Blue Jackets tied at after 16, Plymouth being forced to come from behind to assure the standoff at 24. Troy Keene, coming into his own as a scorer of late, fired a rebound into the basket to reach No. 24.

Plymouth has not been a third period team, certainly not this season, at any rate (truth to tell, over nearly 31 seasons, the Big Red has notoriously performed poorly in the third period, save for a couple of seasons, notably 1959-60 and 1967-68), but Saturday's outing produced the exception. The Big Red scored 18 points, which were matched by New Riegel, and the two teams went at it in the last eight minutes tied at 42.

Plymouth fired 14 shots at the basket in the third period and made eight of them. Eric Rath added two free throws. The Blue Jackets were six-of-19, with six free throws.

The Big Red strung 10 unanswered points together in the final quarter to establish a lead of 54 to 46 before New Riegel found itself and clawed back.

It did so for the most part with 10 points by Scott Theis, who scored three field goals and four free throws.

Plymouth, meanwhile, was getting rounded production: six from Hall, including his only field goal in the period, the winner, and four each from Lasch and Keene.

Two free throws by Hall at 1:09 gave Plymouth a lead of 59 to 56.

This canned a shot from the top of the key with 44 seconds remaining and at 22 seconds, after Plymouth had used its last time out. They sank two free throws. This established a Blue Jacket lead of 60 to 59 and set the stage for the dramatic climax.

Plymouth came up the floor, as Coach David Dunn had planned in the time out session, and worked the ball to Hall in the middle. With just 18 ticks left, he threw it up just 10 ticks left, he threw it up from behind the foul line and it struck the glass and swished into the net.

Overall, Plymouth got off 63 shots, making 25, and missed only four of 15 free throws. It took down 27 rebounds, four fewer than the Blue Devils, and failed to get off a shot on 10 advances.

New Riegel, a Plymouth opponent for the first time, fired 58 free throws, making 24, and missed six of 18 free throws. The Blue Jackets were guilty of 15 mistakes on offense.

Lasch was game high scorer with 20, all on field goals. Keene was next with 10. Hall contributed 10.

Rick Wank, one of two Wanks on the floor for the Blue Devils, scored 15 but Randy Reinhart, one of two Reinharths playing for the Jackets, scored 18. This had 12.

Shop at home

Colonel Crawford, one of the host clubs, played without two of its big guns, assigned to the grandstand for disciplinary reasons, but it had enough to vanquish Plymouth in the first round, 50 to 42.

The Big Red seized an early lead and held it until 6:11 of the third period, when once again the second half flush struck it. Plymouth produced only five points in the third quarter and that was its undoing. The Big Red played catch-up basketball thereafter and failed to do that. Closest it got was three points, at the end of the third quarter and early into the fourth.

Plymouth outbounded the Eagles, 31 to 27, and made three more mistakes on offense at 11 to eight. It was in the shooting department that the Big Red was found wanting. It got off 47 shots at the basket and made 17 of them.

The Eagles launed 49 tries and scored with 21. Each team scored with eight free throws, Plymouth with 18 tries, Colonel Crawford with 13.

Jeff Lasch's renowned shot from outside did not work well early on. He was just five of 15 for the night. Eric Rath scored 13 to lead the Big Red. Troy Keene contributed eight.

Todd Martin with 17 was game high for the Eagles.

Pirates win Furious rally falls short

A furious rally by Plymouth fell short by a point of tying Black River at Sullivan Dec. 21 and the Pirates won, 56 to 55, in Firelands conference play.

The Big Red thus starts league competition in 1985 with a 2-and-3 record. Black River is 3-and-2.

Plymouth was hard put to control the scoring of Tim Chaney who netted 19 points. Mike Clifford was good for 15 and John Rook 13 for the Pirates, who opened a lead in the first period and saw it go by the boards on the strength of a strong Plymouth performance in the second quarter. At the half the Big Red was ahead by four at 29 to 25.

Once again it was a disastrous third period that was Plymouth's undoing. This has been a classic weakness of Big Red teams, particularly in the last several seasons, and the outing at Sullivan was in the old patters. Plymouth managed only seven points while the Pirates were scoring 20. So the Big Red entered the last eight minutes down by nine at 45 to 36.

The Pirates outshot Plymouth from the field, 25 to 23. Plymouth outscored its host at the penalty line, nine to six. The Big Red fired for field goal 56 times, the Pirates only 45. Plymouth missed six free throws, Black River four.

Plymouth outbounded the Pirates, 31 to 28, and failed on offense to get off a shot only 10 times, to Black River's 17.

The Big Red was beaten at the foul line. Each team canned 17 field goals, St. Paul's with 60 shots, Plymouth with 74.

The Flyersets outbounded the Big Red, 44 to 34, and made fewer mistakes on offense, 15 to 21.

Lori Fidler scored 13 and Rhonda Branham 12 for the home forces. Ann Nestor had 16.

Michelle Smith 14 for the winners. Teresa Hacketh took down 13 rebounds.

Plymouth did not get a good start and lagged after eight minutes by nine at 18 to 10. It came within three of tying the Flyersets in the next two periods but 12 points were too many to make up in the final canto, when Plymouth outscored St. Paul's, 18 to 11.

IT'S TIME TO STOP TALKING ABOUT EDUCATION.

The topic's been covered up one side and down the other. Reports tell us that over half of our high school graduates can't even write a simple letter. Can't think through the most basic kinds of problems. And therefore, aren't adequately prepared to join our country's work force.

But haven't we said enough? Published enough dismal findings? Isn't it time something was done? Yes. And the fact is, every one of us can help. Many already are - individuals, small businesses, large businesses, and all types of organizations. Here are just a few ways:

- Individuals can: volunteer as teachers' aides
- attend school meetings
- run for school board
- support school bond issues
- donate time to school libraries
- urge elected officials to push for better funding. Businesses and other organizations can: loan or donate equipment

- provide internship programs
- hire teachers for summer jobs
- support new legislation
- help train school personnel on the latest technology
- form partnerships with local schools
- work with a state task force on education.

There's no denying we have a problem. One that threatens our individual lives, as well as our nation's economy. Because without quality education, America won't have a quality future.

Talking isn't going to change that. But doing something will. To find out more, write: Task Force on Education for Economic Growth, P.O. Box 76696, Washington, D.C. 20013.

It's just plain smart to get involved.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A letter to the parents of 12th graders. We had the opportunity last month to speak at length with some of the people who prepare the American College Test, the ACT, which is required for admission by all but one of the state universities (one, Miami university, requires the stiffer, more difficult, Scholastic Aptitude Test, the SAT), and we were told that the test will be made more difficult.

They said the reason for this is that state legislatures throughout the country are finding it impossible to raise and appropriate money to pay for activities, services and instruction at the university level that, presumably, have already been paid for but poorly executed at the secondary level. In open door admission states, such as Ohio, where the graduate year accredited high school is entitled to admission to a state university, it has been the routine to assign freshmen who cannot write well enough nor deal with mathematics sufficiently to remedial classes. No more, say the ACT people. To cope with this change, there will now be more rigid screening at the secondary level. A tougher test is the outcome, in part, at least, of this trend.

What are the main shortcomings of high school applicants for university instruction? That was the question we asked of them, bearing in mind that presumably only the top echelons of high school graduates even consider university instruction.

"They haven't read enough, at least not of what counts." And what counts?

One of them handed us a list. So if you want to do something for yourself and your child between now and the end of May, when the child graduates, whether or not the child intends to go on to higher education, you should see to it that the child has read, and understands, all of these books. The list is not exclusive; there are other books that ought to be read. But these are the absolute rock-bottom.

Plays by William Shakespeare (there are 33 of them, but only seven are considered to be the most important);

- "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" by Mark Twain;
- The Bible;
- "The Scarlet Letter" by Nathaniel Hawthorne;
- "The Odyssey" by Homer;
- "The Grapes of Wrath" by John Steinbeck;
- "The Great Gatsby" by F. Scott Fitzgerald;
- "To kill a Mockingbird" by Harper Lee;
- "Great Expectations" by

- Charles Dickens; "A Tale of Two Cities" by Charles Dickens;
- "Catcher in the Rye" by J. D. Salinger;
- "Oedipus Rex" by Sophocles;
- "Lord of the Flies" by William Golding;
- "Crime and Punishment" by Fyodor Dostoevski;
- "1984" by George Orwell;
- "The Old Man and the Sea" by Ernest Hemingway;
- "Moby Dick" by Herman Melville;
- "Mythology" by Edith Hamilton;
- "The Red Badge of Courage" by Stephen Crane;
- "The Canterbury Tales" by

  - "Walden" by Henry D. Thoreau;
  - "Native Son" by Richard Wright;
  - "Brave New World" by Aldous Huxley;
  - "Animal Farm" by George Orwell;
  - "Of Mice and Men" by John Steinbeck.
- We endorse this list, on the understanding that if we were choosing it, there would be other entries and some deletions. Submitted out of a feeling of duty and a sense of pride by A. L. Paddock, Jr.

If you still believe in me, save me.

For nearly a hundred years, the Statue of Liberty has stood on the edge of the New World, America's most powerful symbol of freedom and hope. Today the ravages of almost a century of weather and pollution have left their marks. Corrosion has eaten away at the iron framework. New holes continue to appear in the copper sheets that form the exterior.

Less than a mile away, on Ellis Island where the ancestors of nearly half of all Americans first stepped onto American soil, the Great Hall of the Immigration Center is a hollow ruin. Rooms are vandalized, passageways overgrown with vegetation, walls crumbling in decay.

Inspiring plans have been developed to restore the Statue and to create at Ellis Island a living monument to the ethnic diversity of this country of immigrants. But unless restoration is begun now, ceremonies marking the hundredth anniversaries of these two landmarks in America's heritage could be held in commemoration of national treasures that no longer exist. Sections of the statue have already been declared unsafe and closed to visitors. The 230 million dollars needed to carry out the work is needed now.

All of the money must come from private donations: the federal government is not raising the funds. This is consistent with the origins of the statue. The French people themselves paid for its creation. And thousands of American school children contributed to its construction and to the pedestal.

The Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Centennial Commission appointed by President Reagan is asking every American citizen to join in raising these funds. The torch of liberty is everyone's to cherish. Could we hold up our heads as Americans if we allowed the time to come when she can no longer hold up hers?

One hundred years ago school children gave their pennies to put her up. Your dollars can keep her from falling down.
