

Some thoughts for the ballot box

It is 30 years ago this month that the then mayor of Plymouth said to us, "You've got no business endorsing any candidate at the local level whatsoever, it's a not right".

We thanked him for his temerity and proceeded on an independent (there are those who call it stubborn) course that's completely counter to his idea.

Its thrust is that a professional newspaperman, by reason of what he does day in and day out, naturally becomes much more familiar with the issues and with the functions of government and how its functionaries perform than, say, the baker or the candlestick maker. And if he can, with as much fairness as is humanly possible, throw light upon the candidacies of those who would occupy places of power and/or authority, why should he not shine that light?

It is in this concept that The Advertiser, once again, speaks its mind on issues and candidacies.

The trustees of Mary Fate park have, we think, made a convincing case for a 100 per cent increase in the amount of their public funding, from one-half mill to one mill. They openly state that if the new tax of one mill is approved, they will drop the half-mill tax. We have learned over 31 years to rely on their word. Vote FOR the park levy.

We cannot recall any time in the past three decades that two such capable candidates have sought the mayorship.

Each warrants careful consideration. The pity is that we cannot choose both of them.

Our preference is for the incumbent, Mr. Hebble, for three reasons.

1. He has addressed issues specifically, whereas Mrs. Jump has done so only generally.

2. He has had broader and more lengthy administrative and executive experience than Mrs. Jump, experience that, given the peculiar nature of the office, which is cloaked with high visibility and the expectations that go with it but little power to effect change, should serve the village well during the remainder of the term.

3. Whereas Mrs. Jump is out of town during the working day, Mr. Hebble is at hand, generally available within short notice to deal with matters that the people expect and want their mayor to deal with, on the spot, without delay.

Which is not to say that Mrs. Jump would not do a good job. We find her engaging, pleasant to deal with, willing to listen, capable so far as we are able to judge, an independent thinker and a good public servant.

Three incumbents seek reelection to the board of education. They are opposed by two candidates whose caliber, to put it succinctly, is big bore.

Each is a college graduate. Each has had rich experience in the field of education. Each has advanced planks in a platform of action promised if elected that, so far as we are concerned, justify these observations:

1. If what they say is true, and nobody has come forward to say that it is not, we are not getting sufficient bang for our buck. An unsophisticated way of putting it, perhaps, but that's what it amounts to. Each says that, in one way or another, somehow, we are not getting the results that can be obtained if we apply the remedies they suggest.

2. By inference, that the board of education has not publicly discussed these issues for any substantial time or with any substantial frequency implies that either the board is ignorant of the need or doesn't care, or that it is discussing them privately. We discard that suggestion. We do not think, we have been given no reason to think, that the board is in any way violating the Sunshine statute by discussing public business privately.

These are the main reasons why we shall cast our votes for Messrs. Sponseller and McKown. As to the third one, for reasons we see so need to delineate, we lean to Mr. Miller.

Vote for Sponseller, McKown and Miller.

Three incumbents, two others seek school board seats

Five candidates seek three seats on Plymouth Board of Education.

Three of them are incumbents. One of them has run before. He has attended almost as many board meetings as the incumbents themselves.

Four of them are products of Plymouth High School. The fifth got his elementary schooling here, then attended a private school out of state for his secondary education.

Two of them, each seeking to oust an incumbent, are college graduates.

Incumbent Don M. Eichelberger, a 1954 alumnus of Plymouth High school, grew up on the family farm, which he now occupies and manages, in Base Line road at the southeast corner of New Haven township. He was born there June 17, 1936. After service as a sergeant in the Signal Corps in the Army, he attended North Central Technical college, studying drafting and engineering.

Immediately after high school he was employed as sales clerk by Jump's Clothing here. For a year, 1962-63, he was engaged as a carpenter. For 20 years he was employed by the Fate-Root-Heath Co. and its successor, Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc. In 1963, he began management of the family farm, his present occupation.

Married in 1958 to Carol Ann Cobb, he is the father of Eric, 22, Army, 20, and Jeffrey, 17. He has served eight years as a member of the board, chosen as its vice-president for three years and its president for three years.

"During that time, I've gained much knowledge on the workings of our school system. We implemented many new programs toward the betterment of our pupils and would like to continue with these and other programs we've initiated this school year. I think with eight years of experience on the board, I can contribute more to our school system."

A. George Miller, 49, is a 1954 graduate of Shiloh High school who excelled in vocational agriculture, a calling he has followed most of his life since, save for two years in the Army. He is married to the former Janet Russell. They have five children, James, 27, engaged in cable television construction; Joseph, 24, a farmer; Jerry, 22, in the Army; Jesse, 18, in the Army; and Janelle, 16, a high school pupil. Mrs. Miller is employed in the cafeteria at Shiloh.

Miller serves Shiloh-Casa-Bloomington Fire department, a post he has filled 12 years, and is director of Shelby Equity, for three years. He formerly served as councilman in the sales organization where he was a church school teacher. He formerly belonged to Shiloh Community Grange and Garrett-Riest Post 653, American Legion, Shiloh.

He says his aim is elected is what he has done during his tenure: "To maintain a financially solvent school system that ensures each pupil who applies himself a quality education."

Incumbent Donald L. Barnhouse, 46, is a 1957 alumnus of Plymouth High school, where he was a member of its most successful football team. He was graduated in 1960 by DeVry Electronics institute and attended Ohio State university in 1963. Since then he has intermittently studied in IBM programming and systems schools, the Center for Inventory Management and the University of Toledo.

As a schoolboy and for a year thereafter, he was an attendant in Morrison's Sohio station here. Between 1959 and 1963, he was employed by R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., Willard. Since then he has worked for the Fate-Root-Heath Co. and its successor, Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., in engineering, estimating and quoting, as manager or cost accountant and data processing, as director of data systems, as sales coordinator and now as internal sales coordinator.

Married to the former Janice Bowman, a Plymouth High school alumna and a teacher in Shelby schools, he is the father of a son, Christopher, a 12th grader, and a daughter, Holly, a sixth grader. He is an amateur radio operator, a devotee of gardening, active in Boy Scouting and as a spectator at sports events. He is a member of the Lions club and of the Boosters' club, of System 34 computer group and of First Evangelical Lutheran church, which he has served as councilman.

He was appointed to succeed the Rev. Arthur Hamman, resigned, and was elected to his unexpired term. Now he seeks election in his own right.

His aim: "To contribute, using my various occupational experience, to assist the school administration in providing a sound education for our pupils, also, to encourage involvement in our school system."

Robert D. Sponseller, 58, lives in Henry road with his wife, Barbara Groff, Souderton, Pa., and two sons, Nathan and Daniel, both sophomores in the College of Wooster, of which he is a graduate in geology in 1958, having received the diploma of Plymouth High school in 1945, and a daughter, Laura, a 10th grader in Plymouth High school.

For the past eight years he has been a regular guest during board meetings.

He ran for a seat on the board four years ago. He is a plant engineering draftsman for Ohio Steel Tube works, Copperweld Co., Shelby. He has worked in that line for 18 years, for the most part for local industries. For eight years (1962-70) he was a geologist with the Pennsylvania Geological Survey, for four years sales representative in northeastern states for Fate-Root-Heath Co. He was sales organization for Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., and for two years was mechanical drafting instructor in Cumberland Perry Joint Vocational school and in Pioneer Joint Vocational school. His roots in Plymouth township go deep. His late parents, Moody and Clara Wentz Sponseller, for long farmed in the township. He has two brothers, Carl, Elcerrito, Cal., and Glenn, Shelby. A sister, Dorothy Frank, has died.

He has previously been active in reorganizing the PAT at the elementary level, first as Friends of Kids. His platform for service, if elected, includes more careful study of whether tenure should be accorded a teacher, more careful surveillance of the performance of tenured teachers, less restricted use of the libraries, a wider choice of foreign languages, mathematics and science in the high school curriculum, a required competency test for 12th graders before a diploma is granted, and a complete review of the athletics program, including all personnel.

He comes down strongly for more board involvement and more community involvement in the schools.

Neil A. McKown, 32, 345 Trux street, is an attorney in partnership with his father, Robert A. McKown, Shelby. He grew up here and was graduated by Howe Military school, Howe, Ind., where he excelled in athletics, especially football, and in leadership (he was a unit commander). After attending Wake Forest university, Winston-Salem, N. C., he enrolled in Ohio Northern university, Ada, took his baccalaureate degree there and later the juris doctor degree at Claude Pettit College of Law there.

He is married to the former Pamela Houston, Granville, a teacher now on extended leave from Plymouth school because of their children are of tender age. These are Samuel and Lauren. McKown is an officer of Plymouth JayCees, a communicant of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, and a member of the Ohio and Richland county bar association.

As an officer of the court, his signed statement of what he contends are deficiencies in the school system carry stronger weight than those of another.

McKown recites six changes he would make if he is elected. These are to upgrade high school curriculum to achieve traditional academic pursuits and to ensure that a complete and vigorous college preparatory program is available, to insist on mastery of fundamentals (he says in his professional experience he has "encountered Plymouth pupils and graduates with significant deficiencies in academic fundamentals, such as English usage and understanding of the rudiments of democracy"), to demand of administrative and instructional staff accountability, more innovation and greater effectiveness ("there appears to be a pervasive attitude of simply maintaining the educational status quo"), to stimulate "candid and unbiased opinions of administrators and instructors

Mrs. Paddock aims for council seat as write-in aspirant

The most experienced government servant in Plymouth is a write-in candidate for a seat as village councilman in the general election Tuesday.

Elizabeth G. Paddock, who served as councilman from 1967 to '71 and as mayor from 1972 to 1980, the first woman in Plymouth history to be elected to a policymaking office, says she opted for this election because "I think it's important that councilmen elected by the people, no matter how large or how small the electorate, are preferable to appointees, no matter how dedicated and capable the appointees are or may be. The point is that the core of our system is 'what do people want?' and when they get to vote on what they want, whether it's right or wrong or in between, that's what we have to live with and it's the way we ought to live."

She adds that she solicits the vote of every elector.

"It's not so difficult now to cast a ballot for a write-in. The voting judge hands the elector a card in a small sleeve or envelope. On that sleeve or envelope is a place where She needs only one vote to be elected, because no other citizen elector has declared himself to be a write-in candidate.

"Naturally, I will feel slighted, even hurt, if I get only one vote, which will be my own. But that will be hurt even more than my feelings, which have been hurt many times, and are not particularly important to anybody but me, is the democratic process. It wouldn't really be right that a councilman is chosen by one vote of an electorate of one."

Three incumbents, Norman B. McQueen, a 1938 alumnus of Plymouth High school; Roy Barber and E. Adrian Cole, each of them an appointee, are candidates for election for four year terms that begin Jan. 1.

Sweetest tune!

Sweetest music this side of heaven played by breaker circuit of scoreboard at Robert A. Lewis Memorial field Friday, showing Plymouth victory over South Central.

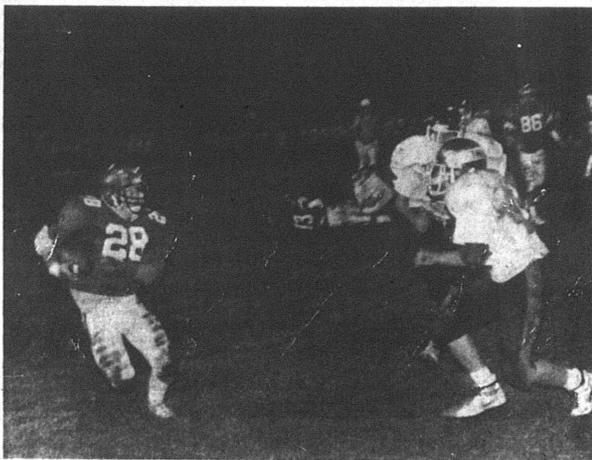

Deskins for four

Charley Deskins, No. 47, gained four on this shot in second quarter of victory over Trojans, 29 to 26, No. 6 for the season.

'Tell Troy ...'

Coach Richard Roll's game strategy included last minute instructions to substitutes. Here his target is Jamie Brown.

Brown for 14

Jamie Brown, in his final year of schoolboy competition, broke loose on this play in second period Friday. Run was good for 14 yards.

Red hangs on to down Trojans, 29-26

Plymouth set a record in the biting cold of Mary Fete park Friday night.

A dubious record, perhaps one that will stand in infamy for a long time, but a record all the same.

The Big Red was penalized 201 yards in 18 assessments, six of them for misconduct, seven for pass interference.

No Plymouth team since the 11-man game was instituted 36 season ago has been punished so severely. Not even in two consecutive games.

The Big Red defeated South Central in spite of the damages. The score was 29 to 26. Plymouth had to hang on at the end after opening the big lead of 21 points after three periods.

The Trojans drew first blood.

They took the kickoff and marched 62 yards in 10 plays to score. And they did it with a sparkling 34-yard run by Steve Dotson, certainly a quality runner by any standard in this contest. He broke around Plymouth's end — running the Big Red's ends was good sport for South Central throughout the game; the ends were consistently drawn out of the flow of the South Central offense — and burst through three would-be tacklers en route to the end zone. He ran the PATs and South Central was ahead by eight.

The Trojans got good field position at the outset because Plymouth tried a new play. It resorted to the outside kick to start the game. The tactic was not a good one.

Neither team was able to get out of its own territory for most of the remainder of the period but at the start of the second quarter, Plymouth was at the Trojan 34, having advanced by three passes, one to Steve Hall and two to Jason Robinson, and three running plays, which all told contributed just five yards.

In fourth down, Billy Castle got enough to move the sticks, whereupon from inside the 34, Troy Keene went to the air again. He connected twice to Hall, for seven and 18 yards, and then hit Robinson for 13 at the goal line. There were some bystanders who swore that Robinson had scored. But the linesman ruled otherwise and Plymouth set up less than a yard away. Castle bucked it in for the score.

A pass play for PATs did not succeed. South Central got five yards by Dotson and then lost 11 in the ensuing series. A third down pass by John Vogel didn't work and Dave Osborn's punt carried 29 yards to the Red 32.

Plymouth cranked off three first downs, all of them through the air — Keene passed 23 times and completed 18 with one interception, good for 237 yards — and 24 of them the result of a masterful bit of deception by Keene, who looked downfield and threw instead to Robinson for 24 yards. But Junior Porter was required to punt.

The break that Plymouth had been playing and praying for came in the next series.

The Trojans made a first down beyond that 30 but couldn't advance beyond that. So Osborn punted again.

The kick went straight up and came straight down and when it was grounded the Trojans had advanced just eight yards. Plymouth attacked from the South Central 30. It needed just two plays. With 1:50 left in the half, Keene found Hall over the middle for 25 yards and with first down at the five, Charley Deskins, a ninth grader, who's going to be something one day soon, rammed home for what proved to be the winning score.

Keene passed to Robinson for the PATs.

When the half ended three plays later, Plymouth in 31 plays had 10 first downs, minus six yards rushing and 154 yards through the air, with 14 completions in 16 tries by Keene. It had been penalized six times for 85 yards. South Central, with 31 plays, had only five first downs, with 61 yards on the ground and 31 in the air, thanks to two completions in six shots by Vogel. The Trojans had given up 65 yards in five penalties.

Plymouth was clearly decided with the first series of the second half.

Plymouth took the kickoff and in two plays had its third touchdown.

Keene found Steve Hall amid two defenders about halfway to the Trojan goal line on second down from the Plymouth 36 and Hall sped the rest of the way with a neat bit of open field running. Randy Myers kicked the PAT.

The Big Red scored the next time it got the ball. The Trojans got 10 yards in two plays after the kickoff but fouled. A pass from center on fourth down as Osborn sought to punt sailed far over his head. By the time he recovered the ball, South Central had lost 24 yards and possession.

Plymouth scored in two plays. Jamie Brown, who was victimized on a long pass play in the fourth period that led to a South Central score, ripped to the right for 14 yards with a pitchout and then Keene passed to Brown for 10 yards and the score. The clock read 7:51.

Myers stood in formation to kick the PAT, with Robinson holding. But when the pass from center reached Robinson, he rose and lobbed the ball over the line to Porter for the PATs.

By this time the Big Red was ahead by 21 points, and nobody thought that South Central would come close.

Nobody but Bill Lewis, the Trojans' coach, and his charges.

After an interception of Keene by Joel Oney, the Trojans got a long run by Craig Whiles that covered 37 yards. With first down at the 11, the visitors attacked Plymouth braced and on fourth down rushed Vogel, who fell, losing four. Two plays later the period ended and when the teams had marched the length of the field to set up at the east end, Plymouth was unable to recover from a half-the-distance penalty that set it back to its three. From the one, Porter stood deep in the end zone to punt.

On instructions, the center passed the ball far over his head and as it sailed out of the end zone the pass gave South Central two points.

Porter punted handsomely from the Red 20 and South Central drove to the Plymouth 37, where on fourth down it surrendered the ball. Porter punted from the Trojan 49 in the next series and South Central, thanks to successive 15-yard penalties, penetrated deep into Plymouth territory, where the Big Red braced and Keene broke up a fourth down pass.

But on second down, with the second string backed on the field for Plymouth, a pitchout was bobbed, South Central recovered and set up at the Red 30.

On first down, Vogel passed to Craig Conaway for 30 yards and a score. Dotson ran the PATs.

When Porter punted after three running plays produced only four yards in the next series, South Central had possession at the Trojan 32.

In nine plays it had another touchdown. Vogel found Conaway over Brown for 30 yards, good to the Red one, whence Dotson ran in for the score. And he ran the PATs.

The clock read :49 remaining in the game. Nevertheless, the visitors did not give up. They kicked inside but Plymouth recovered and ate the ball for the remainder of the game.

The interior defense was considerably better than it has been. The play of the defensive ends was not satisfactory. The running game was not up to snuff. The passing game was superb, one that South Central will remember for a long time. This was Keene's finest hour. Hall, on the other hand, was ordered to the bench in the third period.

Mrs. Jump, Mayor Hebble vie for mayorship here Tuesday

A woman is a candidate for mayor for only the third time in village history in Tuesday's general election.

She is Karen S. Jump, 34, Park avenue, now serving as councilman, who opposes the incumbent, Keith A. Hebble, 56, Plymouth East road, who succeeded to the office when Dean A. Cline resigned.

Born in Willard, she lived there and in Greenwich, Plymouth and Shelby in her early years. She removed to Defiance at 8th grade and was graduated by its high school in 1976. She joined the WAC to become an air traffic controller.

Married since 1980 to Terry L. Jump, head of the electrical service department, she has two daughters, Shaflia and Teri Lynn.

In June she received a degree in accounting from North Central Technical college. She is a member of the National Association of Accountants and serves its board of directors as director-at-large. She is employed by CPC Group of General Motors Corp. at Ontario as an accountant.

She was elected two years ago to a seat as councilman.

"As mayor, I would serve the people of the village and do my best to see that their needs and wants are met. I make my own decisions. No one else makes them for me. I listen to the pros and cons, then weigh those pros and cons. I base my decision on the facts and not any thing or any one. I am an individual with her own heart, soul and mind."

Mrs. Jump is apparently speaking out against quietly voiced statements that "Terry pulls the strings, he tells her what to do, Terry is a shrewd cookie, Terry is the councilman."

Her female predecessor in the office she seeks, Elizabeth G. Paddock, hasn't discussed it with her but she says she can tell her some things. What things?

"Like join the club, for one. When I was mayor, everybody said my husband was calling the turn. Horsefeathers! Anybody who knows me knows darned well I have a mind of my own and when it's made up nobody, absolutely nobody, can change it."

Her opponent, Hebble, is a native of Harvey, Ill. He was graduated by Thornton Township High school there in 1946. Thereafter he was graduated with a bachelor of science degree in forestry by Purdue university, West Lafayette, Ind. He has done post-graduate work in Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago, Ill., Syracuse university, Syracuse, N. Y., and Ohio State university.

For 14 years he was engaged in management for American Machine & Foundry, latterly at Shelby, and thereafter was proprietor of the Rhythm Bowl, lighting establishment, Shelby. He retired in 1981.

He is married to the former Martha Lofland Clark. He is a Freemason and a Shriner. From August, 1982, to July 9 he was a village councilman. Since he was president pro tempore of the village council, he acceded to the mayorship when Mayor Cline resigned.

His personal agenda, he says, calls for continued improvement in water distribution (median water flow at some hydrants, he asserts, was shown by test to be only 200 per cent of what is necessary to fight a fire), assure continued funding for the park and the cemetery, improvements of incentives for industry to locate in the industrial park, and to "reduce the cost of, but not the protection provided by, the police department."

He insists that the village and its citizens will benefit if required to pick up a greater share of the expense of funding improvements because "President Reagan promised no additional federal taxes, maintenance of a strong national defense, reduction of the size of the federal government, deficit return, return of power from the federal government back to the state, and maintenance of a secure financial security and Medicare system. When we add up all of these objectives, the bottom line reads: Much less federal funding at the local level, coupled with increased federal taxes that will be brought about, not by increasing tax rates, but by so-called tax reforms which would reduce or eliminate deductions of personal federal taxes for such as state and local income taxes and property taxes."

He adds, "Federal revenue sharing is being phased out. It took the federal government a long time to swab on the fact the it really doesn't have any revenue to share."

What of the future? Hebble is blunt: "We can look toward the challenge of funding vital community needs, make progress on these improvements of our infrastructure with little or no help from the federal government."

He looks to the planning commission, which he says has set three objectives for the village, as a guide to what the village ought to be doing. He characterizes these objectives as "revisiting the business district, improve the physical appearance of the village and promote industrial development."

Hebble says Plymouth's citizens have a long history of supporting the fire department, the cemetery and the park. He expects it to continue.

H. V. Ruckman dies

Retired as Baltimore & Ohio railroad station agent here, Harold V. Ruckman, 93, 31 Bell street, died in Willard Area hospital Thursday.

He was an oncology patient for some time. Born Apr. 4, 1892 in North Robinson, son of Fayette J. and Sarah V. Ruckman, he lived here most of his life. He was a member of First United Presbyterian church and of Richmond Lodge 201, P.A.M., which he joined 25 years ago. He served as its worshipful master.

His wife, nee Ruth Southard, died in 1970. They lived in 1913.

At 16, he was employed by the B&O Railroad as a clerk in Plymouth, later becoming a relief agent working in many towns in south central Ohio.

In 1921, he was named station agent here, where he continued until his retirement in 1954. The next 30 years were spent in Florida.

He is survived by three daughters, Zella, now Mrs. Roy W. Carter, Plymouth; Mrs. Juanita Odson, Houston, Tex., and Mrs. Joan Powell, Bartow, Fla.; a son, Harold W. (Pete), Plymouth route 1; a sister, Gladys, now Mrs. Luther R. Fetters, Youngstown, Ohio; 10 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren. His parents & a brother, Marion, and two grandchildren died earlier.

Masonic services were conducted at McQuate-Secon Funeral home Sunday evening. His minister, the Rev. Julian Taggart, conducted services there Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. Interment was in Greenlawn cemetery.

COUNCILMAN JUMP

MAYOR HEBBLE

Five candidates seek three seats on Shiloh council

Five candidates seek election to four seats as councilmen at Shiloh. Councilman Delmar Nesbitt is the only candidate to complete the unexpired term of Francis Gowitzka as mayor.

Candidates are Mrs. Ronald Powers, nee Gloria Owens, a 37-year-old housewife who was appointed to complete the term of Frank Cline; Barbara J. Music, 50, who is completing her second full term as a councilman, and Charles R. Reeder, 37, finishing his first term as councilman, all incumbents, and Robert Barker, 50, 47 High street, and Charles C. Strickland, 75, 96 Pettit street challengers.

Mrs. Powers says she is greatly concerned about the loss of sovereign immunity and how the village will obtain insurance coverage. Mrs. Music says she aims to solve the drainage problem in Scott street. Reeder wants to find more industry and ways to attract new residents. Barker insists that the arrangement for police protection with the sheriff hasn't worked out very well. And, he says, there is no growth in income tax revenues. He means to recalculate growth.

Ralph Hawkins is a candidate for trustee of public affairs.

Judge clears local man at Mansfield

A 27-year-old Plymouth route 1 man was cleared of a charge of obstruction of justice by Richland County Common Pleas Judge James Henson last week.

Charles Hicks, accused of having knowingly kept from police the name of the person who stole and later burned his car in a field near Ontario, was freed by Judge Henson on the grounds that he had committed no crime. Henson said that had Hicks conspired to steal and destroy the car with intent to defraud, a crime would have been committed. Henson said he found no evidence of this. Hicks never filed an insurance claim for the destroyed vehicle.

Robert Sponseller, Candidate for Plymouth School Board

'57, and a native of Plymouth, was a member of the 1945 graduate of Plymouth High school. '1958 graduate of The College of Wooster. '18 years, mechanical draftsman. '2 years mechanical drafting instructor. '8 years geologist, Pa. Geological Survey. '5 years sales representative. "Barbara and I have three children: Nathan and Daniel, 10th graders in the College of Wooster; and Laura, 10th grader at PHS. Education is a community effort. Evaluation, insight, and innovation of the total academic and extra-curricular programs is required if we are to provide for a quality education, above our present standards. This end must be approached through the dedicated cooperation and communication of the community, board, administration, faculty support staff, and the student body for the benefit of the TOTAL COMMUNITY. Your vote on Nov. 5th, will be appreciated as an investment in the future of the Plymouth School district.

One mill levy for park only local money issue

Only local money issue appearing on Tuesday's ballot is the one mill levy to benefit Mary Fate park. "The economics of this thing," says Wayne E. Strine, president of the trustees of Mary Fate park, "is quite simple once you see it all spread out. We have and have had for several years a one half mill levy to benefit the park. This brings us, after all deductions by the trustees of Mary Fate park, that's at the rate of 42/100 of a mill. Why isn't it 50/100, or half, of a mill? Because as the value of the tax duplicate rose, the amount of millage for tax purposes was lessened, so that the dollar return to the beneficiary would remain at what the people bargained for when they voted for it.

Some new slides — those we have been talking about for some time and they are now dangerous for use by youngsters — and some new grates for the barbecue grills and, in time, another pavilion.

"We would every elector in the village to know this: If the one mill levy would be approved, we will drop the present one half mill levy as soon as it is legally possible for us to do so. We do not want anybody to buy any pig in a poke. This is our park too, and we want to do right by it. If anyone has a question about the park's finances, or what the park board intends to do with the money, he can call me at 687-8945, or Mr. Burkett at 687-2711, or Mr. Ford at 687-5485 or Mr. Paddock at 687-5106. We would not be pleased at all if there is anyone who goes to the polls to vote, whether he intends to vote for the levy or against it, without all the facts as we know them. The voter is entitled to those facts and it is our duty to get them to him."

Is it true the park board is asking for outside help? "Yes, it's true. The board has made application for a federal grant administered by the state for something in the neighborhood of $8,000, which if it is granted will require matching funds by the village. The park board has been assured by the mayor and the village council that if the grant is approved, the matching funds will be found, against, of course, the park board's arrangement to reimburse the cost of those funds over a period of time." And what does the board intend

Five lettermen seek to start on Dunn's team

Five lettermen are candidates for Coach David P. Dunn's 1985-86 Big Red basketball team. It will open a 20-game slate here Dec. 6 against St. Paul's in a Firelands conference game. Lettermen are Kevin Taylor, the big 12th grader who's won two letters, and his classmates, Troy Keene, Brian Christoff and Eric Keene, one letter apiece, and Steve Hall, an 11th grader who's also won one letter. This team will have average Class A height and speed and will need to have help from the reserve ranks. They may come from such as Junior Porter and Chris Runkle, 12th graders who won reserve monograms last year, and their teammates, Shawn Branham, Mike Lasch, Sean Ousley, Jason Robinson, Jim Rossford, Curt Shepherd, Jack Thompson and Keith Kacher, all 11th graders. Rath was compelled to retire from football after a leg injury. It was a question of the griffin or the hardwood, his doctor said. He chose the latter. Keene, Hall, Porter and Robinson also have been involved in football. Tenth graders out for the team, most of whom will wind up as reserve competitors under Dave Hirsch in his second season, after an 11-and-9 record last year, include Kevin Beverly, Eric Breznicki, Bryan Carnahan, Lance Somba, Erin Echelberry, Scott Gano, Terry Hall, Heath Hale, Dave Powers, Ron Stephens and the triplets, Terry, Todd and Troy Wilson. Dunn is cautiously optimistic. His team was 11-and-10 last year.

The last two have been involved with varsity football. Remainder of the slate: Dec. 13-14, Hilldale tourney; 17, Western Reserve, here; Jan. 4, Seneca East, here; 8, Loudonville and Mapleton, at Polk; 10-11, Gorman tourney at Mansfield; 18, Mansfield Christian, at Olivesburg; 25, Firelands conference at Olivesburg; 30, St. Paul's, there; Feb. 8, Monroeville, here; 15, Crestview, Northmor and Calvert, at Tiffin.
