

Council withholds making public choice of chief

Expected announcement of the village's new police chief was not forthcoming at Tuesday's council meeting.

Mayor Keith A. Hebble has said that complete approval of a candidate is pending owing to requirements for the position.

During last week's committee meeting, the council was informed by Richard Wolfe, 2nd, village solicitor, that as of Oct. 23 the perpetual injunction on closing the Public Square during village events was vacated by Judge Robert Smith, Huron county common pleas court.

The judge said the injunction which was imposed on the village in 1942, is simply outmoded for today.

John Pazzini, clerk-treasurer, told the council he believes the police department funds will cover the remainder of the year with no transfers being necessary unless an unexpected emergency should arise.

He said the newly acquired used police cruiser cost the village $2,950 plus an additional $231 to put it in first class shape and the money was earmarked for the purchase when the appropriations were made.

The voice of The Advertiser —

Let's hear it for Doc Butner!

The task of him who writes a tribute to a public figure after long and distinguished service to his community is not an easy one. The trick is to say what needs to be said, what ought to be said, what must be said, without underdoing it!

It would be difficult to say too much about what Charley Butner has done for his community.

He came there in the fall of 1935, having interned up the road, and he established a medical practice on a shoestring. That he has a few more shoestrings these days is an earnest to his diligence and his dedication. His record of performance points out a good lesson for the young: be faithful to your tasks, do your level best, for the most part cheerfully, and the world will be kind to you.

One would be a fool to try to enumerate the thousand and one good things that Charley Butner has done. In our own case, we recall with affection and awe that he came on a hot Sunday afternoon in August of 1954, when there were scores of poliomyelitis cases hereabouts, to examine a little girl in great distress. He satisfied himself that her ailment was transitory in nature, he prescribed for her (even pulled some medication from his satchel), sat with her and calmed her fears and then, with that characteristic smile, said, "Call me right away if she's not better in the morning." He has, not yet sent a bill.

This story has been duplicated time and again by grateful patients and their families.

Nor has Charley Butner been backward about serving his community otherwise.

Three decades ago he was a member of the board of education. A good one, too.

He has served as deputy coroner, and in supervisory and consultative assignments in connection with preventive health.

In his church, his patriotic and fraternal organizations and as simply a close neighbor swapping how-de-does in the post office. Charley Butner has been a good friend and a good neighbor.

Whatever encomium may fall to him on the completion of 50 years as a physician in Cass township, serving a broad swath of citizenry faithfully, skillfully and honorably, he has richly deserved.

God Bless you, Charley Butner, may your tribute increase!

Fidler awarded Caywood plaque by Legion

J. Max Fidler received Monday night the annual Gerald W. Caywood Memorial award from Elret-Parcel Post 447, American Legion, at the annual Veterans' day dinner.

The award is given to the post member who has done the most for further the aims of the Legion in the last year.

Parents welcome

Parents of Plymouth High school pupils are invited to meet with teachers at the school Thursday from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. They may also come to the school Friday, Nov. 22, from 7:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.

Incumbents win in townships

Incumbent trustees of Plymouth and Cass townships were returned to office opposed on Nov. 5. Incumbent trustees of Bloomingrove township turned back the challenges of two opponents to retain office.

In Plymouth township Mark H. Fry, who lives in Dinninger road, received 242 votes, Chester E. Jones, Hazel Brush road, 232 ballots.

In Cass township, R. Eugene Russell, Barnes road, was accorded 147 votes, Francis D. Snyder, Kastor road, 132 ballots.

Trustees of Bloomingrove township reelected are Charles W. By, Ganges Five Point road, 117 ballots, and Paul G. Egner, Noble road, 102 votes. They defeated James Robert Patton, 78 votes, and Forest Peters, 71 votes.

Plymouth township voters approved a levy of 4.10 of one mill to fund ambulance service.

Voters in Cass township approved a levy of two mills to run repairs. Vote was 104 to 49.

Shiloh voters endorsed renewal of a 2.5-mill operating levy, 86 for, 24 against.

'Innocent' plea of girl in court here

A plea of not guilty by Shelly Root to a charge of falsification of a police report resulted Nov. 6 in a continuance in the court of Mayor Keith A. Hebble.

Case of Dennis Smith, Monroeville, charged with assault, was also continued.

Each was heard yesterday. Failure to appear by Carol March, Bucyrus, to answer to charges of disorderly conduct and public intoxication will result in issuance of bench warrants.

Plea of no contest resulted in convictions in these cases: Ralph Butler, Plymouth, no operator's license, $150; Donald A. Dalton, Willard, improper license tags, $40; Rudy Flores, Plymouth, intoxication, $15, and aggravated menacing, $300.

Waivers were posted by Oliver Arredondo, Willard, and Santiago J. Robles, Willard, each charged with disorderly conduct. Bond of $15 was forfeited.

Charges of fire peeing against Jay J. York, Shelby who pleaded not guilty, was dismissed.

Other winners have been Joel Van Loo and Harvey Robinson.

Fidler served as post commander in 1952 and is currently the post historian.

He and his wife, Marilyn, have been active in the post activities, which have included compiling a master list of all veterans interred in the village cemeteries.

He is employed by Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc. holding time card No. 1 as the senior hourly employee.

They are the parents of three, Jane, now Mrs. Carl Yeager, Shelby, Judy, a registered nurse in Louisville, Ky., and John serving in the U. S. Navy at the Philadelphia, Pa., navy yard.

The award honors the memory of the late Mr. Caywood, who also took an active role in the post and served as its commander. It was established by his long-time friends and business colleagues, Arthur and Elizabeth Paddock, former members of the post.

Among the guests at the dinner were his mother, Mrs. Mark Caywood, and his sister and brother-in-law, the Donald B. Shavers; his daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Roethlisberger and her husband, Shiloh; his sons, Max, Plymouth, and James D. Vermilion, and their wives.

During the dinner membership pins were presented in five year increments.

Toy Patton and Lace Williamson received 35-year pins.

Fifteen-year pins went to James Enderby, James R. Lewis, Charles E. Pritchard and Richard Stroup. James Slosser received a 10-year pin.

Those receiving five-year membership pins were Kenneth Baker, Benson B. Falter, Otis B. Flynn, Carl Haas, Lonnie Haas, John B. Henry, James E. Honaker, Randy A. Kessler, Richard L. Lowery, Don E. Metzger, Sr., David L. Shiloh, Sr., and Robert Wallace.

Schools reestablish practice of choosing No. 1, No. 2 in class

A valedictorian and a salutatorian will be chosen for the Class of 1956, Plymouth High School.

The class asked Plymouth board of education Monday night to go back to the old practice, maintained by other schools in the county.

The two designations were dropped in 1959 when Shiloh district was annexed. Since then the 10 top pupils have been honored.

Supt. Douglas R. Staggs told the board since "weighted grading", which gives additional credit to those pupils who enroll in the more difficult academic courses, a truer picture of class ranking is obtained.

Principal Jeffrey Slauson said he believes recognizing the two top pupils is good.

Board member A. George Miller made the motion, which the board accepted.

Board members may join the school's health insurance plan, Staggs said.

House Bill 369, which went into effect Oct. 17, now allows a board member to be part of the group plan, paying his own costs. He said those who wish to join should simply put their request in writing to the other members of the board so that it may be entered into the official minutes.

Supplemental contractors for spring sports were approved. These are Dan Donoghue, head boys' track and field, Paul Gaae, assistant boys' track and field;

Kevin Steinmetz, junior high boys' track and field; Paul McClintock, head girls' track and field; Jerry Julian, assistant girls' track and field; David Hershey, junior high boys' track and field;

Also, David P. Dunn, baseball; S. Michael Tracey, assistant; Richard Roll, softball; C. Michael Follett, Daniel Donoghue, elementary basketball, and Jeffrey Conklin, jazz and pep band.

The board acknowledged gifts from the auxiliary of Elret-Parcel Post 447, American Legion, $517 for a two-way radio for a school bus and two classroom flags, and from Shiloh PTO, $1,500 for the playground.

Approval was given to an updated substitute teacher list from the county office. Staggs said more names would be welcome and that if anyone in the district is interested, he may call him.

Two more faculty members were given college credit reimbursement, Molly Gattoff for four hours and Mrs. Charles Briggs for two hours. The board pays $35 a credit hour, which is an incentive for further training.

The high school music department received approval to present its annual holiday program on Dec. 15, a Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Two men arrested

Two Plymouth youths were arrested at Greenwich Nov. 6 on a charge of grand theft auto.

Donald E. Miller, 19, 213 Springmill road, and Timothy L. Mullins, 18, 167 1/2 Nichols street, were taken into custody by Huron county sheriff's deputies en route to Greenwich Care Center, Shelby, of a brief illness early Thursday.

Born Nov. 1, 1899, she lived her whole life in or near Ganges. She was a member of the Ganges United church of Christ. She attended Oberlin College, Oberlin, and was employed by Westinghouse Corp. until she retired in 1935. She taught piano pupils for many years.

Her brother, Lorne J., died earlier. The Rev. Richard A. Wolff conducted services at Shelby Saturday at 10:30 a.m. Burial was by Barkdull Funeral home, where monetary contributions for the church may be left.

Miss Lautermilch interred at 86 at Shiloh

Interment took place in Mt. Hope cemetery, Cass township, Saturday morning for Miss Doris E. Lautermilch, 86, Ganges, who died in Hange Care Center, Shelby, of a brief illness early Thursday.

Born Nov. 1, 1899, she lived her whole life in or near Ganges. She was a member of the Ganges United church of Christ. She attended Oberlin College, Oberlin, and was employed by Westinghouse Corp. until she retired in 1935. She taught piano pupils for many years.

Her brother, Lorne J., died earlier. The Rev. Richard A. Wolff conducted services at Shelby Saturday at 10:30 a.m. Burial was by Barkdull Funeral home, where monetary contributions for the church may be left.

In the 1800's, baseball was a child's sandlot game. Then came the curve ball, the slide, the crowds and the legends—like Babe Ruth. Baseball had become our national pastime.

Some things never change.

But one great American tradition has changed—U.S. Savings Bonds. Now Savings Bonds pay higher variable interest rates like money market accounts. Currently, Bonds are paying 9.49%.

Just hold Savings Bonds for five years and you get the new variable interest rates. Plus, you get a guaranteed return. That means you can earn a lot more, but never less than 7.5%.

You can purchase Bonds at almost any financial institution, or easier yet, through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Missionaries set to talk at Shiloh

Darrel and Carol Laman, missionaries to Kenya with World Gospel Mission, will speak in Wesley Evangelical church, Route 603, Shiloh, Sunday at 7 p.m.
For the past three years, the Lamanas have lived in Nakuru, Kenya. A graduate of the Ohio State university with training in accounting, he finds that ministry and business can go together. He is serving as the treasurer of the Kenya field and as the assistant manager of the Bethany Book Shop. For part of 1983, he was leader of the Nakuru town church, leading services, teaching, and directing vacation Bible school.
She finds missionary life active and fulfilling. As a graduate of Olivet Nazarene college, Olivet, Ill., with a teaching certificate, she has taught in Lake Nakuru Secondary school, as well as in church school and vacation Bible school.
After a regular furlough, the Lamanas plan to return to Kenya to continue their mission.
World Gospel Mission is an interdenominational missionary organization with 335 missionaries and homeland personnel serving in 15 areas of the world. International headquarters is in Madison, Ind.
The Rev. William Kren, pastor, invites the public.

Written for Nov. 11, thoughts apply three days later

By AUNT LIZ
So we're having another rah-rah day for veterans.
Never did I ever dream that when I was something like a sixth grader in Milwaukee and being blown out "Over there, and we won't come back till it's over or there" that I would be part of it.
I grew up after World War I. So we hardly even talked about. But Hollywood glamorized it, made war look romantic, and eventually I realized that little fact somewhere along the line when we studied history.
Look at the Civil War and how really miserable it was. So possibly it was fought for an ideal of freedom of all people. It wasn't. It was who was getting the trade and contracts for this or that, and the north or the south. All wars are like that.
All those years as a kid, I thought the world was really saved for democracy, then what happened? By then I hit college, and we all knew it was a matter of time, after half of Europe had been invaded by a guy who had unreal dreams, before we would be in it.
So we did it out of necessity. Even I agree with that. No one, but no one could bomb us like what happened at Pearl Harbor. After all, we are Americans and the greatest county on the earth.
Everyone pitched in, some made a lot of money, some had a real ball, like I did, and some never came back to tell how much fun it all was.
Every one thought I wore what everyone said was a darn good looking frog green suit for a couple of years, I never felt I was really part of it. I joined up at the first recruiting office sign I saw the word made up my mind, had good help. Now we joke about who stands up at attention when the Marine hymn is played.

Five pianists to recite at Mansfield

It was a job, purely office work with a little mess hall and latrine duty thrown in, and we all did it. It's over, and I feel like a real when being a so-called veteran should have any honors.
The Marine Corps paid me, and it is amazing how far $60 a month can go when your food is free, theater tickets, books, you name it. All we had to do was buy a little make up, stockings and under things even though they were happy to furnish it, but who wanted to wear khaki panties?
I was an ordinary office worker like thousands, but we had goals who really did count, the nurses.
Very fortunately, I have known a number of them, and every now and then they have let their hair down and have told tales of what happened to them. Some of them went right in with invading troops, and they are the ones, wherever they are, who might have joined any American Legion post who should be honored.
Everyone has watched M*A*S*H, and I have to give the producer credit for the fact he depicted the nurses, even little old Hot Lips, a gal dedicated to her skill.
So what does a kind of warm old veteran come up with in the kitchen, where any wartime exploits are ignored? After all, the war is a long way off, and a rather decent looking Marine has turned into a real household drudge.
Every now and then get a complete like "This is really good", from you-know-who. Heck, how can it be, no edit, no fade, no fying, but 56 pounds off is worth the effort.
I do catch a little. It has to be. And with apples all over the place

Five local pianists will perform Friday at Kingwood Center in recital for the Ohio Music Teachers Association.
Amy Root, Audrey Wilson and Elaine Hawk will play "Lazaro", a piano trio.
Beth Vansandee and Lisa Reth will play "Festival Suite", a piano duet in movements.
All are students of Mrs. James Hawk.
Mrs. Hawk was featured speaker recently for Richland county chapter, OMTA, and North Central district, OMTA, conference. She spoke on public school credit and release time for private music instruction. She also discussed the role of the independent music teacher in public school (talented and gifted) programs.

50 years

Shiloh physician observes half century of service

Dr. Charles O. Butner marked Tuesday the 50th anniversary of his first procedure in Willard Area hospital, a fact noted by his associates there during a surprise party Monday morning.

He was an anesthetist during a surgery.

Butner came to Shiloh in the fall of 1935 and opened his practice Nov. 4.

He was an Indiana boy, from Anderson, a product of its state university and of the University of Arkansas college of medicine.

He had been serving in Lorain county, where he met a nurse who eventually became Mrs. Butner. They raised a daughter and a son, both now married and with families of their own. She died after a collision in Virginia.

A while back, Dr. Butner underwent major cardiac surgery in Cleveland Clinic hospital. He has recovered and undertakes his daily routine, including some house calls, without impairment, "only some times not so fast as I once did."

During World War II he served in the European Theater of Operations as a captain of the Medical Corps of the Army.

He heard about the likelihood of Shiloh as a place to practice from the wife of an associate, a Dr. McKittrick, who practiced in Greenwich. She said Shiloh was a good town and a good place to be in the doctoring business so Charley Butner went to Shiloh, looked it over and decided to stay.

Until then, he was an interne in Elyria Memorial and Gates Crippled Children's hospital. He was paid $25 a month and found and laundry. His wife, Nadine, a surgical nurse in the operating room, drew $65 a month plus found and laundry.

"When we came to Shiloh, all I had was a stethoscope, and a sphygmomanometer (that's a blood pressure device). I had to have more equipment and supplies to be a doctor."

He had looked ahead to a loan from the Shiloh bank. It didn't materialize. The flint-hearted bankers there would not extend him any credit. And they wouldn't accept his Model A Ford as security for a loan. He was shocked.

A merchant in Ashland learned of his plight and sent for him. "He loaned me $250 to get started and a pharmacist in Ashland let me charge the supplies and medicines I took to get started."

His associates in Elyria helped him out with equipment. "Pay it back when you can, but only then," they told him.

The Butners established a household in two rooms behind his office. It's the same place that he works from now, save that it's been remodeled. Fee for an office call back then, 50 years ago, was $1. A house call was $2.

"The first patient didn't pay me that day, nor ever," Charley Butner observes.

"Fees collected the first day amounted to $8.50. On Nov. 6, 1935, I got my first house call request. I never got paid for it, either. But there were lots of house calls in the old days."

And for some, a good many, he was paid.

His first delivery on the job occurred in the winter of 1935-36.

"I was at a social function here in town and the father-to-be came looking for me, saying his wife needed help. She was the patient of Dr. Moffat, but was a stormy, cold night and Dr. Moffat couldn't get to Shiloh from Shelby. I wasn't prepared and neither were the expectant parents."

The late A. W. Moser opened his hardware store for pans in which to boil water. "Everyone helped and we got the baby born all right," Dr. Butner recalls.

His hobby is photography. And travel.

He has done a good bit of both in his time.

A photograph he took in April, 1978, was published on the front cover of the Ohio

Medical Journal after winning first prize in the American Medical association contest for physicians. The picture was of Mabry mill near the Blue Ridge Parkway.

Butner is still secretary of the medical staff of Willard Area hospital, the only institution with which he retains intimate contacts. Time was when he was accredited to the staffs of the Mansfield and Ashland hospitals, of Shiloh Memorial hospital and of Peoples and the psychiatric hospitals.

How did he come to enter medicine?

"My mother died when I was three and all of her family was gone by the time I was six. During my adolescent years I lived with several families and associated with several doctors and maybe that rubbed off on me."

He passes his now scarred fingers over where there used to be, but hardly anybody in Shiloh now remembers, hair. "I've had my ups and I've had my downs, but if it all ends tomorrow, this has been a pretty damn fine place to be and I wouldn't trade it for the whole damned world."

And in his house in Superior street, as the rising sun (when there is any these days) casts its rays into his front window, Charley Butner thinks of the second half century of service to his family.

What family? You can see a good many of them in photographs on the walls of his office. If he lined up the babies he's assisted to come into the world over the past 50 years, there'd be a small battalion, including one he helped to see the first light of day in a small village in France during the late unpleasantness with Germany. If he lined up his patients, like the great hordes of China, they'd stretch from here to there, and there, and here, and there.

And each of them damned glad to have had his services. "That's the nice thing about it," says Charley Butner.

TROY KEENE

STEVE HALL

Keene chosen all-NW district quarterback

Troy Keene, three year letterman, is the 1985 all-Northwest district Class A quarterback chosen by the Associated Press.

He is the only Firelands conference player chosen from a Class A school for the first team.

His teammate, Steve Hall, an 11th grader, was selected to the second team offense as an end.

Keene, son of the Duane Keenes, Brooks court, also plays basketball and baseball. He measures six feet and weighs 160 pounds.

Craig Neidermeier, Buckley

Central, at tackle on offense; Kris Walter, Buckley Center, running back, and Jim Resman, Seneca East, defensive deepback, are other first team selections.

Heydinger's mother, nee Rose Fenner, was a cheerleader for Plymouth a generation ago.

Coach here in '60-'62, — Wilmington Willard to speak Monday

Dr. William Ramseyer, athletic director and head football coach of Wilmington college, and former head football coach here, will address the annual fall sports desert Monday in the high school cafeteria.

Ramseyer came here in the summer of 1960 to coach the Big Red. He stayed that season and another, moving on to Firelands High school, a Class AA team at Henrietta. Thereafter he was head coach at Brunswick, a AAA school in Medina county.

By this time a husband and father, he saw the need for academic advancement and he began a program that culminated with the doctorate of philosophy degree in physical education of the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., where he was principal football recruiter for some years.

As head coach of the Quakers, he has taken his teams to national championship games twice. The Quakers were ranked in the top 10 among NAIA schools until last week's devastating loss to Findlay, 30 to 0. Findlay is ranked No. 1 among NAIA schools. Scott Ryan, a star on Plymouth's Firelands conference championship team and co-captain in 1984, spent part-time duty at linebacker for the Oilers.

Ramseyer coached Richard Roll at Wilmington and has coached some Plymouth athletes, notably Marty McKenzie, at Wilmington.

Varsity and reserve monograms in football and volleyball will be awarded, together with letters and numerals in cross country and golf. Cheerleaders of fall sports will also be recognized.

Fifth graders win No. 1

Fifth grade basketball team coached by J. Lee Fenner opened its 1985-86 season in Friendly House, Mansfield, Saturday with a 28 to 13 victory over St. Peter's Spartans.

The Little Big Red led at every stop.

Chris Moyer scored eight points and Andy Fenner six.

Next game for Plymouth: Saturday, 10 a.m., vs. Ron't Market.

Prom fund to profit by sale of shirts

Class of 1987, Plymouth High school, is selling T-shirts, sweatshirts and buttons to raise funds for this year's prom. They are screen-printed with the Viking emblem and "Plymouth Big Red".

Sizes for the shirts range from youth through triple-extra-large for adults. The T-shirts are $5.50 youth size, $6.50 for adult size, $8.50 for double- and triple-large. There is a choice of white or black design on the red shirt. Sweatshirts are $12 for youth size, $13.50 for adult size, $16.00 for double- and triple-large size. There is a choice of red, white or black design on the red or white sweatshirt.

Orders may be placed with pupils of the Class of 1987 or Plymouth High school. Let day to order is tomorrow.

Hamman's mare wins once more

Lysle B. Hamman's Scrogie Colleen, a pacing mare, won the second race, a conditioned event with purse of $3,100 at Northfield Park Friday night, turning the mile 2:04 1/5.

Scrogie Colleen, a consistent campaigner all season, was driven by her trainer, Lew Mellier. She led at every stop, fractional times being :32, 1:03 2/5, 1:33 4/5.

P.A. Hamons dies at 67; ill briefly

Brother of William Hamons, Paul A. Hamons, 67 Willard, died in Area hospital there Nov. 6 of a brief illness.

He was a retiree of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Born in Seco, Ky., he was a member of the Church of God, whose minister, the Rev. Donald Bennett, conducted services Saturday at 2 p.m. Burial by Secor Funeral home was in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven township.

He is also survived by his wife, Edna; seven sons, Melvin, Greenwich; Darryl, Pontiac, Mich.; Robert, Geome, Dean, Paul, Jr., and Jeffrey, Willard; two daughters, Louie, now Mrs. Garner Moore, and Sandra, now Mrs. Milford Turner, Willard; two brothers, James, Tiro, and Donald, Willard; three sisters, Mrs. Joyce Howard, Galion; Mrs. Aileen Adams, Willard, and Mrs. Ruth Lockheart, North Fork, Va.; 30 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Hall pick by league on 1st team

Coaches of the Firelands conference obviously do not rate players in the same fashion as sports writers.

Plymouth's athletes did not fare so well in the annual all-Firelands conference balloting for first and second team and honorable mention.

Steve Hall, 11th grader, was chosen to the all-defensive first team of the conference as back.

Co-Capt. Terry Mansfield won second team selection as defensive lineman.

Hall was chosen as an end on the second team on offense.

Co-Capt. Troy Keene, the all-Northwest district choice at quarterback by the Associated Press, was selected to the second team, behind Matt Bernhard of Crestview.

Honorable mention on defense was accorded to Jamie Brown, back, and Paul Manuel, lineman.

CARD OF THANKS
 I wish to thank those who took the time to vote for me as a write-in candidate for village council.
 It was a little confusing, since it was out of the ordinary.
 As a member of the council, I sincerely will try to make every effort to do what is right to help the village.

THANK YOU
 A sincere thank you for your support for my candidacy for the Plymouth school board. Though an apparent unfortunate outcome, it has spurred action to a new approach with less-restricted activity than on the board. You will be hearing more on this new approach. Again, thanks.
