

A good reason to be thankful

That He should have spared her for 100 years of such a rewarding life, rewarding to her and to her neighbors, is the miracle of the moment.

This is Rhea Welch Stambaugh week. It honors the woman who, as good neighbor, has contributed the handsome new library in West Broadway, a building that will stand for all time as a monument to her and to the beliefs she cherishes.

Those beliefs were shared with her late husband, himself an unique figure in these parts, a man who believed in himself and in his dream to convert a substantial part of Huron county muck land into a prosperous farm enterprise. That he succeeded handsomely is apparent to everyone.

That he and she chose some time ago, and again this year, to share their blessings with the rest of us ought to make us all so thankful this year, as we prepare to observe the national holiday, that we can each of us, in his own way, say a prayer of thanksgiving to Him that one such as Rhea Stambaugh is among us.

Eligibility rule could be worse

It did not escape the notice of some that five players who would otherwise have been available to play during the last football game of the season were conspicuously absent.

Why were they absent?

The OHSAA said they couldn't play.

Why couldn't they play?

They were scholastically ineligible.

What does that mean?

OHSAA rules require that a player must pass three subjects. A D is a passing grade.

Or so it says here.

The average pupil is enrolled in four courses, so it follows that the five failed at least 50 percent of their work. If any or all of them were enrolled in five courses, then they failed 60 percent of their work.

We have no quibble with the rule.

Doubtless the warning system that is in force in the high school was triggered sufficiently early so that the five could have done something about their plight.

Consider the situation in Texas, where Friday night football is the universal religion. "On Fridays we worship the god of football, on Sundays we worship Southern Baptist," one man says.

In that state a billionaire, W. Ross Perot, got himself elected to the state board of education on a platform of improvement of education. He jammed through a new rule: no pass, no play.

Failure to reach a passing grade in any subject effectively bars a pupil from any extracurricular activity, whether football, band, a play, whatever.

The football coaches' association took Perot and the state board to court. And lost. Some schools were compelled to forfeit the last two or three games of the season.

We have offered, from time to time, perhaps rashly, to duke it out with anyone who claims that a reason, and a strong reason, for high school football and basketball is that it keeps in school some who would otherwise drop out.

And why so combative?

Because we object to special treatment of any pupil, whether because he can run, or jump, or throw the ball, or play the horn, that is not accorded the kid in the next seat who can't run so fast, or jump so high or so far, or throw so hard.

Bow, arrows stolen at Shiloh

A visitor to the Rathskeller, Shiloh Tavern, left a longbow and arrows in his truck in its parking lot Thursday night.

When he returned, Richard Messersmith, London East road, told Richland county sheriff's deputies, after about 30 minutes in the tavern, the hunting gear was gone.

Value of the bow and six arrows: about $75, Messersmith said.

He said the vehicle was locked. Deputies couldn't find any evidence of forced entry.

Man arrested on two counts

A charge of disorderly conduct and one of resisting arrest were laid against William G. Newsome, 28, 9 1/2 West Broadway, by Plymouth police Thursday morning.

Police said an officer on patrol noted Newsome was encountering difficulty walking down the street in front of West Broadway when the officer stopped to talk to Newsome, the latter became loud and abusive and began to be disorderly, despite being asked to cease such conduct. When the officer told Newsome he was under arrest, Newsome resisted.

He was held in mayor's court yesterday.

Suit seeks $175,000 from Shilohan

A Shilohan is defendant in Richland county common pleas court in a $175,000 suit alleging negligence in a traffic collision in Route 603 on Jan. 22.

Thomas G. Gano, Reynolds road, is accused of crossing the center line and causing injury to George W. Stutta, Brooklyn, who with his wife, Sandra, is plaintiff.

Allen makes cross-claim vs. newspaper in Oney suit

A cross-claim against a Mansfield News Journal reporter and his employer has been filed in Richland county common pleas court by the prosecutor, John Allen, who alleges he is blameless in the false identification of Michael Oney, Noble road, Shiloh, as an indictee in a drug dealing.

Oney and his wife, nee Deborah Hoffman, Plymouth, brought the suit for $500,000 after the newspaper published - they claim falsely - a report that Oney was among those indicted in January, 1985, after a drug raid at Mansfield-Ontario CPC factory.

The indictment was withdrawn after it was pointed out to authorities that a mistake had been made.

Allen in his cross-claim says whatever injuries may have occurred to the Oneys "were directly and proximately caused by the intentional and/or negligent acts of Stephen Hudak, a reporter, and the newspaper's management.

Allen's action, filed by Wayne Hohenberger, a Mansfield lawyer, is the result of a cross-claim filed against Allen by Hudak and the newspaper in September, asserting damages that may have occurred to the Oneys were "willfully and proximately caused" acts or negligence by Allen.

Judge James Henson has the case.

Boyer object of $115,000 suit

Robert Boyer, 150 Plymouth street, is defendant in a suit in replevin laid in Erie county common pleas court by Daniel E. and Timothy Rogers, Ruggles Beach, Huron, who allege Boyer had a boat belonging to them that is not paid for.

They claim Boyer owes $115,000. They seek its return, or $15,000, and $100,000 punitive damages.

Ex-deputy sheriff choice as new police chief here

A 35-year-old former deputy sheriff of Ashland county who resigned to make an unsuccessful run for sheriff is the choice of the safety committee and Mayor Keith A. Hebble to succeed Bill N. Spognardi as Plymouth's police chief.

He is Stephen Joe Caudill, Polk, a 1986 alumnus of Crestview High school with an associate in science degree of North Central Technical college, where he majored in criminal justice. He has also taken courses in police science in Ashland college and completed 22 other short courses in police and law enforcement study.

He has served with the Industrial Commission of Ohio as an inspector-investigator and from 1983 to 1979 as a deputy sheriff of Ashland county. He was required to resign when he sought the top job in that department. He operated for a time a private detective and investigating service.

He will serve a six month probationary period. Upon conclusion of that period, he is eligible for permanent appointment. Thirty days after the effective date thereof, he must be ordinance take residence in the village.

The committee, Councilmen E. Adrian Cole, Roy Barber and Terry Hopkins, and Mayor Hebble dealt with 27 applications, including those of Acting Police Chief William Burkett and of Joseph McKinney, former Richland county deputy sheriff and police officer here, who operates a pizzeria here.

Mayor Hebble was confident Tuesday that he has the votes to approve the appointment, which was considered at a special council meeting Tuesday night.

"In the event of a tie," he said, "I would vote for the appointment."

Caudill thus becomes only the seventh police chief in the village's history.

Prior to 1958, the principal police officer of a village was its marshal. First chief was the late Robert L. Meier. After he retired, fatally ill, W. Robert Seel was made chief. He gave way to David Gibson, who returned to employment at Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc. Robert Only was named chief but forced to resign when he was convicted of felonious assault of his estranged wife.

K. Frank Hodge held the post please see page 5

Fire guts Needs home

A fire of undetermined origin gutted the Thomas Needs home, 148 Walnut street, Monday morning.

The fire began in the back of the house. A neighbor called the police department.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Needs were at work at the time.

Two held at Shelby in scam

Two Sheliabans with Plymouth roots are charged with aiding and abetting falsification of an insurance policy.

These are Wilbur W. Wade, Jr., 29, 8 East Maxwell street, an alumnus of Plymouth High school, in 1975, and Frank J. Lillo, 52, 102 South Gamble street, formerly employed by the Fate-Root-Heath Co., predecessor of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., and one time co-owner of a beauty salon in Sandusky street here.

An informant has told Shelby police the pair filed a false report of a stolen vehicle with State Farm Insurance Co.

Capt. Dan Miller of the Shelby Police department said he worded the informant with a tape recording device and has on tape an incriminating conversation with Lillo on Nov. 7.

Miller says Lillo asked the informant to steal Wade's truck. The informant then told Wade the plan and Wade is said to have told the informant he wished to have his truck stolen.

Both Wade and Lillo are free on bond, Lillo on $10,000 personal recognition bond after arraignment in Mansfield Municipal court, Wade on 10 percent of a $1,500 bond until he is heard at Mansfield. He was arrested after he left the State Farm office after making his claim.

He is survived by his wife, Olivia; two sons, Santiago (Jimmy), Jr., Willard, and Arthur Mansfield; three daughters, Mrs. Roy Flores, Plymouth, and Mrs. Luis Loera and Patricia Ann Robles, Willard; two sisters, Mrs. Ramona Moreno, Corpus Christi, Tex., and Mrs. Maria Vela, Alicia, Tex.; 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

At Willard -

Delmar Nesbitt mayor, Barker named to council

Resignation of Francis Gowitzka as mayor of Shiloh took effect Nov. 1 and Delmar Nesbitt, who was elected Nov. 5 to complete Gowitzka's term, is now the mayor there.

Robert A. Barker was appointed to complete Nesbitt's term as councilman, which expires in 1987. Charles R. Reeder was chosen president pro tempore of the council to succeed Nesbitt.

Barker was elected Nov. 5 to a four year term in his own right and he will need to resign as councilman by midnight on Dec. 31. So the village council will have 90 days from and after the date of Barker's resignation to select a successor, failing which, Nesbitt may appoint.

A quotation of $9,465 for liability insurance on property, specified equipment, automobiles and general liability was received from Mary Ann Vaughn, representing PSG Rick Agency, Inc.

Tree law enacted by council

An aim close to Mayor Keith A. Hebble's heart became law as an ordinance during the Nov. 12 council meeting.

It spells out regulations governing trees in the village and creates a shade tree commission. Hebble, a forestry major in Purdue university, has been perturbed over the loss of trees in the village and lack of replanting.

The ordinance provides for planting, removal and maintenance of trees in public places such as tree lawns. It also includes a clause for trees on private property that may endanger public safety.

The commission to be appointed to enforce the ordinance will consist of five electors of the village, four to be appointed by the council, the fifth to be the mayor. They will serve prescribed terms at first, then four years each.

In other action Roy Taylor was sworn as auxiliary patrolman. Todd Caudill was given permission to trap at the sewerage pond, and a public auction of unnecessary equipment belonging to village departments will be conducted.

Columbus. Coverage would be for $500,000. Solicitor John Burton expressed fear that $500,000 is not enough, in view of the fact an annual fire loss in July increased the likelihood of lawsuits. A special meeting Monday at 6:30 p.m. dealt with the new insurance bid.

First reading was given to an ordinance providing for a seasonal worker and an emergency worker. Those hired as emergency workers may work up to three days. The mayor will determine when an emergency worker is needed.

Mrs. Juanita Roberts, 12 East Main street, complained to the council that her children have been harassed and chased by strangers while on route home from school. She recited the date, including Oct. 21, when a stranger tried to place the small boy of Mrs. Roberts in a rusted red pickup truck.

fied at once, no arrest has been made, she said. The suspect was described as a white male with white hair, glasses and brown eyes.

She said another incident occurred Nov. 12 after school, when a group of seven children, ages six to 12, five of whom were Roberts children and two kindergartners, saw the initial suspect talking with a black man standing in an alley in Mechanic street. They chased the children, she said.

Deputy Sheriff Capt. Dale Sbotler said the area has been under surveillance.

He reported the department will screen three applicants for a special deputy program. The successful applicant will be required to complete 304 hours of training.

Shelster said the department will discuss the program in detail at the Nov. 27 meeting.

Alfred Parkinson, Lori A. Kennard wed at Willard

Alfred Parkinson, 4th, took Miss Lori Ann Kennard as his bride Oct. 12 in Trinity Lutheran church, Willard, in a ceremony performed by his pastor, the Rev. Edward Brandt.

He is the son of the Parkinsons, 3rd, 69 Sandusky street, and the grandson of the late Parkinsons, Jr., Woodland street, and of the late John T. McKowns, Plymouth road 1.

He was graduated by Plymouth High school, attended Ohio State university and Columbus College of Art and Design, and is now employed in Colorado Springs, Colo., by Ford Aerospace.

Daughter of the Robert Kennards, Willard, the bride is an alumna of Willard High school and of North Central Technical College. She was employed at Mansard by The Lady's Centre and by Lazarus Portrait studio at Richland Mall.

She chose Miss Janice Holmer as maid of honor. The Misses Valerie and Sharon Parkinson, the bridegroom's sisters, Jamie Kennard, the bride's cousin; Caryn Ebert and Amy Anderson were bridesmaids.

A cousin, Jennifer Slimak, was flower girl.

Scott Church was best man. Reginald Ganzhorn, Robert A. McKown, Jr., the bridegroom's cousin; Robert Hanline and Todd Kennard, the bride's brother, ushered.

Daryl Degroff and Lee Gute seated guests.

A reception took place in Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion, where Danielle Slimak registered guests, served by Connie Adams, Sandi Dorf and the bride's aunt, Lisa Holmes.

The couple is in residence at Colorado Springs.

By AUNT LIZ
You know the old saying, "Everyone is out of step except me?" This time it's for real, not everyone, merely our whole postal system.

The price of postage has gone up outrageously and rumors are going that it has to go up some more. $0.02.

Everyone knows that it pays about the highest salaries of any business around. The ones who really earn it, and deserve it, are the rural carriers. I, too, know what it is, but most dogs do not like them, and it has to take real courage to face every household pet, no matter what size, that glares and dares you to walk on the steps.

But now the powers of the whole outfit have come up with something that is unbelievable.

They are enrolling people around the countryside in a $750 course to teach them to be plain friendly. Heck if they didn't learn that at their mother's knee, there is no hope for them.

Anyone who works with the public simply knows that honey gets more than vinegar.

Sure, everyone has his off days when he wants to scream at someone, and don't you think that the post office people don't get yelled at. Someone doesn't get a letter from his kids or a happy government check, who does he blame?

You put up with all sorts of characters in this world, and maybe stamp collectors are worst of all. For years I've read letters to the editor in stamp papers about how miserable the clerks are. They have had the patience of a saint to let some guy who hardly knows what he is doing go through sheets looking for something special, just like some gal going in a shoe store and trying on 50 pairs and then buying the first one she saw.

So, the moral is, be friendly to everyone in the post office, and they will be friendly back and not have to take this friendly course which can save us millions in the long run and postage will not go up. For a while anyway.

Close Note: Dearie, if you genuinely believe this, I'd better keep a closer watch on you, or you'll be buying land in Florida that's a few feet under water.

And if you really are on a friendly back, try something for your family. If you do not have much of a family around, make it anyway and invite someone over to share it.

It's minecme best time, and about the only effort involved is visiting your favorite grocery store for a jar of the prepared stuff, which can always stand a little added flavor no matter what the label says. If you have some brandy around, or rum, add a couple drops of it, it helps. Then pick up a package of frozen puff paste in sheet form.

Come home, open it all. Spread the puff pastry out on a bread board and cut. I say, four pieces of each slice, of which there are four in a package. Then pine a good dab of mincemeat on each, covers with another piece of the puff stuff, and crimp the edges together so it does leak out.

Bake at what the packages says. You can put any kind of a filling in them, eat them hot or cold. If hot, a little whipped cream add a nice touch. And make sure you have a topknot for it like a cherry, heck even a chocolate chip will work.

Week proclaimed for 10th anniversary of Mrs. Stambaugh

This is Rhea Welsh Stambaugh week.

In a resolution approved by village council Nov. 12 and delivered to her at her home, 200 East Main street, Friday morning by Mayor Keith A. Hebble, the village declared Sunday as Rhea Welsh Stambaugh day and the week as her week.

The declaration recognizes her 100th birthday anniversary, which occurred Sunday. Her late father was the newspaper publisher at Ada. The journal, the Ada Herald, still appears once a week.

She was graduated by Ada schools. In those days, because the village of Ada assisted in the establishment and construction of buildings of Ohio Northern university there, any product of the Ada school was entitled to free tuition in the college. Rhea Welsh was graduated there and taught school for several years.

The Stambaugh — her husband, John F., died 13 years ago, came to Plymouth 35 years ago, having built a house that was and is remarkable in its concept, next to the old quarry where John Stambaugh was a young man, to haul stone blocks for a family construction.

An honors graduate of Harvard university, Cambridge, Mass., where he was a classmate of the famous political pundit, Walter Lippman, Mr. Stambaugh had come to southwestern Huron county to clear a vast tract of muck Portable electric heat... safe, clean and economical, too!

Most people use only one, or maybe two rooms of their home for most of their living. So it makes sense to just heat the space you use, not the whole house.

With a portable electric heater you can carry your comfort with you from room to room. That means you can turn the thermostat for your furnace down 10 degrees or more. Then set a thermostatically-controlled electric heater to the temperature that is most comfortable for you in the room you're going to be in. And close that room off by shutting doors. When you have to spend some time elsewhere in the house, take your heater with you.

Remember, your portable electric heater doesn't consume oxygen. In an enclosed space, a fuel-burning heater is competing with you for the very air you breathe. An electric heater doesn't burn anything so it doesn't produce fumes or soot. It's safe, clean and economical, too.

You'll start saving money right away when you buy a portable electric space heater because your initial investment is so low compared to other types of heaters. Naturally, since you can lower the temperature in the rest of the house, your total heating expenses will be much less, too.

Safe, clean heat for just a few cents an hour. If you are considering using portable electric heat, contact the Marketing & Customer Services Department of Ohio Power. We'll be glad to answer any of your questions.

We give it our best. OHIO POWER COMPANY

Prospects brighter for Red with four starters back

Signs are that Plymouth will have a successful basketball season.

Optimism is nevertheless guarded.

Coch David P. Dunn has been down that road before.

His teams over the past four seasons haven't set the world on fire. The last four squads have finished 1-and-20, 2-and-19, 9-and-12 and 11-and-10.

It has been a long pull, all of it uphill.

back to the basket at pivot; Troy Keene, at end and even six feet, and Eric Rath, an inch over six feet, the two corner men.

The point guard is Steve Hall, a carbon copy of Jimmy Hamman, who played so well for Plymouth in the early 1960's, no taller, and certainly no faster, a three-sport athlete who probably wouldn't have been so important to his team were he three or four inches taller because he wouldn't have tried so hard.

Hall averaged 14.2 points a game last year.

One who served nobly, albeit peripatetically, in the Red offense last season will be assigned the other starting guard post. He is Bryan Christoff, a 12th grader who measures six feet.

What Plymouth has this season that it lacked earlier is a stronger bench.

First guard to report to the scores table will be Jason Robinson, a slick ballhandler with good hands, a fact he showed many times while playing end for the Big Red football squad.

In the front court, first relief will be manly man six feet.

Porter, a strong rebounder. He's also a 12th grader.

Dunn looks to Mike Lasch, last, for the time being, in a line of coaches that stretches back to his great-uncle, Clyde, who played for a county champion in the 1930s, to provide some scoring strength off the bench. He is a pure shooter with a fair floor game.

Others on the varsity squad, which numbers 11 - Dunn will nominate one from the reserve squad to complete his game roster in a game-to-game basis, are Paul Manuel, Chris Runkle and Jamie Brown.

In the southern division, strongest opposition will come from Black River, which already has shown what a stellar assembly of good athletes are enrolled there, and Crestview. Jeff Calame has the most experienced squad in the Firelands. It is a thirty one, as well. At Oliveburg, Rich Crooks has seven lettermen, more than any other team in the league. And when you have Mark Hershiser, you have a team by itself. Add Matt Bernhard and Kevin Hart and the collection is formidable.

Jaque Daup is a Plymouth graduate who likes nothing better than to beat Plymouth. Which he will get two shots, at least, to do this season. His Trojans at South Central lost Steve Lewis, who is at West Point, and Ron Lortcher, the MVP last season. His squad lacks the two 'S' size and seasoning.

The northern division is weaker this season than for many in the past.

New London lost its one-two punch, Steve Kozel and Dave Eaton. But its coach, Tom Ebel, is an unusually inventive, a trait he showed at Urbana, and will make do with some letter-men, Scott Speicher and Jamey Brackett, and some off the reserve team, including his son, Jim, who played some at point guard last year.

Monroeville, like St. Paul's, has a new coach, Jim Dillard, last year head girls' coach at Mohawk, and some holes to fill. It will seek to do so with Brett Colahan, six feet four inches; Tim Jordan, Ron Stang and Jeff Winslow off last year's varsity squad. The Eagles will be strong on rebounding, always an asset in Class A basketball.

Key to Western Reserve's progress is the mending of Shannon Wolfe's leg, which he broke during the football season. If it heals rapidly, he regains last season's form, the Roughriders will be tough. Greg Mullins and Chip Motlik off last year's team are also back. Mullins is the point guard. He is a good one.

St. Paul's is coached by Tom Hallett, who succeeds John Schlessman, who went to Margaretta. Only three lettermen are back, Tom Collier, Leo Boes and Jeff Olinger. Hallett looks to last year's reserve team, which went 17-and-3, to fill the holes.

Mapleton is rebuilding. Rock Mazza, who coached against Plymouth at Crestline, inherits a team that was 2-and-19, one of them against Plymouth, last year. Terry Gerwig and Darryl Young are returning starters off the 1984-85 team.

And now the Big Red is on the threshold of challenging for the Firelands conference championship. Shades of 1968, when Plymouth fought for the Johnny Applesseed conference title!

To do so, Plymouth must get a fast start. Its first game is with last year's league champion, St. Paul's, here on Dec. 6.

The Flyers don't have what they had last season. Their coach left for greener pastures at a higher level and their four big hods were graduated.

What does Plymouth have to throw up against the vaunted Norwalk entry?

Less than the starting front line last year, with a year's seasoning behind it, and the splendid point guard of a year ago, no bigger, hardly any faster, but wiser and more experienced.

There are Kevin Taylor, the 12th grader who stretched six feet three inches and plays with his Friendly persuasion.

What would it take to persuade you to join the Payroll Savings Plan and buy U.S. Savings Bonds? We would appeal to your patriotism. Or we could point out the dangers of not preparing for the future.

Instead, we'll just point out in a very friendly way that Bonds are one of the easiest ways to save. Even if saving has always been difficult for you, The Payroll Savings Plan sets aside a little from each paycheck toward Savings Bonds. And that's a nice way of saving, because you'll hardly miss it. But if you need it, it'll be there. Just like a friend.
