

Cole assists at train wreck

Rodney Cole, proprietor of Masfield Oil and Carryout, is among Richland county American Red Cross disaster personnel called to the scene of the derailment of the Amtrak train in Mansfield early Monday morning. Like everyone else, he had nothing but praise for Pearl Bailey, the noted singer. He said she was handed a bullhorn and gave an unscheduled performance that calmed the other passengers, which made the rescue work much easier.

The voice of The Advertiser —

Will this tax kill the goose?

Huron County commissioners have established two dates on which residents of the county may express their views, publicly, on the question of whether the permissive sales tax should be doubled, to one per cent.

When the permissive tax of one-half per cent was applied some time back, there was some bleating that business houses had insufficient notice to protest. Some of these business houses, notably in the southern part of the county, within the orbit of Richland Mall and the Richland county automobile dealers, argued that they were placed in an unfavorable competitive position because the very situs of their activity made dealing with it more expensive.

Richland county now has a permissive half per cent sales tax. Of course, this may change after Nov. 5. The county board of elections is going over initiative petitions submitted to require a referendum on the matter; if there are sufficient valid signatures, the question will be voted upon Nov. 5. If the electorate in that county behaves as it has in the past, the tax will go down.

Which may give Richland county businesses an advantage over those in Huron county.

Just how far will a consumer go to save some money?

On a new car costing $12,000, to effect purchase in a county where one-half per cent permissive tax is in force will save the buyer $60 over what he would pay in Huron county if the addition takes effect on Dec. 1.

And on a purchase of that size, with an additional tax of $60, certainly a buyer is apt to give very careful consideration to whether he should buy at home, from business houses whose real estate taxes and personal property assessments (which, to be honest, are being phased out) contribute importantly to the support of the public schools, fire and police protection and other useful services of government. Loyalty is a mighty fine thing. But we suspect the average fellow will conclude that his loyalty can be put aside if it's going to cost him $60. Up front, that is.

There is reported elsewhere today the status of the permissive tax in adjoining counties. Will enactment of an additional half of one per cent applicable to sales in Huron county drive buyers to, say, Erie county, or Lorain, or Sandusky, or Ashland, or Richland?

The suspicion is that it is likely to do so, particularly where the distance to point of sale is relatively short. At least, that's been the experience in Crawford, Seneca and Ottawa counties by some vendors of high ticket items such as automobiles, farm machinery, appliances and such.

It is a fact that a sales tax is a regressive tax. It forces him who can least afford it to pay the most, in proportion to what he earns. The cost of collecting a sales tax is higher than that of collection of tax on real property.

Least these arguments strike one as negative, be it understood that we recognize that there is a strong need for additional revenue. It's just that we're not sure that to increase the amount of the piggyback tax is the best way, the fairest way, the cheapest way to do it.

And we further suspect that even if others who feel as we do jam the hearing room on Sept. 16 and 23 and vent their views with ever more fervor than we, it won't make a particle of difference: the commissioners will take the easy way out and the additional sales tax will become the order of the day.

Hebble to face Mrs. Jump; two challenge incumbents on board of education

Races for mayor and for three seats on Plymouth Board of Education will occur Nov. 5.

Only three candidates filed for four vacancies on Plymouth's village council. A suprise was that Norman B. McQuown, newly appointed to complete the term of Keith A. Hebble, who advanced to the mayorship on July 9 when Dean A. Cline resigned, filed for a full term. He had earlier said that he would not do so because he plans to be absent in Florida during much of the winter.

Five candidates seek four seats as councilmen at Shiloh. They include the four incumbents.

Hebble will be opposed by Karen Jump, incumbent member of the village council, in the race for mayor. The term will be a short one, of two years' duration.

Incumbent Councilmen E. Adriam Cole, Roy Barber and McQuown will seek election. A fourth seat may be filled by write-in.

For board of education, incumbents Don M. Echelbarger, Donald Barnhouse and A. George Miller are opposed by Robert D. Sponseller and Neil A. McKown. Sponseller was previously a candidate without success. He is a gadfly of the educational process here. He and his wife, parents of two sons are freshmen in the College of Wooster, of which their parents are alumni, are frequently in the visitors' gallery during school board meetings. McKown's wife, Pamela, is on leave as a primary teacher in the Plymouth system. He is a write-in candidate for village council while he was yet a college student.

At Shiloh, Councilman Delmar Nesbitt, whose family has served in most of the lesser offices at Shiloh over the past two generations, seeks the mayorship, also for a two year period. Francis Gowitzka, incumbent, who acceded to the post by appointment, declined to run.

Incumbent councilmen Charles R. Reeder, Charles Strickland, Barbara Music and Gloria Powers will be opposed by Robert Barker.

Ralph Hawkins aspires to reelection as trustee of public affairs.

In Bloominggrove township, incumbent trustees are opposed. Forest Peters, previously a candidate, and James Robert Paton seek to oust Charles Bly and Paul Egner, incumbents.

In Plymouth and Cass townships, reelection of incumbents seem assured. No opponents filed against Mark Fry and Chester Jones, Plymouth township, and Francis Snyder and R. Eugene Russell, Cass township.

Ambulance tax levy on ballot in township

Voters in Plymouth township outside the village will be asked to renew a three-tenths of a mill levy to fund ambulance service. Township trustees voted unanimously to submit the question, only a renewal, because the money is needed to pay the township's share of the cost of operating the village's ambulance service. The tax would run for three years. A Village of Shiloh seeks renewal of a 2.5-mill operating levy, to run for five years, to fund general expenses.

Cass township voters will be asked to support a fresh tax of two mills to fund construction and resurfacing bridges and roads in the township. This tax would run for five years.

Trustees of Mary Fate park, in addition to Strine, are Eldon Burkett, A. L. Paddock, Jr., and Frederick E. Ford.

Trustees of Plymouth township are Chester Jones, Mark Fry and Charles E. Miller.

Councilmen at Shiloh are Delmar Nesbitt, Gloria Powers, Barbara Music, Charles R. Reeder, Charles Strickland and Richard F. Tallman.

Trustees of Cass township are R. Eugene Russell, Francis Snyder and Ivan Rhodes.

Cole incorporates

Five hundred shares of common stock of no par value have been issued by Rodney Cole Marathon Carry-Out, Inc., of which Rodney Cole, 4652 Baker road, Crestline, is statutory agent, Secretary of State Sherrod Brown reports.

Village profile published in 'Timeline'

A profile of Plymouth by Dr. R. Douglas Hurt, associate editor, appears in the current issue of 'Timeline', a bi-monthly publication of the Ohio Historical society.

The piece is liberally illustrated with pictures from the collection of Thomas F. Root.

Man, 50, killed by felled tree

A 50-year-old Mills road man was killed Aug. 20 by a falling tree. Robert R. Stapleton, who lives at 4356 Mills road, was found by his wife, who went to look for him after he failed to appear at home the night of Aug. 20.

She found him shortly after 3 p.m. on Aug. 21, deep in a woods in Norwich township, where he was cutting timber. Sheriff's deputies said a huge ash that he was cutting fell across his shoulders, apparently breaking his neck.

As the tree fell, it struck a smaller tree and fell back, the freshly-cut base striking Stapleton's back, pinning him. The site is about 800 yards west of Wurtz road and about the same distance north of Egypt road.

Born in South Shore, Ky., the dead man lived in or near Crestline and Willard for 15 years.

He is survived by his wife, Marilyn, a daughter, Mrs. Bonita Harchings, Cleveland; a son, Richard, Cleveland; two grand-children, five brothers and five sister.

Cremation took place.

Three contribute to library fund

Warren and Irene Metzger and Anna L. Delaney have contributed to the memorial fund of Plymouth library in respect to Charles J. Krister, J.

Four teachers to screen pupils in kindergarten

Four certificated teachers were appointed to conduct kindergarten screening by Plymouth Board of Education in special session Thursday night.

These are Mrs. Lawrence J. Root, Mrs. Timothy Redden and Mrs. Denise Thompson and Miss Linda Cline.

Class advisers were assigned thus: Mrs. William Albright, Class of 1986; Mrs. Gary Holt, Class of 1987; Richard Roll, Class of 1988; David P. Dunn, Class of 1989.

Mrs. Rebecca Flickinger Luna will be adviser to the student council. Kevin Stenmets to the union high school student council.

Substitute bus driver list was approved. It comprises John Harris, Diane Laney, Gwendolyn Kilgore, Barbara Moore, Dan please see page 3

Here's how to use old panty hose and a pie recipe

By AUNT LIZ
There is an old saying, "Waste not." So don't.
This is a new angle for those old panty hose that have developed defects that you can no longer hide.

Granted, you can play games with a pair that has decided to go wayward in many ways. I remember once we went some place overnight and I did not have time to pack decently. I threw in about four pair hoping there would be a good one in the bunch.

There wasn't.
And there I was in a motel bathroom trying to get the dumb things on so holes in the toes would not show. Nor runs. I finally won with a pair that I managed to switch this way and that so that the runs in both legs ran up the inside of mine.

I figured no one would look that closely.
Who ever invented those things must have hated women.
Now what to do with them.
Years back I saved old nylon for friends who made them into very pretty purses. Once I got into a bread wrapper rug maker and saved all of them.

The ingenuity of the human mind has always amazed me, and its depths have not been reached. But this is a practical idea.
You can use a whole pair or cut them off at the top.
Then get you supply of onions out. Drop one down, tie a knot, drop another six another knot, and so on to the top.

They can be divided by size, small, big, and bigger.
This enables the onions to breath rather than to be left in a mess sack where one bad one can mess it all up. If one goes bad, cut it off just as you cut immediately below the knot for the ones you use.
They can be hung anywhere just like you hang pants.
This ought to create an image with your friends that you take cooking seriously. You can even do garlic and herbs, too, which will confirm it all.

The apples are so good this year, and there are so many of them. I know of one happy family of pigs that has been eating away at them for weeks. They are the best-fed pigs I know off. Fortunately they left some for people.

You can do so much with them from just slicing them, putting them in a baking dish with sugar and butter sprinkled on each layer, then covered with raspberry or strawberry jam on top and baked.
That's the easy way.

This is something you would pay at least $3.50 for a small slice in any good restaurant. About 20 cents is for the ingredients and the rest for the labor.

Either make a pie crust or buy a package of unbaked ones. Bake one a little longer.
Then in a double boiler, which is the safest way to do this, rather than a pan on the stove, make a custard. Mix two egg yolks with two tablespoons of sugar, two teaspoons of cornstarch, three-fourths of a cup of real cream, cook and stir until it has boiled a minute. Then chill it. Add some flavoring, vanilla, peach schnapps, whatever. When cool spread over the half baked crust.

You should have neatly, thinly sliced apples ready. They will keep in a bowl of water with a dash of lemon juice to keep them from turning brown.

Start carefully around the edges of the crust and place each slice so it overlaps until you get to the middle, the winning point in most games. It will be a work of art.
Bake at 375 until the apples are tender.
Sift powdered sugar over the top and put back in the oven a little bit more so the sugar kind of caramelizes.

It is so nice that you don't even have to cover it up with whipped cream.

Lori Fidler wed to P. J. Gowizka in Lutheran rite

Miss Lori Ann Fidler became the bride of Philip James Gowizka Aug. 10 at 4:30 p.m. in First Evangelical Lutheran church in a double ring ceremony performed by the minister, the Rev. A. Freston Van Deursen.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fidler and the granddaughter of Frederick J. Blackford and the late Mrs. Blackford.

He is the son of Mrs. Marvin Lomax, Ashland, and James Gowizka, New London. His paternal grandparents are Mayor and Mrs. Francis Gowizka, Shiloh.

Bouquets of lavender and white flowers were in vases on both sides of the candlelight chancel.

Mrs. A. George Miller played an organ prelude and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Donald Koch-heiser.

Brent Wagers was the acolyte. Mr. Fidler gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride was attired in a gown of arganza over taffeta trimmed with Venise lace. The sweetheart neckline extended into a long puffed sleeve. The skirt ended in a cathedral train.

Her fingertip-length veiling fell from a small Camelot headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses with stephanotis and dashes of small purple blooms.

Miss Pattie Payne, made of honor, wore a high-necked, long sleeved, full-skirted gown of lavender and carried a nosegay of pastel flowers with yellow roses with purple streamers. Her headpiece was a small matching brimmed hat with veiling.

Bridesmaids were the bride's cousin, Connie Fidler, and Jodi Jordan, Plymouth, Valerie Thompson, Willard, and Mrs. Elaine Hursh, Shiloh.

Their gowns were similar to the honor attendant, save in a darker shade of lavender. They also carried nosegays of pasted flowers with lavender streamers and wore matching hats.

Christy Wagers, daughter of the James Wagerses, Rome, flower girl, wore a full-length lavender gown and carried a basket of flowers and petals.

The ringbearer was Rodney Hursh, the son of a bridesmaid.

Rodney Oney, Shiloh, was best man.

Douglas Fidler, and Michael Rineheart, Shiloh, Michael Au, Mansfield, and Jeffrey Caudill, Plymouth ushered.

The newly married couple was driven through the village in a handmade wagon of the Charles Rogeres, Shiloh, pulled by a matching pair of show ponies.

The reception was at Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion, with Herb and the Country Per-suaaders playing for dancing.

The bride's cousin, Mrs. Ronald Hawkins, registered guests.

Her aunts, Mrs. James Fidler and Mrs. Eugene Fidler, served the tiered stair case wedding cake, created by Mrs. Earl Fidler.

Since their wedding trip to Virginia Beach, Va., they are at home in Baseline road.

She was graduated by Plymouth High school in 1985, he in 1981.

She is employed by Quality Care Nursing center, Willard, and he by Mack's Super Valu market here.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS FROM FRIENDS TO FRIENDS. I'm perfectly fine. I can drive with my eyes closed. There's nothing wrong with me. Are you joking—I feel great. What am I—a wimp? I'm in great shape to drive. You're not serious are you? What's a couple of beers? Nobody drives my car but me. I've never felt better. I can drink with the best of them. But I only had a few. So I had a couple. I can drive rings around anybody. I can drive my own car, thank you. I'm not drunk. I drive better when I'm like this. Who says I can't drink and drive? I can hold my booze. I know what I'm doing. I always drive like this. I can drink with anybody. Trust me. What's a few more beers? I can drink with my eyes closed. I can drink with my eyes closed. I can drink with my eyes closed.

Piggyback tax rise of one-half per cent in offing at Norwalk

Should an additional one-half per cent of sales tax be applied in Huron county?

Faced with budgetary deficits and cash shortages next year, county commissioners have turned to the sales tax to raise the money needed to meet the deficits. They will consider two public hearings next month.

These will occur in the commissioners' offices on the top floor of the county administration building at 180 Milan avenue on Sept. 16 and 23 at 1:30 p.m.

Any resident of the county has the right and opportunity to speak his mind on the matter.

Ohio sales tax is five per cent. It applied in each of the 88 counties of the state. Huron county applies a permissive additional sales tax of one-half per cent. It was applied without a vote of the electorate. Now the commissioners seek to double that permissive tax.

They cite nine reasons why the additional tax needs to be applied. These are:

1. State-mandated costs to counties, including Huron, having increased continuously.
2. Fixed costs, such as utilities, to the county have increased each year.
3. Collective bargaining forced by organized employees has resulted in higher wages and increased costs.
4. Non-mandated services, such as soil and water conservation and cooperative extension, were slashed by the state; to keep them going, the county had to make up the difference.
5. Revenue customarily provided by federal and state agencies has diminished.
6. County revenues are lower and there is no sign that they will recover the former level.
7. Federal revenue sharing is reduced and may disappear.
8. Supreme Court decision that all governments are liable to costs of the Fair Labor Standard act requires the county to pay time and one-half to a number of employees previously accommodated by contract.

penation time off.

9. Ohio Supreme Court removed sovereign immunity, resulting in vastly increased insurance costs to the county.

The commissioners are almost apologetic about the proposal. Thomas Carabin, chairman of the board, has said, "If we didn't have to do it, we wouldn't. If the federal government is cutting off funds, and the state is cutting off funds, it's got to be picked up on the local level — or else we've got to start cutting services."

If the tax is enacted, it would take effect on Dec. 1, at the height of the Christmas buying season.

What would it mean in the county?

He who buys a new $12,000 car for Christmas would be charged an additional $60 in sales tax.

Adjoining counties' sales tax status is thus:

Erie	1/2%
Lorain	1/2%
Sandusky	1/2%
Ottawa	1%
Richland	1/2%
Ashland	1/2%
Crawford	1%
Seneca	1%
