

$1,478,181 set aside for village in 1986

Appropriations in the amount of $1,478,181 for 1986 were approved by village council during a special meeting Jan. 3.

Although the village will have an additional income of $229,894 for the year, mostly derived from interest on investments, it was not appropriated. This year's amount is slightly over the 1985 sum by $5,606.

Most of the increase is for the police department, which will cost an estimated $132,733 for the year. Last year's figure was $132,376.

During the special meeting, the contract for village solicitor Richard Wolfe was approved by ordinance, with only Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr. abstaining from voting. She said that she was not part of the negotiating for the new contract. Since the council operates under Robert's Rules of Order, her abstention must be counted with the majority.

Mayor Keith A. Hebble made the committee assignment that Councilman Bill Teulbe, chairman, Mrs. Paddock and E. Adrian Cole, public service, which includes sewer, water, electric, park, cemetery and streets; Councilman Mrs. Terry Jump, chairman, Norman E. McQuown and Taulbe, rules and administration; Councilman Cole, Barber and Mrs. Paddock, public safety and planning, which includes police, fire, ambulance, zoning, building inspection and general planning.

They mayor told the council that he has received the resignation of Cleland Marvin as trustee of Greenlaw cemetery.

For the first time the council went on record with the passage of a resolution that thanks an outgoing council member, Terry Hopkins, for services rendered during his four year term.

The voice of The Advertiser —

If they pay in, put feet to fire!

That one is registered as, say, a Republican should be expected to endorse, or have endorsed, the platform of that party is stretching credulity somewhat.

He who declares his political preference does not necessarily adopt all of the concepts laid down by the party machinery.

But if he ponies up some money to promote the party's aims, it is then reasonable to assume he accepts the party's goals and wants very much for them to prevail.

This notion governs our thinking in all such cases, whether it's the Teamster who sends his money to the national organization and then tells us he doesn't support Jackie Presser or the churchman who contributes his cash to a national or international headquarters that, in turn, supports inhumane, improper, un-democratic or unreasonable policies here or abroad.

No one is exempt from this consideration. We write it down hard and fast: if you support it with your money, you must stand up and take the heat if it's wrong.

What's wrong?

One man's wrong may be another man's right.

We should not go off half-cocked with what we think is incorrect unless there is good reason to conclude that it is, indeed, incorrect.

At the same time, we have a duty to apply against those who hold themselves out to the educated, to be knowledgeable, to be equipped to mould our attitudes and those of our neighbors, the highest standards of ethics and rectitude, higher than with the ordinary fellow. It follows, then, that we expect, and have a right to expect, the doctor to take a public stance that is justifiable in every respect, by his lights and ours. It is so as well with the lawyer, the clergyman, and the teacher.

So long as there is check-off of dues to a trade organization that is not locally headquartered, the public is entitled to examine what the teachers collectively have been up to and to judge them, collectively and individually, accordingly.

What did Ohio teachers work for in the year just gone past?

They opposed a bill to make tax reductions permanent, they opposed an amendment to reduce personal income taxed by 15 per cent on a temporary basis, they opposed an act to direct retirement systems to divest all holdings in South Africa, they opposed a bill that would mandate the reporting of corporal punishment each time it is administered, they opposed a bill to allow boards of education the right to adopt rules prohibiting the use of corporal punishment, they opposed reinstatement of sovereign immunity to political subdivisions, they opposed a bill to require teachers to report criminal offenses and confiscate weapons.

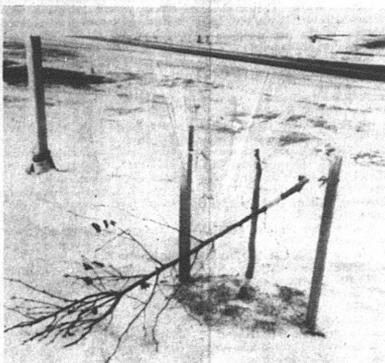

If these positions weren't right, as you see them, tell the teacher so.

The shooting occurred at 10:53 a.m.

Robbers steal from station

Adult, two juveniles held in three other entries

Two masked men who may have been armed, wielding an unknown sort of chemical spray, cowed a female attendant at Fida's Service station, Routes 61 and 98, Dec. 29 and took $369.42, some of which they dropped in flight from the scene.

Two juveniles and an adult are under arrest for aggravated burglary of a house in Mulberry street and two houses in the north sector of the village on Dec. 27 at 4:43 a.m.

The adult is Ronald Shepherd, 23½ West Broadway. He and the juveniles have admitted the burglaries.

The rash of felonies began when Guy Cunningham notified police early Dec. 27 that his mother, Mrs. D. Guy Cunningham, Sr., a widow living at 120 Mulberry street, had been broken into.

Police responded at once and found the rear door kicked in. Mrs. Cunningham reported she was awakened by the sound of the doorbell. Police found footprints in the snow outside the house and when dawn broke they summoned the trained dog of Capt. William Burkett to trace the footsteps. The animal led them at once to a house where an arrest was made.

After the adult and two juveniles were taken into custody, police learned of a second entry at the residence of Byron Ream, 116 Sandusky street, where the garage had been broken into.

A 14th robbery was taken. A second garage at 42 North street, adjoining a house occupied by Norman Burton, was also entered.

Police recovered all of the items that were stolen and are holding them as evidence pending trial.

On Dec. 24, sometime after 1:30 a.m., an effort was made to break into Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion, 112 Trux street, which was discovered at 9:55 a.m.

Firelands Lodge, LOMoose, Sandusky street, was broken into on Dec. 29 at 5:15 a.m. Liquor worth about $60 and cash in the amount of $85 were taken.

Police are working on clues that may lead to the arrest of the culprits in the robbery at Fida's and the Moose lodge.

Curfew enforcement ordered by police

Two developments in police headquarters made out-of-the-ordinary news last week.

No. 1: Police Chief Stephen Caudill announced strict enforcement of the juvenile curfew rules would be instituted. Result: one offender taken into custody and hustled off to the Richland county detention center. Intent: "The word will get around; we mean business and the young people had better straighten up."

No. 2: Mayor Keith A. Hebble was distressed that some calls to police headquarters during "blind shifts" weren't being answered. He directed a system by which these calls would be relayed to the Richland county sheriff's office. What he didn't intend was that notice that this was occurring would be made to the caller. But that's what's happening: on some calls to police headquarters, during the "blind shift", when the village can't find a dispatcher, a recording suggesting the caller refer to the sheriff's office, and reciting a toll-free number, comes on. When does this happen? Sundays, Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, midnight to 8 a.m.; Fridays and Saturdays, 4 to 8 p.m.; Sundays, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Alternately, a message can be left on the police department's answering device.

Will mill tax to fund planning be on ballot?

A one mill levy may appear on the May primary ballot to benefit the village planning commission. It was suggested Monday night by Thomas F. Root during the commission's monthly meeting. Its purpose: to aid the commission in its restoration plans for the village, since grant money is dubious and difficult to obtain.

Mrs. Timothy Moore, a newly sworn-in member to replace Mrs. Charles E. Pritchard, said, "Let's take the bull by the horns and ask the council to put the levy on the ballot and sell the idea to the voters."

Councilman Roy Barber, chairman of the commission, said the village has several levies to be renewed this year.

Commission members will aim for the February 11 council meeting to submit their request.

Douglas A. Dickson, a member of Plymouth High school faculty, who has been an ardent spokesman for restoration and general improvement of the village, declined another three year term. He said he feels that working with the Plymouth Historical Society will take his time. Everett E. Eckstein was appointed to fill the seat. He volunteered, who Dickson made an announcement.

During the organizational session, Barber was made chairman, Eckstein, vice-chairman and Miss Luella Vandervoort secretary.

Before leaving his post, Dickson presented an agenda for this year's monthly meetings.

It was agreed that $100 will be spent for a meeting in June for a "building doctor" clinic which will help with restoration work.

Robert Hutchison, Mansfield, was present to show his drawing of the structures in the southeast side of the Public Square. He said the history of the buildings would prove interesting as to how they were designed and when built. He surmised they were constructed in two parts and that the owners must have agreed on the style so that they complement each other.

Having members of the community attend meetings for economic development was aired. Dickson said it is important that Plymouth be represented at all, which can be time consuming. Mrs. Moore suggested a group of volunteers be found, retired persons, who could take turns and report back.

Mr. Moore, who was a spectator, said it is important that the village pay its share in any of the planning work that only aid the village. He said that otherwise, Plymouth will be left out because of not showing enough interest.

The commission hopes to eventually purchase benches to place around the Square, but no action was taken until they are investigated further.

Mrs. Root said she thinks the sidewalks around the Square deserve a higher priority.

James C. Root, village administrator, said several years ago the village had a good sidewalk replacement program, whereby property owners paid only for the concrete and the labor was done by the village. Some businesses took advantage of the offer, but not all.

The meeting concluded with thanks to Dickson for what has been accomplished so far, and the spreading the enthusiasm of what can be done in the future.

It's January again; it comes around so fast regularly.

It is kind of a rotten month, not even good for the birds. The fun times is over and you can't depend on what the next morning will be like to get out of your garage.
It does have a good point.
You can sit back, snored in, maybe, and enjoy all those happy presents you got.
Sure you got new bedroom slippers which you needed desperately because the family dog spent a whole year playing with your last new pair, and you got thinking about to wear which one always needed, even though your closets are sort of bulging.

But it is those little things that little ones dream up.
We have part of the Pacific ocean sitting on our kitchen counter, smack in the middle of Ohio, which is not exactly a sea coast spot. Two little ones must have spent hours picking up tiny shells to fill a little jar. We also have enough little bars of "guest soap" that another one must have salvaged from her father's suitcase when he came back from business trips. She was making a mess of no doubt, when she saw them. There is the little fancy jelly jar filled with colored pasta with a handone needlepoint lid with a large G on it. Not an E nor a G for Grandmas.

One one Brownie leader outdid herself when she had her kids make something. We have a cute brown ceramic kitten for a centerpiece on the kitchen table.
Our kids are really practical. They gathered up cigarette coupons for their delinquent mother and a beautiful sweatshirt on which is embossed the face of a large game on the front with a Camel hanging out of his mouth. I haven't decided which social event may be invited to that I will wear this terrific creation, but I will find a time.

Five years we have given joke-like things plus something everyone really needed.

when your kids have all they need for their houses. And clothes are about out. Sizes and what they will wear are problems, but there is always something you can dream up, even if it's good Ohio cheese. You cannot go wrong with anything edible.

The night before we left a neighbor brought over a beautiful loaf of homemade pumpernickel bread. No way could we eat it, so I stuck it into my carryall bag. It was about the best thing we took with us.

All through this holiday season I had one arm out of commission, and it was a slight problem. I was driving with one hand, and I am bad enough with both. Cookies were out, but I did manage a few. Then we got to Iowa and spent a day sightseeing, which included the Hoover museum; this I recommend to anyone going westward over I-80. It is worth it.

Hoover is the only president, and you must admit I have been around a while, who actually did anything in his life time outside of the political ring. The museum is very low key, not the great buildings the rest after him put up. He was born in a small town, and is buried there.

From West Branch, where the Hoovers lived, we visited the five Amish villages, which are a great tourist attraction. Like our Amish, they came from Germany and Switzerland for religious reasons. They still do their beautiful craft work and live their strict life. It was interesting, but I had an ulterior motive, who actually did all and headed for bakery shops with the hope of finding some real German cookies that I didn't get made.

They had cookies, all right, chocolate chip like snad, and looked at me like I was someone from Mars when I asked for springles, lekerle and lebkuchen.

No cookies, but store-bought plain which was out of this world. Some enterprising local cook started a business of selling them on order and has a chain of three in Des Moines.

I think I have found one which recipe book I have which actually should be experimented with before passing it on, so we eat pie next week, which is an improvement over plain apples for dessert.

Nimmons scion wed to senator

A girl with Plymouth roots is now the wife of Wisconsin's junior senator.
Janet Eves Joan Nimmons, a 34-year-old account supervisor for Needham Harper Worldwide, a New York, N. Y., advertising agency, was married to Sen. Robert Kastin in Ft. Washington Collegiate church by the celebrated Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale on Saturday.

She is the daughter of the Robert Nimmons. Her father grew up here. He is the son of the late Fred Nimmons.

Her grandfather was for many years a director of Peoples National bank.

She was born in Wapakoneta, where the Robert

Nimmons have lived for two generations. She says she grew up in a "stout Republican household." The 43-year-old senator is a Republican who rode into the Capital on the coattails of President Reagan. He defeated the incumbent, Gaylord Nelson.

The Kastens honeymooned in northern Wisconsin, "ostensibly where she can ski," his office said.

Neither the senator nor his bride has been married before.

"The senator will answer roll call when the Congress convenes on Jan. 21," his office said.

Despite 33 by Tim Channel —

Big D repels Pirates; Red unbeaten in FC

An offense is as may be, it's the defense that wins ball games.

That age-old axiom was proved once again in Sandusky street Friday night when Plymouth applied a pestering defense against Black River and whipped the taller, better-shooting Pirates, 75 to 67.

The Big Red took a final lead at 4:31 of the second period and although the visitors came within a point on two occasions there after, the home team never was headed again.

It won because it had more opportunities at the foul line and it made the most of them. Not the most, perhaps, but enough to win. Black River outshot Plymouth from the field, 32 to 28. But the Big Red went to the penalty stripe 32 times and converted 19 of them to prevail. The Pirates, by sharp contrast, had only six free throws and made three of them.

What kind of defense was it? It certainly wasn't in rebounding. Black River took down 38 rebounds while Plymouth managed only 34.

Where the Big Red prevailed was in the transition game, upsetting the Pirate attack by stealing the ball, stealing it no less than 12 times, and forcing 15 turnovers, all told. Steve Hall, Jason Robinson and Kevin Taylor were the main Plymouth thieves. Amid blocking shots, Taylor, who levitates exceptionally, blocked 11 all by himself. Hall has cut his hair to start the new year. Will he, like Samson, suffer because he did so?

For a time it appeared this might be so.

But the doughty little 11th grader came to life in the second half and threw in 14 points, seven in each period. He bagged seven field goals with 17 shots at the basket, below his standard for the season. He missed one of five free throws.

It was Troy Keene who led the Red scorers with 19, 10 points in the third period, when Plymouth outscored the Pirates, 21 to 10.

The Big Red went nine-for-21 in the third quarter. After 24 minutes of combat, Plymouth had 24 conversions in 56 tries for field goal and seven of 12 free throw successes. The Pirates, conversely, were 21-of-56 and just one in three on the penalty stripe.

Plymouth's big men came through in this one.

'84 alumna wins as lifter in Canton meet

A 1984 alumna of Plymouth High school won the championship in the teenage women's 114-pound weightlifting competition at Canton Dec. 7.

Kimberly A. Daron, daughter of the Roger Darons, lifted 220 pounds in the squat position, benchpressed 130 pounds and raised 300 pounds in the dead lift category.

Taylor and Eric Rath contributed 13 points apiece, each of them with some important contributions down the stretch, when the Pirates made noises, and gestures, that they intended to close the gap. A five point run by the Big Red midway through the final period cooled Black River off. And toward the end, when the Pirates' big gun, Tim Channel, acquired his fourth personal foul, it was clear that Black River would not catch up. Channel threw in 33 points, 15 in the first half, 12 in the second quarter, 12 in the final period.

He got double-digit assistance from Randy Zechman, who chipped in with 10, but Plymouth managed to keep the remainder of the Pirate offense off balance. Channel made the majority of his buckets all alone as the open man directly beneath the basket.

An eight point run by Plymouth early on, after Black River had taken its second and last lead of the night at 3 to 2, and a five point run later in the quarter enabled Plymouth to reach the first rest stop with a 10-point lead. The Pirates carried the fight to Plymouth in the second quarter but simply could not mesh gear sufficiently after the half to compete on even terms.

Red reserves had a bad night and took a 48 to 34 pasting. Only a strong catch-up game in the final period saved Plymouth from humiliation. No Red player broke into double figures.

Colonel Crawford manhandled Plymouth in the final period at New Washington Dec. 28 and won the second annual Buckeye Central Holiday tourney by nine points, 61 to 52.

Plymouth led by two going into the final eight minutes. The Eagles outshot and rebounded the Big Red in the last quarter. Toby Coffman and Todd Martin administered the chopper to Plymouth. Coffman scored with three of four tries for field goal and Martin with two of four plus four perfect free throws.

Plymouth started poorly and at one point was 12 points down. For a team that has in the past not had such good fortune immediately after the half, Plymouth was convincingly superior. It scored 19 points on eight field goals, three of them by Eric Rath, who played the best game of his career, and three by Troy Keene, who added two free throws. The Big Red's leading scorer, Steve Hall, got off five shots, made two and completed his night's effort with the game high of 24 and selection to the all-tourney team. Two Bucks, a Columbus academy player and one from the champion team also made the select five.

Plymouth shot 40 per cent on a strange floor, certainly acceptable. It fired 50 times and converted 20 of them. It missed seven of 19 free throws. Colonel Crawford shot for field goal 54 times and made 25 of them. It missed five of 16 penalty shots.

The Eagles outscored Plymouth, 34 to 26, just about the difference in the game.

Colonel Crawford made nine errors on offense, Plymouth 10. The Big Red missed the contributions of Bryan Christoff, who went to the bench early on with three personal foul. His replacement, Jason Robinson, scored only one point but played splendidly on defense.

Steve Hall scored 16 points, the only Plymouth player in double figures. The Big Red got off 52 shots at the basket and scored with 21. It missed eight of 15 free throws. For the first time this season, Plymouth got some production from its big men: Kevin Taylor scored with three of six tries for field goal and two of five free throws for eight. Eric Rath contributed six. Hall was eight-for-17 from the field, missing on free throw.

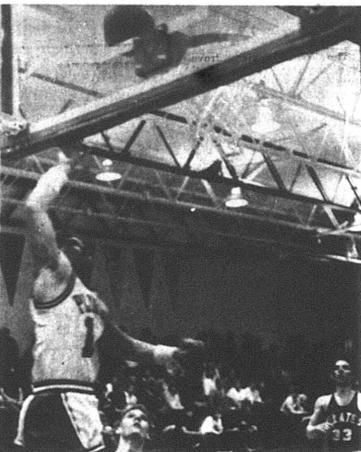

The Bucks were outshot from the field, 21 to 15. They converted 10 of 16 free throws.

Red loses lead, Polar Bears win at Castalia, 69-66

A splendid performance for three periods at Castalia Dec. 21 went for naught as the Polar Bears completed seven of 14 shots at the basket to overcome Plymouth, 69 to 66.

Margaretta got 26 points from James Tyree, 16 from Chris VonCounenberg and 13 from Keith Brummitt.

The Polar Bears shot for field goal 54 times, converted 29, and made 11 of 24 free throws. Troy Keene bagged 22 for the Big Red, which converted 14 of 16 shots at the basket during the first period, a record not before attained by any Red team, as the visitors outshot the home forces, 30 to 29. Sawyer says he wants more; Westerhold, too

Two veteran political warhorses put their hats into the ring again last week.

Rep. Frank S. Sawyer, D-Mansfield, will seek a third term as 64th district representative to the General Assembly. This district encompasses most of Richland county.

He is co-owner of Doc Sawyer's Marina in Charleston. A 1978 alumnus of Ohio State university, he is married. His late father, Dr. Robert Sawyer, aspired to the Ohio Senate but was defeated. His mother, Phyllis, is director of elections.

He serves as vice-chairman of the public utilities committee and is a member of the local government and collections, and the land conveyance and township committees.

Sawyer succeeded another Mansfielder, Shrodd Brown, in the office.

Brown is now secretary of state, an office to which he will probably seek reelection.

Former Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, Ashland, will seek the Republican nomination to be senator of the 19th district, which includes Richland county. The seat is now held by Sen. Richard Schaffrath, the former Ohio State and Cleveland Browns football star, who was appointed to the post when Sen. Lowell Steinbrenner, R-Wooster, resigned to take up religious studies. Van Meter was a candidate for the seat then, but the party regulars in the Senate chose Schaffrath because they were said to fear that Van Meter would seek higher office in the state.

Van Meter argues that he was endorsed by the GOP organization in each of the four counties of the district and should have been appointed by the Ohio Senate.

He is now representative of the 76th district in the General Assembly.

64 runs made by ambulance during last year

Plymouth ambulance squad made 64 runs during the last six months of 1985.

Plymouth village accounted for 40 calls, Plymouth township for 18, Auburn township three and Tiro one.

Since its formation in 1973, a total of 1,282 runs has been recorded.

Commissioner James Westerhold will seek reelection to his Huron county post.

Westerhold will file as an independent once again.

He said that of the 269 county commissioners of Ohio, 150 are Republicans, 118 Democrats and one-he is an independent.

Westerhold is president of Station WLKR, Norwalk, lives with his wife Patricia, a high school teacher at Bellevue, at 200 Old State road, and is the father of three grown children.

He was voted in as Huron county's first elected independent county official as commissioner, defeating long term Democrat Commissioner Maurice Smith and Republican candidate Walter Wilhelm for the Jan. 1 seat on the commission.
