

Korea missionary to speak tomorrow

The Rev. Paul Haines will speak in Rainbow Valley Chapel, 260 Riggs street, tomorrow and Saturday at 7 p.m. and during both services Sunday, at 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Born in Seoul, Korea, he has served in the Orient over 30 years. His wife, Florence, served with him in Korea for a generation.

Both of the Haineses are graduates of Asbury college. He is a product of its theological seminary, she has a master's degree from that seminary and a nursing degree from Medical College of Virginia.

Cost of protest vs. water rates jumps by $4,995

Cost of defending claims of the City of Willard that a higher water rate is justified is rising.

The certified public accountant engaged by the village solicitor without specific approval by village council has already submitted a billing of $4,995 — conveniently $5 below the level that would have required public bidding — for his survey of accounting methods used by Willard to justify the increase.

A report prepared by Ferber & Weinstein, Beachwood, was submitted to village councilmen Nov. 11.

Dec. 12 is the date now set for a full-scale hearing in Huron county common pleas court.

What the council will do about the findings of the accountants, if anything, wasn't announced during the meeting. One councilman was heard to say "We've got to study this a while to see where we stand."

The codification of the village ordinances in 1982 was a shoddy job, Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr., council member, said.

She pointed to the section relating to parking.

She was prompted to look into it because Mrs. Paul Jones, West Broadway, complained that no parking signs that previously restricted parking in the north side of West Broadway were removed, "at least one of them to accommodate one who was then, but is not now, employed by the village". Vehicles now parked in the north side of West Broadway, Mrs. Jones said, obstruct access to her driveway.

Mrs. Paddock pointed to the ordinance as it appears in the codification, the full text of which is:

452.16 FIRE LANES:
All streets, roads and alleys from the public square outward to the corporation line are hereby designated as fire lanes in which parking is hereby prohibited at all times.

She said the codification eliminated adjustments to the hard-and-fast rule that no parking shall be allowed on main thoroughfares emanating from the Public Square and that as the ordinance is now worded, no one may park in such places as opposite the post office or the doctor's office nor south of Mills avenue in Plymouth street nor north of the Square in the west side of Sandukey street, nor in West Broadway, Trux street or East Main street save on one side.

The problem was handed to the rules committee for study.

Police have prepared a firing range, the council was told.

They also plan to donate more time to remodeling of the police headquarters, at a cost of $349. Chief Stephen Cavill said 478 man-hours of service by police auxiliaries were donated to the village.

John S. Robinson was accorded authority to hunt for upland game behind the water treatment plant. His sons and a friend were included in the authorization. He must notify the police department when he proposes to hunt.

ESOP group opts to purchase only local operations

A meeting last week may have settled an important question that will lead to execution of the ESOP (employee stock ownership plan) which about 100 workers in Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc. will buy it from Banner Industries Inc.

The meeting was to determine how much what's for sale is wanted by the employee group, how much they can finance, and how much they'll pay for it.

And the decision was to buy Plymouth Locomotive and the Autolift line, Plymouth Supply Co. and Banner International and to retain an option to buy the Schreck fork lift line.

Will there be sufficient financing if these two are included?

What will be the final negotiated price?

And the bottom line question: how much will each of the approximately 100 employees have to put up to participate?

To answer the last question, one knowledgeable source told The Advertiser "The rules require the employees to put up 10 per cent of the purchase price. Now if that is $5 million, it means the employees have to come up with $500,000, or about $5,000 apiece. It's been worked out that a rollover of the pension plan balance can be had that will reduce what the employees will have to get up to seven percent, which would be $350,000, assuming that the figure of $5 million turns out to be the pivot point, or the figure upon which the bargain is struck. This would mean that each employee would have to put up $3,500."

The source assured The Advertiser that both sides in the negotiations — Samuel J. Krasyne, who sold his interest and his family's interest, save for a small amount, in Banner Industries Inc. to Jeffrey Steiner and a coterie of investors but who is representing Steiner in the negotiations to spin off the manufacturing operations of Banner, and PLW negotiators.

headed by Miles Christian, their attorney, David A. Howard, Shelby, and a committee of employees — agree on values of buildings, real estate and "lesser details, except for inventory, which is a damned complicated business, because there are items that are credited to any number of accounts." He said the vendor wants an answer by Dec. 31, "although he can sell just as well before his fiscal year ends on June 30, but he wants a firm answer by the end of this calendar year, and that's what this meeting was all about, so we could come up with an answer now."

Financing, it was learned, breaks down like this:

$1.5 million from Columbus in state aid

$1.5 million from the employee retirement fund

$1.5 million on loan by Banner Industries

$1 million by private banks

Richland county commissioners have loaned $65,000 at a modest rate of interest, seven per cent, from their revolving fund to get the project started.

By this schedule of financing, the share to be put up by the employees is encompassed by what's in the retirement fund, a step that some employees resent.

Dean Roth succumbs at 72 in rest home

Long a familiar figure in patriotic organizational activities here and in Shiloh, Dean L. Roth, 72, Shelby, a former member of Garrett-Riest Post 503, American Legion, at Shiloh, died in Crestwood Care center, Shelby, Saturday of a lengthy illness.

Hospital launches fund campaign for emergency room

A direct mail fundraising campaign to benefit patients' care in the emergency services department, Frederick Welfel, administrator, of Willard Area hospital says, started Tuesday.

"The goal is $15,000. Reaching it will enable the recently expanded emergency services department to purchase additional state-of-the-art equipment to help doctors and nurses provide the best possible care to critically ill or injured patients," brought to the Willard emergency room for treatment," said David B. Harwood, president of the Willard Area hospital board of trustees.

"We can never be classified as a trauma center here because of our size," said emergency room nurse Sue Ditz. "But we want to do the best for our trauma and medical patients we can do before they're admitted here or stabilized for transfer to a larger facility."

The fundraising campaign — the first general appeal since the last building project was completed in 1971 — was approved by the introduction on Sept. 1 of round-the-clock in-house physician staffing of the hospital's emergency room, which has resulted in an increase in emergency room use.

"Business in ER is growing — rapidly," said Elizabeth Moore, director of patient care services. About 400 patients a month were cared for in the emergency room during 1985, a number which has increased to over 464 a month so far in 1986.

This increased utilization has been accompanied by some equipment purchases, including a temporary pacemaker to help stabilize a dangerously low heart rate until a permanent pacer can be installed by a cardiologist, and a peritoneal dialysis unit used to diagnose trauma patient for the presence of internal hemorrhaging.

Asked to suggest other equipment necessary to assure the best possible treatment of emergency patients, the doctors, nurses and technicians compiled a several-item want list.

The resulting list includes a Stryker cart, anti-shock pants, a pulse oximeter, a non-invasive blood pressure monitor, an auto-transfuser and a neo-natal blood pressure cuff.

A Stryker cart is a special cart that allows the emergency medical team to provide more efficient intervention during a crisis because, once an accident victim is placed on the cart, he can be x-rayed, raised, lowered, positioned for shock, or immersed in special solutions (such as for burns). This saves time and reduces the risk of further injury.

Anti-shock pants help to control a patient's blood pressure, thus preventing shock. The hospital has one pair, but needs a second because when a patient using them is transferred to a medical center by ambulance or Life Flight, the hospital is left with none, sometimes for several days.

A pulse oximeter is a non-invasive mechanism enabling the emergency team to tell in an instant if the patient is getting enough oxygen, instead of waiting for a blood gas analysis. It also gives heart rate. The oximeter could be used on anyone who is critically ill or injured or who is suffering from respiratory distress.

The non-invasive blood pressure monitor permits programmed periodic blood pressure measurement and heart rate, freeing the nurse and doctor to administer care to the critically ill or injured patient.

An auto-transfuser, used on severe trauma patient, allow the rapid reinfusion of a person's blood into himself, cutting down on the time it takes to type, match and acquire blood. The auto-transfuser "recycles" blood being lost from point of injury, filters it and reinfuses it.

Letters of appeal will be sent next week to residents in Willard and other communities in the Willard Area hospital service area. Mrs. Joseph McClure, director of volunteer services, who is serving as fundraising coordinator, said follow-up activities are being planned and will be announced later.

Tammy Caywood weds Bradley Scott Snider

Miss Tammy Lynn Caywood was married Oct. 25 at 2:30 p.m. before the altar of First Evangelical Lutheran church by the Rev. A. Preston Van Deusen to Bradley Scott Snider.

The bride is a daughter of the Max A. Caywoods, 130 Sandusky street, a 1980 alumna of Plymouth High school who attended Pioneer Joint Vocational school employed by Toledo Trust Corp. at Norwalk.

The bridegroom is the son of the Kenneth Sniders, Route 603 east of here, a 1978 graduate of Plymouth High school who attended Pioneer Joint Vocational school, employed by Voisard Mfg. Co., Shiloh.

The bride's father is the church organist. For this ceremony, he gave way to Christopher C. Donges, Ashland.

Given in marriage by her father, before an altar decorated with white gladioli and blue carnations, with the family pews marked with white bows and blossoms, the bride was attired in traditional white organza of full length, styled with sweetheart neckline and full bishop sleeves of Chantilly lace. She wore a picture hat covered with chantilly lace and a fingertip veiling. The skirt extended to a cathedral-length train.

She carried a cascade of roses, stephanotis and blue silk forget-me-nots.

Her sister, Tracy, maid of honor, wore cornflower blue taffeta with white gladioli and blue carnations, the bridegroom's grandparents, the Francis Gowitzkas, Shiloh, and Mrs. Evelyn Watkins, Galion, were honored guests.

Red and white balloons were released by the guests, to whom Missy and Tammy Eikleberry distributed them. Sherry Wagers, the bridegroom's sister, registered guests during the reception in Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion, decorated in red and white.

Mrs. Earl Fidler made the wedding cake, a three tiered red and white creation with fountain surrounded by six heart-shaped cakes. Lori Gowitzka and Debra Holloman, Plymouth, served the cake.

Dane Russell, disc jockey, Mansfield, furnished the music.

A 1981 alumna of Plymouth High school, the bride was graduated by Bauder Fashion college, Atlanta, Ga., in 1983. She is employed by O'Neil's at Richland Mall, Ontario, as department manager.

The bridegroom, also a Plymouth product, served in the Navy and employed by R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., Willard.

The Wagerses are living in Baker road, Shelby route 3.

Shiloh, the bride's cousin, who were similarly attired, carried colonial bouquets of blue and white daisies and miniature peach carnations.

William Burkett, Plymouth, was best man. Allen Carey, Plymouth, and the bride's cousin, Stephen Roethlisberger, Shiloh, ushered.

Mrs. Caywood in the front pew chose a tea length gown of Wedgwood blue with high neckline, long sleeves and Chantilly lace across the bodice. Her flowers were orchids.

Mrs. Snider, across the aisle, wore a street-length creation of ivory and taupe crepe with high neckline and long sleeves. She also wore orchids.

The bride's grandmothers, Mrs. Mark Caywood and Mrs. Ray Bright, were honored guests.

A reception took place in Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion. Mrs. Burkett registered guests. Sally Turner, Norwalk, and Beverly Couch, Monroeville, served the wedding cake, a three-tiered creation with two hearts entwined.

The couple is living in Route 61 here.

Mrs. Hawk wed to teacher

Mrs. Christine Hawk became the bride of James M. Pekare Oct. 18 in a late afternoon ceremony in First United Church of Christ, Shelby.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell F. Geiser, Marshallville. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Matujacic, Lorain.

The Rev. John Bradley read the double ring ceremony.

The couple was attended by Mrs. Susan Karl and Timothy Gesjue. Their children, Homer, Elaine and Frederick Hawk and Steven and Matthew Pekare, shared with their parents in a family candle lighting ceremony.

A reception took place at Gamble Mill Inn, Shelby.

The new Mrs. Pekare is a graduate of Heidelberg college. Tiffin, and has been a music teacher for a number of years.

Mr. Pekare is a graduate of Bowling Green State university, where he received his bachelor's degree in music. He is a member of the faculty of Crestview High school.

Miss Caudill marries

'81 alumna now Mrs. J. L. Wagers, Jr.

Miss Jennifer Lynn Caudill became the bride of James Lee Wagers, Jr., in First Evangelical Lutheran church Nov. 1 in a 6:30 p.m. candlelight ceremony performed by the pastor, the Rev. A. Preston Van Deusen.

She is the daughter of the Herbert Caudills, 33 Park avenue. Her grandparents are the Lonnie Caudills and Mrs. Laverne Moore and the late Mr. Moore, longtime Plymouth residents.

He is the son of Mrs. Diane Wagers, Galion and of James Lee Wagers, Shiloh.

The altar was decorated with red and white carnations and the family pews were tied with large white ribbons. Red bows were tied along the center aisle on each other pew.

The bride was attired in an Alfred Angelo original gown of candlelight white satin styled with high lace neckline and leg-of-mutton sleeves embossed with Venetian lace, pearls and satin rosebuds.

The skirt extended into a cathedral length train. She wore a matching satin and lace hat of red and white roses with baby's breath and streamers. She wore her mother's blue lace garter and carried her lace handkerchief.

Mrs. Susan Edmondson, Perryville, matron of honor, and Mrs. Pamela Garrett Wirick, Lexington, the bride's cousin, and Linda Akers, Plymouth; Kathy Leonard, Euclid, and Vicky Miller, Shelby, bridesmaids, were identically dressed in red lace over red taffeta of tea length, all fashioned by Miss Leonard. Each wore a matching hat of red satin with blusher veiling. They carried lighted candles in globes in clusters of red and white silk arrangements.

Mrs. Edmondson carried a white lace fan, with red and white cascade.

Christy Wagers, flower girl, the bridegroom's sister, wore a dress styled after that of the attendants. In her hair was a wreath of red and white flowers. She carried a matching basket of flowers.

The miniature bride, a godchild of the families, McKenzie Eikleberry, Perryville, was dressed in long white organza with white flower wreath in her hair. She carried a red and white nosegay.

Stephen Gowitzka, Plymouth, was his cousin's best man.

The bride's brother, Jeffrey, a student in Bowling Green State university; the bridegroom's brother, Brent, Shiloh; Timothy Keene and John Robinson, Plymouth, ushered.

Bernard A. Garrett and Douglas A. Dickson, Plymouth, were the acolytes. Max Caywood, Plymouth, was organist. Johanna Ramsey, Mansfield, was vocalist.

The bride's grandparents and the bridegroom's grandparents, the Francis Gowitzkas, Shiloh, and Mrs. Evelyn Watkins, Galion, were honored guests.

Red and white balloons were released by the guests, to whom Missy and Tammy Eikleberry distributed them. Sherry Wagers, the bridegroom's sister, registered guests during the reception in Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion, decorated in red and white.

Mrs. Earl Fidler made the wedding cake, a three tiered red and white creation with fountain surrounded by six heart-shaped cakes. Lori Gowitzka and Debra Holloman, Plymouth, served the cake.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our beloved grandson, Chad William Taubee, who passed away five years ago, Nov. 22, 1981.
In our chest of cherished memories,
We locked up thoughts of you,
Your smiling face, your special love,
And the things you used to do.
And now and then, when we're alone,
We open up this chest,
And spend a while just thinking of you.
The One we loved the best,
Deeply missed by
Grandma Shirley and Grandpa Bill
