Banner flies high banner: profits rise

Record high earnings for the first quarter of the fiscal year are reported by Banner Industries, Inc.

Chairman Jeffrey Steiner says the results reflect investment income from the proceeds of a $135 million debt offering in March. Income during the first quarter, he said, includes somewhat over $2 million in investment income over interest expense.

An extraordinary credit of $1.3 million, equal to 28 cents a share, as a capital loss tax carryforward was reported.

Net sales for the quarter amounted to $39,686,854, up from $35,131,958 in 1985. Net income was $4,829,362, the equivalent of $1.04 a share. This compares with $1,835,255, or 45 cents a share, a year ago.

Mrs. Stambaugh delivers deed to new library

Deed to Plymouth Public Library, constructed by Mrs. John F. Stambaugh as a gift to the community in which she has lived for a generation and a half, was delivered to Mansfield-Richland County Public Library Oct. 28 by Miles Christian, president of the Richland Foundation.

The Foundation was the liaison between Mrs. Stambaugh and the county library system.

Advertiser marks 133rd anniversary

The Advertiser marked its 133rd birthday anniversary on Oct. 22.

It was founded here by James G. Robinson and David R. Locke in the 18th year of the incorporation of the village and 38th year since the village was first settled by Abram Trux.

The newspaper is the oldest continuing business in Plymouth.

Its management is third in tenure among businesses in the village.

The publisher has been in charge of the newspaper longer than any of his predecessors. He took over ownership and management on May 1, 1954.

The Advertiser was the first less-than-daily newspaper in either Richland or Huron county to install an electronic engraver, a device that brought locally produced photographs to readers quickly, in volume and at a price that publishers could afford. For several years it serviced up to a dozen daily and weekly newspapers in Ohio, as far off as Bluffton, Spencerville and St. Clairsville.

It pioneered hereabouts the annual tribute to high school graduates and to this day retains the original format, of presenting the graduates in groups of four or less, in a wallet-size format, rather than in smaller size and among their peers in a mass display.

It brought professional journalism to Plymouth and for the first time dealt in depth with municipal, educational and athletic activities of a public character.

It organized the first summer baseball program for boys in 1955 and the Chamber of

Dog searches for intruder, loses scent

A tracking dog followed the scent of a suspected intruder into Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., early Thursday morning but lost the trail down the railroad tracks, Capt. William Burkett, who supervises the animal, reported.

Security guards summoned police at 4 a.m.

Burkett reported the dog found an intruder who ran from the building. After a mile, the dog lost the scent of the intruder. Passage of a freight train about 15 minutes before may have disseminated the scent, Burkett said.

$140 stolen

Thieves made off with about $140 in soft drinks and change taken from machines and a bowl under the counter at the Fun Palace, West Main street, Shiloh between Oct. 25 at midnight and Oct. 26 at 7 a.m., its owner, Louis Lemaster, told Richland county sheriff's deputies.

Entry was made by forcing the front door. The thieves left by unbarring the rear door.

Legion gives flag to cemetery

A new flag contributed by Ehret Parcel Post 447, American Legion was raised to the top of the staff in Greenlawn cemetery Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in a ceremony attended by Mayor Keith A. Hebble and cemetery trustees as squad of veterans of the post presented the colors.

The pole was given by Mrs. Leonard F. McCullom, nee Eleanor Seattle, Houston, Tex. The pole is illuminated so that the standard may be flown at night.

With a cookie recipe —

Write biography so grandchildren will know you!

By AUNT LIZ

Everyone has done it or he plans to do it.
This has gone on ever since people could write.

A lot of it has gone by the wayside, but a lot of it is still around and treasured.

Many have had helping it, but every grandparent can do it on her own.

The nice part is that not one soul in the world can do it or even copy it like Afghan and sweater patterns get passed around.

What nice present can you give? Now that I am a grandmother, I really wish that I knew more about my two.

Sure, I can remember some stories they told here and there. One hated the best friend of that grandfather. She had some reasons too. He indulged a great deal and when he ran out of his supply, he raided her pantry for pure vanilla. The other one once caught Grandpa having a fling with a New York chorus girl.

Those two stories made them sort of human in my little mind way back.

Our little ones really look up to us and probably think we can do no wrong.

They will get a kick out of knowing that grandmothers can be human too.

Just thinking about doing it brings up stuff I had completely forgotten, like the time I very accidentally walked into the boys' john at the university because I didn't look at the label on the door.

Then there was the time at St. Kate's when I asked to be excused because I was really getting a sore throat, and the Mother Superior didn't want to believe me and asked me to open my mouth so she could look. That was just minutes after I had sneaked a cigarette in the woods, and out whiffed tobacco like it was going out of style.

It's been a real fun life looking back. But it wasn't so funny at — times.

I can still remember being seasick the first time on a ship even before we were even out of the harbor. There is nothing worse. And the time I made two pean pudding and put them to together in ovens tins that had little pin holes in the bottom. Luckily I had put them on cookie sheets or I would still be cleaning an oven. Pean pudding was so delicious. It was the only time we ever had it. It was able to rescue most of it.

So try writing. Your kids will love it 50 years from now. Things will be very different then, and they will relive history... through your eyes.

And don't forget to write down your favorite recipe that you know your kids love. It's a shame to see every body know, as everybody knows.

This is my standby cut-out cookie one that came out of the Cleveland Plain Dealer years ago for St. Valentine's day. It was in the Feb. 12, 1967 paper. I even wrote it down. It works for every holiday there is if you have the right cutters.

— Cream a cup of shortening with one and a half cups of sugar, add two eggs and one and a half teaspoons of vanilla.

In another bowl ready three cups of flour and a teaspoon of baking powder. Mix them together, chill a little, roll out and cut. Bake at 400 degrees.

You can use different flavorings and good colorings.

To frost, and using various flavorings (I use vanilla for the cookies, I use lemon juice for the frosting, which cuts back the sugary taste) and colors, mix a pound of powdered sugar with a little milk and two teaspoons of flavoring.

You know how you have scraps left over after you have rolled them out and cut into various shapes? Just roll them into balls, dip into sugar, and bake.

They come out looking like rubies and emeralds.

Mapleton wins, 24 to 9, in game shortened by unruliness

Brian Mohrman singlehandedly outgained and outscored a Plymouth team that lost its poise in the second half, when two players were ejected, and saw for the first time since 11-man football was established here the early termination of a game because of untoward conduct by all players.

With 13 seconds left on the clock, the referee signalled there would be no further play at Polk Friday night, when Mapleton led by 26 to 9. He was about to assess another unportsmanlike conduct penalty against Plymouth, which on eight penalties gave up 86 yards.

A co-captain and a fullback were ejected for unseemly conduct.

Mohrman scored all of the Mounties' touchdowns, the first one on a dramatic 87-yard runback of a kickoff after Plymouth had broken the ice with a touchdown that was tainted by a Mapleton mistake.

Mohrman also ran for touchdowns of six, two and 27 yards in a performance that saw him carry the ball 15 times for 140 yards. The Mounties had a net rushing yardage of 215 yards.

After a scoreless first period, Mapleton early in the second quarter found itself at fourth down with the 32. The snap from center to the punter, Craig Richey, sailed over his head. By the time his pursuers and he had sorted out who would recover the ball, Plymouth had first down at the Mapleton 14-yard line.

Plymouth needed three plays to score. Charley Testacala, the fullback, who was later ejected from the game, for the second week in a row (he had all but precipitated a melee with New London players there on Oct. 24, so much so that a Plymouth alumnus who was part of the referee's crew was constrained to make arrangements for the end-of-the-game salutations that would avoid a bitter confrontation), burst into the end zone from eight yards away.

Randy Myers' kick for PAT was wide to the right.

Mapleton did not waste any time in tying the score.

Myers kicked off, deep to the Mountie 13-yard line, where Mohrman took it in and swept to his left, down the sideline in front of the Mapleton grandstand and into the end zone.

A pass by Daryl Young for PATs did not connect.

It stayed that way for slightly over minutes of play.

Kevin Hickey, who on another team and another night would have been chosen MVP, ripped through the Red forward wall for 15 yards to his 30, where the ball was jarred into Jeff Staggs' recovered and Plymouth was in business at the Mounties' 30 with 1:18 left in the half.

Mike Bailey ran the draw for 20 yards to the 10-yard line. Testacala rumbled for six and on third down, Chuck Kosee sought to save on time by throwing the ball away.

This he did with less sophistication than the situation called for and Plymouth was socked with an intentional grounding call, which also entails loss of down.

On fourth down, Plymouth set up at the 17-yard line. Myers' kick was not good. It sailed wide to the right.

After a colloquy among the officials, Plymouth was awarded another try. They ruled that an inadvertent whistle entitles the offense to repeat the play. And on the second attempt, Myers split the uprights, giving the Big Red a 6 lead at halftime.

At half-time, Plymouth, having put the ball into play 38 times, had accumulated five first downs, four by rushing and one by passing, with 74 yards on the ground and 22 through the air, its passing attack only a shadow of what it has been in times past: two completions in 15 tries, most of the passes too low for the receiver to catch them. The Mounties with 32 plays had run for 61 net yards, with a total of four first downs, three by rushing and one by passing, which netted 32 yards on three completions of eight attempts.

The second half was all Mapleton.

Plymouth fumbled the kickoff and Mapleton recovered at the Red 33. The Mounties needed only four plays to score. Hickey got three, Mohrman ran right end for 17, Hickey hot left tackle for 13 and Mohrman rumbled home from six yards away at 10:52.

Myers' pass for PATs did not connect.

Plymouth did not put the ball in play for more than four downs in any series during the third period. It managed only eight yards by rushing, net, and 12 yards by passing.

With 1:58 remaining in the quarter, Mapleton and Mohrman were again in the end zone.

Despite a poor snap from center, with which he was plagued all night, Randy Smith punted 28 yards to the Mountie 49. Mohrman tore around left end for 21 yards, then through right tackle for four.

After Young was sacked for four, Mohrman got two, but a 10-yard holding call set the Mounties back to their 38. They punted, to the Red 15, where a fumble cost Plymouth possession.

From the 15, Mohrman ran for 10 through right tackle and, on second down, through right tackle again for two yards and the third score.

Jason Robinson intercepted Young's pass in the end zone to close out the chances for PATs.

Plymouth staged its best offensive advance of the game in the next series.

Taking the kickoff at its 17, Plymouth went to the air six times in 15 plays. The drive reached the Mountie 39, where Chuck Kosee's fourth down pass to David Powers was complete but for a six yard loss.

On first down Robinson intercepted Young's throw and Plymouth was back in business at the Red 38. In five plays — one of them was a five yard penalty against the visitors — Plymouth was compelled to punt. Smith kicked only 22 yards. Mapleton set up at the Red 39 and from there marched in three plays to the final score.

On first down, from the Plymouth 27, Mohrman swept into the end zone. Young passed to Hickey for the PATs.

Neither team did much thereafter.

Toward the end of the game, some Plymouth players got into a nasty word exchange with some Mapleton spectators, some of whom shouted, "You're just like Plymouth has always been!"

Plymouth ended its season with a single conference victory, over South Central, and seven defeats in 10 contests.

Its outstanding player could not suit up for the last two games, owing to a shoulder injury. His usefulness during the previous

Three lettermen out for basketball team

Just three lettermen will report to Coach David P. Dunn when he starts the first whistle for the 1986-87 Plymouth basketball season.

These are Steve Hall, most valuable player in the Firelands conference last season, with two letters, Jason Robinson and Mike Laach.

There are 10 reserve letter winners who will seek to fill the 11 remaining places on the travelling squad.

These include the first triplete to play for Plymouth in any sport, Jerry, Todd and Troy Wilson, Eric Brenick, Brian Carnahan, Lance Combs, Terry Hall, Jim Rockford, Ron Shepherd and Kip Tucker.

Tucker was out for a time last season because of a pacemaker installed in his heart.

Stephens is obviously the big man that Dunn is counting on. If he has filled out during the summer, he will be the more useful in the pivot. Todd Wilson saw considerable varsity action last season as the more advanced of the capable trio. Rockford is a late bloomer. He played reserve but as an 11th grader last season and played some varsity ball.

Coach Mike Badertscher has a different task facing him with the Big Red girls.

He has seven letter winners, headed by Kay Niedermeier, the MVP last season. Others are Barbara Clark, Michelle Collins, Donell Brannan, Beth Roethlisberger, Karen Thornberry and Kim Gibson. Up from the reserve squad are Danielle Smith and Laura Sponseller. Stacy Brannan, Amy Laser, Peggy Osborn and Trina Snipes won numerals last season.
