

Service contracts win approval

Approval was given to renew two ambulance contracts and one fire contract for several townships during a special meeting of village council Dec. 16.

The contracts expire at the end of this year. The renewals will also be for three years, as now, and will end Dec. 31, 1989.

The contract for rescue and ambulance service with Auburn township and the village of Trio will remain the same. Each will pay $1,500 annually.

New Haven township has been raised to $2,750 from $2,500 annually for ambulance service, and from $5,500 to $5,775 for fire protection.

Fire Chief Wayne E. Strine said he talked with the New Haven township trustees and it was agreed that a five per cent raise is fair.

The bid of Midwest Electric in the amount of $3,550 for the 1988 bucket truck was accepted. It was the highest of the five bids received.

The other four were from the City of Willard, $2,502; Able Asphalt, $1,565; Sycamore Tree Service, $3,000, and Mirk, Inc., an Orrville company, $1,650.

James C. Root, village administrator, said he is still checking hospitalization rates. He found that when he discussed Blue Cross coverage with its agent that it was more than had been thought and that the savings of several thousand dollars would be there.

The voice of The Advertiser—

Oldest story always fresh at Yuletide

... those days a decree went out from Caesar Augustus that all the world should be enrolled.

This was the first enrollment, when Quirinius was governor of Syria.

And all went to be enrolled, each to his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, from the city of Nazareth, to Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David, to be enrolled with Mary, his betrothed, who was with child.

And while they were there, the time came for her to be delivered.

And she gave birth to her first-born son and wrapped him in swaddling cloths, and laid him in a manger, because there was no place for them in the inn.

And in that region there were shepherds out in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And an angel of the Lord appeared to them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were filled with fear.

And the angel said to them, "Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good news of a great joy which will come to all the people; for to you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord.

And this will be a sign for you: you will find a babe wrapped in swaddling cloths and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying,

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom he is pleased!"

Cutright guilty on all counts, faces 30 years

Characterized as a liar by the earnest young assistant prosecutor who conducted the state's case, Kenneth Charles Cutright, 29, 16 1/2 East Main street, was found guilty of all five counts, including aggravated murder, by a jury of six men and six women in Richland county common pleas court Dec. 17.

The jury deliberated about four hours. Once it returned to the courtroom to seek from Judge James Henson an interpretation of the law respecting aggravated murder.

Deliberations in the jury room were apparently at times heated. Loud voices could be heard through the door to the jury room even by some standing in the rear of the courtroom.

Cutright was convicted in addition of accusations of aggravated robbery, theft, tampering with evidence and aggravated arson.

He must serve three terms of three years each for the weapons specifications in three of the counts. This derives in part from the fact he is a convicted felon.

Sentencing will come later. It will include a sentence for contempt of court. Judge Henson ruled that by reason of Cutright's refusal to answer questions posed to him by the assistant prosecutor, Jerry Ault — "Who was 'A'?" "Who was 'B'?", the two persons described by Cutright in his own defense from the witness stand as the perpetrators of the murder on Sept. 21 of Jeffrey Clones, a New Havenite who was deeply involved in cocaine dealing — the 1974 alumnus of Plymouth High school was guilty of contempt.

Ault in the state's summation said Cutright lied outright when he told his bizarre story about "A," the alleged perpetrator of the murder, and "B," the accomplice who was said to have helped to conceal and destroy evidence of it.

This was an obvious ploy to throw the jury's suspicion on the accused's sister, Jackie Lynn Cutright, 28, a confessed drug mainliner. Cutright testified under oath that after he was confronted on the back steps to his apartment at 16 1/2 East Main street on the morning of Sept. 22 by "A," whose sex he would not characterize, although he admitted "B" was a male, he and "A" walked to "A's" residence and there telephoned to "B," who lived 15 to 20 minutes away, for assistance, Ault said.

Ault, whose temperament showed a chameleon-like substance to it later in the trial, he having vented his spleen against the defendant for deigning to insult his intelligence with such a bizarre tale, whereas his inquiries previously were couched in a mild, evasive lexicon, said Cutright's fatal mistake was to say that from the residence of "A" they telephoned to "B." Ault put Jackie Cutright on the witness stand again and she denied that she ever had had a telephone connection to her apartment.

His fatal mistake may have occurred earlier, when he opted to testify in his defense.

His court-appointed attorney, Robert Whitney, earlier described as the Perry Mason of Richland county bar, acknowledged after the trial that he advised Cutright to stand mute.

Whitney offered neither opening statement nor closing argument. The inference was clear that he thought his client could not exonerate himself from his dire predicament by further rhetoric.

When the verdict was announced, the defendant was impassive, as indeed he had been throughout the trial, even when the most shocking testimony against him was submitted. Earlier, during the state's summation, Ault's characterization of what the assistant prosecutor called his fatal mistake was so his sister, his estranged lover, Donita Buchanan, and his mother, Mrs. Sidney Prater, Jackie Cutright was convulsed by sobs. The others wept bitterly.

Signs are that he will draw a sentence of 40 years to life for his crimes. The first nine years must be served without opportunity for parole.

Cutright to seek new trial

An effort to obtain a new trial some time must elapse before I can file a motion for a new trial. And I need some more information, which I am trying to get now, which under these circumstances is kind of difficult."

Cutright was at pains to exculpate his sister.

"From what I've heard and what little they've let me read about the trial, everybody and his sister took it from what I said on the witness stand that it was my sister that did it. I didn't mean that, my sister did not do it, it was the way I was questioned. I was led into a trap and backed into a corner. I wasn't real happy with the testimony she gave but I don't have any hard feelings for her."

Then he said, "Do you have any questions you want to ask?"

"Yes, two."

"What are they?"

"Who is 'A'?" "Who is 'B'?"

"There is a possibility I will take these names to the grave with me. I feel bad that I couldn't solve this. You know, in the circles I run in please see page 6

What Christmas means to me!
Christmas is about giving presents to your family and friends and being thankful for all the wonderful toys you get from Santa Claus and all the things fun about Christmas is seeing all Santa Claus's reindeer pulling the sleigh through the blue sky as he told Rudolph to speed up, we do not have much time. Time flies when you're flying, as he laughed and his belly full of jelly moved and we this is getting fun he said and they were getting close to the little boys house and had to slow down to go down the chimney and stuck a candy cane down his stocking and put presents under the tree and kept on going to other boys and girls houses and when he was done he went back for the cookies and milk.

What to do with loot? Spent it on a stamp!

By AUNT LIZ

After some deep thinking, I have come to the conclusion that state lotteries are plain dangerous. They can make you forget what you are doing while you dream of what you would do if you should win the whole works. A few weeks ago, when it was something like $20 million, I fell for it and simply wasted $5. But it was fun for a few hours. For the first time in years, I indulged in lovely daydreams that almost caused me to drive right into a ditch.

This is something I haven't done in years, not since I was about a fifth grader, when I thought it would be the height of all glory to dance like Ginger Rogers, look like Joan Crawford and sing like Lily Pons.

This was a little different. I was indulging in the great American pastime of spending money. The first thing I was going to do was to hunt up five pounds of large succulent shrimp and eat until I was stuffed.

I figured that I would have about $19,999,900 left.

One telephone call would take care of that. It wouldn't be to Cartier, nor Tiffany's or even N.M. in Dallas. It would be to two guys in New Orleans who are about the best stamp dealers around. I would simply offer to buy all they had, the ones I only see pictures of or read about, and they would be MINE.

So 7:25 p.m. came and there I sat with my 30 numbers. Something went very wrong with the little machine they use to get the winning ones. Out of 30, I had exactly two.

That was that and there was nothing else to do but open a can of tuna fish and whip up a sandwich mixture, then soak some old, used stamps off the envelopes.

So now it's back to reality and a cold world that can be perked up with a really old, just about historical, dessert. This goes way back to the colonies.

It has various names, but I like the First Square the best.

First you make a sponge cake. It is to be baked in greased square pan at 350 degrees.

Cream a half cup of shortening with one cup of sugar. Beat in two eggs until lemon colored. Add a teaspoon vanilla. Measure two and a half cups of flour with three teaspoons of baking powder. Add this alternately with three-fourths of a cup of milk.

While this is baking, mix a custard of four cups of milk, three-fourths of a cup of sugar and three tablespoons of cornstarch. Cook this while stirring until it thickens. Beat three egg yolks well, add one cup of the hot milk mixture to them and beat a little more, then add it all to the rest of the milk mixture and cook and stir a little more until lemon colored.

To this add a teaspoon of rum extract and a half cup of cream sherry.

The custard then goes over squares of the cake.

It can be prettied up with a few strawberries if you haven't eaten all you did last summer.
