

On judging

We confess a lack of full confidence in the standards we apply to the young.

And in an assignment we recently undertook, this lack of confidence may have resulted in an unreasonable, perhaps unfair, decision that meant dollars to a deserving pupil.

We don't have any trouble with absolutes. They're either right or they're wrong. A column of figures adds up to so many numbers and no others. The pupil either has it right or he doesn't have it at all. There is no 90 per cent or 80 per cent or 70 per cent degree of correctness.

Being right, we were long ago taught, is somewhat akin to not being pregnant. One cannot be 90 per cent pregnant, or 80 per cent or even 10 per cent. One is or one is not.

It is in the less absolute that we experience difficulty.

By what standards, for example, should we judge performance of a high school athlete. If he is a baseball player, by the image of Ruth, or perhaps Williams, or Hubbell, or Cobb? That we saw each of these in their prime and when we were capable of appraising his skills is no matter; should we judge the players of 1986 by these lights?

Should we appraise the performance of a musician by a Serkin or a Segovia or a Goodman or a Perlman or a McCormack or a Sill, each of whom we have heard in person, when we were capable of measuring the degree of excellence of his performance?

And when an essay or composition is submitted for appraisal, against what should it be measured? One man's Twain is another's babe.

Time was when from a seat on the aisle we musicians and pupil-actors. We applied to their musicians and pupil-actors. We applied to them the standards of excellence characteristic of seasoned professionals, under the supposition that anyone who must pay to hear the performance or to see it has a right to, nay, ought to judge it by a professional standard.

And we think that is a good rule to follow, bearing in mind that the kind of baseball, for example, that we see at Toledo, when the Mud Hens play, or at Columbus, when the Clippers perform, is at least one cut below what we see, or should see, at Chicago, New York, Cincinnati, St. Louis and, we hope in the time left to us, at Cleveland.

Allowance must be made for the level of performance and for the cost of witnessing it. Not only in money, but in effort by the viewer/listener to witness it but also in the effort by the performer to present it.

To accept, even in the slightest degree, a slipshod performance by any child, whether it is in coloring a rabbit's outline on the page of a booklet or in playing forward on the basketball team or in writing an essay with the hope of winning a prize or the encomium of a teacher, is tantamount to cheating the child if one does not judge him by the best that the most advanced of his peers can do.

We watched with captivation the Westminster Kellen club's annual dog show, in which animals of dozens of breeds were judged, subjectively, mind you, by experts who measured them against the absolute standard set by the originators/perfectors of the breed as the optimum of selective breeding. The decisions, each judge said, were made in that context, but with the limitation that "the winners must be the best of what we have here today and how each entrant performed today".

What it boils down to is judgment. One is not born with it. One acquires it by experience and over time. It is not possible to define what elements comprise judgment, nor how judgment is acquired.

A celebrated judge said he could not define pornography, but he knew it when he saw it.

Sometimes we cannot define excellence. But we know it when we see it. And we shall fight to the end that that excellence shall be recognized, encouraged, made to flourish.

Three named to commission to save trees

Three villagers, Robert Rudd, Mrs. James McClure and Everett Eckstein, comprise the Shade Tree commission, together with Roy Barber, president pro tempore of the village council, who will serve as the council member and the mayor.

Mayor Hebble is declaring Apr. 26 as Arbor day for the village. The state is observing it on Apr. 25. But a day or two of variance is allowed, and the 26th falls on a Saturday.

With the help of the Boy Scouts, several trees are to be planted in the southeast corner of Greenlawn cemetery.

Border wins variance to construct addition

A variance was granted by the board of zoning appeals Mar. 5 to Nevin Border to construct an addition to a small house in Mill street.

His original request was rejected because the lot size of the property did not conform with the village's zoning ordinance. The small lot has about 4,700 square feet and the requirement is for 12,500.

Border's attorney, Neil A. McKown, pointed out to the board that Border actually owns all of Lot 99, which would allow for the ordinance's requirement.

McKown also said that an "appeal" was more in order than asking for a variance, to which the board agreed, but went ahead granting it anyway.

The request was asked so that the several rooms can be added to the house occupied by Border's daughter and son-in-law, the Reginald Ganzhorns.

Tornado hit north of here

The alarm siren sounded but only a few heard it. And those who did so took precautions.

Tornado sightings on Monday night led village officials to sound the alarm.

High winds blew through the village shortly after dark. Electric power in some neighborhoods was temporarily interrupted.

A tornado apparently touched down near Willard reservoir and in Townline road 12, Huron county, which was obstructed to traffic for a time. The sugar camp on the Bauer property and Orville Tuttle's garage and trailer were struck and damaged.

Son-in-law and daughter of the Guy Cunninghams, the Clyde Eldridges, 2010 Townline road, were in the townline road when the tornado. Damage amounted to about $25,000.

$614 in fines levied by mayor

Fines of $614 and court costs were levied by Mayor Keith A. Hebble Mar. 5.

James E. Cavins, Paintsville, Ky., accused of drunken driving, pleaded guilty. He was fined $500. Pleas of guilty were entered and fines assessed thus:

Dave T. Ackerman, Norwalk, consumption of alcohol while under age, $15; Robert Burke, Milan, consumption of alcohol while under age, $15; Michael H. Gregory, Norwalk, consumption of alcohol while under age, $15; Also, Douglas D. Franca, Shiloh, intoxication, $15; Ori E. Steiner, Dalton, speeding, $24; Theodore L. Seyfers, Crestline, speeding, $30.

The three accused convicted of consumption while under age were arrested when Edison came here to play basketball.

Draws Newbury opponent —

Parrigan wins in regionals, to vie in state

He came to the mats late because he had been to the scholastic mats earlier, and was pinned. But Tim Parrigan will tomorrow become only the sixth Big Red wrestler to earn a trip to the state tourney at Columbus. He won the regional championship at Ayrersville Saturday by showing the rafters to George Roché, Archbold, in 1 min. 31 secs. Parrigan and Jeff Eichelberger were the only Red wrestlers to compete in the regionals. Eichelberger was eliminated early. The doughty Parrigan may again face Rocha in the state championships. Winners — and runners-up in each weight class in the regionals made it to the finals.

In the draw, Parrigan was chosen to face John Bord, Newbury, from the northeast regional, whose record is 19-7-1. Other pairings in his weight class, which is 105 pounds: Brian Hoffman, Fremont St. Joseph's, 28-5, vs. Joe Bonaventura, Grandview Hts., a Columbus school, 33-1; Rocha, 24-6, vs. Matt Mustarra, Richmond Hts., 14-10; Anton Burkett, Salem at West Liberty, 37-4, vs. Wayne Howard, New Albany, 26-3. Parrigan is a 12th grader, as is Howard. Bonaventura and Burkett are 11th graders. Hoffman, Bord and Roché are 10th graders and Mustarra is in his first season as a ninth grader.

Co-Capt. Kevin Taylor went out for this bucket in first period at Lexington Friday, but it wasn't enough, as St. Peter's ousted Plymouth.

'Colleen' winner at 5 to 1 odds

Scrogie Colleen flashed home in front in the ninth race at Northfield Park Sunday afternoon, finishing in 2:06 1/5 in a $2,700 conditioned pace. The five-year-old mare pulled out of the six hole at the start, paced to second at the quarter in 31 seconds and held that position to the three-quarter pole, where she was headed by Camara Lobell and Artillery Command. But the mare forged to the front in the stretch under the urging of Lou Mellert, her trainer, and won by a head.

Camara Lobell was second, Shadow Cross third. Scrogie Colleen paid $18.60, $5.60 and $5.40, a very tidy return on an investment of $6 across the board of about five to one.

Banquet Monday

Winter sports banquet will be served in the high school cafeteria Monday at 6:30 p.m. Players of the varsity and reserve boys' basketball teams and their families should bring a meat please see page 5

O'Neill scores 33 to lead Spartans over Plymouth

St. Peter's proved too big, too experienced and too accurate for Plymouth in the Class A district tourney at Lexington Mar. 5 and the Spartans advanced with a 76 to 64 victory.

Plymouth has never beaten St. Peter's in basketball and it was not to be before a packed house. The Spartans set the lead at 4:27 of the first period and capitalized on the extreme height and accuracy of Mike O'Neill, game high scorer with 33 points, to build a lead that once was 16 points.

St. Peter's ran 12 points beginning toward the end of the first period and extending into the early going of the second quarter and Plymouth was never able to recover.

The Big Red's shot selection in the first period was not good and its accuracy even less so.

While the Spartans were converting 11 of 24 shots at the basket in the first eight minutes, Plymouth managed only six of 18. Only one of these was by Co-Capt. Steve Hall, who had an off night with only 15 points, well below his season's average of 20.2. The rest by Co-Capt. Troy Keene, who was in and out of the lineup like a nursing lamb, owing to his bout with the flu.

It was Bryan Christoff who kept Plymouth in the game at all. He scored eight points, with four conversions of five tries, all of them from away from the basket, in the first period. He wound up with 15 points, a career high for him.

At the half, the Spartans led by 41 to 27. O'Neill by this time had accumulated 16 points, two of them by free throws, the others from a range of less than seven feet. And the Spartans had out-rebounded Plymouth, 26 to 14, certainly a factor in their performance, which worked out to 19 successes in 45 tries, three of five at the line. For its part, Plymouth has unloaded 33 times, converting just 11, and it was five of eight from the line.

That Plymouth outscored and out-rebounded St. Peter's in the second half looks well on the statistical sheets but it does not make much difference on the scoreboard.

Kevin Taylor scored 16 points, a career high for him, and blocked five shots, three of them by O'Neill, who took 21 shots all told, making 15 of them.

The shooters in the Plymouth squad remained loyal to the end, even to a scuffle in the lobby before was quickly halted by at least one cooler Plymouth head.

To defeat St. Peter's required a much sharper shooting eye. Plymouth did not kill itself with failures to produce on offensive advances. On only nine occasions did the Big Red fail to get off a shot when advancing the ball. The Spartans erred 13 times.

Where St. Peter's was so successful was under the basket, where O'Neill was simply too much for Plymouth. Overall, the Spartans got off 74 shots and were successful with 35 of them. At the line they missed eight of 14. They rebounded 45 times.

Plymouth's record was 28 of 82 attempts, with 10 misses among 18 shots at the line. It rebounded 37 times.

Two Spartans, Brian Wilson, with 13, and Lonnie Feagin, with 12, were the only others on the Blue and White team that broke into double figures, although the St. Peter's club certainly got balanced scoring. There were three others among the five who saw action that scored, each of them four or more.

The Big Red concludes its season at 15-and-8, certainly a creditable effort and a vindication for one who was reviled and scorned by a jockocracy that refused to re-appoint him as head coach. Dave Dunn has twice been chosen coach-of-the-year by his peers in the Firelands conference, which is 40 per cent of the time he and his team have been a part of the conference. If Dean Smith, Bog Knight or Digger Phelps could be named coach-of-the-year 40 per cent of the time, they'd settle for that.

It was a splendid year for Hall, who grew a little physically and who grew enormously as a player, a shooter, a leader and a sportsman. He is cut in the mold of some outstanding Big Red smaller boys, players of character and some skill whose dedication to the game and desire to excel in spite of their stature made them standouts.

Plymouth will find it difficult to field a team of this caliber next season. There are no big players in the ranks below. Ron Stephens and Kip Tucker, despite a Pace-maker to correct arrhythmia, are not yet of the stripe of Eric Rath and Robinson.

Hall and Robinson, who sometimes loses the reins on his bride, will be strong nuclei for the 1986-87 club.

Is there another Christoff in the wings? One whose blossom will burst, albeit a little late, to brighten the scene?

For Keene, Taylor, Rath, Christoff, Junior Porter, the clash with St. Peter's marks the end of the inter-scholastic road.

Mike Laesch, Todd Wilson, Lance Combe, the other Wilsons, Stephens, Tucker and Jim Rockford must catch up to the levels of Hall and Robinson to make this team a contender next season.

Eighth graders lose to Crestline, 35 to 30

Crestline eighth graders nipped and-8. They were coached by Paul Shiloh, 35 to 30, in the final game of the season Mar. 4 at Shiloh. Terry Pore was coach of the seventh graders, who were undefeated in 14 games.

It's eight alumni who're coaching!

What he hopes will be the last enumeration of alumni of Plymouth now engaged in coaching was called to the notice of the sports editor last week. Two graduates are engaged in coaching basketball at the ninth grade level. A 1966 alumnus who starred as a basketball and baseball player before he matriculated in Taylor university, Upland, Ind., Roderick R. Huston is, and has been for several seasons, ninth grade coach in Lexington high school. He is the son of the Earl Hustons, Route 603, Shiloh. The 1978 graduate who excelled in football, wrestling and baseball before he entered Wilmington college, Wilmington, now enrolled in Mt. Vernon Nazarene college, Mt. Vernon, after a bout of severe illness, Martin L. McKenzie is part-time coach of ninth grade boys' basketball in Utica High school. He is also a member of Plymouth Board of Education.

Legion to observe 67th anniversary

To mark the 67th anniversary of the founding of the first American Legion post, a potluck dinner will be served Saturday at 6 p.m. by members of Ehret-Parrel Post 447, American Legion, and its auxiliary.

Lutherans...

Members of the LCW, First Evangelical Lutheran church, will meet today at 1 p.m. in the church social hall.

Health kits will be packed and work will begin on making table favors for the Mother-Daughter banquet. Each member is asked to bring her own scissors.

The evening group will meet Monday at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Sidney Ream.

Union service...

Union Lenten service Wednesday will be in First Evangelical Lutheran church.

The Rev. Thomas Hoover, minister of Plymouth United Methodist church, will conduct the service. His topic will be "Living Simply".

Church news is welcomed. Tel. 687-5511 on Mondays before 3 p.m.

Each family is to bring a covered dish and table service. A meat dish will be served.

The Legion was organized Mar. 15, 1919, in Paris, France, by American soldiers who were still there after World War I.

The first post in Ohio was in Columbus, the second in Cleveland, the third in Findlay.

The local post was chartered June 1, 1920, with 14 members. These were J. Elden Ninnons, who served as the first commander; Carl Mizner, Arthur E. Brumback, Ray E. Blaker, Paul C. Russell, Otto A. Curpen, Carl M. Kaylor, Armin H. Clark, James H. Wilson, Hal L. Cross, Lawrence E. Buzard, Frank J. Weck, Roscoe W. Becker and A. Breck Snider.

The organization was named Ehret post for Samuel Carlton Ehret, a Navy ensign, who died in France of a respiratory ailment during World War I.

After World War II broke out, the post followed a national policy and added the name Parrel for Capt. Elmer Parrel, Army Air Corps, who lost his life over New Delhi, India.

The auxiliary was chartered Nov. 11, 1938, by 16 women who were members of the immediate families of the veterans.

Margery Ehret, the sister of Esnign Ehret, was chosen its first president.

Those first members were Mrs. William Wechter, Mrs. Edward L. Earnest, Mrs. George Hershiser, Mrs. Charles Lookabaugh, Mrs. Stacy Brown, nee Grace Ernest, Beulah Shepherd, Frances Moore, Mrs. J. Phillips Moore, Amanda Moore, Mrs. Harry Vandervort, Laella Vandervort, Mrs. I. E. LaBarre, Donna Russell, Alberta Pickens and Evelyn Moore.

The post met in several locations in the village and for years was on the second floor of what is now First National Bank. In 1965, in rooms occupied by The Upstairs Store, the present structure was built in Trux street on land given to the post by local teenagers, who had purchased it with their profits from dances, in gratitude of what the post had done for them in providing recreational facilities.

The post and auxiliary are responsible for some of the annual outstanding community events, the OX Roast in August the closest to an annual homecoming in the village.

As fund raising project, monthly fish fries are scheduled, and the building has become a source of added income from rentals for weddings and other social events.

The auxiliary members have been instrumental for many of these events and have been able to use their funds for purchasing radios for the school buses, for playground equipment and for funding of responsibilities to the veterans' hospitals and homes.

Each year the post and auxiliary sponsor 11th grade high school pupils to the Boys' and Girls' State weeks at Bowling Green State university and Ashland college.

The post has 179 members. William Bland is this year's commander.

Three teachers get lifetime tenure

25 pupils who had smoking waivers, 20 participated.

Each participant was required to attend showing of two films and read four documents prepared by the American Cancer society.

Results? Fourteen of the 20 participants have turned in written reports to retain smoking waivers, four pupils have surrendered their waivers and do not now smoke or chew.

Of the enrollment of 348 pupils, 40 asked for smoking privileges. Sixteen have since left the school district.

Should village replace old utility building?

Replacement of village utility buildings, mainly as a safety factor, was suggested Mar. 3 by Councilman Bill Taubee.

He pointed out the village plans to purchase a new bucket truck that would be housed in the old wooden structure in New street, a costly investment that should be housed adequately.

The two buildings belonging to the village in New street were old to start with when they were purchased from the Bachrach Co. about 1970. They were bought then because the village had use of the Charles Rhine Army property but was forced to give it up when the federal government wanted to sell it. At the time, the village could not afford it, and it was turned over to the school district, which qualified at the time to receive it rather than purchasing it.

Mayor Keith A. Hebble said that the village has an industry interested in locating here and that it has expressed interest in a building to be erected by the building that it could lease. He suggested a structure measuring 100 X 500 feet in the industrial park, which could be rented to one or more industries.

Councilman Taubee seemed enthusiastic about this idea and urged its implementation. A grant will be sought to fund the program.

Taubee said the mayor can create a recreation commission, which would supplant the park board, and assign to it not only conduct of the parks in the village but also the swimming pool. Hebble said the council and the park board will meet to discuss the proposal.

A question of the wording on the proposal of two mill operating levy was resolved when the council voted to alter the phrasing to read "additional" rather than "renewal" so that the full revenue of two mills, applied against the newest tax valuation of the village, can be realized.

Law restricts use of the word "replacement" in the ballot language to joint vocational schools.

$6,603 bill turned in by judge's attorney

Cost of Probate Judge Thomas Heydinger's litigation against Attorney Gregory McDowell, Willard, in a contempt of court case amounts to $6,603.40 in his attorney's fees, for which the lawyer, William W. Owens former prosecutor, billed Huron county Thursday.

Owens ap pealed to the Ohio Supreme Court to upset a 6th district appeals court ruling that Heydinger could not impose sanctions on McDowell, then an assistant prosecutor, for failing to appear for a hearing in December of 1984.

The Supreme Court held for Judge Heydinger.

Candidate says she'll work free one day a week
 A Democratic candidate for Huron county commissioner has a new campaign gimmick: she is volunteering her services to work, yes, work in the offices of county officials.
 Mrs. Anne Bresson says she will work one full day a week for any county functionary in any of 25 offices.
 The 55-year-old Norwalkian seeks to oust Independent James Westerkoff from the seat he won last time around. She is unopposed in her party primary. Two Republicans, William Focht, Clarkfield, and Gene Shepherd, New London, seek the GOP nomination.
 Commissioner Thomas Arabin isn't buying the whole package.
 "I think she could come in and observe," he says, "I don't know how many county officials would be comfortable with her coming in and getting behind the counter."
 And he has some doubts whether legally Mrs. Bresson's volunteer scheme would be feasible.

Miss Julie Muhr, Sandusky, has been named as the foster care coordinator for Huron county's Department of Human Services. She is a graduate of Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, Mich., with a degree in social work.

This is a new position created to improve the current foster care system in Huron county. Responsibilities include recruitment of new homes and training for all foster parents.

She is 23 years old and has a special interest in quality care for children.

Huron county is currently placing 97 per cent of its children in residential and institutional settings, often outside the county.

Edward Phillips was released Friday from Shelby Memorial hospital, where he was a patient for two weeks for treatment of a blood clot in his leg.

Women are now chefs, note; they're making polenta!

By AUNT LIZ

America has discovered something new, and it is an amazing discovery.

The hottest thing from coast to coast now is that ladies can cook and are even opening their own restaurants.

I have an idea what the girls have been doing all these years or even for centuries. A few, maybe, did come up with some books, like Fannie Farmer, Irma Rombauer and Julia Child. In fact, of all the cookbooks in our kitchen, only two were written by a man, Craig Claiborne. He's a bachelor, and the poor guy hasn't a wife to do such things. He's good, too.

And who started the world's most famous cooking school, the Cordon Bleu, in Paris? It was a French lady who thought it a good idea that young girls learn to cook, which would help them find a husband.

And what about that great industry called Peppercide Farm? That started in an ordinary kitchen to meet a husband's diet. Then there's the young housewife who is making a fortune with her tasty recipe for chocolate chip cookies, of which the original one started in the kitchen of a gal who ran a small restaurant.

Maybe women went about it the wrong way and were merely happy to just say they were cooks and not chefs. As far as I can determine after a lot of thinking it is that place which has a guy in a tall white hat sticking his finger into this pot and that is more expensive.

So now a couple of up-starty women are calling themselves, chefs, which is certainly more glamorous than just being a common cook.

This is a great step forward. Women are in politics, banking, you name it, and now they are in the kitchen, where some men have always thought they belonged.

There is now question that restaurant planning a cooking is vastly different from a little kitchen, but then what about gals with large families who needed three meals a day?

I can still remember the time our kids brought friends home from school, and once we had eight kids at the table. All I could think was "Thank heavens, this is for four days, not a lifetime!"

This is where you come up with some very low cost and yet edible dishes.

There are the old standbys like potato salad, spaghetti, chili, stuff that stretches and a lot can be made at one clip. Anything stir fried is also a good deal, takes little meat.

You should also be thinking about the nutrient value, and there is one thing which hardly anyone we know makes, and that's polenta. I learned it in Italy where food was darn expensive at the time and a lot of things impossible to find. With a salad, it made a meal.

The basic recipe is merely a cup of yellow cornmeal cooked in a pot of boiling water in a double boiler until it thickens.

You have a good meat sauce on top of it, or a mixture of butter and cheese that will melt nicely into this. This also has another name. Some call it cornmeal mush, but like a cook being called a chef, polenta sounds better, yes?

All about town...

Mrs. Warren Hollenbaugh returned last week from a three week visit with her daughter and son-in-law, the Frederick Youngs, San Gabriel, Cal.

The Charles F. Hanlines are back from New Orleans, La., where they attended a fruit and vegetable growers convention. New dialing service to start here July 17

A new service enabling telephone users to direct-dial all long distance calls will begin in July, but instructions for it appear in the 1986 Norwalk directory being mailed this month.

Callers should continue dialing "0" (zero) to make operator-assisted calls until July, says Ernest S. Cato, General Telephone of Ohio's Norwalk district service manager.

After the change, those calls will be made by dialing 0, plus the out-of-town numbers. Types of calls included are person-to-person, calling card (credit card) and collect calls, he said.

Fourteen area exchanges are earmarked for this service improvement in July, said Cato.

Cato said the Norwalk book covers Norwalk, Milan, Monroeville, New London and North Fairfield exchanges. The book's traditional issuance date is March.

First exchange to switch to 0-plus dialing will be Bellevue on July 1, followed by Clyde, Huron, Huron, July 7; Willard, July 8; Attica, July 9; Greenwich, July 10, and Milan July 11.

Monroeville changes on July 14;

New London, July 15; New Washington, July 16; Plymouth, July 17, and North Fairfield, Berlin Hts. and Norwalk, July 18.

Cato said the company will mail dialing procedures and change-over dates to all customers in the district.

"Zero-plus dialing will speed up handling of operator-assisted calls," said Cato. "After numbers have been dialed, an operator will ask for switching to its destination."

Norwalk's directory provides listings for about 14,000 phone users. Featured on the front cover is an illustration of the State of Liberty.

Any customer not receiving a directory by Apr. 10 should call the service order center to be satisfied.

Additional free copies of the book can be picked up at the company's Phone Mart, 29 West Main street, Norwalk. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Zero-plus dialing instructions will appear in Bellevue-Clyde, Huron-Berlin Heights and Willard directories as new editions are issued.

There's been a lot said lately about the above topics. Yes, there are several pre-need contracts available today. However, you should be very careful to obtain all the facts regarding the investment in any pre-need arrangement.

We at Secor Funeral Home will be more than happy to discuss any of the pre-need topics and personal arrangements with you so you may obtain all the facts.

Please remember, if something sounds "too good to be true," it just may be.
