

Let's ask ourselves; how high is up?

The Italians have a word for how we should conduct ourselves in the face of a blow that has only one equal in Plymouth's long history.

Not since the announcement that Wilkins AF station would close has this village been brought to its knees so quickly and so dramatically.

Although many of us could see that the local plant was not so busy as it has been at other times, and we had heard from time to time from employees that "things are not so good", few of us gave thought to what might transpire, and certainly not that unless the employees buy the business, it will be sold piecemeal to those who are likely to remove it, or its parts, from here.

The Italian word is "pazienza". It literally means "patience", but it means more than that. How much more? It's not quite definable. It encompasses the retention of a cool head, something Italians classically have difficulty doing, and a vigorous inquiry into what's going on.

There are some who've already told us they object to that "vigorous inquiry" part. And to them we have retorted, "A part of the deal is that money belonging to the citizens of Ohio will be involved in the transaction. I am a citizen and this citizen, for one, intends to find out where the money's coming from, what the guarantees are that it will be repaid, and what the chances are that the venture will succeed." Our tax money is too hard come by to waste in a "good money after bad" proposition.

Can the employees manage to buy the plant?

We don't doubt for a minute that there are 100 employees of PLW with sufficient assets to raise $5,400 apiece to fund the purchase. Anyone who's worked anywhere for five or six years has acquired some equity in something, sufficient to obtain cash or credit in the amount of $5,400.

The question is whether they will want to do it.

There are some, of a certain age, who'll figure, perhaps rightly, that since sands are running out, it will avail them of but little purpose to invest $5,400 in a proposition that will serve them only slightly, perhaps a year, or two years, or even three.

There are some who lack foresight, or courage, or the daring spirit and will turn down the offer. They will fall back upon the safety net maintained by the body politic and ride it for all it's worth, until the benefits run out. And then they'll look for something else.

Perhaps it is as well that those who've put this package together ruled out, from the start, the participation of folks of that stripe. For it's clear that the proposal cannot succeed without the willing and vigorous effort of the employees, and particularly those chosen to be committee chairmen, and the manifestation by their friends and neighbors that we want them to succeed.

Yes, want them to succeed.

How much?

How high is up?

It will be difficult for those not directly connected with the plan to give assistance, even moral assistance, cheering from the sidelines, so to speak, without full and detailed disclosure of what's needed and how they can help.

Which specifically includes village government, which up to now has hardly been accorded any reasonable attention by the vendor or its agents. Indeed, when the mayor made a courtesy call at the plant, he was received cordially, assured that everything was going swimmingly, and politely given to understand that PLW could get along without any interference, thank you.

Every man, woman and child in Plymouth has a stake in the survival of Plymouth Locomotive Works. If each of them has not shown that interest in the past, he can be excused: nobody seemed concerned about interest. Now that the interest is important, trust us. Let us all know how we can help.

Three held for theft at Shiloh

Accused of breaking into the Rathskeller at Shiloh and five other burglaries, three Mansfielders were indicted by a Richland county grand jury May 5.

These are James D. Webb, Jr., 21; Michael W. Mount, 19, and Loyce Weatherspoon, 22.

About $4,000 worth of property was recovered by sheriff's deputies. A burglary in Twichell road Mansfield, got $400 in jewelry alone, deputies said.

$754 levied by mayor in court here

Fines of $754 and court costs were levied April 30 by Mayer Keith A. Hebble, who received one plus of not guilty transferred the case to Shelby Municipal Court and another that was heard May 7.

These are those of Arthur L. Warren, Mansfield, accused of drunken driving, and Patrice L. Jordan Branch, Bucyrus, charged with speeding.

Four accused did not appear.

Bench warrants will issue for Rodney E. Garrett, Toledo, charged with speeding; Donald K. Linnabary, Cardington, charged with speeding; Donald J. Abel, Shelby, charged with speeding; and Randy L. Barnett, Willard, charged with weaving.

Jerry M. Bishop, Shelby, pleaded no contest to driving while under suspension and was fined $150 and costs, of which $100 was suspended.

Thomas S. Salyers, Mansfield, charged with driving with an expired license, pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs, of which $50 was suspended.

Shirley M. Davis, Plymouth, was fined $15 and costs for permitting a dog to run at large, of which $10 was suspended.

Waived fines were paid by David A. Hiedinger, Plymouth, speeding $36; Charles D. Bloom, Mansfield, speeding $36; Ronald D. Lahmon, E. Putt, Willard, speeding $34.

Also, Johnny K. Spencer, Shelby, stop sign violation, $15.

Dwight W. Killian, Bellevue, speeding $42; Sylvester Kleshinski, Mansfield, speeding $42.

Larry Michael Love, Clyde, speeding, $30.

Also, Arlene M. Dawson, Shelby, speeding $40; expired tags, $15.

Cecil C. Givens, Marionville, speeding $20; Terry L. Feltz, Willard, speeding $26; Nellie G. Gardner, Willard, speeding $24; Clarence J. Porter, 3rd, Plymouth, speeding $22.

Two charges against Donald W. Huff, Jr., Willard, of operating a vehicle while under suspension and of speeding, were continued to yesterday's court.

GAS APPLIANCES:
A WAY TO PUT CONTROLS ON YOUR ENERGY BILLS
WITHOUT PUTTING CONTROLS ON YOUR EVERYDAY LIFE.

One of many suggestions on ways to save energy is the use of control devices which tell you when you can use your electric appliances. They may help limit energy use, but they also limit what you can do in your own home.

There's another option, though—a far better one.

Gas appliances are always available, ready at any time when you want to shower, or dry clothes, or cook a big meal. You live your life at your own schedule—and still save on energy.

Gas appliances put controls on your energy bills without putting controls on your everyday life.

So if you're looking for the best way to control energy bills, count-on gas heating and appliances. You'll enjoy savings and your own lifestyle.

Halls shine, Red wins sectional tourney, 1 to 0

A solid square bunt with two strikes against him by Terry Hall got Jamie Brown across the plate for the "0" score Saturday morning as Plymouth defeated Lucas, 1 to 0, for the Class A sectional tourney title.

Plymouth will now meet St. Joseph's of Fremont, winner of the Old Fort sectional, at Old Fort Tuesday at 4:30 p.m.

Best route to Old Fort: Proceed west on Route 224 to stop light at Riverside Inn at Tiffin. Turn north on Route 63 and proceed through city to second road on right, turn north (right) to Old Fort.

Trojans score two in sixth, win, 6 to 4

Two runs on three hits in the sixth home Monday led South Central to a 6 to 4 Firelands conference victory over Plymouth.

The Big Red is now 8-and-12 overall and 8-and-6 in league play.

Jeff Staggs was the victim of the Trojan uprising.

With two hits, singles by Steve Hicks, the winning pitcher, a fielder's choice to Matt White, a safety by Smith and another by Music produced two scores.

Steve Hall clouted a homer with two aboard in the fourth to tie it at four for Plymouth.

The Trojans got three in the first and one in the third.

Staggs was reached for nine hits, including doubles by Coffey, who had three hits, and Starcher. He struck out four and walked just two.

Hicks fanned three and walked seven. He gave up eight hits.

Board engages two teachers, one for life

Two teachers were offered contracts, one of them a life tenure agreement, and coaches and extra-curricular directors for the fall season were assigned by Plymouth Board of Education Monday night.

A class of 74 candidates for the high school diploma on June 6 was approved, subject to satisfactory completion of work.

Mrs. Linda Bloomfield, now a tutor, was appointed primary learning disabilities teacher on a one year contract.

Mrs. Lawrence J. Root, kindergarten teacher, received a continuing contract, her eligibility having recently been regularized.

Bryan J. Neff was reappointed athletic director, Lawrence J. Root, junior high school athletic director.

Richard Roll will again be head football coach. His assistants will be David Hinchcliff and Kevin Steinmetz. A third assistant remains to be appointed.

Dennis Blanchard will be junior high school football coach. An assistant will be appointed.

Paul Gase will return as cross country coach. Whether a junior high school coach will be chosen will depend on the number of candidates.

J. Jeffrey Conklin will direct the band.

Julie Mayer is varsity cheerleader adviser, Denise Thompson junior high adviser.

Mrs. Richard Hutton will be volleyball coach. An assistant will be chosen.

Michael Badertscher will be junior high volleyball coach.

David P. Dunn will coach golf. Mrs. Karl Pfaff, 3rd, is flag corps and majorette adviser.

Olympics of the Mind team will fly from Cleveland to Phoenix, Ariz., and proceed by car to Flagstaff, Ariz., seat of the University of Northern Arizona, for the international competition.

About 90 per cent of the necessary funds have been collected. Supt. Douglas R. Staggs was expansive in praising donors to the fund.

Six pupils and their adviser, Jerry Jules, will return to Cleveland June 1.

Ewing Office Supply, Ashland, was low bidder for typewriter cleaning at $1,200.

Willard Taxi Service was hired at $48 a pupil a day to transport a pupil to Norwalk for special instruction and $12 a day to Mansfield. The state foots half of the cost.

Parents of one child will transport the pupil to Mansfield at $12 a day.

Ability insurance in the football stadium at Mary Faye Park has advanced to $1,000,000 by $1,042 for this year, the board was told in a letter from Village Administrator James C. Root.

Board of trustees of the park can pay $200 of the increase from its funds, Root said, and he sought a share by the board.

It cannot legally do so, Staggs said. The school has a contract for use of the field for $1 a year. The village could need to raise that figure to $1,200 to recover its costs, Staggs said.

He suggested it may be time for the board to begin development of its own complex, "since we already own the land."

Robert Spangler, from the audience, said it would probably be cheaper for the board to pay the additional $1,000 or $1,200 than to invest in a new site.

A boys' baseball hit-a-thon to raise funds to pay for baseball training equipment, was approved for May 19.

An adult basic education course for 1986-87 by Pioneer Joint Vocational school was approved. Use of a classroom is involved. Candidates must qualify for the high school diploma.

Sixty-four pupils have enrolled for kindergarten classes in August.

Academic Boosters have contributed $500 to the Arizona trip for Olympics of the Mind, the board was told.

Spring sports awards dinner will be May 29 at 6:30 p.m.

Awards assembly will be June 5.

'Back to Farm' days set today, tomorrow for third graders

Today and tomorrow is "Back to the Farm" days for Plymouth Elementary school third graders.

The children will spend two days as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Buzzard at the Fenner farm in Route 598.

This morning the youngsters will do bird watching with Mrs. Ronald Lyberger and bird banding with Merrill Tawes Gorman Nature center, Mansfield.

During the afternoon they will study soil and water conservation with Jeffrey Wilkinson, Richland county soil and water conservation office.

The day will end with the performance of Rick Swallow, former head of the Renaissance theater, Mansfield, as Johnny Appleseed.

Tomorrow will begin with a study of pond life with Jerry Gindl, district wildlife officer, Findlay, followed by a session on wild life law enforcement by Bill King, Richland county game protector.

The afternoon will be a nature treasure hunt.

Each child is to bring a bag lunch for each of the two days. Parents are invited to watch the activities.

This is the second year of the program, which has been developed by the third grade teachers, Mrs. John Echelberry and C. Michael Follett.

Each pupil has received a booklet with descriptions of what to found at the Fenner farm, written by the pupils and illustrated by the art class.

R. C. Wolford, life Shilohan, succumbs at 81

For 25 years a member of the old Shiloh Board of Education, Raymond C. Wolford, 81, Greenwich road 2 died of a month's illness Saturday evening in Shelby Memorial Hospital.

Born Aug. 5, 1904, in Blooming Grove township, he lived there all his life. He farmed until he retired two years ago.

He was a member of Shenandoah Christian church and of the state and national granges. He was for 30 years a member of the Richland county fair board.

He survived by his wife, nee Lenore Oberlin; a son, E. Dean, member of Crawford Board of Education; three daughters, Mrs. Naomi M. Everbank, Medina, Mrs. Ruth Schrock, Wooster, and Mrs. Janice Irisia, Amherst; nine grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. His first wife, nee Mary Egner, died in 1964.

The Rev. Norwood Dunn conducted services yesterday at 11 a.m. from the church. Burial was in Shenandoah cemetery.

Gen. Butterfield all but forgotten, but not by this ex-Marine!

By AUNT LIZ

All those years I grew up as a Girl Scout I thought that Tape was purely Scoutish and that was how all troop meetings ended. And during summer night campfires, it was how you said good night to everyone.

Then somewhere I realized that Tape also had a military meaning. Even the Marine Corps knew it.

And just about now, I have discovered the real story behind those simple, melodious words.

History is replete with names, but one that you never see in a history book is Daniel Butterfield. He was a Union general in the War Between the States. Everyone knows who Grant, Lee and Sherman were, but General Butterfield is still in today's world.

His troops had had a really bad day near Richmond in 1862 and they were more than discouraged, although they did save the day for other units to withdraw to a safer position.

He realized his boys were dispirited, tired and that they wished they were back home. So that June night, he came up with "Day is done, gone the sun, from the lakes, from the hills, from the skies, all is well, safely rest, God is nigh".

Those words simply described our Scouts to me, and that is why I thought it was ours.

Butterfield, who was no musician, called his bugler, Oliver Norton, who should have been a little too, and hummed his idea. A little later, the two of them had it down pat, and on July 2, 1862, it signalled the end of the day for his troops.

A little later it was played to bury a soldier, rather than arousing the enemy with a gun salute.

The word spread throughout the Union troops and it was in 1874 that it officially adopted for military services.

Butterfield was laid to rest in 1901 at West Point. He had been badly wounded at Gettysburg, but also was on hand during Sherman's march. He left the army in 1870 for a business career and eventually retired to his home on the Hudson river across from West Point, where every night he could hear the bugler sound Tap.

What I am trying to say is that it has done across the world where all people have served. Did those notes give the comfort, as they did back in our Civil War, to those plowing through jungles, deserts and rice paddies?

It is probably the most Made in America we have.

Hamburgers must be second on such a list. We have really done more for ground beef than any other country. There used to be some ground beef spiced up with salt and pepper. Now the sky is the limit with everything goes.

Right now all food eaters have discovered Cajun and creole cooking.

Those people down there spice it up, I think, because the weather can get chilly and most houses are simply not equipped for heating like us are. The hot, spicy food, warms you up.

It's outdoor cooking times again, so try this in your hamburgers.

In a little dish combine two tablespoons of salt (distress no need to salt this will not work) and mix with a tablespoon each dried pepper and chili powder, and a teaspoon each of garlic powder and black pepper.

About one teaspoon of these will do for a pound of meat. Experiment to see if you want more flavoring.

Royalty crowned at high school prom

Highlight of annual junior-senior prom Saturday was presentation of King and Queen, chosen from five candidates of each sex.

Winners: Angie Martin and Jamie Brown, resplendent in regal (or what passes for regal hereabouts) attire.

A packed gymnasium attested to popularity of this annual event.

High Blood Pressure? Me?

You Bet Your Life!

23 million Americans—young and old men and women—have high blood pressure

Like half of them, you could have it and not know it. You can feel healthy, be active and still have it.

Untreated, it can lead to stroke or heart attack. It's easily de-fected and can usually be controlled.

Don't take chances. Have your blood pressure checked and follow your doctor's orders

Suppose someone sitting across from you at lunch was having a heart attack. Would you know what to do?

If you, or someone else, didn't act quickly, that person might die. And how can you act quickly, if you don't know what to do?

That's why the Red Cross offers
 CPR and First Aid courses that teach you what to do in an emergency.

Because one day someone's life may depend on the techniques the Red Cross can teach you now.

So call them. Because you never know when you'll be glad you did.
