

No action?

"I'm getting out of here just as soon as they give me my diploma. Why? Because nothing ever happens here. I want to be where it's happenin', man!"

That's what was said to us Saturday.

By whom? Is it important to identify the speaker by name? That it was said, and by a prospective graduate, was and is sufficient to make us all think.

We did.

Take last week, for instance.

For the first time in history, a Plymouth team won a state championship for its intellectual achievements. The Odyssey of the Mind group of six and its preceptor, Jerry Julian, went to Akron and defeated the best the Buckeye State could offer in an exacting and challenging discipline. Now, if funds can be raised, the next step is the international competition at Flagstaff, Ariz.

For the first time in history, a girl engaged in an interscholastic baseball. That she represented New London High school is not so important as that, in times when those of her sex repeatedly allege, and with some correctness, that they are harshly discriminated against, in large part under the doctrine that "it's a man's world", she was welcomed to the arena without reference to her sex. The Plymouth pitcher, facing a big inning because of mechanical and mental errors by him and his teammates, needed an out. He broke a curve ball over the outside corner and the plate and the bearded umpire shouted "Stee-rike three". It was the second out of the seventh inning and it helped to reduce the flames, if not put out the fire.

Only last week, the oldest continuing business in the village, one that certainly since 1926 could not have survived without the diligent and capable efforts of the female sex, remarked that the past 32 years of village history identify strongly with the contributions of women to the business and commercial phase of Plymouth life. It named names, not all of them, to be sure, but enough to be convincing.

A young graduate of the high school, enthusiastic if inexperienced, but eager to succeed, laid plans to open a restaurant here. It will be interesting to measure just how long the village's thirst for such an establishment will accept the evident initial inability of the restaurateur to approach the results of Oscar of the Waldorf at prices of Popeye the Sailor.

For the first time in history, an Arbor day was organized. There wasn't much hoop-la about it. The mayor and members of the shade tree commission foregathered in the cemetery and, with the help of some Boy Scouts, planted some trees that, in another generation, will enhance the beauty of what some believe to be the most beautiful spot in town. School children were similarly involved, in large part because an imaginative and competent teacher impelled them along that route.

For the first time in a generation, new devices upon which the young may divert themselves when they are in Mary Fate park were acquired and are ready to be put into place. The park will open on May 24 in finer order, and with more to offer, than at any time since it was organized just after World War II.

It is only a few short weeks since two out-of-town investors acquired the market ambitiously constructed by one among us who did not live to see it flourish and infused it with energy and fresh money to provide consumer services at a level not previously attained here.

Beauty, it is said, is in the eye of the beholder. So it is with action. Some eyes are blinded to it. Some ears do not hear it, some fingers do not feel it. Some palates do not taste it.

No action here?

At the risk of being morbid, one might point out that a murder occurred only three miles as the crow flies from the Public Square, in which a young life was snuffed out, a fire burned out, and injured, a useful citizen of the village, an all-but-life resident underwent critical surgery to repair some cardiac distress in a risky venture into the mysteries that only now are beginning to unfold so that the ordinary man can avail himself of them, and the editor of the village newspaper was cursed and reviled, once more, for doing his duty, in the prescribed fashion, with proper care and attention to the facts, ma'am, just the facts.

Stalemate develops on water

A stalemate is what has seized talks between Plymouth's village council and Willard's City Council water committees. Each has made suggestions that are not compatible. Plymouth wants to be able to keep charges to its water consumers where they are now, which is $9 for 2,000 gallons. Willard says Plymouth is not paying its share of increased costs to distribute the water. Plymouth has asked repeatedly to see the actual costs of distribution. Willard has ignored the request and has only produced a total annual figure. Plymouth wants the contract, which was approved as of May 1, 1981, revised so that the minimum amount of water is either reduced or done away with, so that the village will be paying for the please see page 3

Man burned, trash can fire guts home

A fire that apparently began in a trash can, where a smoldering cigarette ash had been thrown, gutted the mobile home of Dennis K. McGinnis, 43, 78 Woodland street, Saturday morning. Alarm was sounded to police by his house guest, Mrs. Victoria Brown, after they were awakened by a noise that he at first thought signaled the return of his son, Chad, 20. When he opened his bedroom door, he found the interior of the place engulfed in flames.

McGinnis and Mrs. Brown ran outside, poorly attired. He ran back into the fire to seek to retrieve receipts of Willard Golfclub, where he is concessionaire.

In this effort he was painfully burned about the face and hands. Mrs. Brown took him to Willard Area hospital, where he was admitted to the intensive care unit.

McGinnis, painfully burned about the face, for the most part, anticipated release from the hospital yesterday. He was in good spirits Monday.

In Lorain — Mrs. Root, ex-villager, dies at 85

Mrs. Halsey F. Root, 85, Vermilion, who lived for many years at 143 Plymouth street in a house built for her and her husband, died Friday in Lorain Community hospital.

A native of Medina, she lived in Vermilion 49 years, having moved there from here.

She was formerly a member of the Vermilion Garden club and the Help Seekers class, United Church of Christ, Congregational, Vermilion.

Her late husband was an organizer of the Fate-Root-Heath Co here in 1917, and prior thereto was a partner in Root Bros. Hardware Co. here.

He died earlier. So did a son, William F., who served for many years as executive vice-president and general manager of the company here.

Westerhold balks at $6,600 fee in judge's spat

He said he was independent and would be independent if he were elected Huron county commissioner.

And his latest statement is in an independent vein. Commissioner James Westerhold said Friday he didn't sign the warrant authorizing payment of $6,600 in a legal fee to William W. Owens for his services in defending Probate and Juvenile Judge Thomas W. Heydinger in the legal actions initiated by Gregory McDowell, Willard attorney disciplined by Heydinger.

"I am extremely disappointed," Westerhold said, "that the other two county commissioners have chosen to pay the $6,600 legal fee for Judge Heydinger to Mr. Owens. I refused to sign the release for the check to be issued. However, it takes only two of the three commissioners to release funds for payment. Even though this was a court order for the county taxpayers to pay this bill, I feel, after reading the Ohio Revised Code and talking with attorneys, unofficially, that the appointment by the judge did not follow guide lines and thus was not proper and not legal or binding upon the taxpayers to foot this huge bill. As of this date (May 2), no entry or order was placed by the court to even appoint Mr. Owens, the only entry is a court order to pay the fee. A thorough search was made of court records and no legal appointment was found.

"In my opinion this entire Heydinger vs. McDowell matter should never have been a burden on the taxpayers of this county, either in actual dollars or time spent.

"With this check over $16,425 for just two cases has now been paid out of county general funds to a private law firm on orders of Judge Heydinger's court in the last eight weeks."

Shelbian injured in collision

A 21-year-old Shelby driver was injured and treated in Shelby Memorial hospital Saturday at 12:10 p.m. in a collision at 375 Sandusky street that resulted in a summons for improper overtaking to another Shelbian.

Jerry Meyer was hurt as he overtook Rodney S. Clark, 30, who just then began to overtake Edward J. Phillips, Plymouth East, who had signalled to turn right into that road.

Meyer went off the side of the highway and struck a tree in front of the Richard L. Horton residence. Clark was issued the summons.

A peripatetic report by the staff

The great-granddaughter of Solomon Spear, one of the founders of Lewis community here, visited Plymouth for the first time in her life a couple of weeks back. Mrs. Thomas Freund was in Ohio to attend a special weekend at Kenyon college, where her son, Thomas, Jr., will be graduated next month.
She took rubbings of the family gravestones, photographed sites of special family interest in the village, and revealed the existence of a splendid monograph about Plymouth in the 19th century prepared and privately published by Mrs. Joseph Froelich, Davenport, Ia., nee Rena Billestein of Plymouth, an alumna of Plymouth High school who married in Hamilton hall.
Mrs. Freund, who lives in a sophisticated suburb of Chicago's North side, said she was baffled that a bibliography of sources about Plymouth, of which there are perhaps 30 good ones, has not been prepared.

She was directed to such a bibliography and shown some other memorabilia of the genre and allowed to take for her very own some of the latter.
A tour of the new library was arranged and she and Mr. Freund, a stockbroker, were dumbfounded at what they saw.
Solomon Spear and his family were enormous benefactors of Plymouth and of Ohio and the nation. His grandson, Nathaniel Spear, Jr., now a widower, a distinguished Yale university alumnus who has contributed handsome memorabilia, incunabula and his fabulous bell collection to his alma mater, resides in New York, N. Y.

It was planned that he would deliver the annual Memorial day address in Greenlawn cemetery, but his intended host fell gravely ill and he did not wish to come under the circumstances.
The Friends expressed astonishment that acts of the village's proceedings, such as minutes of sessions, are, by direction, specif-

Berries in chocolate now in season!

By AUNT LIZ
By now everyone should know you never, never throw anything away.
Everything is some kind of a collector's thing.
A gem has turned up in Exeter, N. H., and the war is on about who owns it.
It's merely one of 23 known copies of the Declaration of Independence.
It was sent to New Hampshire July 16, 1776, from Philadelphia and the local newspaper printed it.
Where the copies of the paper are, no one seems to know, but the original turned up in a historical book in Williams College in Massachusetts for about half a million.
Such things should not be sold, but stashed away where everyone can see them.
People will sell anything for some reason or other, even recipes, but, thank heavens, not everyone does.
And this is the time of the year for graduation, anniversary and wedding receptions, which means edibles should be a little special and fancy.
Fortunately, it is strawberry time too, and what can be prettier than chocolate berries?
All you have to do is melt some semi-sweet chocolate in a double boiler, then dip the berries in the melted chocolate.
Place them on a foil lined pan to dry. Keep them at room temperature until they are served.
You can do the same thing with fondant. Mix a cup and a half of powdered sugar with a teaspoon of lemon juice and three of light corn syrup, also in a double boiler.
When all is blended, dip the berries in half way.
This will be white, but a dash of food coloring will help. And if your imagination really runs away with you, try half of the white and half blue.
Kids can have a ball doing this, so let them try.

Hall fans 16 Cougars in tourney victory, 5-2

Steve Hall was all but invincible at Crestline Saturday. Jason Robinson tripled and rode home on Rod Reed's single in the second.

Hall walked with one down in the third, Troy Keene singled, and after Jeff Staggas popped up to short, Robinson clouted a second triple, scoring Hall and Keene. Jamie Brown drew a pass, so did Terry Hall, Reed walked, and Robinson and Brown came home on passed balls.

Mark Herisher, with relief from Stoner, pitched well enough for Crestview but hardly sufficient to beat Hall, who was superb.

'82 alumna candidate at BGSU

Mrs. Keith Diebler, nee Renee Lynn Taylor, daughter of the Michael R. Taylors, 320 East Main street, is a candidate for the B. S. degree in Education of Bowling Green State university Saturday.

She was an outstanding basketball and softball athlete in Plymouth high school, by which she was graduated in 1982.

Her husband, former head boys' and girls' basketball coach here, is head boys' basketball coach of Bowling Green High school.

Dillard resigns as coach of Eagles

James Dillard, 36, head basketball coach of Monroeville High school, resigned as mathematics teacher and coach Apr. 27.

Monroeville Board of Education accepted the resignation on Apr. 30.

Dillard said he resigned because he was told his contract as head coach of basketball might not be renewed by the board.

He acknowledged no member of the board had talked with him about this possibility, but added he was told by Dr. Milton Levy, the deputy superintendent, the board had discussed it.

"Dr. Levy has always been fair and honest with me and there was no reason to question it," Dillard was quoted as having said.

Dillard, who is also head baseball coach, said he is not bitter or angry. Since he wishes to continue as a head basketball coach, he will seek employment in that capacity elsewhere.

He resides in Tiffin. He came here a year ago after service as head girls' basketball coach in Mohawk High school at Sycamore. He was earlier coach in Seneca East High school, Attica.

Meanwhile, the board has set a May 23 deadline for applications of candidates to succeed Levy.

Donald Schick, Huron county schools superintendent, and Harriet Parcher, county director of curriculum, will conduct the formal affairs of the district until a new superintendent is engaged.

Contract of Sandra Parker, kindergarten teacher's aide, now serving on a limited contract, was not renewed by the board.

YOU'RE WELL-EQUIPPED TO DETECT A GAS LEAK.

Fortunately, natural gas leaks are rare. But if one should occur, you have everything it takes to spot the telltale signs... the ability to see, hear and smell!

INSIDE

The most obvious sign is the smell. Natural gas by itself usually is odorless, so gas companies add a distinctive odor to gas.

If you smell this telltale odor in your home, 1) check to see if a pilot light is out, or a burner control valve is not turned completely off; 2) open doors and windows; 3) don't use matches, electric switches or appliances. If the odor is strong, leave the house, call the gas company from nearby and stay there until a representative arrives.

OUTSIDE

You may detect a natural gas leak anywhere gas lines or facilities are located. Sometimes, the sign may be the odor. But in rural areas, natural gas pipelines may contain non-odorized gas. A leak of non-scented gas means little or no odor will be present. So count on your other senses as well.

Look or listen for these signs. Anywhere a gas line is located, a leak may cause:

- * blowing or hissing sound;
- * dirt being blown into the air;
- * water bubbling or being blown into the air at a pond, creek or river;
- * brown patches in vegetation on or near a gas line right-of-way;
- * fire coming from the ground or burning above it.

If you detect any sign of a leak, follow these steps quickly: 1) shut down any motorized equipment or other sources of ignition in use; 2) leave the area at once, and warn others to stay away; and 3) find a telephone away from the area to call the gas company, and the fire and police departments. DO NOT try to extinguish a gas fire or operate any pipeline valves.

Chances are you'll never need to recognize a natural gas leak. But just in case, we think it's important for you to be able to detect signs of trouble. Together, we'll keep natural gas service safe and efficient.
