

What's to say about us that's good?

It is fashionable, perhaps even de rigeur, in the newspaper business to say, from time to time, some things of an encouraging character that tend to make the home folks proud that they live here.

Our colleague at Crestline, the estimable and seasoned Mr. Brouwer, has lately done so for his city, with what results we cannot say, other than that he convinced us.

And what are the things about Plymouth that we have to be proud of?

The schools are accredited by the state. Their products over 113 years have achieved, substantial prominence and prestige in their field of endeavor. Next week the high school will convene another session of the committee that aims toward obtaining accreditation by the prestigious North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

Local government is honest, only sometimes inept, mostly quickly responsive to and always responsible to the citizenry.

We can go to sleep at night with the doors unlocked with no fear of intrusion save by a friendly policeman who'll knock politely at an unreasonable hour and report that he found the door unlocked.

There is adequate, nay, ample, place for us to practice our respective faiths. Our churches are a credit to us.

A library building stands second to none in Ohio in beauty and in utility, one that is rapidly expanding its services to a wider circle of readers.

A recreational program for the very young is attractive, wholly manned by volunteers, developmental in concept and non-discriminatory as to sex. A municipal swimming pool and a park that rank among the best facilities hereabouts are part of that program.

Those who prefer the fine arts or professional or intercollegiate athletics need only drive an hour or so to see and hear the very best.

A superior transportation net, albeit without passenger service, serves the village. Three highways intersect here. We are but a few minutes away from the major arteries of the nation. Two railroads intersect here. Freight service on each of them can be obtained. It is but only a few minutes to an airport whence one can fly to the farthest corners of the globe, albeit not directly.

A rich tradition of history, commencing from the determination of a sutler to establish a homestead here in 1815, proceeding through the sister and brother-in-law of the 13th president of the United States, a newspaper editor whose weekly observations occupied the attention of the 16th president of the United States at a time when the very concept of our nation was in serious contention, the nascent of the one man almost wholly responsible for the development of Northern California and its great metropolis, San Francisco, and the production of the first Plymouth automobile, challenges its citizens of today to achieve at those levels.

The weekly newspaper in the past 32 years has won 144 state and national prizes for excellence, as judged by its peers, in serving its readership and the community where, since 1853, it has appeared each week, sometimes with profit to the publisher.

We thought of these things Tuesday morning when we joined some for coffee. "If you could raise hell about Plymouth," we asked, "what would you raise hell about?"

Said one: "Plymouth missed the boat years ago and can never swim fast enough to catch up with it."

Said another: "Plymouth is dead. Except as a residential town. Don't waste my time, or yours, in worrying about it."

Said a third: "Who would you raise hell to? Nobody wants to listen. And if they did listen, what could they do? Unless you can change attitudes, you can't do anything. And don't ask me how to change attitudes, I don't know and I'm beginning not to care. I'm getting too old."

We confess the survey is not scientific. It's full of holes.

But we'll wager every dime that we own that the sentiments expressed more closely approximate the consensus than what we've said at the beginning of this piece.

Any ideas?

Vote of 4 to 2 approves closing of alley at Channing place

With two dissenting votes, a motion was passed Sept. 9 to prepare an ordinance to vacate an alleyway that runs through the property of Mr. and Mrs. James Channing.

Councilmen Mrs. Terry Jump and Everett Eckstein were the dissenters.

Mrs. Jump believes the alley should be retained so that the utility department can reach a central poleline strung across the property.

Eckstein gave no reason for his negative vote.

Mrs. Paul Jones, who represented the Channings, told the council the alley has not been maintained as such and that vacating it will then give the Channings a clear, unimpeded title to their property, which includes a garage that is partially built in the alleyway. She also said the Channings own land on either side of it.

Richard Wolfe, 2nd, village solicitor, told the council since there is no apparent need for the alleyway by the general public, it should be vacated, with the provision, however, that the village will have the right-of-way to reach the electrical lines.

Big Red faces Roughriders

Can offense find itself, earn respect?

Plymouth will play its second Saturday game and its only one in daylight at Collins Saturday, opposing a refurbished Western Reserve eleven with a new coach and a spotty record.

BARRY PICKENS
Riders Coach

Kin of Shilohan succumbs at 47

Father of Mrs. Ralph Patrick Shiloh, David L. Merritt, 47, Shelby, died Friday in Shelby Memorial hospital. He lived most of his life in Shelby and was employed by PPG Industries, Crestline. He is also survived by his wife, Margaret, a daughter, Margie Beth, Shelby; four sons, David, Jr., Mark, Nathan and Rick, Shelby; his parents Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCune, Shelby, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Monday by the Rev. Bruce A. Philipp of Springmill Church of God.

Cardwell quits as school head at Crestview

Supt. David Cardwell has resigned at Crestview to become an administrative assistant in the Richland county office. He is the third Crestview executive to follow that route. Harold E. Daup, who left the principalship of Plymouth High school to become superintendent at Crestview, went to the county office as superintendent and retired in that assignment. The incumbent county superintendent, David McVicker, was formerly superintendent at Crestview. No successor to Cardwell has yet been chosen. He resigned Sept. 7, effective Oct. 1.

The Roughriders were tipped by South Central, which earlier played poorly in a defeat at the hands of Monroeville, last Saturday. The score was 16 to 14. Not only did the Trojans prevail on the scoreboard, they led in the statistics.

Coach Richard Roll witnessed the game from the sideline and came away impressed.

"They have an offense that gets yackage and hangs onto the ball. They're a big ball control team. What we have to do is maintain an offense of our own and keep them from controlling the ball. I think we can do it. But we'll have to do it without Chuck Kose — I'm not going to put him in until he's 100 per cent healthy, there's not point in ruining a fine kid early in his career — and as for Terry Hall, we'll play him in the reserve game this week and see how he makes out. He got to play some against Crestview Friday night," the coach said.

He detailed his offense. "We made some good yardage against a very tough defense Friday night. Crestview is very difficult to run against but we made over 120 yards. That's a good sign. We'll do better. I promise you."

Roll wouldn't deal with his opponent's obvious effort to run up the score.

"What goes around comes around," he agreed. "There'll be other days. I don't do that sort of thing, except for once, when I did it because the other guy did it to me."

Plymouth is likely to be at full strength save for Kose and ought to have no excuses.

The Riders are coached by Barry Pickens, the defensive coordinator for several seasons under Dick Taylor, who left for an assistant's job in Arizona.

Pickens has only moderate size to deal with. His heaviest player is a 225-pound ninth grader.

There are 12 lettermen on the Blue and White squad.

Scott Kieth, who scales 206 pounds, and Brennan Burke, who weighs 175 pounds, are the offensive bellwhethers.

Mrs. Kessler succumbs at 81 at Willard

Mother of Paul Kessler, Route 98, Mrs. Karl Kessler, 81, died Friday in Willard Area hospital of a brief illness. Born Mary Ellen Ryder in Franks, she lived in West Hartland from 1944 to 1981 before moving to near Willard. She was lately a resident of Hillside Acres Nursing home. Mrs. Kessler was retired from Stokely Van Camp, Norwalk packers. She was a member of West Hartland United Methodist church. Her husband and a brother, Eli Ryder, died earlier. A son, Howard, New Haven, and four grandchildren also survive. The Revs. Gordon Meier and Julian Taggart conducted services Monday at 2 p.m., from Secor Funeral home, Willard. Interment was in Hartland Ridge cemetery, West Hartland. Memorial contributions to the Heart association are suggested.

Keith is the fullback. He runs, and runs, and runs inside.

His relief is Scott Beck, who weighs only 160, and sometimes Bud Hites, who weighs 159.

The numbers to watch are 41 on Keith, 30 on Beck, 31 on Hite. And 43 on Burke.

Bill Thomas, a 12th grader, Dave Hipp, an 11th grader, and Chip Fairchild, a 10th grader, are inexperienced at quarterback but have so far done the job.

The Roughrider defense has been Pickens's baby for several seasons and he is proud of it.

Hite is the principal linebacker. Beck and Keith play at defensive end. Each is a strong tackler.

Dan Leber is the mainstay at tackle. Brian Vogt and John Mullins are the principal players in the nose guard position.

How good the secondary is remains to be seen. Nobody has really tested it, although South Central made some significant yardage with its aerial game. Can Plymouth find holes in it?

If the Riders win, it will be their defense that does it. If Plymouth hopes to win, it must play stronger defense and produce a better offense than it has shown so far. The BHROTH — behind the ropes on the hill — gang, as always the strongest critics of Red teams, almost to a man describes Plymouth's offense as having the same name of a controversial film star who made just one movie.

Here's route on Saturday —

Best route to the game: Proceed east in Route 224 to Old State road (New State road is obstructed by bridge repair south of North Fairfield) and continue north to Route 250. Take bypass east to Route 20, continue east to school in south side of Route 20. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Can Jeff Staggs connect with more of his southpaw throws at Collins Saturday? Success of aerial game is paramount to Red's victory chances.

Ex-clerk, 88, dies of brief illness

Clerk of the village and of the board of trustees of public affairs during the late 1940's, Harry S. (Trigger) Trauger, 88, 1114 Sandusky street, died in Willard Area hospital Friday, the eighth day of his sojourn there, of cardiac difficulties.

He was admitted Sept. 5 after he was found collapsed in the kitchen of his apartment.

The Traugers lived for two generations at 62 Sandusky street. He was the son of a founding family of First Evangelical Lutheran church. His forebear, Samuel H. Trauger, and Felix Fenner were two of the early organizers of the parish in 1840.

An enthusiastic supporter of the Detroit Tigers to the end, he was remembered on July 4, 1976, the nation's 200th birthday anniversary and Mr. Trauger's 78th anniversary, by Ernie Harvill, the Tigers' broadcaster, during the game on Saturday.

Son of Samuel and Elizabeth Barr Trauger, he was born here July 4, 1898.

He was retired from the Fate-Roost-Health Co.

He was a member of Richland Lodge 201, F.&A.M. He is survived by his wife, nee Leveda Shely, a son, Ronald, Tallmadge, and two grandchildren. His minister, the Rev. A. Preston Van Deursen, conducted services from Secor Funeral home Monday at 11 a.m. Interment was in Greenlawn cemetery.

What's a spy? Auntie was one

By AUNT LIZ
Who is a spy and who isn't? They're all over the place, right at home, in state capitals, county seats, and other countries.

Most of our think of a spy as some good looking guy slinking around in a pouchy looking hat and beaten-up trench coat or as a doll dressed up in a skimpy, sequined gown.

To start with, all governmental employees are some kind of a spy no matter where they are. When they aren't watching each other, they branch out and watch everyone else.

There is no hidden secret about any of our Department of State people nor those of other countries. They get assigned to keep every one happy plus dig out all the information they can of what is really going on where they are stationed.

We have lived through this and ended up sitting up one night with a loaded .45 pistol because someone in our family was third on the list to be abolished because he had learned too much about too many people. It was part of the job, nothing under cover about it all. It was simply there to know.

Newspaper people are probably the best candidates, though, to be spying. It is their job, and it backfires, like it has between us and the Russians.

But why? Who is hiding what? Frankly, I cannot see that it can be that bad. Sometimes it kind of is.

I've watched village councils go to great lengths in covering up all sorts of illegal things, and if it is done at the county or state level, we all know it is there and for the most part, it doesn't hurt a blessed soul even if it's plain illegal according to the book. (Ed. Note: Covering up shenanigans is one thing, keeping unauthorized persons from learning state secrets is another.)

Just about everyone is a spy at heart. We once had a neighbor who had nothing to do but sit and watch our her window at us.

Frankly, I loved it, because I knew she would call for help if anything happened to us when we weren't home. It was added police protection. So, be really thankful to your nosy neighbors.

Try to keep them on your side, since you are the winner in the long run.

Bribe them to stay on the job by giving them a few of those. Keep the most for yourself.

They are English Tea cakes. Combine one and a half cups of flour with a half cup sugar, salt if you want, and two teaspoons of baking powder.

Mix into another bowl one fourth of a pound of margarine. Butter will make them a speck richer, two tablespoons of honey, two tablespoons of milk, a little vanilla and a beaten egg. Cream this, then add a half cup of currants. If you have no currants, use seedless raisins, white or dark.

Then mix it together, drop by teaspoons into a greased sheet. Bake until golden in about a 450-degree oven.

'85 grad praised in USAF

A 1985 alumnus of Plymouth High school is the subject of praise in a letter to his commanding officer, Col. Ben Nelson, Jr., published in The Hawk, weekly journal of Hahn Air base in Germany, where Airman Richard Tash, Jr., is assigned in accounting and finance section.

"He's very professional and I'm sure he'll mature into a very fine non-commissioned officer," was what was said of his effort in assisting in a permanent change of station.

Young Tash is the son of Mrs. Theresa Tash, 101 Plymouth street, and of Richard Tash, who lives in Indiana.

Woman chased after hitting pole early Sunday

A 24-year-old Plymouth woman was apprehended by Officer Richard Garn after a chase early Sunday morning for investigation of a hit-and-run collision at Birchfield and Plymouth streets.

Mrs. Loria Hicks, whose formal address is No. 16, Plymouth Villa, was said by Garn to have turned from Plymouth street into Birchfield at high speed while he watched. She collided with a service pole, severing it, and a tree, severing it as well. She continued to the end of the street and turned north into Mulberry street, Garn in hot pursuit with flasher lighted and siren sounding. Although he was less than six feet from her vehicle, he said, she did not stop. She turned into a driveway at 58 Mulberry street, shortly after 2:34 a.m., and he apprehended her there.

Although she acknowledged ingestion of alcohol, Garn said she did not appear to be drunk. He did not subject her to a breathalyzer test.

The incident is under investigation.

Donald Cunningham, owner of the tree, said the tree was rotted and needed removal and he will not press charges against Mrs. Hicks for damaging it and his lawn.

Terry Jump, superintendent of utilities, was summoned. He said extent wires would support the connection and the pole need not be replaced at once. Garn noted that an electric box was born off a house across the street from the collision.

Mrs. Hicks was released to the custody of Miss Deborah Porter.

A three-car collision in Plymouth street south of the railroad right-of-way on Sept. 9 resulted in injury of the third driver, a 45-year-old Shelby woman who was slightly injured and taken by ambulance to Memorial hospital there.

Barbara J. Brown was charged with failure to halt within an assured clear distance when her Dodge station wagon struck the rear of a 1979 Dodge operated by Danielle Smith, 16, Planktown road, Shiloh, who had halted behind a 1976 Chevrolet operated by Lynn Romney, 23, 223 Riggs street, stopped to turn left into the driveway of Scott Lynch.

Excessive damages resulted to the vehicles of Miss Smith and Mrs. Brown.

Cougars savage Red in last half, 43 to 7

Crestview savaged Plymouth in the second half in Firelands conference play on Robert A. Lewis Memorial field Friday night and walked away with a 43 to 7 victory.

It was somewhat hollow. The Crestview coach needlessly retained his strongest players almost to the bitter end, long after Plymouth was soundly beaten, and there were a number of fans who trudged up the hill muttering about such unreasonable conduct.

The first half was worth the price of admission, which is advanced this year. Even though Plymouth trailed by six after 24 minutes, the all but capacity house thought it was well worth its time and money.

Not so the last half. Plymouth drew first blood with an exceptional exhibition of offensive skill with the opening kickoff.

Having received the Cougar kickoff and run it out to the Red 31, Plymouth began its attack with a seven yard shot by David Powers, who is the last of the celebrated Hampton clan. Steve Hall ripped through left tackle for 18 yards and first down at the Cougar 44, whereupon Powers bucked through right tackle for 36 yards and first down at the Crestview eight. Billy Castle rammed through guard for two and on second down the dependable Hall raced in for the score. The clock read 9:41. Plymouth had covered 69 yards in five plays, all of them on the ground. Its offensive line, perhaps for the first time this season, did its job splendidly. Randy Myers kicked the PAT and Plymouth went back to the east end of the field to the cheers of the Red stands.

The cheers died down almost instantly. Myers kicked off and Frank Danals, the redoubtable Crestview veteran who was to score three touchdowns this perfect night for football, took the ball at his 20 and sped through the Red defense for 80 yards to the end zone. Plymouth's special team was anything but special on this run. Raymond Hout kicked the PAT and that was the last time Plymouth was close to winning.

The clock read 9:29. Unable to gain in five plays — there was one penalty against Plymouth — the Big Red punted. And Crestview began an assault that resulted in the 29-0 lead score. A 13-yard scamper by Danals and a 23-yarder by Troy Magers led to first down at the Plymouth 27. Matt Bernhard was sacked by Chuck Deskins on fourth down and Plymouth took over at its 30.

A fumble on the first play was recovered by the Cougars and they needed only three plays to score. The last 22 yards by Danals were obstructed by four Red tacklers, none of whom could contain the sturdy Cougar back. A pass for PATs was unsuccessful.

The clock was stopped at 2:31. Nathan scored in the second period. Plymouth did not penetrate Cougar territory at all and the Cougars spent the entire period, offensively anyway, in the Red half of the field. A fumble recovery by Myers at the Red 14 stopped the first drive. Plymouth advanced to the Crestview 37, where Powers' fumble stopped the advance.

Despite its disadvantage on the scoreboard, Plymouth led statistically after 24 minutes.

With 30 plays from scrimmage, the visitors had six first downs, 90 yards rushing and 40 yards passing, on three completions in six tries. The Cougars had lost their only fumble. Plymouth, on the other hand, with only 28 plays, had notched seven first downs, 118 yards by rushing and 58 yards through the air, with two successes in five tries.

Crestview scored with its first possession of the second half.

It was hardly a possession at all. On fourth down, Plymouth sought to punt. Crestview blocked the kick and recovered at the Red 11.

On first down Tony Fliger ran in for the score. The kick for PAT failed.

Plymouth could do nothing with the kickoff — indeed, throughout the second half it managed just one first down and a net of nine yards on the ground — and punted 30 yards to the Cougar 21.

Fliger hit left tackle, burst into the open and set out for the goal line. He is big but not so fast and the Red secondary caught up with him, only after he had gained 38 yards. Crestview needed seven plays to score. The last two were passes, the first for nine to Jim Phillips and the second, the scoring one, to Phillips for 25. The Cougars had traversed 79 yards in eight plays. Fliger ran the PATs. Crestview scored again with its first series of the fourth quarter.

Taking Plymouth's punt at its 27, the Cougars ran for first down and reached their 44. On fourth down Matt Bernhard, as is his wont, went into punt formation. Nobody saw Phillips far out on the north sideline.

But Bernhard did. He threw the ball in a high arch directly to Phillips at the Red 31 and the ready end sped down the sideline for the score. The clock read 7:17. The touchdown play covered 56 yards. Crestview moved 73 yards in seven plays. Fliger ran the PATs.

One would have thought it was time to stop being blood-thirsty. Not so.

Crestview retained its superior players and strength on the field. Plymouth installed a greenhorn quarterback, who in three running plays lost a net of four yards, and punted 56 yards — the numbers are correct! — to the Cougar 13.

In seven plays, all of them on the ground, the big studs ripping through the tired and green Red front wall, the Cougars produced their final touchdown. On second down Danals ran through Plymouth for 45 yards to the end zone.

Just how cavalierly Crestview regarded Plymouth at this point was demonstrated in the try for PATs. Greg Kaple went into the line for the PAT but the Cougars were penalized 10 yards. And what did they do? They called the same play and the same carrier and Kaple rammed into the end zone.

Game's end statistics showed how clearly the Cougars dominated the second half, during which with nine first downs they amassed 167 yards on the ground and 90 in the air, while holding Plymouth to one first down, nine yards net on the ground and 38 yards in the air.

Plymouth was clearly out-matched. Crestview has a seasoned and powerful outfit that ought to win it all in the Firelands conference, if it can get past Monroeville.

Closing of alley approved

When Mrs. Jones was asked why previous owners of the property had not sought similar action, she replied they were aware of it, but simply did not bother.

The ordinance to formalize the vacating will be presented at the Oct. 14 council meeting.

The council agreed that James C. Root, village administrator, should receive an additional $50 a month, since he now holds a Class I waste water license, which is called for by the ordinance governing the position. It is effective since Sept. 1.

The council also agreed that Root and Terry Jump, head electrician, should take advantage of the Class II water course being offered at Bowling Green State university. The 60-hour course will cost $150 for each.

Root told the council Mansfield Asphalt Co. plans to start street work this week.

Councilman Bill Taulbee again brought up the request for a sign in Willow circle cautioning drivers that children play there.

Councilman Roy Barber said soon there would be such signs all over the village. Police Chief Stephen Caudill added that the signs really won't make any difference in driving habits, but that better enforcement of the speed laws is forthcoming.

To solve the problem in that area, the 35-miles an hour limit is to be reduced to 25.

Taulbee also said his neighborhood has a number of youngsters wheeling around in the streets on four-wheel drives. This is illegal.

He said he had attempted to stop one but failed, which prompted Councilman E. Adrian Cole to quip, "Did you every try to catch one?"

Approval was given to Patrolman Rick Gern to work full time for the period from Aug. 29 to Nov. 18 while Lisa Perdue attending school. She will work part-time.

Chief Caudill told the council that Capt. William Burkett attended a radar school in Columbus from Sept. 8-12. This was a federally funded program.

Methodists to convene at Shiloh

Shiloh United Methodist church will be host to the Plymouth church for the annual church conference Monday at 7 p.m.

First meeting of the UMYF will be Sept. 28 at 7 p.m. in the Plymouth parsonage.

Church school teachers assigned in the Shiloh church are Mrs. Russell Moser, primary class; Mrs. Harvey Yast, the Be Prepared class; Mrs. Dorothy Humbert, the older elementary class, and Mrs. Maxine Amstutz, adult class.

The classes meet at 10:30 a.m. Church school classes meet at 9:45 a.m. in the Plymouth church.

Teachers are Mrs. Barbara Rettig, primary class; Mrs. Paul Long, junior class; Mrs. Fred Port, junior high class, and Frank Burks, senior high class.

The Quiet Man is Jeff Redden, No. 22, who also competes in track and field. The verb is "competes", which he does to the limit of his ability, all of the time. A letterman, 12th grader, he plays at wide receiver and in the defensive secondary. For his weight, at 135, he hits like 200.

He sparkled intermittently last season and has shown an outright glow from time to time so far in 1986. He's Chuck Deskins, No. 47, a 10th grader who weighs only 153 pounds, which he carries on a five feet seven inch frame. He likes contact and hits harder than most of 'em.

Last of the Ganzhorns, John treads in some significant footsteps. His father, John Sr., played for Plymouth a generation ago. His older brother, Reggie, was a co-captain of the Big Red and anchored the line for three seasons. This one, only a 10th grader, has come along famously at guard. He weighs 160 pounds. Inside there's a tiger.

No. 38 is Mike Bailey, 10th grader, useful running back, defensive end when the time comes, up from last season's reserve squad and certain to see action at Collins Saturday, when Big Red engages Western Reserve in Firelands conference play.

A. E. Moorhouse, Miss Bauer wed at Hinckley

The bride is the daughter of Fred Bauer, Shiloh, and the late Mrs. Harley Bauer.

The new Mrs. Moorhouse is employed by the Parma Kaiser Permanente hospital. Mr. Moorhouse is employed by the Cleveland Psychiatric Institute.

A daughter, Whitney Renee, their first child, was born Sept. 4 in Columbus to the George Browns. Mother is the former Paula Postema, daughter of the Willford Postemas, Route 598.

'77 grad pledges to marry

Miss Terri Ione Perdue has pledged to marry Jimmy Bruce Sr., son of the William Bruces. Bucyrus, her parents, the Donald Perdues, announce.

They plan to marry on Dec. 20, the anniversary date of the marriage of her grandparents, the late Levi McDougals.

Miss Perdue is a 1977 alumna of Plymouth High school. Her fiancé, a graduate of Bucyrus High school, is employed by Swan Rubber Co. there.

If you have substantial income in addition to your Social Security benefits, some of your benefits may be taxable. Contact the IRS for free Publication 915. A public service message from the IRS.

Billy Castle, No. 63, may be one of greater Plymouth performers in time to come. Willing, coachable, with enormous grit, he gets the yardage when the going is toughest. An 11th grader, measuring only five feet six inches, he scales 165 pounds and has been assigned a post at guard "because we needed a guard and Billy was the best player we had to play there." He also runs the ball, with a vengeance.

'85 grad wins $475 for schooling

Bertha Hall is the recipient of the annual medical scholarship of Quality Care Nursing Center, Willard, in the amount of $475. She is a second year student of nursing in Mansfield General hospital and the sum will go toward her tuition. A 1985 graduate of Plymouth High school, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall.
