

Jeffrey Brooks, Attica, was best man.

Michael Pine, Attica, and Lewis Sims and Thomas Scott, Willard, ushered.

The bride's mother watched from the front pew in pink chiffon fashioned with long sleeves and pleated floor-length skirt. She wore white roses and daisies.

Mrs. Ickes chose a floor-length creation of blue with short sleeves and identical corsage.

A reception took place in the church rooms, where Barbara Stillion and Valerie Pfaff registered guests and served from a three-tiered wedding cake featuring a fountain, assisted by Barbara Pfaff, Shirley Bunner and Sandra Polachek.

The bridegroom, a 1986 graduate of Seneca East High school, is the son of the Garth Fonnauga, Attica route 1. He is employed as maintenance worker by McDonald's, Willard. The bride is assistant manager of Corn Dog in Richland Mall.

The couple is living in Attica route 1.

'86 alumna enters Ball State as freshman

A 1986 alumna of Plymouth High school is among 72 Ohioans enrolled in Ball State university, Muncie, Ind., for the fall semester.

She is Dianna M. Hudson, daughter of the William Hudsons, 37 East Main street, Shiloh, a freshman.

She is only the second Plymouth graduate to enroll as an undergraduate in Ball State university.

Five years ago, 1981's A 10-gaming string deflates is on the line as Plymouth enters Buckeye Center here. Jeff Jacobs is the quarterback, Aaron Allen, though the nose guard.

Record crowds attended the annual American Legion or roast. Mrs. Terry Jund was ruled off the ballot as candidate for village council because she has not resided here long enough.

Class of 1966 reunited and paid tribute to a deceased member, Floyd (Shorty) Noble.

Jill A. Von Stein will marry Steven A. Baldrige on Sept. 19.

Karen A. Reber, a 1978 alumna of Plymouth High school, now a student in Findlay college, was accepted for the United Nations semester in Long Island university, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Rip D. Stevens, New Haven, will marry Debra Hahn at Sandusky on Oct. 3.

On Oct. 3, the village deposit its funds in more than one bank? Solicitor Richard Wolfe, 2nd, says yes.

Bootlegger set fine table: ask Auntie!

By AUNT LIZ

There is nothing that's more fun than recalling your youth.

This all started when I was reading a good mystery based on actual facts and people during the 1930s in Chicago.

They were all there. Capone, Nitti and even John Dillinger. I didn't know any of them except for the last one because his girl friend was holed up across the street from us. This we didn't know, of course, until it was all over with. But the neighborhood knew something was wrong. We did not know that the guy we were all watching was an old man. He was as subtle as a brick wall about it all.

But my connection with The Mob was closer to home. We lived in Milwaukee then and went back and forth to visit my father's aunt in Attica. I loved those visits. Aunt Hattie had a large house that always seemed to be filled with people who were plain nice to a little 10-year-old kid. When it was time for dinner, there could be a dozen or so at the table.

Uncle Harry was fun, always had a big smile on his face. What he called a living — and from what I remember they lived quite nicely — was kind of left unspoken. In front of me a wise 10-year-old figured it out. He was the one of the imposing business across Lake Michigan. This was back in the days when deliveries were made in the dark of night.

There is an old family story that at one time he had to hustle to Colorado to hide out on one of my grandfather's ranches because of a "contract" — and not the kind two people sign. I often wondered what my grandfather really thought about her youngest sister. Here were two nice gals, raised in a small village between here and Toledo. Grandpa graduated from high school and became a school teacher. Aunt Hattie headed for the bright lights of the city. Both had families and managed to live to a good age. Should there be a moral?

While I think that one out, we still have to eat and trying to dream up different ways of doing chicken has become important. This sauce will perk up any dinner.

What you want is some bread breast to start with. Cut it in strips and marinate them for about a half hour in a mixture of a minced clove of garlic, a half teaspoon of ginger, a tablespoon of soy sauce and of lemon juice, also a tablespoon of white wine vinegar.

Then saute two chopped onions in a mixture of margarine and peanut oil. When the onions look ready, throw in the chicken. Cover and simmer just a little bit.

Meanwhile have save sauce ready. This is Indonesian rijstafel and very tasty.

In a sauce pan combine six tablespoons of peanut butter with one and a half cups of chicken broth, two tablespoons of soy sauce, a fourth of a cup of brown sugar, two tablespoons of ground coriander, two cloves of minced garlic, a dash of Tabasco sauce, some ground pepper and maybe a some salt.

Heat until it boils. Then whisk it so it is smooth. This goes over the chicken, which is covered by a bed of fluffy rice. It is even tastier if you have some chutney, dried hardboiled eggs, some raisins and dry roasted peanuts to sprinkle over the top. The stuff is hot and the toppings kind of take it away.

C. J. Webber, Miss Kleilein to wed Saturday

Grandson of the Francis Millers and of the late Thomas J. Webber and Mrs. Webber, Christopher John Webber, a sailor in the Navy, will be married Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in First United Presbyterian church, Mansfield, to Miss Susan Kay Kleilein.

The prospective bridegroom is the only son of the John Webbers. His mother is the former Nancy Miller, second daughter of the Francis Millers. He is a graduate of Ontario High school. The bride-elect is the daughter of the Thomas Kleileins, 3440 Sherman road, Mansfield.

The reception will take place in the church rooms.

Briggses set 60th anniversary

Married Sept. 18, 1926, at Ludlow, Pa., the Dwight Briggses, Ganges, will observe their 60th anniversary with open house Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the church they have attended for three generations, Ganges United Church of Christ.

She is the former Elba Carlson. He retired in 1966 after 44 years in the employ of Ohio Brass Co., Mansfield.

There are six children, Mrs. Phyllis Gates, Lucy, now Mrs. Robert Kennedy, and Mrs. Charles J. all of Shelby; Shirley, Ganges; Kenneth, Camarillo, Cal., and Carolyn, now Mrs. Thomas Schuffer, Sandusky. There are 13 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

The Briggses hope that gifts will not be sent.

Gardeners meet

Plymouth Garden club met Monday at the home of Mrs. Gerald McKown.

Program was devoted to making gourd bird feeders and bird houses.

Paper collection set Saturday

A paper collection to benefit the Upstairs Store will be conducted Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

A truck will be stationed in the parking lot of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church to receive papers securely tied in bundles.

Such papers left at the curb will be picked up.

Miss Ickes bride in Attica church

A 1981 alumna of Plymouth High school who attended Columbus Business university, Miss Janell Anne Ickes was married in Attica United Methodist church July 11 to Bradley Joe Fonnaugh.

The Rev. W. Stanley Weners performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of lilac and peach of carnations, daisies and white Cecylia on an altar lighted by candelabra with white bows on the family pews.

Loretta Rieder, organist, played "I Honestly Love You." Becky Brubaker sang "The Lord's Prayer," "Wedding Song" and "Double Good." A flautist, Bonnie Weaver, sister of the bridegroom, played "Cherish."

Given in marriage by her parents, the Larry Ickeses, 138 Sandusky street, Plymouth, the bride was attired in a gown of Chantilly lace over bridal satin with chapel-length train. The bridesmaids were dressed in white pearls and rhinestones and stayed with short puff sleeves. A veil of silk illusion was suspended from a ring of silk flowers with ribbons that extended down her back.

She carried white roses and daisies atop a white Bible that her mother carried when she was married.

Miss Cheryl Garber, Plymouth, maid of honor, wore apricot in an off-the-shoulder fashion, styled with ruffles in backup to the waist. She carried a nosegay of carnations and daisies.

Miss Becky Brubaker, Lexington, Miss Pamela Ickes, the bride's sister, Plymouth, and Miss Tammy Barnett, Shiloh, bridesmaids, were identically dressed, saved in lilac.

The bride's niece, Brandi Ickes, Columbus, flower girl, was also attired as the honor attendant, in lilac.

Peter Haspelagh, the bridegroom's nephew, Attica, was ringbearer.

Red underdog by 14 against strong St. Paul's

Plymouth is an underdog at Norwalk Saturday in its first Friends conference engagement of 1986. St. Paul's Flyers are favored by two touchdowns. Reason? The visitors won't be at full strength. The Flyers have three of the quality backs in the league in Jeff Nicholi, Paul Myers and Gary Sprague. The Norwalk outfit found itself in the second half at Sandusky

Saturday and outplayed a strong St. Mary's eleven, especially between the 20-yard line, in a 14 to 0 defeat. Plymouth played its best game in the first half at Crestline and was able to survive a strong Bulldog onslaught, led by a premier runner, Tom Finnegan, only by two miraculous plays, an 80-yard punt return by Steve Hall and a 67-yard pass interception runback by Jason Robinson. The Big Red's first line quarterback, Chuck Kosse, will be out for two weeks, perhaps for six. A medical opinion was to have been given yesterday on whether arthroscopic surgery on his knee is called for. Terry Hall, the younger if not the lesser of the Hall clan wearing the red and white of Plymouth, is still hobbling with a strained ligament of the foot.

Plymouth did not play well after Kosse departed. Its coach, Richard Roll, allowed as how he was "disappointed that my players were upset by that. Jeff Stawos is not a bad quarterback. The team should have done as well with him and for him as for the other boy."

The Big Red defense, which had disported itself so well in three victorious scrimmages and the first half against Crestline, came apart in the second half Friday night. "Too much arm tackling," one player said. Plymouth will go as far against the Flyers as its defense will carry it.

Roll personally scouted St. Paul's Saturday. He was impressed by its quarterback, Myers. "That boy can really throw the ball. He didn't throw it all that much against Sandusky but I figure they'll turn him loose a little more against us, to spread out defense some, at least." The Flyers outgained the Panthers, 234 to 179, 190 to 65 on the ground.

Plymouth needs to get its running game going with some consistency. The defense keys on Steve Hall. This throws some burden on Dave Powers, Chuck Deskins and Mike Bailey. Each is more than capable if the offensive line does its job. It did not perform well enough to establish the running game at Crestline, particularly in the second half, when the Big Red was limited to just 25 yards net, all of it on the ground. As the running game improves, so will the passing game. Staggis is left-handed in his arm, not in his head. He was unfortunate Friday in that he threw directly to a defender, who intercepted and ran it in to the Plymouth nine. But he is serviceable, willing and earnest.

By no means a regular feature, this sketch appears in this guise mostly because the staff doesn't know how else to present it. Generally it has in the past been used for material that seemed unsuitable, because it was to short or too flimsy, for attention in the editorial column.

Perhaps even those who worship there don't know. Lot 23 of the south half of Paris as laid out by Abraham Trucks (sic) and filed at Mansfield on May 23, 1865, on which First Evangelical Lutheran church now stands, was reserved by him as a graveyard for his family. At the same time, he gave Lot 21, easterly from Lot 23, to the public for religious purposes and Lot 22 between the Trucks (sic) burial ground and Lot 21, as a public burying ground. The whole was sworn to by Abraham Trucks and recorded by a justice of the peace, George Yearian, on that date.

Some months back, when an incident occurred that suggested a drug connection, one who has said for over 30 years that he mostly knows what's going on observed that if he could cover up his gray hair and throw away his glasses and wear faded blue jeans, he could drive into the parking lot of two schools in the county and buy all of the drugs he might wish. He got the horse laugh. Now those who laughed seem to have painted themselves as the other end of the horse. He said he was morally certain of his facts. He even identified the schools. One of them was right on the button.

Only a few, perhaps, found sardonic humor in the news from Columbus, Ohio Education association, which has counseled its members across the state to engage in strikes against their employers from time to time — indeed, four such strikes seem to be imminent at press time, is itself under siege. Employees of OEA have set up a picket line to demonstrate to the whole world, or such of it as passes the OEA headquarters at Columbus or the watches news telecasts of what's going on there, their dissatisfaction with OEA's response to their wage demands.

Indeed, some who laughed have approached the fellow and asked him to tell his sources. He has so far declined. But he points out that Sec. 2927.02 of the Revised Code of Ohio deals specifically with access to drugs (i. e., tobacco, which the federal government officially designates as a drug) by juveniles and offers to name 14 schools in the county where areas have been set aside, by fiat of the school administration, to permit pupils to smoke, in obvious violation of the sense, if not the letter, of the law, he says.

It raises once again a question that was first asked here 25 years ago. How does one who by law and custom is required to preach against sin excuse his own indulgence in sin? It came about when a teacher of health reached the unit dealing with the evils of tobacco. The teacher reeked of tobacco smell and some pupils remarked upon it. One who reached the highest office this nation offers to any citizen got there because he successfully promoted the argument that "There is no right to strike against the public safety at any time by any body". His attitude came about in reference to a strike of policemen in Boston, Mass., of which state the man was then governor. And immediately after Labor day weekend, when the star of organized labor even by its appraisal seems to be waning, odds are that a poll of the citizenry would hold that free and constant access to public instruction in the public schools is a form of public safety and any obstruction to it a strike against public safety.

After almost 30 years, Plymouth has lost its Salvation Army unit. Mrs. John Ganzhorn, who has served as its treasurer, is retiring and no replacement has been found. The unit began when the annual Community Chest drive was instituted, and over the years has helped needy persons in the school district. Because the local fund raising drive has faltered during the last five years, most of the money used locally, which was mainly for holiday baskets, has been contributed by the Cleveland office. Persons needing help will now have to apply to the units in Norwalk and Mansfield.

$1,950 set for plans to revitalize Public Square

All about town . . . The J. Robert Martins visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herald House, Lodi, Thursday. Miss Florence Danner is now residing in Hillside Acres Nursing home, Willard. Colleen place at Northfield

It's an investment in the future for the village. Members of the planning commission agreed Thursday night to hire Poggemeyer Design Group, Inc., Willard, to prepare for application of a federal grant for revitalization of the Public Square. The application package requires that a qualified engineer prepare the desired plans. Cost will be $1,950. However, the village is saving $1,500 because the Richland county planning commission has agreed to do part of the work at no charge.

She led for three-quarters of a mile but couldn't stand the stretch drive of Emiline in the $5,000 open pace, feature event of Friday's racing at Northfield Park, and Scrogie Colleen settled for second place. The five-year-old mare owned by Lyle and Robert Hamman, Noble road, Chillicothe, paced in :28, 59 1/5 and 1:30 3/5 before faltering. The winner, 5 1/4 lengths in the van, was timed in 2:01 2/5. Scrogie Colleen paid $4.60 and $2.80 in the six horse field.

He can't spell 'Alabama' (inside joke) but —

Robinson's 57-yard runback with pass foils Junkyard Dawgs, 27 to 26

Plymouth staggered to a miraculous 27 to 26 victory over Crestline this Friday night.

The Big Red completely dominated the first half and led by 13 to 0 after 24 minutes of action.

Loss of its quarterback, Chuck Kocse, owing to a knee injury, late in the second period seemed to upset Plymouth's momentum. Its play thereafter was only a patch of what it was before.

As it turned out, a judgment call by the Crestline bench may have cost the Bulldogs a victory in the 19th meeting between the two teams, dating from 1898, when Plymouth won, 7 to 0.

The Bulldogs scored the tying touchdown with 2:46 remaining. Coach John Di Pietro elected to go for the two point conversion that, if successful, would have won for Crestline.

Over a century ago, the James boys, Frank and Jesse, broke into the bank at Northfield, Minn., expecting to make a big score. The town was terrified of the bandits from Missouri. But the Jameses couldn't open the safe.

Which is how it was with Crestline in the waning moment of Friday's game. The Bulldogs simply could not open Plymouth's safe from three yards out.

They sent their prime running back, Tom Finnegan, to the right, while he took a pitch from Mike Zara, who had just scored the fourth touchdown, his second of the night. Finnegan drove for the goal line but Plymouth's linebackers, Dave Powers and Billy Castle, were there to deny him the last two yards.

The Big Red took the onside kickoff and poked ahead, playing for time.

On fourth down, at the Crestline 48, Plymouth needed a yard for a first down. Possession meant victory, since the Bulldogs had used all their time outs.

Coach Richard Roll went to his bread-and-butter play. He sent Castle over left guard. And Castle managed the first down by a few inches.

It was academic after that. Plymouth took a four yard loss and a five yard delay of the game penalty to eat up the clock and it ended.

Plymouth had broken a tie at 20 on a brilliant runback of an interception by Jason Robinson. He can't spell Alabama but he sure as the devil can defeat Crestline. For the second straight year he did so. He nailed a Bulldog pass at the Red 43 and sped 57 yards for the score.

Myers' kick was the winning point.

The Big Red set out to blow the Bulldogs completely out of Hutton stadium.

Plymouth kicked off, Crestline could not advance, and punted to the 50-yard line, where the Big Red set out for pounce.

In four plays it sprung Dave Powers loose through the middle for 24 yards and the first score. Randy Myers' kick for PAT was blocked.

The clock read 8:22.

Five minutes later Plymouth had its second score.

An opportunistic defense forced a fumble by Finnegan that Jason Robinson recovered. In business at the Bulldog 37, Plymouth needed eight plays to score. Castle bolted in from two yards out. Myers kicked the PAT.

Neither team was able to score in the second period, although Plymouth penetrated to the Crestline two. On fourth down, Steve Hall was thrown out of bounds for a loss of six and the Bulldogs had thwarted Plymouth's effort for a third score.

At the half, Plymouth was clearly the aggressor and equally clearly the superior team. With 33 plays, the Big Red had racked up nine first downs, 90 yards by rushing and 64 yards through the air. Kocse had connected with five and six throws with no interceptions. Plymouth had punted once, on a 34-yard boot, and given up 25 yards on four penalties.

The Bulldogs, with only 22 plays, had been limited to two first downs and 35 yards on the ground. With two completions in five tries, they had passed for 14 yards. Their punting was not shabby: four for an average of 39 yards apiece. They were penalized three for 25 yards.

Crestline came away from the 23-minute halftime break with fire in its eyes.

The Bulldogs went to the air at once, having taken the opening kickoff to their 25. A roughing-of-the-passer penalty of 15 yards in the first down gave Crestline first down at its 40. And from here it took off. Mike Zara threw to Chad Schrack for 11, then sent Tim Eicher up the middle for eight. Finnegan got three on a pitchout and after three incompletions the Bulldogs punted.

Finnegans boot carried 30 yards to the Red 20, where Steve Hall took it in, swept by his left and out-an-all defenders 60 yards to the end zone. He picked up two outstanding downfield blocks, one by Greg Burks and one by Robinson.

Myers' kick was good and the rout was on.

Or was it?

Crestline took the kickoff to its 29 and in three plays scored.

Finnegan ran for 15 and 22 yards on successive plays and then on the halfback option play passed to Kevin Garrett for 30 yards and the first Bulldog score.

A pass play for the two point conversion failed.

Plymouth was unable to advance with the kickoff. On first down, having been penalized once again for illegal procedure, Jeff Staggs' pass was intercepted by John Jeffrey, who ran it to the Red nine, and the Bulldogs were ready to bite again.

They needed just three plays. Zara went home from the three on third down. A running play for two points was stopped. Plymouth was adjudged guilty of a personal foul and took the 15-yard-penalty on the kickoff.

Crestline's kickoff went into the end zone. Although Hall got 17 yards on first down, Plymouth could not advance farther and Chuck Deakin's punt was a short one, only 20 yards, to the Crestline side of the 50.

Finnegan broke six tackles to reach the Red 15, a splendid 35-yard run, and after a three yard gain through tackle, Finnegan took a pitchout to the right, cut to his left and went through the Big Red defense for 12 yards and the touchdown.

The clock read 3:35 as Zara passed to Schrack for the PAT that tied it at 20.

The Bulldogs deserved a better fate. Overall they outplayed Plymouth. But what counts is what's on the scoreboard, and Plymouth prevailed there by one point.

The visitors should have given up so much yardage on penalties was a handicap. Particularly so because they came at a time when Plymouth badly needed the momentum.

To examine the second half statistics is to see how much Crestline overpowered Plymouth.

The Bulldogs with 30 plays ran for 188 yards and passed for 49, whereas with 15 plays Plymouth managed just 25 yards on the ground and not one through the air.

The Big Red defense, and this should be no surprise, is considerably ahead of the offense. The opposition defense keys on Steve Hall. Dave Powers got some important yardage on the ground. Kocse's passing was accurate and effective. He threw just six times and completed five. His relief passed three times, did not complete any and was the victim of an interception that led to a score.

St. Paul's, Saturday's opponent, scored Plymouth heavily. The Flyers can be relied upon to run, run, run and run. If Plymouth's defense against the run is what it was in the first half at Crestline, the Norwalk team is in for a tough night. If, on the other hand, it is no more effective than it was in the second half, the Flyers may be counted upon to soar.

Was this disaster for Red? Quarterback Chuck Kocse, in first start for Plymouth at that post, excelled during first half until he was thrown heavily on knee in second period. After first aid, he was helped from the field, not to return again. Prognosis: two weeks, perhaps six weeks, of no action at all. Meanwhile, Red will go with southpaw 11th grader Jeff Staggs, who's won a letter and has some game experience.

Heydinger killed in collision with train

A 46-year-old former businessman here, once co-proprietor with his father-in-law, Plymouth's police chief, of a drinking place, was killed Friday at 10:24 a.m. when his car was struck by a Conrail train.

Alan F. Heydinger, New Washington, was killed instantly at the crossing in Seneca county road 35, east of Route 4, between New Washington and Attica.

State highway patrolmen said his seat belt was in place but the impact threw him from the vehicle. He was the son-in-law of late Robert L. Meiser. They bought Bob's Cafe from the late Clement Ruffing, Norwalk.

Born Sept. 19, 1939, in New Washington, he married Susan Meiser on Oct. 22, 1960. She survives. So do two sons, Christopher and Blake, at home; a daughter, Amber, now Mrs. Jerry Miller, New Washington; four brothers, Harold, Gilbert, Glenn and William, all of New Washington; four sisters, Mrs. Viola Karl and Mrs. Bertha Karl, Tio, and Mrs. Vera Clady and Mrs. Inez Gray, New Washington, and a grandson, Nathan.

He was a communicant of St. Bernard's Roman Catholic church, a member of the Knights of Columbus, of L.O.M.O.s, E.M.s, and a life member of the Million Dollar Round table.

An avid hunter and sportsman, he was a member of the Buckeye Central Boosters club.

The Rev. Robert De Sloover, pastor of St. Bernard's Roman Catholic church, was celebrant of the funeral mass there Tuesday at 10 a.m. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Mrs. Lesho off to Rhode Island for unit reunion

Mrs. George L. Lesho, Sr., left this morning for Providence, R. I., where she is attending in the bi-annual reunion of the 96th General Hospital M. P., the unit with which she served three and a half years in England as a nurse during World War II.

After moving to Plymouth with her late husband, she was a member of the staff of Willard Area hospital and later joined the Huron county department of health as a visiting nurse until her retirement several years ago.

Mrs. Lesho has been a member of Ehret-Parsel Post 447, American Legion, for 27 years. She was one of the four service women who were invited to join the post in 1958 by the late Thomas C. Cabbie, who was then the post commander.

Three couples seek licenses to be married

David R. Armbruster, Plymouth, a Chessie System employee, and Danette M. Cope, Plymouth, unemployed, have applied in Huron county probate court for a license to marry.

Rodney Joseph Hale, 29, 236 Riggs street, and Sandra Kay Dye, 23, who also lives there, have applied in Richland county probate court for a license to marry.

So have Dan Andrew Howard, 22, Willard, laborer and part-time patrolman, and Peggy Sue Strohm, 22, Plymouth, laborer and part-time patrolman.

District meet for harriers set at Galion

District cross country competition will take place Oct. 18 in Amann park, Galion, with a field of 17 Class A schools.

These are Crestview, Seneca East, Wynford, Western Reserve, Crestline, South Central, Monroeville, Danbury, Lucas, New London, St. Peter's, Buckeye Central, Colonel Crawford, St. Paul's Plymouth, St. Mary's Central Catholic and Mohawk.

CARD OF THANKS
 On behalf of Ehret-Parcel Post 447, American Legion, we would like to take this opportunity to thank those people and organizations that participated in our annual ox roast. As in the past, without your support this event would not be a success. A special thanks goes to the Plymouth Police department, the Plymouth Fire department, the Plymouth Area Jaycees, the Plymouth park board, the Tiro Fire department, the merchants who donated prizes for the auxiliary drawings, and all others who donated their time, money and equipment. An extra special thanks goes to the Auxiliary Unit of Post 447, Jerry Caullil, ox roast chairman Bud Garrett, commander
