

A scorer now!

With only six games remaining in the regular season slate, Plymouth's Big Red faces Western Reserve at Collins tomorrow, South Central here a week from tomorrow and then the big one, New London, in the Wildcat bandbox on Feb. 14, St. Valentine's day.

There was once a massacre, at Chicago, on that day. Plymouth has no intention of a duplication of it at New London. Ask Ron Stephens, who's come into his own as a scorer of late, to add to his rebounding strength.

A scorer always!

Mike Lasch learned his basketball at the backyard hoop, where shoot, shoot, shoot is the refrain day after day after day. His high arch bomb from the corner, in what would be three point territory in the NCAA, delights Red fans and scares the daylights out of the opposition, including Crestview here Saturday.

The voice of The Advertiser

On May 5

That the schools will seek additional funding by ballot comes as no surprise.

There are many who have the common sense to see, regardless of their attitude toward the effectiveness of the public school program here, that there is a need, and if the need is not met now, it will be vastly more expensive to deal with it, if indeed by that time it can be dealt with, later on.

And there are many who will set aside their common sense and vote with their emotions. The schools rubbed their feathers the wrong way. A teacher was impolite. Charley got a bad deal from the tiddlywinks coach. The teachers don't buy in local stores.

They need to realize, as the president of the school board said Saturday, "There's a whole new set of values in the schools these days and you've got to learn to roll with the punches."

We don't doubt the fact of what he said. It galls the Billy Dickens out of us that the public is all but obscene that anyone on the public payroll should conduct himself in such fashion as would alienate any reasonable person.

Advertiser captures Award 148

Another honor has come to Plymouth's oldest continuing business, The Advertiser, founded in 1853.

It is a winner in the annual Omer C. Hooper Newspaper Show conducted by the Ohio Newspaper association for less than daily journals of the Buckeye state, a show considered in the profession to be without superior in the level of competition.

The Advertiser entered only one category this year, editorial writing, and is a top winner.

"Rules of the contest prohibit me from revealing which of the awards The Advertiser has won," said Ken Drum, executive secretary of the association. "This will be announced on Feb. 19 at 4:15 p.m., during the annual meeting of the association at Columbus."

Competition in editorial writing is open, which means that less-than-daily newspapers in Ohio are considered together, without reference to size of community or state and national awards since 1964. In 1975 it was rated best-in-OHIO in editorials.

Advertiser expanding the move are in route to depositories in the Plymouth branch.

First National Bank of Mans-

To produce $269,538 in three years —

2.5 mill tax sought by schools May 5

A 2.5 mill levy for school improvements will appear on the May ballot.

The levy, to run for three years, would produce a total of $269,538, or $89,846 a year, based on the present valuation of the Plymouth Local School district, which is slightly over $35,000,000.

Meeting in a special session Monday night, Plymouth Board of Education heard Jeffrey Slauson, school superintendent, say the present improvement fund, which has never been funded by a levy, is down to a balance of $105,30 as of Oct. 30, 1986.

The fund was the brainchild of former superintendent John Fazoli, who found in 1977 the district's general fund could spare $225,000 to set it up. Since then, with prudent investment of the fund, it has been used for capital improvements that otherwise would come from the district's general fund.

Since 1979 a sum of $296,683 has been spent for improvements, but that would not have been possible otherwise.

Today, Slauson said, the general fund is barely holding its own because of cutbacks in both state and federal programs.

He told the board the district is losing $136,330 from the state foundation program in 1988 and $136,877 during 1989.

"About 400 other districts are just about as badly off," he said. Ohio had about 456 districts.

At a meeting along with other superintendent with Bill Phillips, assistant state superintendent of education and Sen. Richard Schafraatz, Slauson was told the school districts had exactly two choices: to cut programs or seek additional funding.

Slauson and the board do not wish to cut programs any more, particularly since the school is on the path of receiving accreditation by the prestigious North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

The Plymouth district is one of the lowest taxed in both Huron and Richland counties with a rate of $29.20 now. Of this amount $3.5 mills is for bond retirement for building programs. In 1990 one bond issue will be paid off, making a savings of .65 mills to taxpayers.

The only board member to question Slauson's suggestion of a 2.5 mill levy was its youngest member, Martin McKenzie, who asked if it is enough to cover the necessary anticipated expenses.

This all but upset the superintendent, who said he had expected questions in the opposite direction.

He said the school will be able to maintain its present standards with the improvement levy.

Several items were listed that will be needed attention, particularly a new boiler for the high school building that will cost about $70,000, repairs to the roof, replacement of the public address system and minor replacements in both Plymouth Elementary school and the Shiloh building.

Slauson presented the board with figures for "the best and the worst scenario", showing what the levy would produce. He said that the district would not be so bad nor so good as either set of figures shows.

What happens on the state and federal level, which is not known until it hits, creates unknown problems.

He said that last week he and Mrs. Frederick E. Ford, clerk-treasurer, were informed the district would lose $54,739 in the state fund for disadvantaged as 8/10th of a pupil shot of the required number, based on the total enrollment in the district.

Both of them are still arguing this by telephone with Columbus with the hope that maybe only half that sum will be lost.

He also pointed out that funding in the areas of special education and vocational training have been cut back because replacement teachers were not so qualified as those who have left the profession.

"This is a permanent improvement levy to maintain the schools, not an operating levy that would include salaries", the board said and passed the resolution to place it on the ballot. The vote was without that of Donald Barnhouse, who was out of town.

Who's in poverty?

In Richland county, according to the Council for Economic Opportunities in Greater Cleveland, 23.3 per cent of all persons — or 40,445 individuals — live with incomes of less than $5,360 for a single person or $11,000 for a family of four.

And in Huron county, the figure is 10.76 per cent. There are 5,951 such persons.

Crawford county's figure is 13.32 per cent, or 6,588 persons.

Bank to close

Toledo Trust to close branch on Mar. 28 after 15 years here

Fifteen years after its parent company first requested authority to open the branch here (it was turned down), Plymouth branch of Toledo Trust will close its doors Mar. 28.

All accounts in the branch will be transferred to the Neal Rock road office of the bank.

Safety deposit boxes will also be transferred there.

Closing of the local office comes after an evaluation of the nature of the bank's business, a periodic procedure. This evaluation led Toledo Trust to consolidate its business five miles away in Willard.

All employees of the local branch, from Quentin R. Ream, the manager, to the most junior employee, will be offered assignment first applied to establish a branch here in 1971. Its intention was to do so at 42 Plymouth street, then the former residence of Ira D. Brougher.

Thomas F. Root prevailed upon the bank to engage in a trade: the premises of his mother, Mrs. Percy H. Root, and of his aunt, Miss Pearl Elder, to whom Mrs. Root gave by testamentary act a life interest in the property, across the street for this was done. Today the former Brougher property is occupied by Miss Elder's brother, Austin C. and her nephew, Robert Burger. The former Root property in the east side of Plymouth street was found to be superfluous by First National, after it, on the ultimate urging of the publisher of The Advertiser, reopened negotiation with Peoples National Bank of Mansfield, to merge with it, and early in 1976 merger was effected.

First National rapidly thereafter realized Hand's dream, of a bank operation that reached to the shores of Lake Erie, beside which he whiled away leisure hours.

First National merged with Willard United, opened a branch in Norwalk and bought other operations until it was as far as Sandusky and Huron. Now it is the last bank in a group owned by Toledo Trust and has divided its operation into three parts. The old First National at Mansfield manages the southern part, of which the Shiloh branch is a member. The Willard United operation, which included a branch at Greenwich and another at North Attica, the branch at Attica, housed in a new building, was leased. That at North Fairfield was closed.

Red loses league lead

St. Paul's wins in overtime after Plymouth blows lead

As to all good things it must, defeat came to Plymouth's Big Red at Norwell Friday night.

It came in overtime, when St. Paul's outscored Plymouth, 5 to 2, to put away a key Firelands conference contest, 64 to 60.

The Big Red blew a substantial lead early on and was compelled to claw from behind even to force the overtime.

Only a free throw by Jason Robinson, who scored 18 points to lead the Big Red, enabled Plymouth to tie.

The Flyers led at the start of the fourth period, 42 to 39.

Plymouth took the lead at 48 to 47 with 4:50 remaining on Robinson's theft and conversion.

The Big Red built a lead of three before the Flyers came back with a run of six, and a rebound off a missed free throw was shot by Jeff Kashian at 59 to reestablish the St. Paul's lead at 55 to 54.

Mike Lasch's patented boomer from the corner regained the lead for the Big Red at 2:08.

St. Paul's went on another run of three to regain the lead at 58 to 56.

Robinson scored two free throws to cut the advantage to one and with eight seconds left he shot the first of a bonus foul shot situation to knot it at 58. He missed the second.

A rarity in schoolboy basketball — the referee said he hadn't done such a thing in 11 years of working high school games — almost cost Plymouth the game in regulation time. An inadvertent whistle stopped play with three seconds left and St. Paul's in possession at midcourt. They didn't know where the ball would come down.

In the overtime, Matt Camp scored first. Jeff Service banged another one down and Plymouth spent its last time out.

Ron Stephens, after having Mike Lasch's patented boomer from the corner regained the lead for the Big Red at 2:08.

Ron Stephens, after having misse one more than seven feet out, converted a pass from Steve Hall, who was double-teamed most of the night, and scored to cut the lead to 59 to 58.

It was all St. Paul's thereafter. Wes Polinsky had a chance to put it away for the Flyers with two free throws at :43, but he failed.

Twenty-nine seconds later, he was back at the line.

He did not disappoint the raucous Flyer crowd. He shot the first free throw and it was all over.

The crowd thronged the floor and swarmed the Flyer players.

Plymouth won because it did not shoot as well as the Flyers, and it did not rebound at all, and it gave up too many free throws.

Consider: Plymouth, 27 of 69 from the field, six of 19 from the line, 23 rebounds, 20 turnovers; St. Paul's, 24 of 49 from the field, 17 of 22 from the line, 47 rebounds, 20 turnovers.

Plymouth had only five scorers and four in double digits. Hall for the 46th straight time. Stephens had 13, Lasch 12, Hall 15.

Camp collected 17 for the Flyers, Stephens 16, Service 11.

Two free throws by Kay Niedermeier with 49 seconds left gave Plymouth the 57 to 55 lead that held up when Colleen Landoll converted only one shot of a bonus opportunity that was the result of Niedermeier's fifth foul.

Donell Brantham scored at 2:10 to make it 53 to 51. Jeanne Misser and Miss Brantham bagged another shot each, whereupon Rose Boes shot it at 55 to 54.

"They're a tough outfit," said Coach Mike Badertacher. "We had some tough luck, some shots that simply wouldn't drop, but some days are like that. The officials didn't help us any, either."

Plymouth shot 63 times, St.

Paul's 46. Plymouth missed nine free throws. St. Paul's eight.

Plymouth outrebounded the Flyers, 29 to 27.

Red runs 16 points, stands on lead to down Cougars

Plymouth ran 16 points to break a 2 to 2 tie early in the first period here Saturday night and held off Crestview in Firelands Conference competition.

The score was 81 to 70.

The Big Red led at every stop.

The Cougars never got closer than seven points after the first period.

Mike Lasch put on another show, this time against Dr. Leland, emporium of sky-scraper corner shots was well stocked and he trotted out four models in the first period and three in the second. He scored with seven of 12 tries in the game.

Co-Capt. Steve Hall, shackled by St. Paul's a night before, would have none of the chains that Crestview forges. He converted four of six shots in the first eight minutes and two of four in the next eight. With two free throws in the second quarter, he also had 14 by half-time. The game was his for the Big Red with 20.

Stephens, the gangly 11th grader who has suffered from the serpent's tooth, missed two easy layups in the first half. The serum he administered in the third period was just what the doctor ordered. He canned all five shots and completed his labors with 14 points.

What was unique about this contest, more so than Plymouth's remarkable run of 16 points early on, was that neither team fouled in the third quarter, when a total of 42 points were scored by the Big Red, went down.

The Cougars proved formidable after the first period. They outscored Plymouth in the last 24 minutes, 59 to 57. But they came on with too little too late.

What was unique about this contest, more so than Plymouth's remarkable run of 16 points early on, was that neither team fouled in the third quarter, when a total of 42 points were scored by the Big Red, went down.

The Cougars proved formidable after the first period. They outscored Plymouth in the last 24 minutes, 59 to 57. But they came on with too little too late.

State, 'big national bank' assure funding —

ESOP jumps two steps

Purchase of Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc., in an ESOP plan by its employees jumped two steps closer to realization Monday.

Approval was accorded by the state controlling board to release $450,000 as the state's participation in the funding of the purchase.

Ohio's rationale is that the action is likely to save about 110 jobs.

The money would be loaned to the employees at six per cent interest for 10 years.

This means the annual payments will amount to $59,951.88, or $4,995.99 a month.

Already the ESOP plan has received $65,000 in a loan from the Franklin County commissioners, which must be settled on a similar basis.

The action by the state controlling board came three days after the chief negotiator for the employees, David A. Howard, 33-year-old graduate of Plymouth High school who practices law in Shelby and holds an appointment from his political friend, Sherrod Brown, Ohio Secretary of State, who presumably has used his influence with the commissioners to induce the governor's office and the state controlling board to participate in the funding of the buyout, an announced a "big national bank has agreed to finance the major portion of the buyout."

He did not identify the bank. Speculation is strong that it is Toledo Trust, with whom the employee group has been dealing since the inception of the idea.

Those who are led to believe that Toledo Trust is the participating bank argue "Toledo Trust wouldn't be so foolish as to announce the closing of its branch in Plymouth without some sops to the community in the form of a loan, which, of course, it will recover, or intends to recover, over the long run."

Howard said the commitment by the bank that he won't identify is firm and now the negotiations turn to the remaining three steps necessary to complete the deal.

These are:

1. Determination of the pivot price. This, Howard said varies "from day to day, because the amount of accounts receivable of PLW fluctuates from day to day."

2. Determination of the employee trust documents, which state the work rules for the employees. They will also specify the claim of the participating employees on the assets of the corporation. Workers' compensation insurance, including health, coverage and wage scales need to be determined.

3. Management of the pension fund and extent to which it will be committed in the purchase price.

Howard said he anticipates the purchase will be completed in March. Because its fiscal quarter starts April 1, Howard said, Banner Industries, Inc., the seller, may wish to wait until that date to complete the transaction.

A telephone and word-of-mouth survey by The Advertiser over the weekend of 37 employees of PLW elicited these comments:

"At my age I am not about to invest any money in a job that I'm not sure will be around in a year."

"They haven't told us yet how much we have to put up nor what guarantee do we have that our money will be safe. If that's the case, I'm not going to say what I'll do."

"I won't put a dime in it until I can see what's coming down. They haven't been wholly open with us so far, and I think they go the cart before the horse by making the deal before they found out how many employees plan to pony up their share of the 10 per cent of the purchase price. My lawyer says he understands that it is mandatory that the employees put up 10 per cent of the purchase price. If the price is $5 million, which is all we've heard, that means we employees roughly have to put up $500,000, and since there's about 100 of us, that means $5,000 apiece. Not everybody who punches a time clock down here has that kind of dough or can get it."

"I'm young enough and willing to take my chances — what else can I do? I've been laid off since June, my state employment has run out. I'm getting some federal unemployment under a program that the shop has, but that won't last forever. And, man, we've got mouths to feed!"

"It's likely to be rough. The company hasn't had anybody on the road for a long time, sure, there must be some old customers who have said 'I'm not going to give them a contract, the lead time is it nine or 10 months, and they may have closed down by then.' It will take some time to pick them up again, and to find new ones. What will we do for working capital until then? All the same, I think I may go along."

"I plan to take my money and run. My spouse can retire and we will start to travel and visit our grandchildren."

Two juveniles + four car keys result in theft of four vehicles

A new record was set over the week by two Plymouth juveniles!

In a day a half they managed to steal four vehicles. As soon as they drove one into a ditch, they found another.

It started early Sunday morning when the car of James Holloman was taken from the village square and found abandoned about an hour later a mile east of the village of Baseline road.

Holloman had conveniently left the keys in it.

Wayne H. Strine's car was the next to be stolen. It was assumed it was taken Sunday between 8 and 8:30 a.m. Strine did not realize it was gone from his driveway in Maple street until the Crawford county sheriff called to say it had been found abandoned in a ditch. He had left keys in it.

The next to be "borrowed" was a Chevrolet Citation parked in a nearby driveway from where the Strine car was found. It also was later recovered, in a ditch. The keys were in the car.

The fourth vehicle was a Chevrolet truck from Crawford county. Monday it was found abandoned at Noble road and Route 603 through the combined efforts of Plymouth police and the Richland county sheriff. It also had keys in it.

The two juveniles have been taken into custody and are at the Richland county juvenile attention center awaiting a hearing.
