

What we deserve?

The people get, a wise man once said, the kind of government they deserve.

Could it have been Machiavelli? It sounds like something that significant cynic might say.

No matter. What we are concerned with is what kind of government is it that we apparently deserve.

Come Jan. 1, it could be one that is less representative of us than we mean for us to have.

When a candidate indicates he's willing to run, he prepares a nominating petition, affixes his signature and swears to the accuracy of the petition. In most cases, he writes down the name of a citizen-elect to stand in his stead if he should not be able to perform come election day. Those who execute his petition can see that name. If they don't know who he is, they can ask before they sign the petition. It's a way of discovery, of discovering where a candidate is coming from. Or better said, who he's coming from.

When the petition is filed, any citizen may call at the board of elections to examine it, to ascertain who the citizen-electors are that assert, under penalty of law if they do so falsely, that they know the candidate and consider him qualified for the office to which he aspires.

This also is a part of the check and balance system: the voter can by law discover who the candidate is, who backs him, and in what number. (Nowadays, a citizen-elect may execute more than one petition for a single office.)

Not so with the write-in candidate. He declares his intention to seek election by write-in and his name and that fact are exposed to public scrutiny. But where he's coming from, or who he's coming from? Nope.

The only measure a voter has of a write-in candidate is personal: does he know, or has he heard tell of, the candidate? He is deprived of any measurement of the candidate by noting who it is that has endorsed his candidacy.

When the write-in candidate is one who has served the public before, as occurred in the most recent case here, there was in fact no loss of opportunity by the electorate to appraise the candidate, who filed the intention to seek election as a write-in in timely fashion, together with a public statement that "I'm doing this because I think it is better, even if I only get 50 votes by write-in, to choose an officer of government by direct democratic process, i.e., the vote of 50 citizen-electors, that by indirect, which would occur if nobody filed for the vacant seat and the remainder of the legislative body was left to choose and elect the nominee."

That explanation satisfied us and we felt no need to comment on it.

Two of those who seek election to village council are write-in candidates who are incumbents. Each prepared petitions in timely fashion but did not submit them before the deadline, for whatever reason. This fact gives rise to this observation, often heard these days: "If these fellows run their individual business this way, what guaranty do we have they won't foul up the village's business?" And it is still true that, since no petitions are on file, the public can't see who supports the candidates and is therefore deprived of a significant opportunity to participate in the check and balance system.

This situation obtains in Shiloh, as well, where the incumbent mayor, not having filed his nominating petition in time, now seeks reelection as a write-in. Although it is highly unlikely that such a situation could come to pass, in Shiloh, or here, or in the board of education race, it remains a fact that a nominee could be elected even if he had fewer votes than an opponent, if the opponent is a write-in candidate who draws fewer than 25 ballots.

Elsewhere we point out that not in history here has a write-in candidate been accorded more votes than one whose name appears on the ballot. So the odds are that John Fazzini and Charles R. Reeder and Charles Reinhart and Martin L. McKenzie will be elected, whether in fact they are the superior candidates.

That none of the candidates for village council please see page 5

Marion Seaman, long Shilohan, succumbs at 84

Marion L. Seaman, 84, Plankton road east of Shiloh, died in Willard Area hospital Oct. 21 of a brief illness.

He lived and farmed all his life near Shiloh, where he was born June 7, 1903.

His wife, Eva, a daughter, Betty, now Mrs. Harold E. Dasup, Shiloh; a sister, Mrs. Mary Wilson, Shelby; four grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren survive.

The Rev. Wayne Niemenin conducted graveside services in Mt. Hope cemetery, Cass township, Friday at 10 a.m. Burial was by Secor Funeral home.

Memorial contributions to the American Heart association are suggested.

Clabaughs sue for $100,000

Formerly of Plymouth, Jeffrey Clabaugh, Monroeville, has laid suit in Huron county common pleas court seeking damages of $100,000 against Michelle Lawrence, Willard.

His wife, Diane, is also a plaintiff.

The suit arises from a collision in Route 99 in which Clabaugh, riding a motorcycle, was severely injured and hospitalized at Sandusky.

First arrest: felony charge

A villager was arrested Oct. 20 at his home at 83 Plymouth street on a felony warrant from Mentor.

Thomas J. Kubitz, 33, was lodged in the Richland county jail. The warrant deals with fraudulent conduct.

Second arrest intoxication

Thomas J. Kubitz, 33, 83 Plymouth street, was charged with possession of an open container and public intoxication after a police officer found him in the street opposite his home Oct. 23 at 7 p.m.

'Cyclist injured in collision

A 42-year-old motorcyclist complained of injuries to his neck and leg Sunday after he was struck from behind at 2:18 p.m. in front of his home at 413 Plymouth street. Jack Arthur was headed north in Route 61. He at first turned out of the roadway and thence back onto it, where he was struck from the rear by a car driven by John Weidie, 72, Mansfield, also headed north. Arthur was thrown from his mount onto a grassy shoulder.

He was taken to Willard Area hospital by ambulance.

'Trick-Treat' set today for one hour

Children will be "Trick or Treating" in the village today from 5 p.m. until 6 p.m. Householders wishing to participate are asked to turn their outside light on.

At 8:30 p.m. they are invited to a Halloween party at Ebert-Parson Post, 447, American Legion, 112 Twiss street.

Hostesses are members of the post auxiliary. Prizes will be given for costumes. Special treats will be distributed.

Vote set Tuesday for council, board

Not in history has a candidate whose name appeared on the ballot been defeated by a write-in aspirant, not in the village nor the school district nor in Shiloh.

In Tuesday's general election, voters in Plymouth, in Plymouth Local School district and in Shiloh may make history by opting for declared write-in candidates.

John Fazzini, retired superintendent of schools who was appointed clerk-treasurer and then elected to that post, resigned the job. Now he seeks election as councilman. His name will appear on the ballot. He lives at 312 East Main street.

Two seats as councilman are vacant as of Dec. 31 at midnight or at soon thereafter as the successors can be legally qualified and seated.

The incumbents failed to file nominating petitions. Each is a declared write-in candidate. Each is employed by R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., Willard.

One is H. Lee Welker, 149 West Broadway, an appointee to the council.

The other is Billy R. Taulbee, Curtis drive, who was elected to his post.

A fourth candidate, also a declared write-in, is Wanda Caudill, Plymouth street, wife of Stephen J. Caudill, police chief. She is a director of catering services in Ashland college, Ashland.

Mayor Keith A. Hebble, 107 Plymouth East road, rose to that office after having been elected councilman on the resignation of Dean A. Cline as mayor. He stood for election, unopposed, to complete Cline's unexpired term and now seeks a full four year term.

A native of Illinois, he is a graduate of Purdue university, West Lafayette, Ind., with a degree in forestry. He came to this region to work for AMF, Shelby. After he resigned there, he was engaged as owner-operator of The Rhythm Bowl, a Shelby bowling enterprise. He is married to the former Martha Jane Lofland Clark.

Incumbent clerk-treasurer, Mrs. Karen J. Jumper, is the wife of Terry Jumper, principal utilities employee of the village. She was elected as councilman and resigned that seat to succeed Fazzini as clerk-treasurer. She is unopposed for election as clerk-treasurer.

Ohio election rules specify that a write-in candidate must be accorded 25 ballots, equivalent to the number of signatures that he would be required to have affixed to his nominating petition, in order to qualify for election. The declared candidate whose name appears of the ballot could therefore win election with fewer votes than the write-in candidate if, say, the write-in aspirant should receive only 24 ballots and the declared candidate 23, or 22, or a lesser number.

Signs are that such an outcome is so remote in Tuesday's election as to be insignificant.

Nor is it likely this situation will obtain in the race for Plymouth Board of Education nor in the competition for the mayoralty of Shiloh.

In the former, two incumbents, Charles M. Reinhart, 619 Willow court, and Martin L.

'67 alumnus stabbed at work

A 1967 alumnus of Plymouth High school was airlifted to St. Vincent Medical center, Toledo, Ohio, after he was stabbed at his place of employment at 8:24 p.m.

Condon of James Alan Klier, Bucyrus, elder son of the John Vincent Medical center, Toledo, Ohio, after he was stabbed at his place of employment at 8:24 p.m.

He is an attendant at Duke Service station, Crawford county road 350, Bucyrus. A man wielding a knife assaulted him, says Ronny Shawber, Crawford county sheriff.

Foreclosure set on Shiloh plot for back taxes

Foreclosure sale of Lot No. 47 in Main street Shiloh, to recover $279.86 due in real estate taxes, is set for Nov. 27 and each day thereafter until Dec. 11 by the sheriff of Richland county. Delinquent taxpayer is James L. Crouse and Vestie Crouse. County Treasurer Daniel Smith is inspector of the foreclosure.

Stone purchases Shiloh cafe

Ronald Stone, Main street, Shiloh, a cook in the establishment, has bought Shiloh Town and County restaurant on the Louis Lemasters and is doing business as Stony's Town and County restaurant.

McKenzie, 137 Plymouth street, have filed nominating petitions. Reinhart is employed by Midwest Industries, Inc., Willard. McKenzie, a student in Mt. Vernon Nazarene college, Mt. Vernon, is a teacher-coach in Mansfield Christian school.

His opponent is Joanne L. Root, wife of Thomas F. Root, 118 Plymouth street. Her husband served as member and president of the board for several years. Her eldest son, Thomas L. was a candidate for the board by write-in in 1975 but did not succeed. He was defeated by another write-in candidate, David A. Howard, 270 to 127.

She came here toward the end of World War II as a young graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware. Her father was a banker in New London. She taught in Plymouth High school in several segments of her teaching career, which concluded with an assignment as English teacher in Pioneer Joint Vocational school.

If she is victorious, it will be the first time in history here that a husband and wife have served as member of the board of education.

At Shiloh the only race is for mayor. Incumbent Delmar Nesbitt, a retired federal civil servant, prepared a nomination petition but did not file it.

Incumbent Councilman Charles R. (Rick) Reeder did so. His name will appear on the ballot.

Nesbitt has since declared his willingness to accept election as a write-in candidate. Mrs. Reeder is unopposed for reelection as clerk-treasurer.

Two incumbents, Charles Strickland and Richard Tallman, seek reelection as councilmen.

Charles Miller, incumbent trustee of Plymouth township and Richard Russell, incumbent clerk, seek reelection. Each is unopposed.

Incumbent Cass Township Trustee David Barnhart is opposed by Ivan Rhodes, former trustee, and Joseph Miller.

The incumbent clerk of the township, Joyce Von Stein, wife of Raymond Von Stein, is not opposed.

Differences of opinion in political matters are a common in Bloominggrove township these days as pumpkins at Halloween. Incumbent Trustee Kenneth (Tim) Burrer is opposed by Arthur Tuttle. Incumbent Trustee Forest Peters is opposed by Edward M. (Casey) Kinsel, retired principal of Shiloh Junior High school, for the unexpired term.

Archie Lowe, incumbent clerk, is not opposed for reelection.

In New Haven township Incumbent Trustee Thomas Shaarda, Jr., and Incumbent Clerk Calvin Wadsworth are not opposed for reelection.

Polls will be open from 6:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Voters in Shiloh will decide upon a 7.4-mile levy to be applied to funding of a village police department.

Richland county voters are asked to support a 3.5-mill renewal of a tax assigned to fund Richland Newhope center at Mansfield and a new tax of 9/10-mill to fund general expenses of the county health district.

Certainly best blossom of the younger crop of Big Red players is James Fletcher, who parts his hair in the middle and opposing pass defenses in the center and on both sides. He's capable on the special teams as well, having fielded several punts for good yardage. Coach Richard Roll will depend on him against Wildcats tomorrow.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the bridegroom's parents, was at Palmer's in Willard.

Connie L. Sloan married to Joseph D. Predieri

Miss Connie Lynne Sloan became the bride of Joseph Dwane Predieri Oct. 17 in an early afternoon ceremony in Plymouth United Methodist church.

She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon J. Sloan, Shiloh. He is the son of Mrs. Thomas Scott and of Robert Predieri, Willard.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas Hoover, Lakewood, former pastor of the Plymouth and Shiloh United Methodist churches.

The altar lighted by candleabra on both sides with large white bows was decorated with a bouquet of carnations, roses and daisies.

The family pews were marked with large bows.

Mrs. Frank Burks was organist. Mr. Sloan gave his daughter in marriage.

She was attired in a traditional white gown designed with lace bodice with a sweetheart neckline, from which leg o'mutton sleeves extended to her wrists. The full skirt ended in a long train. Her short veil fell from a band of flowers and pearls.

Her bouquet was an arrangement of long stemmed yellow roses with baby's breath.

She wore an opal necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Debbie Hirsch, Shiloh, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Cathy McKenzie, Jenni Milano and her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. James Sloan, Jr.

They wore yellow gowns with full skirts and carried a yellow rose with baby's breath.

Each wore an opal necklace, a gift of the bride.

Three friends, Tami Haines, Becky Cuppy and Shannon Weaver, assisted guests at the buffet table.

Karen Gibson was in charge of the guest book.

Julie Von Stein weds at Shiloh

Miss Julie Suzanne Von Stein became the bride of Martin Eugene Henke Oct. 11 in an afternoon ceremony in Mt. Hope Lutheran church, Shiloh.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Von Stein, Shiloh. He is the son of Mrs. Jean Henke and of Eugene Henke, Mansfield.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wayne Niemiemi.

Bouquets of white spider chrysanthemums with white and lavender button chrysanthemums and lavender statice decorated the altar, which was lighted by candleabra on either side.

Mrs. Daniel Humrichouser was organist and Debra Baldrige pianist.

Their selections included "One Hand, One Heart", "Endless Love", "What Wonderful Love Is This", "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring", "Hymns", "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Us", "Through the Eyes of Love", "The Homecoming", and "O Perfect Love".

The processional was "Trumpet Voluntary".

Mr. Von Stein escorted his daughter, who was given in marriage by her parents.

Her white satin gown was styled with a molded bodice, heavily beaded with cording and rebeaded with Alencon lace. The V neckline was scalloped. The long sleeves ended in appliqued sheer cuffs in points. The full skirt and cathedral train were completely encrusted with matching lace and scattered appliques.

A lace covered cap trimmed with appliques supported her appliqued lace waist length veil.

She carried a cascade bouquet of purple carnations, with purple and white daisies and white roses. It was accented with rose statice and baby's breath.

Her sister, Mrs. Sally Petrie, Galion, was matron of honor. Angie Foster, Shiloh, was maid of honor.

Their gowns were a deep amethyst satin made by her grandmother, Mrs. Carl Eckstein, Plymouth. The fitted bodices were fashioned with scoop necklines with bows at the shoulders and a large bow at their waists in the back.

They carried nosegays of the same flowers as the bride.

Marc Henke, twin brother of the bridegroom, Galion, was best man. Patrick Duffner, Mansfield, was the groomsmen. William Gardner Shelby, ushered.

Birdseed bags were given to the guests as they left the church by the bridegroom's niece, Dina Christian, Galion.

A buffet reception in the Knights of Columbus hall, Shelby, was catered by the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Von Stein, Nevada.

The bride's table held a three tiered cake decorated with fresh purple chrysanthemums between the tiers. The cake top was decorated with white satin balls with tiny lavender flowers spilling out.

Debbie Schrader, Plymouth, registered guests.

The couple spent their wedding trip in southern Ohio and is now living in Mansfield.

The bride is a graduate of Plymouth High and North Central Technical college. She is employed by the state auditor's office.

Mr. Henke is a graduate of Ontario High school who attended Pioneer Joint Vocational school. He is employed by Tom Klelein Farms.

The honored guests at the ceremony were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Von Stein and Mrs. Carl Eckstein, and the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Henke.

The new Mrs. Henke was honored at a bridal shower given by Mrs. Petrie, Jill Baldrige and Denise Cobb, and at a small party given by the Misses Foster and Schrader.

Try ginger snaps for gingery days!

By AUNT LIZ

Finally! After all these years, I have come to the conclusion that it is absolutely true that "You can't teach an old dog new tricks" and it is completely false that "You are never too old to learn".

These very serious problems surfaced last week when I decided that if my happy village was going to invest in a computer system, best I learn something about it.

I tried, even went to the library and came out with a large book called "Basic Computers." I was really too afraid to even try to ask some friends who are old hands re such things such questions as would show how really dumb I am.

What really hit home was the fact that our second grade granddaddy is a real whiz on a computer.

Computers really open a whole new world, and I suspect they will be around a long time. It also opens a new vocabulary. Now I know how the Arabs felt when Aramco moved into Saudi Arabia with its oil drills. The poor Saudis quickly realized that their language simply did not stretch into the oil fields and new words were added every day.

Every day we seem to add new words. Some of us can remember when hardly anyone ever heard the word "television", and not so long ago there was no such thing as a "condo".

Maybe life was easier when there were only three important words in the world, like fire, food and water. School certainly must have been a cinch then, and now look at how much we have to know.

Fortunately, a lot of the stuff that isn't worthwhile soon fades away and something bigger and better pops up.

Still some of the good old things are still around, like ginger drop cookies.

Measure three cups of flour, add two teaspoons of baking soda, two teaspoons of cinnamon, one teaspoon of ground cloves and two tablespoons of ginger.

Cream three-fourths of a cup each of butter and regular shortening (the butter is worth it with two cups of sugar until fluffy).

Add two eggs, then one half cup of molasses. Mix well, add the dry stuff and blend it thoroughly.

Cover the bowl and let it age a week or two in the refrigerator. It can even be longer, but don't forget it's there someplace way in the back.

When you are ready to bake them, drop by the teaspoon on an ungreased sheet and bake at 375 degrees for a little over 12 minutes.

If you do not like ginger, bake something else.

Hallowen set

Plymouth Brownie Scouts will conduct a Hallowen party Saturday in Scout house in Mary Fate park from 5 until 7 p.m.

Junior Girl Scouts will also conduct their Hallowen party Saturday. It will include a hayride.

All about town

Dianne Russell, Plymouth High school graduate, now working in Washington D.C., was a dinner guest Sunday of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Eugene Russell, Shiloh. The dinner was in honor of her grandmother, Mrs. Lloyd Klingel, Sr., Sulphur Springs, who will celebrate her 85th anniversary Nov. 2. Other guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Holt, Dublin; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Russell, Plymouth; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sturm and George and Andrew Sturm; North Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Klingel, Jr., Melody, Joseph, and David Klingel, Sulphur Springs. Later afternoon guests to see Miss Russell were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell, Shelby; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith and Rob Smith, Plymouth.

Barnett wins pupil-of-month for October

An 11th grader, Jeffrey Barnett, son of the Len Barnett, 175 West Broadway, is Plymouth High school pupil-of-the-month for October in the program sponsored by the Lions club.

He participates in track and field and basketball and is a member of the student council.

He runs with the cross country team and serves on the staff of "The Havamal", the school yearbook.

Earlier he has been a member of FHA and an honor and merit roll pupil. He was a member of the field teams that set school records in the two mile relay and has competed with the one mile relay team and in the 100-m. high hurdles.

Kensinger, Myers receive awards

Achievement awards were given to members of Busy Fingers 4-H club during its monthly meeting. Stephen Kensinger received the award for his outstanding conservation exhibit. Rana Myers the award for counselor-of-the-week. He also received his nine-year pin.

Other membership pins went to John Myers, eight years; William Long, Lisa Rather and Kathy Myers, six years; Stephen Kensinger, four years; Michelle and Michael Krietevmer, Mindy Long and Kelly Rath, three years, and Scott Krietevmer, one year.

Advisers are Mrs. Thomas Myers and Mrs. David Rath.

By no means a regular feature of The Advertiser, this material appears from time to time in this format because the staff doesn't quite know how else to deal with it.

It hasn't been officially announced, but it's a certainty that a prime commercial building will become vacant shortly, its owner already having been told the tenant plans to leave.

Which makes two outstanding structures, suitable for professional or service businesses, available here. And conveyance of Plymouth Electric, Inc., building to the bank folks may mean a more vigorous effort to obtain a tenant-buyer.

Whether there's any action in the Public Square will, naturally, because the owner has made a firm commitment for a Christmas promotion there (which, it is said, has drawn interest if "about 30" vendors), have to await the passing of the Yuletide season.

AN INNOVATION of the high school administration is the issuance of parking permits for pupil use of the high school parking lot, at 50 cents each. A number of pupil-drivers, displeased with the idea, have taken to parking their cars in the swimming pool lot, where no permit and/or sticker is required. Not so far, anyway.

MRS. FRED J. PORT, who taught scores of children in a generation of service as elementary teacher here (including the two belonging to the publishing family), took off yesterday as the guest of her only son, C. Otis, science editor for 20 years of Business Week, on a tour of Europe and the Middle East. She'll file stories of what she sees and hears, and eats and smells, on her junket, which she promises to illustrate with suitable photography, during her trip.

IT IS FASHIONABLE, in all seasons, to tear down one's own community and say how bad it is. Naysayers, like won't come betters in craps, are the more numerous. Anybody who's shot craps knows that he who bets "on the come" is the fellow who walks away with the money.

To strike a happy medium between justified self-criticism and allowable self-praise, was the main issue addressed by Sinclair Lewis in "Main Street" and in "Habitat". Lewis's conclusion: it can never consistently be done.

There seems to be something about the autumn air that brings this upon us. Perhaps it is the fact that our principal election day comes in the first — rarely the second — week of November. He who asserts, or even entertains the thought, of politics, in this town, at least, is the prime topic of conversation among the populace is a fool, to say the least.

But in other communities? Not so. In one the hot contest for mayor has developed an exchange of harsh words, bitter enmity and even fatalities on two occasions. In another, the issue of how the city council may react to a proposal of the governing board of the local hospital to affiliate with another has the populace stirred up. There is a school board race in which, some highly informed folks say, the "God Squad" — which means a group of candidates who favor censorship of text books and application of a fundamentalist thrust to the management of the schools — "secular humanism" is the target, whether voiced or unvoiced — is said to be working hard to obtain control of the board of education.

In another, visceral attacks between candidates have occurred, but not openly. And in yet another, one candidate says "We are the laughing stock of the county that Plymouth once was."

In this election, at least, and at this season of the year, when perhaps the prospect of a cold, hard winter looms ever more menacingly before us, folks may turn their attention to whether the Cleveland entry in the NFL will reach the Promised Land, whether the stock market will recover, whether Mr. Reagan will nominate a less controversial figure than Judge Bork for the Supreme Court, whether Iran will by terrorist attack seek to retaliate against the United States in places far from the Persian Gulf and other such issues that doubtless come up at the dinner table of, say, 70 per cent of the households in town.

Elliott held on sex charge

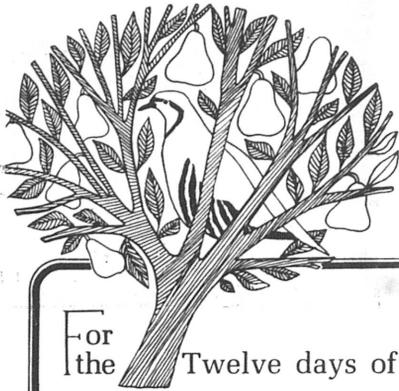

Jack Elliott, 45, Plymouth Villa, was arrested Sunday night by Plymouth police of gross sexual imposition.

The charge stems from a complaint by a 16-year-old girl. He is being held in the Huron county jail under $5,000 cash bond.

Deadline Saturday

Saturday is the last day for absentee ballots in Richland and Huron counties.

Six Boy Scouts attend outing

Six Scouts of Plymouth Troop 411 were among 1,400 Boy Scouts to attend an outing over the weekend at Burn Oak State park in Southern Ohio.

These were J. B. Nett, Aaron Strine, Stephen Kensinger, Jeremy Hale, David Williams and Nathan Buzard.

They were accompanied by Scoutmaster Fred Buzard and Wayne E. Strine.

During the weekend, which was sponsored by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, the boys participated in 18 programs that included gun safety, model rocketry, rappelling and back packing.

Highlight of the programs was a fly-in of the Grady hospital life flight helicopter from Columbus, and the Blackpowder Encampment by the Johnny Appleeed council.

The troop will have its court of honor Monday at 8:30 p.m. in the meeting room of Plymouth Public library.

All Scouts are required to be present. Parents are invited to witness the award and installation ceremony.

Six to race in regionals at Tiffin

Girls' team, Burton qualify at Galion

Six Plymouth High school athletes will compete Saturday in Hedges-Beyer park, Tiffin, in the 1987 Class A regional cross country championships.

These are Wendell Burton, Susan Helms, Jenny Adkins, Jenny Chase, Kathy Welker and Angie Cook.

Burton placed fourth in the boys' district race at Galion Saturday, timed in 17 minutes seven seconds. The winner was Kevin King.

Mohawk, who led his team to the district championship.

Mohawk scored 33, Fremont St. Joseph's 77, New London 87 and St. Mary's Central Catholic 110 to gain the right to advance.

With 139 points and fifth place, Plymouth missed the cut.

So did Western Reserve at 171, Crestline at 179, St. Peter's at 218, Buckeye Central at 232, Seneca East at 243, South Central at 304, Lucas at 330 and Monroeville at 339.

Plymouth placed runners in 23rd, 39th, 37th and 40th positions. These were Brian Carnahan in 18:15, Troy Hass in 18:40, Steve Hawkins in 18:40 and Lynn Colein 18:50.

Derek Kren was 52nd in 19:28 and Robert Smith 68th in 20:42.

Girls placed second among three teams that qualified. St. Mary's Central Catholic was first with 58, Plymouth scored 54. St. Joseph's 85. Carrie Guyer, St. Joseph's, was the winner in 19:56.

Susan Helms led the Big Red, finishing fourth in 20:34.

Jenny Adkins was 14th in 21:43, Jenny Chase 15th in 21:48, Kathy Welker 16th in 22:07 and Angie Cook 23rd in 22:50.

Kathy Farmer placed 39th in 24:58, Micki McQuate 41st in 25:41, Wendy Baker, South Central, who grew up here, placed 12th in 21:30 and will compete in the regionals.

So will Tanya Good, Monroeville, fifth in 20:49, and Monica Roth, St. Paul's, eighth in 21:03.

In addition to the New London team of Tim Sword, Mike Knoll, Richie Hecock, Keith McKenzie and Chris Cowie, Rob Englehardt, Western Reserve, who placed 13th in 17:54, will also compete at Tiffin Saturday.

Hall hits five-for-six, Zips win

Plymouth's greatest athlete, Steve Hall, now wears the uniform of the University of Akron baseball team.

On Saturday he led the Zips to a crushing 18 to 4 win over Cleveland State at Gordon park, Cleveland. As lead off batter, he hit a double and four singles in six at-bats.

He made a sensational sliding catch of a humpback liner in center field and also threw out a runner seeking to advance to third.

The Zips also took out Cuyahoga Community College (West) Saturday and won, 4 to 1, in a rain-shortened game.

Hall walked twice.

The Zips have a formidable 55-game spring schedule set up with only three opponents not in Division I-A.

Mike Bailey is overhauled in Red backfield by Co-Capt. Dave Powers, who would overhauled the Great Pyramid if it played football, and Chuck Deskins. Which isn't to say he doesn't contribute. Not at all.

He plays at flanker and at running back.

No. 97 has to pack it in. Eric Brenznicki fractured a clavicle at Sullivan Friday night and his football services are terminated. The silent type, he came on after the first two contests and showed great zeal as a split end. Now he hopes he'll heal fast enough to play basketball.

Co-Capt. Steve Rothlisberger plays hard enough to warrant more attention than what he's gotten so far. He reminds one of his uncle, Jimmy Caywood, whom he resembles somewhat; scrappy, uncompaining, ready to mix it when mixing it seems called for, pretty good hands and a clear head.

Fastest man on the squad — he's Firelands conference champion in the 200-m. sprint — Ron Stephens is a 12th grader out for his first season of football. A crack pupil academically, he plays split end, often serves as messenger from the bench with plays from the bench. He has good hands that've not so far been used much.

Mike Howell has changed his number to 50, which in newspaper parlance means "the end". His pass receptions, notably at Monroeville, suggest that number is a good one, because he delivered with some good ones. Willing, capable, energetic and eager to please, Howell has a way to go for full development.

Pirates scuttle Red in second half, 34-14

Its running game shut down in the second half at Sullivan Friday night, the Big Red made so many mistakes it was fortunate the score wasn't larger.

The Pirates won, 34 to 14, in a Firelands conference game that relegated Plymouth to the second division.

Plymouth has now won four and lost four. Three of those defeats and three victories have come in conference play.

The Big Red outplayed Black River in the first half but was unable to outscore the Pirates. The first 24 minutes ended, each team had 14 points. Plymouth held the statistical advantage.

recovered at the Red 46 and in seven plays were in the end zone. The touchdown was scored by Matt Swain, who ran the lead 25 yards to the Red 10. Black River stayed entirely on the ground in this push. The rush for PATs did not succeed.

Plymouth took the kickoff and marched to its second score in 14 plays. The drive covered 64 yards. Powers bucked home for the last three.

Schneider was again accurate. The Pirates wasted no time. They took the kickoff and drove 76 yards in nine plays to score their second touchdown.

plays for the final score.

It came at 3:13, when Clifford rolled out and over the end stripe from three yards out.

Burrows' run for PATs was stopped.

But the damage was done.

It was not again more clear than during the next series. On second down, Koose was intercepted again, this time by Charles Clark, and Plymouth's goose was not only cooked but already carved.

Two tripping infractions befell the Big Red.

Co-Capt. Greg Burks was felled by an injury to his left arm and had to be helped from the field.

Eric Brenznicki was thought to have a broken clavicle and was taken to Fisher-Titus Memorial hospital in Norwalk for treatment.

Plymouth simply was not competitive after the second half began. The Pirates started weakly, but in this game, what counts is not how you start but how you finish.

Statistical advantages are like paper profits: you can't take them to the bank.

Plymouth drew first blood.

With 7:48 on the first period clock, Chuck Deskins, still hobbling a bit on a sore ankle, burst into the end zone after a 15-yard dash around his right end. It climaxed a drive that started at the Red 32. Plymouth required just nine plays.

A 14-yard pass completion to Ron Stephens on third down kept the drive going early on. A 24-yard burst over left tackle by Co-Capt. Dave Powers, who was to carry the ball 21 times for 89 yards during the contest, gave Plymouth first down at the Pirate 30, and he and Deskins collaborated in getting the ball into the 15 before Deskins capped the heroics.

Bernad Schneider booted the PAT and the Big Red went on defense for the first time.

The Pirates couldn't move off a down and a punt to the Plymouth 20. After a first down, on third down Powers fumbled, the Pirates

When he ran the PATs it was tied. The clock read 2:35.

Plymouth's second game was so weak during the second half that it produced a minus one yard. Its passing attack, consisting of 13 passes, of which six connected for 69 yards, resulted in three interceptions.

One of them resulted in a 61-yard runback to the end zone by Jim Addington. He nailed Chuck Koose's throw at his 39 and sped through the disorganized Red defense to score the go ahead touchdown.

The place kick for PAT failed.

Plymouth had a chance and the Big Red players showed some signs of hope. What it needed to do was score a touchdown and let the redoubtable Schneider do his thing.

It took the kickoff and moved through the air — its ground game was as worthless — as a vote for Judge Bork — to the Pirate 33, where Koose was intercepted once more, this time by Swain.

Black River needed only six plays to cover the 58 yards. A 28-yard contribution by Clifford gave the Pirates first down at the Red nine. From here Black River was home in two plays. Burrows resumed in from the three. He ran the PATs and it was all over.

Plymouth could not gain more than four yards in the next series after the kickoff and punt.

Tickets shows signs of becoming a very adequate performer in this role.

Red 18th by computer

Monroeville retained its place as No. 1 in Region 18, Division V, after eight weeks of computer ratings by the OHSAA.

The Eagles lead Seneca East by three points.

Mapleton is tied for 18th with Springfield at Bergholz. South Central and St. Paul's are tied for 32nd and dead last with no points.

Among Division IV teams, Western Reserve is 13th in Region 14, Plymouth is tied with Lorain Central Catholic in 18th place, New London is 20th, Crestview 25th.

Black River is 23rd in Region 13.

'Colleen' runs fifth at Northfield

A fifth place finish among nine competitors in the fasted $4,500 open race at Northfield Park Friday night was the best Scroggie Colleen could do.

The aged mare belonging to Lyell and Robert Hamman, Noble road, Shiloh, was fourth at the half, seventh at the three quarters pole and came on in the stretch, a length and a half and two seconds behind the winner, Jet Set Abbe, timed in 2:01 2/5.

45 pints given during visit of Bloodmobile

Fifty persons offered to donate blood Oct. 19 during the American Red Cross bloodmobile visit to Plymouth High school.

Of that number, 45 pints were collected.

Bonnie Hunter, Greenwich, was a five gallon donor with this visit. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bauer, Shiloh, and E. Duane Baker, Plymouth, reached three gallons.

Other Plymouthites were Terry Jump, two gallons, and Mrs. Larry Classen and Mrs. William Whitington, one gallon each.

Joseph Woodmansee, Shelby, was also a one gallon donor.

Next visit locally will be Nov. 24 at the Willard Junior High school from noon until 6 p.m.

Local couple seeks to marry

License to marry is sought in Richland county probate court by Kerry Lee Whittington and Kelly Jean Snow, both of Plymouth.

Annual test by Legion set Tuesday

All high school pupils in grades 10, 11 and 12 may participate in the 52nd and 42nd Americanism government test program.

The 50-question test available to all 10, 11 and 12 grade students contains questions on the bicentennial of the U. S. Constitution, the Northwest Ordinance, U. S. flag etiquette, as well as federal, state and county governments. A 300-word essay on the Northwest Ordinance and Constitution will be used as a tie-breaker throughout the stages of the competition. It will be given here Nov. 3.

Eighteen pupils who survive the competition at the local county, district levels will compete for an expense paid trip to Washington, D. C., historic places in Pennsylvania and Virginia scheduled for March, 1988.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the American Legion, John E. Hedeon at 687-3435 or Douglas Dixon at 687-1435.

Deadline set to get space for crafts sale

Persons wishing to take part in Plymouth's Christmas market on the four weekends before Christmas are reminded to make their reservations for space by Nov. 11.

They may be made to Mrs. James McClure at 687-1291 after 5 p.m. or to Mrs. Timothy Moore at 687-1291 after 4 p.m. Ronnie Akers is also taking reservations from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. at 687-9665.

Mrs. McClure reports so far there are "about 30 interested exhibitors."

The market will be conducted in the former McIntire building in the Square, which is being donated for the holidays by Mayor Keith A. Hebble and Mrs. Hebble.

Crafts and foodstuffs are welcome. There is no charge for the space.

Methodists set annual supper on Tuesday

Annual election night supper will be served Tuesday in Plymouth United Methodist church from 5 to 7 p.m.

Price for adults is $4.50, for children $2.50.

Menu includes Swiss steak or ham with baked or sweet potato, salad, pie or cake, coffee, tea or punch.

Divorce given to Mrs. Janzen

Tracie L. Janzen, 20 Mill street, has obtained in Richland county domestic relations court a decree of divorce from her husband, John D. Janzen, Happy Hollow Trailer court, a journal entry shows.

Shiloh's kin, Mrs. Cress, 37, dies in Indiana

Sister of Mrs. Will Hudson, Shiloh, Mrs. Steven Cress, 37, Muncie, Ind., died there of a lengthy illness Oct. 20.

Born Judith Gettins on Aug. 22, 1950, she was graduated by Ontario High school in 1968. She moved to Muncie in 1973 and became secretary to the women's athletic department director of Ball State university. She was a member of the Delaware Homemakers' association and of the Ball State Bowling league.

She is also survived by her husband, two sons, Scott and Todd, and two brothers, Robert Gettins, Miami, Fla., and Patrick Gettins, Mansfield.

Services were conducted Friday at 1 p.m. in Muncie. Interment was in Tomlinson cemetery near Muncie.

Wildcats favored over crippled Red here tomorrow

The Black and Red has size, speed and experience to burn.

So why haven't the Wildcats won more games?

"They lack consistency," says one scout. "Joe Studer is a good coach and he's worked hard with that team but one day it's up and the next day it's down. They've got some good personnel and they play hard for the coach. Don't ask me why they haven't done better, I'm just thankful they didn't kill us."

New London has Keith Shepherd, the celebrated all-star star, who plays a tough end. How tough? Two hundred and thirty-two pounds tough. He can catch the ball and has an excellent passer, perhaps the best in the Firelands conference, in David Ash, a mere slip of a lad at 200 pounds, the quarterback of the Black and Red.

Mike Abhall, who together with Ash set a school record against Plymouth at home last season — Ash completed eight of 11 throws for 313 yards and two touchdowns, Abhall had two touchdowns and 273 yards in receptions — and plays split end, is back.

Jasen Kruki, not very big at 145 pounds but a stout runner, is the main ball-carrier threat of the team.

visitors, who will also use Mike Hess at fullback and Bobby Wilson at tailback.

There are enough experienced forwards to scare the daylight out of anybody.

These include Bill McClenahan, a big tackle; Robby Hall, an even bigger tackle; Bill Radcliffe, Mark Cawfaw, Chuck Collins and John Stevens, seasoned guards; Dwight Booth and Rick Cole, 12th graders who share the center duties, and Mike Wybeninger, a quick and able running back.

Plymouth hasn't had much luck against New London in a rivalry that goes back to the Big Red's first season of 11-player football. Signs are, what with injuries to Co-Capt. Greg Burka and to Eric Breznicki, who's out for the season with a fracture, the Big Red may be hard put to deal with the Wildcat offense, particularly through the air. Plymouth's pass defense has not been so strong this season.

If the Big Red hopes to make a season of it, victories in tomorrow's game and against Mapleton a week later are essential. Neither team is a pushover, by any means. Plymouth will have to play up to its maximum capabilities to win the maximum.

The Voice of The Advertiser —

What we deserve?

here, and none for board of education, chose to personally complete questionnaires submitted by this newspaper in an effort to present to voters an exposition of their points of view so that the wisest choices can be made on Tuesday is significant.

It does not speak well for the candidates. Nor does it speak so well for the newspaper, which with absolute altruism sought honest answers to what it perceives to be honest questions.

Right or wrong, that's how our system works. Quibble with it as you will: it still beats the hell out of whatever's second best!

Vote yes on health levies!

Two health levies face voters in Richland county.

One is a renewal, albeit a permanent one, calling for a tax of 3.5 mills to produce $4 million annually to operate the Newhope program for the mentally retarded.

The beneficiaries of the funds didn't ask to be put in that condition and almost none of them got that way by his own misconduct. Vote for the Newhope levy.

The other calls for 9/10 of a mill to produce about $900,000 annually, to run for 10 years, the request encompasses a 3/10-mill tax that expired in December and the inexorable effect of inflation. Nobody, absolutely nobody — and we've tried hard to find someone, has advanced any sensible argument why the levy shouldn't be approved.
