Ave atque vale

That 88 of our young people will, God and the grade cards willing, receive their diplomas tomorrow is and ought to be proper cause for gladness in the minds and hearts of all of us.

They have achieved, and it is in our national psyche, our tradition, that we honor achievement.

But for every exhilaration there must be a deceleration, every up has its down.

It is proper for us all to reflect that commencing tomorrow, we are exporting our finest product, our young people, those we have trained to respect our values and to support our style of life.

He who breeds cattle expects to sell the very best and to butcher the rest.

Is this what we are doing with our best product? Are we shipping the best away and retaining the less capable?

At dinner the other night, two who are in charge of hiring and firing and two of the biggest operations within 10 miles of here said this: "Beginning in July, we won't hire anybody unless he has at least two years of post-high school training."

Are we getting this across to these who seek the diploma? Do those who plan to be graduated next year realize the grim facts?

The solution is simple: make jobs for these young people here at home, jobs that offer a future, that develop the mind, that make a workman feel worthy of his hire, that draw our young people back home after they have acquired a degree.

How to do that is another matter. It's obvious we are not addressing the problem suitably.

Village denies liability

Solicitor files brief disclaiming charges of Lynch brothers of harassment

Denial of any liability in a suit for damages laid by David Lynch, Scott Lynch, Carroll Lynch and Marcella Arthur, 220 Plymouth street, against the village and five police officers, past and present, has been filed with the U. S. District court, western division, northwest district of Ohio, by the village solicitor.

In the suit, laid on Mar. 9, by attorneys for the plaintiffs, Thornton, Thornton & Harwood, Willard, damages are sought from the village and its former and present police officers, William N. Spognardi, Mansfield, then police chief; Phillip Beverly, 59 Plymouth street, then an auxiliary officer; Jeffrey Brown, Richard Garna, H. D'Avanzo and Michael Metcalfe.

David Lynch seeks compensatory damages of $20,000 and punitive damages of $100,000.

His brother, Scott, asks for compensatory damages of $15,000 and punitive damages of $100,000. Carroll Lynch, mother of David and Scott, and her mother, Mrs. Arthur, demand $5,000 in compensatory and $10,000 in punitive and $30,000 compensatory and $100,000 in punitive damages, respectively.

They allege thus: That since October, 1984, defendants have arbitrarily and unreasonably interfered with, invaded the privacy of, entered the residence of, and unlawfully deprived the personal freedom of David and Scott Lynch and have falsely and unlawfully arrested them in violation of their constitutional rights;

That defendants conspired to deprive the plaintiffs of their rights;

That on October, 1984, Chief Spognardi ordered plaintiffs David and Scott Lynch to report to the police station without cause and there accused them of "a certain offense";

That on or about Mar. 15, 1985, Metcalf and D'Avanzo unlawfully arrested David Lynch and incarcerated him for several hours;

That defendants, or some of them, often drive past the home of the plaintiffs, have looked into the windows, and have for extended periods parked on premises adjacent to those of the plaintiffs and subjected them and their premises to unreasonable surveillance.

That in June, 1985, Beverly circulated or tried to circulate a petition relating to David Lynch and urged residents to sign it;

That in the summer of 1985, Spognardi threatened David Lynch with an arrest warrant unless he came to the police headquarters for interrogation;

That in July, 1985, Spognardi went to David Lynch's place of employment, without the limits of the village, ordered Lynch into the police car and took him to the police station, where he interrogated Lynch about a theft that had occurred earlier, threatened to "take the case to Norwalk" if Lynch did not comply, fingerprinted him and photographed him, forced him to write a statement relating to his whereabouts at the time the theft occurred, and forced Lynch to go to his home and hand over to Spognardi a jersey belonging to Lynch;

That as a result of David Lynch's absence from work in these instances, he lost his job;

That despite numerous requests, Spognardi did not return the jersey to David Lynch;

That on one occasion Spognardi threatened bodily harm upon David Lynch;

That since October, 1984, Spognardi required the brothers to appear often at the station for interrogation;

That in January, 1986, photographs of David Lynch were sent to Ashland county sheriff's department in an effort to cast suspicion upon him, with the result that deputies there interrogated him;

That in December, 1985, Beverly and Brown went to the Lynch home in the police car with siren and flashing lights, armed but not in uniform, forced themselves inside and demanded to know the whereabouts of the brothers, giving as the reason that only shortly before a window was broken in Beverly's house;

That in January, 1986, after a threat to take the plaintiffs to a juvenile home, some defendants coerced Scott Lynch to go to the police station and be interrogated about an alleged theft, detaining him unlawfully for about two hours;

That these acts were willful and in knowing and gross disregard of the Lynchs' constitutional rights, which acts have caused loss of income to David Lynch and humiliation to all plaintiffs, and specifically a nervous condition of Mrs. Arthur.

A trial by jury is demanded. In his brief filed with the court of Judge John W. Potter, the village solicitor argues: That D'Avanzo is now resident in Florida;

That allegations in two of the paragraphs of the complaint are true, the others are not.

That the complaint fails to recite a claim upon which relief to be granted is sought.

That defendant at all times acted reasonably and with probable cause.

That defendant has an immunity in the claim set for by the plaintiffs.

That defendant is not answerable in punitive damages;

That the complaint was not laid in timely fashion and are therefore barred by the statute of limitations.

That the complaint fails to establish or prove the jurisdiction of the federal court in the matter, and is therefore frivolous and vexatious.

He demands that defendant's attorney fees and costs be reimbursed by the plaintiffs.

Mason here, A. J. Kessler dies

Father of Mrs. Budd Young, Tiro, for many years prominent in Eastern Star circles here, and a member of Richland Lodge 210, F&AM, here, Aemele John Kessler, 87, Tiro, died here in Acres Nursing home, Willard, Sunday evening of a lengthy illness.

In return to pulpit - '67 alumnus takes Mansfield pastorate

A 1967 alumnus of Plymouth High school, action of a prominent Plymouth family, is the new minister of First Congregational church, Mansfield.

He is David Roger Root, youngest son of the J. James Roots and grandson of the late John Andrew Roots.

For the past eight years he has been associate director of the Mansfield YMCA, a post he left on May 29.

He commences his new assignment on June 14.

He is a 1971 alumnus of Witten-

Shiloh boys arrested at Ontario

Two 16-year-old Shiloh youths were among 10 young persons arrested Sunday night in a police crackdown on drinking outside Nitemoves, an amusement center near Richland Mall in Ontario.

They were charged with possession of an open container in a public street.

With pride...

For the 35th consecutive year, The Advertiser presents its salute to the graduating class of Plymouth High school, proud of each of them, and no less proud than to be doing business in a community that thinks enough of its young people to send them off in such splendid fashion.

Mrs. Leddick, 84, dies in hospital; long villager

For three generations a child care specialist in Plymouth, Miss Blanch G. Leddick, 84, a resident of Hillside Acres Nursing home, Willard, died Monday in Area hospital there.

Born in Crawford county July 27, 1902, she was the daughter of Frank M. and Melissa May Cain Leddick.

For many years she was nursemaid and housekeeper for the Peyton W. Thomases and helped to raise their children, P. Siddall, now in Shelby, and Mary Ellen, now Mrs. Daniel M. Henry, Plymouth.

She worked for several years for the A. L. Paddocks, Jr., as nursemaid.

Only cousins survive. These include the William Hangers, Mansfield, and the Wayne Hartszes, Shelby.

The Rev. Julian Taggart, First United Presbyterian church, will conduct services today at 1 p.m. from Secor Funeral home. Interment will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

Cub Scout wins highest award

Highest award in Cub Scouting was presented Apr. 26 to David Krietemeyer.

Fred J. Buzard, Webelos leader, handed him the Arrow of Light in a ceremony in which Boy Scouts and their Scoutmaster, Larry Classen, welcomed into Troop 411. The boy is the son of the Kenneth Sturgilla, 33 West High street.

Busy Fingers 4-H club plans to visit the Ohio Agricultural station at Wooster next week.

It will also visit Geauga Lake later in the summer.

On May 27 David Krietemeyer talked on 10 rules for safety when using power tools. Scott Krietemeyer showed how to use 10 basic tools. Michelle Krietemeyer showed how to make a quick, nutritional meal. Kathy Myers talked on how to protect children from poison.

A bench was bought for use at the county fair. The club's name is painted on it.

Lisa Rath gave a safety talk at Ohio State university.

Members should carry a sack lunch for the Wooster visit. Michelle Krietemeyer and Kelly Rath will give safety talks. Michelle, Michael, David and Steven Krietemeyer will give demonstrations.

A son was born May 30 in Willard Area hospital to the Verin SEXTONS, Plymouth.

A son was born Friday in Mansfield General hospital to Jamey R. Branham, Springmill road.

For 102 years the McIntire family was proud to serve the pupils of Plymouth High school, to rejoice in their successes and to wish them well.

Our aim was to promote the concept of service, of giving full value for value received, of standing behind our merchandise.

That's what life is all about. And if, over 102 years, we have contributed just one whicker of that concept to the graduates of Plymouth, we are grateful.

Hall MVP again

Red star, Robinson win all-FC posts

For the second consecutive year, Steve Hall is the MVP of the Firelands conference, an honor no other player in the league's history has achieved.

He was a unanimous choice. Hall was chosen first team pitcher. So was Dave Ash, New London.

Allen Beekman, South Central, is the all-conference catcher. Brian Erick, Western Reserve, won the first base selection.

Jason Robinson, Plymouth, is the all-league keystone guardian. Chris Phaffia, Monroeville, was selected as shortstop.

Greg Channel of Black River is the outstanding third baseman.

The outfield is comprised of Kerry Hart, Crestview; Dwight Booth, New London; Greg Bleila, St. Paul's and Kevin Hickey, Mapleton.

Jim King, who led Crestview to a share of the league title, is coach-of-the-year.

Second team choices: Mike Stormer, Crestview, and Mike Savina, Western Reserve, pitchers; Mike Lindenberg, Monroeville, catcher; first base; Larry Graevenhorst, Monroeville; Jeff Hales, Monroeville, second base; Todd Berry, St. Paul's, shortstop; Brian Voigt, Western Reserve, third base.

Dave Powell, South Central; Jeff Maalenka, Black River; Todd Wise, New London, and Joel Denger, Black River, outfield.

Honorable mention selections: Lance Combs, Plymouth, and Jim Addington, Black River, shortstops.

Wes Polinski, St. Paul's, third base;

Andy Lewis, South Central; Jeff Staggs, Plymouth; Rob Wilkerson, New London, and Bryan Missig, Monroeville, outfield.

Six win big trip to state

The reward of persistence is recognition.

And nobody can attest to that this week more than Shawn Branham, who will compete for the state championship in the Class A pole vault at Columbus this weekend.

He cleared 12 feet at Brooklyn Thursday to win a place in the finals at Columbus.

This vault was enough to win a tie for fourth place. So the field will be increased by at least two competitors.

Ron Stephens won a trip to Columbus also. He placed fourth in the 200-meter sprint with a finish in 23.65 secs., only 79/100 of a second off the winner.

Jenny Adkins chased Molly Woodruff of South Central and two others in the 800-meter run for girls. Her time was 2 mins. 26.54 secs. Miss Woodruff finished in 2 mins. 19.72 secs.

Plymouth's 3,200-meter relay team finished third with a timing of 10 mins. 2.7 secs. Miss Adkins, Susan Helms, Kathy Welker and Jenny Chase comprise the quartet.

Plymouth boys scored eight in the team competition, won by New London with 40.

Big Red girls racked up 10. Kirtland was the winner at 58.

Red sets records, led by Steve Hall, in seven categories

Thursday was record-setting day for Plymouth's baseball club. By defeating South Central, 3 to 1, it:

—won a share, with New London and Crestview, of the Firelands conference championship with a record of 11-and-5

—won its 17th game of the season, breaking its own record of 16 set the night before

—played an athlete, Steve Hall, who became the first Big Red competitor to have competed with a conference champion in each of the three major sports

—Hall by fanning 18 batsmen brought his season's total to 127 in 57 innings, a record

—By winning his sixth straight without defeat — he had two no decision games — Hall set a Big Red record for pitchers

—By clouting a triple in two times at bat, Hall raised his average to .461, a record

—By allowing no earned runs, Hall reduced his earned run average to .74

—said formal goodbyes to Bill Lewis, who has resigned as athletic director and head football and baseball coach at South Central to go to Granville as head football coach and health instructor; his wife is likely to be an English and U. S. history teacher there

Hall had recorded six strikeouts and issued one pass before Plymouth pushed its first run across in the second.

With one down, Charley Beverly walked. He was forced at second when Mike Bailey bunted. Bailey stole second. With two out, Errin Echelberry doubled to right-center, scoring Bailey. When Terry Snipes was walked, Echelberry sought to steal third and was thrown out.

In the third, with two gone, Hall tripled against the fence in right-center. He scored on Jeff Staggs's single, one of his two hits.

In the third, against with two down, Jeff Bloomfield, Echelberry's replacement at first base, walked. He went to third when Jason Robinson's smash to third was mishandled. Al Beekman sought to trap Robinson off first and threw wildly into right field, scoring Bloomfield and sending Robinson to third, where he died after Lance Combs walked.

Beekman doubled, his second hit, to lead off the seventh. Hall wildpitched him to third and thence to the plate.

Hall smacks two homers, Haymond one-hits Mapleton

Steve Hall clouted two three-run homers, his ninth and 10th of the season, to support Tony Haymond's one hit pitching and Plymouth prevailed over Mapleton here May 28.

The score was 8 to 1. It was Haymond's third victory. He has lost three.

Mapleton's only score came in the sixth, the final inning. A pregame agreement limited the time for Mapleton to participate. It was unearned without a hit.

In the first, Lance Combs doubled, went to third on a wild pitch, and scored ahead of Todd Wilson, who walked, when Hall homered.

In the second, Errin Echelberry walked and stole second. Wilson walked and Hall clouted a mad stonks shot stop the school. Jeff Staga singled, went to second on a wild pitch and came home on Terry Hall's single.

In the fourth, Hall walked, stole second, went to third on a sacrifice and scored when the catcher, in returning a pitch, threw it over the hurler's head.

Hall and Jeff Bloomfield, the designated hitter, had two hits.

Plymouth got eight all told. Hall's season record at bat: 10 homers in 22 games

Four head coach vacancies remain in conference

By THE OLD TIMER

Coaching vacancies in the Fremont conference now number four: two head jobs in football, one in basketball and one in baseball.

Bob Lippert, a non-teacher who conducted the successful St. Paul's program for six years, turned in his resignation after the Flyer's last game. He said he thinks it's time to make some changes in his life.

The football vacancies are at Crestview and South Central. Steve Gilbert, the greatly successful Cougar mentor, resigned to accept the reins at Mansfield's first and oldest high school.

Bill Lewis, the only coach at South Central to show winning seasons, fell into disfavor with some sidwalk quarterbacks and alumni-parents, who petitioned the school board.

No fool, the affable Lewis wasn't about to eat crow.

He knew he could stay on as teacher at South Central, whether he coached football, tiddlywinks or no sport at all. His wife has been a teacher, also with tenure in the high school in Greenwich.

So while the board of education was studying how to reduce its losses, Lewis beat it to the punch.

He landed the head job at Granville in a superior school system peopled by the children of high achievers and professionals. Denison university dominates Granville, a small community east of Newark.

Mrs. Lewis is all but certain to join her husband, who will teach health, on the Granville staff. The Lewises have one son, now a ninth grader, to be educated. His older brother is a successful cadet in the military academy at West Point.

There are a number of Huron countians who marvel at Lewis's luck: to move to a superior community with high intellectual standards when one's child is at the critical age for wholesome development academically and socially is a marvelous coup.

Bill Lewis is good people. He deserves what he gets.

The other head coaching vacancy is at Plymouth, where Dave Dunn, certainly the most successful coach in Big Red history, has finally turned in his whistle, clearly the winner over some jock-minded school managers who tried, and for a time succeeded, to dump him.

His first deputy, David Hirschy, seeks to be promoted. He has been promised his application will survive to the final elimination, in which no more than three of about 22 applicants are competitors.

A problem is this situation: there is, as yet, no vacancy in high school subjects in which to place a coach; the board is loath to assign a teacher who works the school day at Shiloh to coach the high school team because there is about a one-hour overlap of time on task. Teachers in the high school are free at 2:30 p.m., but at Shiloh at 3:30 p.m.

The board is equally loath to assign a non-teacher to the post. Its experience with such coaches has had mixed success, resulting in some cases in embarrassing events, and it wisely wishes to avoid such a possibility.

Five-year-olds invited, but what to serve them?

By AUNT LIZ

There is nothing like a couple of five-year-olds to sweep you right off your feet.

I've known for a long time that kids are alot smarter than they get credit for, and this tale proves it.

It seems that we are going to have a dinner party to end all dinners.

Actually, they are not really invited yet, but they are planning on it.

Our young neighborhood friends simply announced that they wanted to come to our house for dinner, so what could I do?

In between bites of ice cream and strawberries, we started planning the menu.

The very first thing they wanted was corn on the cok. One said she could eat four, the others settled for one.

After that, it was a blank. So I suggested wieners, which I thought all kids adored. One would consider them, the other flatly said no.

Then came hamburgers. No way, and my first thought was that McDonald's has lost some good customers.

Finally, I suggested lasagna. With a purpose. It is easier for kids to eat rather than ordinary spaghetti, and I can make enough for several meals for us.

They were more than agreeable. Then came the surprise to me anyway. Both together said, "We need something green". It was then I realized that the food groups are very much observed in their home.

Then I said "What shade of green?" Both, together again, said, "Peas".

This is going to be a real feast, all the things I like too and at one meal.

The one thing I am going to throw in somehow will be roasted marshmallows and fudge sundae.

Once before we entertained some little ones and I had thought we had everything they liked. Afterwards I was informed very nicely, it would have been better if there had been marshmallows.

It's only polite to give your guests what you know they like and to stay away from the stuff they don't, if you know what it is.

At times, some of our friends can be too frank, but I like it. Once someone gave us some venison which I considered a great luxury, so I carefully chose who to invite and told them why. One guy came and told them why. One guy came right out and said he didn't like it, so I said he could stay home and come when we had some left over stew.

But you can always take a chance on something a little different. This rhubarb crunch looks good and tastes good.

For about six, you should have a pound and a half of rhubarb cut into inch long pieces.

In a bowl mix it with three tablespoons of sugar.

In another bowl mix a cup of quick oats, a cup of brown sugar, the darker is best, and a fourth of a cup of cornstarch. Mix it and cut in a half cup of margarine until it forms crumbs. Then add a half cup of chopped walnut.

Spread the rhubarb over the bottom of a greased baking dish, and spread the crumb mixture over it.

Bake at 400 degrees until the rhubarb is tender, and try to serve it warm with whipped cream.

From California to Montana — Kin of villager frees balloon: 955 mi.

The granddaughter of a local couple who is a Daisy Scout, youngest kind of Girl Scout, in Brea, Cal., has set a local record that she invites anyone, whether child or adult, Scout or non-Scout, to exceed.

On Mar. 12 at 4 p.m. PDST, Cameron S. Hetrick, grandchild of the A. L. Paddocks, Jr., released a balloon filled with helium in honor of the 75th anniversary of Girl Scouting, founded by Juliette Lowe in 1912.

Twenty-four hours later, near Hammond, Mont., in U. S. Route 212, roughly 955 air miles away, the balloon was recovered.

The Dennis Lannings live high on a hill on the ranch outside the town, which nestles in the extreme southeast corner of the state, barely an hour's ride from Wyoming, South Dakota and North Dakota. They found the shredded balloon and sent it, together with a cheerful letter, to the child.

Her first act? Why, to call the newspaper. What newspaper? The Los Angeles Times, or the Orange County Register at Santa Ana?

"No," she said, with some effort, because she's lost her two front teeth, "I don't know any people there and they don't know me. I'm going to call a newspaperman who knows me fine and I know him fine."

So call she did. And she started out, "Guess whose balloon went clear to Montana?"

Pastor remarks on how fragile life here is

Sir: I read with great interest your editorial comments about the late Carl Ellis. I was fortunate enough to be his pastor for the last 2 1/2 years. He spent most of that time in Quality Care Nursing home or in a hospital. At his funeral service I talked about the fact that he had taught me a great deal about the quality of humility in a person's character, and for that I am ever indebted. By your own comments, Carl was obviously a pillar in Plymouth for many years.

Being new to the community for such a short time, I am not aware of all the services he rendered it. We did talk of his past experiences and he loved his community and his church. Carl painstakingly served them both very well.

One thing has troubled me very deeply, however, for such a pillar in the community I served as one of the pallbearers at Carl's service. It was an honor for me and I am grateful for he meant a great deal to me. But it was also a necessity because so few people came to pay their regards to one whom appears to have done so much.

I keep asking myself, IS THIS HOW WE SAY THANKS FOR A JOB WELL DONE?

Respectfully,
A. Preston Van Deusen

McQuates set 50th anniversary

To celebrate their 50th anniversary, the R. Earl McQuates, 2170 store, that was part of the business privately with their family Tuesday.

They were married June 9, 1937, in St. Christopher's-by-the-River in Gates Mills by the rector, J. Keney McDowell. She is the former Janice Marie Brumbach.

The McQuates have a son, Douglas E., a retired Marine non-commissioned officer who is a security officer in the Huron county jail; a grandson, Michael, and a granddaughter, Michelle. The Douglas McQuates—she is an Australian by birth—live at 91 North street.

A son, Jack E., died in Muncie, Ind., earlier.

R. (for Robert) Earl McQuate is a Shiloh boy who was graduated from his high school. He then went on to attend the Cleveland College of Embalming.

After their marriage, they returned to Shiloh to live and assisted his father, Ivan, in the McQuate Funeral Home there.

On Mar. 1, 1940, they moved to Plymouth, where he was associated with Mrs. Charles Miller, who had inherited the local funeral home from her husband. In 1944, he bought her interest, and the name was changed from the Miller-McQuate Funeral home to the McQuate Funeral home. He also was the owner of a furniture store, that was part of the business privately with their family Tuesday.

A few years later, because of changing funeral practices that took the services out of private in homes and churches, he purchased the property at 35 Railroad street from Mrs. Agnes McFadden, a school teacher. It was then remodelled into the present funeral home with living quarters for them.

Along with the running of the two businesses, he also operated an ambulance service for this area. When very compelling regulations came into being, he gave it up in December, 1971, and it was then that the village council formed a village service.

In August, 1973, he sold the funeral home to Thomas Secor, Willard, but continued his association with it for another five years. It was when he sold the furniture store to Duane Keene, that he formally retired.

Over the years, both the McQuates have been active in the activities of their church, the First United Methodist, and in community affairs. Mrs. McQuate has served several terms as secretary of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce. He received the chamber's Carl M. Lofland award in 1964 for outstanding service to the community.

Portrait of the Great American Investor

She's never in one place for long. Wherever the story takes her, she'll go. She invests her time in her work and her money in U.S. Savings Bonds.
People everywhere are discovering that Bonds have changed. When held five years or more, Bonds pay competitive rates, like money market accounts.
They're also free from state and local income tax.

Here are the advantages of owning an inflation-proof pre-need plan

1. You arrange exactly the type of inflation-proof funeral service that you desire.
2. You do not pay on this plan forever, it becomes paid up... unlike ordinary burial insurance.
3. You never lose what has been paid in.
4. You can purchase this inflation-proof funeral plan regardless of age or physical condition... unlike ordinary burial insurance.
5. You can transfer this inflation-proof funeral plan to any member of your family... unlike ordinary burial insurance.
6. Surviving members of your family won't need to make major decisions on the type and price of funeral service that you would have desired.
7. The price of your selected service is frozen for you — at today's price — with only a small down payment.
8. Complete planning now eliminates the possibility of financial worry later.
9. Your personal statistical information can be filed with our funeral home... it will be of prime importance when funeral arrangements are made.
10. We will furnish you an Identification Card showing your name, address and social security number... in case of emergency, this card acknowledges that arrangements have been made with our funeral home.
11. Enables you to leave your insurance and savings for those who remain after you.
12. Your family can do this together — before bereavement — to eliminate emotional overspending — expenses are controlled.
13. Proceeds become immediately available upon death. It does not become a part of your estate funds, subject to administration expenses,
etc.
14. You can call us day or night, collect and we will assume credit liability for the transportation of the deceased person(s) from any place in the United States of America.
15. Pre-Need Arrangement Security Coverage is available if qualified on the unpaid balance of the inflation-proof pre-need funeral plan.
16. We will conduct the service in any cemetery in the area or arrangement for an out-of-town service.
17. This plan will assure you that all of your personal requests or wishes will be carried out in detail.
18. By making decisions in advance which are so difficult later, you bring priceless peace of mind to yourself and to your loved ones.

For your protection

Your inflation-proof plan is protected by State Code.
All Trust Funds deposited in Federally Insured Securities.
