The voice of The Advertiser —

What caused the turnaround?

Some of the explanations of the remarkable turnaround of attitude, and therefore improved production and, indeed, in the first month with only five working days under new ownership, a profit, are self-serving. Some are plain wishful thinking. Others claim to be scientific but are surprisingly without documentation or valid proof.

It is a fact that in a matter of 63 days, up to today, the local industry has done a 180-degree turnaround in its performance. The good news is that a portfolio calling for 23 locomotives worth a bit more than $5 million has been built in a remarkably short time. Some new hires are punching the time clock. Management intends to add to them. The energetic chief executive officer says the company intends to proceed with due deliberation. It will observe the current rules regarding affirmative action in hiring practices but it doesn't plan to hire anybody until it has straightened out some assembly procedures by involving directly those who are doing the assembling. This is a refreshing attitude, one that is quite new hereabouts.

But it is not a new attitude. It has flourished in any number of instances for a long time. The wonder is that previous management did not avail itself of the technique.

"The technique doesn't work when the worker sees no benefit in chasing the carrot," says one expert. "Prior to May 22, there was no percentage in laying a hand to the main rope and pulling one's own weight because the rewards were the same without doing so."

Mr. Capelle makes the point that every dollar of profit shown by the company means a penny in the pocket of each worker. His arithmetic is right out of a fifth grade classroom. There were about 100 workers who "bought in" on the ESOP plan. Divide the profit by 100 and you reach the net gain per worker. If the profit is $1, then each worker has earned one cent.

It wasn't only that the workers' sudden change of attitude derived from the knowledge they are now working for themselves, but it helped. Leadership that had been sterile all at once became virile. The foremen did not change. The movers and shakers among the work force, those who breathed life into the ESOP plan and pushed it to success, are the same fellows they always have been. Those who began to call the shots didn't come down here from Cleveland to do so; they came from the assembly line, from the planning offices in the main building, from the engineering staff in Plant 4. They called the shots out of intimate experience with the manufacturing process, by knowing Charley and John and Cletus and Roy and the others who punch out when the whistle blows. Make that after the whistle blows. Time was, not so long ago, when they lined up at the time clock 15 or 20 minutes before the whistle sounded.

One need not be lettered to be shrewd. He who is shrewd usually puts his finger on the problem a lot quicker than the professional type. We have learned to rely upon shrewd judgments. And so we accept, with considerable delight, this shrewd observation that is neither new nor unwise: A man always works harder for himself than for somebody he can't see.

To which we would add this: He who can change attitudes has the world by the tail. And if his intentions are honorable, he's worth his weight in pure uranium.

Mrs. Haver succumbs at Fostoria

Mother of Dr. Pierre E. Haver, 126 Sandusky street, Mrs. Oliver Haver, 83, Fostoria, died in Good Shepherd Nursing home there Friday of natural causes.

Born Letha Wray at Mark Center on Aug. 19, 1898, she lived in Fostoria since 1926. Her husband died Feb. 22, 1971.

She was a member of Fostoria, United Methodist church and of Fostoria Women's club. She was formerly a member of the American Legion auxiliary there.

A son, Laurence Wray Haver, seven grandchildren and five great-granddaughters also survive.

Services were conducted at Fostoria by her minister the Rev. Laurence Beaver, Monday at 10:30 a.m. Interment was in the family plot in Lost Creek cemetery, Hicksville.

Villager's kin, Mrs. May dies in Kentucky

Sister of Mrs. Inez A. Marshall, 71 Plymouth street, Mrs. Edna May, 74, died June 18 in Salyersville, Ky.

She also survived by her husband, Tone May, two daughters, two sons, 12 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Marshall, her daughter and son-in-law, the Robert Tacketts, her granddaughter and her husband, the Larry Lasers, attended obsequies in Salyersville June 21. Burial ensued there.

New church to be raised by Baptists

Little Rebecca Old Regular Baptist church will raise a new edifice on its property in Henry road south of here at a cost of $140,000.

A building permit in that amount has been issued to the trustees of the church. Construction will start at once.

Treatment of waste EPA aim

Whether an incinerator to serve Huron and Richland counties will materialize seems doubtful at this stage, but Huron county hasn't closed the door.

It awaits the reaction of Richland county commissioners to the proposal.

Meanwhile, Huron county means to go forward with a new landfill because it's the only viable solution. Commissioners and Lawrence Heit, the county engineer see page 4

'Cyclist, 37, held for DWI after crash

A 37-year-old villager was charged with drunken driving Thursday night after he lost control of his motorcycle in Route 603 at Flanktown road east of Shiloh.

Randy Tash, 66 Park avenue, was treated in Mansfield General hospital after his mount missed a curb and slid off the right side of the roadway and struck a ditch. He was outstayed.

One locomotive a week PLI production aim; new hirings likely Production aim at Plymouth Locomotive International, Inc., between now and Dec. 31: one locomotive a week.

Back orders worth slightly over $5 million for 23 locomotives are on file with the company.

Will this mean new hires? If so, how many and what kind?

"We have some fields of our operation that we want to strengthen and we will proceed slowly to do just that," says Paul W. Capelle, chief executive officer of PLI. We will hire a few, with due emphasis upon our affirmative action obligations. Mostly we intend to streamline our production procedures so that we get more efficiency from our assembly people — and these people and the others in the 100 who participated in the buyout are our richest asset, without them we couldn't move an inch, and with them we actually were in the black during May, and we had only five days to do it. And this was after we paid to the Banner company our costs of operation for May. These people down here have taken hold remarkably and they deserve all the credit in the world."

What perquisites will new hires merit? "After seven years they can buy in if stock is available and they will be vested in the retirement program."

The implication is that new hires will be paid less for an hour's work than experienced hands.

As a result of an election by employees, four have been chosen to be "inside directors" to serve with Capelle. These are Larry Bailey, Ervin Howard, John Gullett and John Taylor.

The administrative committee has been instructed to vote the shares held by Huntington bank on the same basis as employees' shares.

The sales force is now short one employee, Capelle said. "We intend to correct that very soon."

Two of the locomotives on order are headed for Italy, he said, in a cash transaction not encumbered by Export-Import bank or other contrived financing. "And there's an order for four more down the road," he added. "So our export business is coming back to us."

Aim of PLI under its new management? "We want to reestablish the reputation for good workmanship that we enjoyed around the world for a long time. These people here can do good work and we mean to show our customers and prospective clients just exactly what good work means."

PLI is making strenuous effort, Capelle said, to encourage vendor suppliers to meet delivery schedules. "If we can get our vendor suppliers to realize that we must pay a penalty if we don't meet a delivery date, and make them understand that we will expect them to pay their share of such forfeitures for failure of delivery, we can make a big step toward improving our image with our customers. For some time, customers were reluctant to place an order here because they didn't know if the business would continue."

Capelle said he thinks the fact that employees bought out the company, showing their faith in their product and the work of their hands, helped to sell locomotives, and lift trucks, in greater and faster volume. "The Plymouth locomotives stands for quality and always has. The Autolift is a top product and stands at the head of its line. The Schreck lift and our ceramic machinery are quality manufactures as well. But they are only as good as the people who make them. We have a good staff and we intend to make it better. We are spending some time seeking the employees' views, trying to put down their experiences with what's been tried before and not worked — there's no sense in doing what won't work, and we are working hard to get across the notion that every dollar we earn is a penny in the pocket of each employee."

He removed his glasses and fixed his steel blue eyes on his interviewer. "Yes, sir, I think you can say that we are going places and I hope you will say that we're not get there, we haven't gotten where we are, without the dedicated hard work of our employees, foremen, workers, everybody in this plant."

USPO sets deliveries tomorrow

Most of Plymouth will enjoy a long holiday weekend to celebrate the Fourth of July, but it will be delivery as usual for post offices tomorrow.

"Many of our customers are counting on Friday mail delivery so we will be providing it just like on any other business day," says Postmaster Mrs. Elwood Kaple.

Window service will be provided on a limited basis, she adds. "Since Saturday is a holiday, we are basically operating on Friday like we would on Saturday," she says. "We will be closing our window lobby at noon because we do not anticipate a demand for service past that time. We're expecting our retail business to be quite slow."

Post office box lobby will remain open for customers to receive mail. She points out that vending equipment is available there to make stamp purchases during the hours the window unit is closed. The last collection for outgoing mail will be at 3 p.m. at the Post Office.

On Saturday post offices will be closed. No stamps will be sold or regular mail delivered in honor of Independence Day. However, express mail deliveries will be made on the holiday.

hauled bid when he does not know what the council desires?"

She said she would go along with the draft if the phrase "and enter into a contract ... conforming with the detailed specifications on file in the office of the administrator" were dropped. It was not.

H. Lee Welker objected to the precipitous action which in effect freezes out public input. He saw no reason to enact the ordinance as an emergency measure.

The ordinance actually passed on its first reading with only Mrs. Paddock voting nay, however, on the suspension of the rules to please see page 4

Tree stump removal $700— Cost of blacktopping in cemetery $3,021.70

Kenneth Echelberry, cemetery section, told trustees of Greenlaw cemetery the cost of blacktopping the driveways amounted to $3,021.70.

The work was completed last week.

He said 11 tree stumps still need to be removed at a cost of $700. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cornell, Lake Worth, Fla., have donated $200 toward the amount.

The trustees approved the sum of $160.16 to be paid to Echelberry for mileage of using his own vehicle for cemetery business. The trustees did not approve his request to display gravestones that he sells privately on cemetery property because it is village owned. However, the request will be referred to village council.

Echelberry suggested the sections of Greenlaw cemetery be marked to make it easier for persons looking for family graves.

He told the trustees that he had visited the cemetery where Woody Hayes, the late Ohio State University football coach, is buried, and that cemetery in Columbus was so marked.

The trustees seem to favor the idea and Echelberry is to check on prices for the signs.

All-stars selected by PML

All-star players in PML have been chosen by their coaches. Sixteen players were selected for the older team, coached by Tom Rook, Richard Gullett and J. Lee Fenner.

These are Mike Kriemeyer and Adam Taylor, Tigers; Brian Lochm, Josh Caudill and Rick Roeder, Indians; Chris Gullett, Ben Elliott and Mark McClure, Yankees; Jason Rook, Foster Dials, Roger Crager, Brett King and Dale Fletcher, Cubs, and Andy Fenner, Brian Handshoe and Jeff Gundrom, Reds.

Among nine and 10-year-olds, these 14 were chosen: Joey Robinson, Ronnie Tash and Matt Buzard, Reds; Chris Sloane, Cubs; Nick Roll, Craig Powers, Gregg Davis, Jim Meador and Bobby Strong, Yankees; John Haas, Brett Hall and Chris Bailey, Indians, and Jason Resendez and David Kriemeyer, Tigers.

Their coaches are Richard Roll and Robert Hall.

Cubs	8	0	1.000
Reds	6	2	.775
Yankees	4	4	.500
Indians	3	5	.375
Tigers	0	8	.000

Ricky Reeder scored Jarod Lydy and John Haas with a single to left, tying the game at eight to force extra innings against the Yankees Thursday night.

In the seventh, Nick Roll was relieved by Ben Elliott, who walked Brian Lochm to load the bases. John Haas then walked on a three-and-two count to force Bryan Hammond home with the game winning run for the Tribe. Indians are now 3-and-5, Yankees 4-and-4.

"That's the best game we've had thus far," says Indian Manager Terry Fenner. "The kids are young, but they are learning and improving."

Reader pitched six innings of seven-hit ball, striking out 10 and walking nine for the Indians. Lochm replaced him in the seventh and struck out two of the three batsmen he faced.

Richard Gullett, manager of the Yankees: "We are playing well, but hitting has been our weakness all year."

In the second game the undefeated Cubs pounded the winless Tigers, 2 to 0, in a four inning game. The Cubs scored eight runs in the fourth and breezed behind the one-hit pitching of Foster Dials, who fanned 10 and walked four. Roger Crager homered to right, a three run shot, in the third inning off Brandon Hall, the Tiger starter.

"We've got the horses," says Manager Tom Rook of the Cubs. "We've got the pitching, unusual in midlevel league play."

Arnie Roberts, Tiger manager, says his team is "young, we're struggling but coming along. The kids want to play."

On June 22, the Reds bombed the Tigers, 31 to 7, in four innings and the Cubs beat the Yankees, 5 to 1.

Out-of-town softballers win in three games

Nancy's Salon softballers took the lead in the second and stormed to a 20 to 15 victory over All Seasons in Major division play June 10.

Chris Ross belted a homer for Nancy's. She had four RBI's and went three-for-three.

Raina Barber and Tina Hayes, who struck a double, were two-for-three with two RBI's apiece.

Leann Hesson pitched two frames, Miss Ross four. Together they fanned two and walked 13.

PLI built an early lead and improved on it with 11 in the sixth on June 12 to collar Nancy's, 32 to 20.

Amy Beverly collected a triple and two doubles for PLI. Sherry Hixon went two-for-three. She relieved Miss Beverly on the mound and walked five after Miss Beverly had struck out two and passed nine in five frames.

Colonel Crawford Eaglettes walloped Nancy's, 30 to 15, on June 13.

Raina Barber was four-for-four and Leann Hudson homered. Miss Barber struck a triple, Miss Hudson, Audrey Archer and Chris Ross double.

Miss Lisa Ann Baldrige became the bride of Lieut. Rick William Taylor June 6 in an afternoon ceremony in Rainbow Valley chapel.
She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Baldrige. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Taylor, Fort Wayne, Ind.
The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Daniel Humrichouser, against a background of flowering trees and candleabra that were decorated with pink chrysanthemum and blue roses. The altar vase held bouquets of pink and blue flowers.
Mrs. Humrichouser was the organist. Lynn Snider was the pianist. Rebecca Ervin flautist and Deborah Baldrige soloist.
Mr. and Mrs. Baldrige gave their daughter in marriage. She wore a lighter sapphire gown made by her grandmother. The fitted bodice was overlaid with French lace and styled with a small stand-up collar.
Leg-of-mutton sleeves of lace extended to her wrists. The back of the gown was a long lace panel extending over her chapel length train.
A small cap of white silk flowers dotted with pearls held her finger-tipped veiling.
She wore her mother's pearl earrings and carried a handkerchief of her great-grandmother.
A sister, Lori Baldrige, was maid of honor. A cousin, Tracy

Bench, and a high school friend, Janet Walters, were the bridesmaids.
Dale Taylor, was his brother's best man. Another brother, Mark Taylor and Jay Boyd were the ushers.
A reception took place in Plymouth Elementary school.
The bride's cake centered the buffet table. It was made by a friend, Ruth Ousley.
Cheryl Garber and Julie Oswalt assisted the guests, with Marlene Snider, Jan Westbrook and Sharon Sauman. Dixie Bench was in charge of the guest book. Virginia Bench distributed rice to the guests for the couple's departure.
They went on a wedding trip through the eastern states and planned to visit West Point, where the bridegroom graduated from the United States Military academy in 1984. He is also a graduate of the Fort Wayne Christian school in 1980.
The new Mrs. Taylor is a 1983 graduate of Plymouth High school as an honor pupil. She graduated from the Mansfield campus of Ohio State university in 1986 and continued her education at Ashland college.
They will live in Fayetteville, N.C., where Lieutenant Taylor is assigned at Ft. Bragg.
His parents were hosts at a rehearsal dinner the night before the wedding at Gamble's Mill Inn, Shelby.

Hospital hires personnel chief

Scott Warrick, a native of Newark, has joined Shelby Memorial hospital as director of personnel.

Warrick comes to SMH after serving as sales/personnel manager for the Kirby of Newark Vacuum Cleaner Co. and personnel manager for the Transmanagement Corp., a Columbus warehousing and storage firm.

After graduating from Ohio State university in 1983 with a B.A. in organizational communication, he continued his education at OSU, receiving a master of labor and human resources degree in 1985.

He is a Phi Sigma scholastic honorary, an Alpha Lambda Delta scholastic honorary and a Ohio State Summa award recipient. He currently resides in Mansfield and is planning a September wedding with his fiancée, Lisa Gelfer.

$45K grant object of village bid

Plymouth will seek matching funds in the total amount of $45,000 for the development of a mini-park bordering the General Telephone building on land being given to the village by First National Bank of Shelby.

The parcel of land, about a quarter of an acre, to be used for the park was appraised by John Hedeon at $11,000. This sum can be part of the village's matching funds, which leaves close to $16,000 that would have to come from village funds, notably the capital improvement fund.

The figures for the development of the park may be on the high side, the council agreed. They are based on what Poggemeyer Design Group, Inc., Willard, prepared last year for the complete development of the Public Square, which included the park.

Listed items for the park are the installation of a fountain, which Mayor Keith A. Hebble said could be the very old one that existed in the Square many years ago and was rescued by a local resident when it was removed; benches, picnic tables, lighting, landscaping and walks.

The resolution requesting the funding from the Land and Water Conservation fund of the Department of Natural Resources was approved and has been sent to Columbus.

The mayor said it will be several months before the village hears if it is approved.

The council was unable to take any action on the third item on the agenda for the meeting, that of approving the vacating of a dedicated street near Plymouth Locomotive International, Inc., which it is requesting. The company's attorney had not forwarded the written request required by law.

Foreclosure set July 31 vs. Alt

Federal Land Bank of Louisville, Ky., is foreclosing a parcel at the southeast corner of Hazelbush and Shoup roads, Plymouth township, belonging to Thomas A. Alt in the amount of not less than $44,000.

A sheriff's sale will be conducted July 31 at 10 a.m. Appraised value of the land, which is vacant, is $66,000.

Council balks, no emergency on trash bill enable adoption as an emergency measure, Welker joined her. Since five ballots are necessary to sustain an emergency, the issue failed. The ordinance may be submitted for second reading at the next meeting.

What the ordinance seeks to do is single out one approved refuse collector who would service the complete village according to a fee schedule approved by the council. Its proponents think the village can regulate the rate charged to householders so as to produce sufficient revenue to settle the fee of the collector for servicing all households and to pay for at least two days a year of at large, ad hoc refuse collection as a replacement for the annual "clean-up" days conducted by the village every year but this one.

Treatment of waste EPA aim

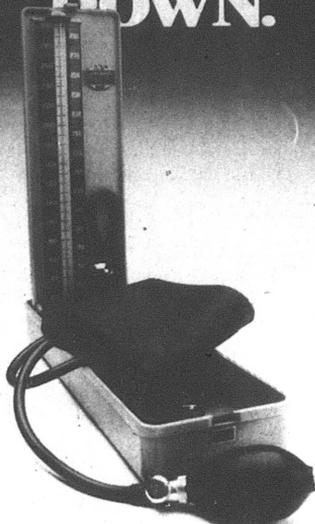

gineer, met with Ohio EPA officials to discuss the problem. What did they learn? Waste reduction and/or waste treatment is in the front of EPA's mind. How does this mean? It means recycling and it may mean incineration, which is admittedly expensive and certainly not final. Incineration leaves 20 to 30 per cent of the combustible material as ash, which must be buried in a landfill. Is it toxic? Each case may be different. Toxic waste, whether the result of incineration or otherwise, must be buried separately.

What will Huron county do? It plans to use a grant to Norwalk Area Chamber of Commerce to sponsor a survey of industrial wastes as the basis for fleshing out a state-conducted survey of industrial, commercial and residential waste to determine exactly what is the size of the Huron county problem and the quality of waste to be disposed of.

A recycling program will be established, Commissioner Thomas Carabin said. But he and his colleagues, James Westerhold and Roy Palm, fear the enthusiasm for recycling may wear off after householders tire of separating recyclables such as aluminum cans, bottles and such from their refuse. And the enthusiasm of the county may slacken when the price in the market place for recovered items is so low as to make their collection hardly worth the candle.

Plymouth residents who took fear at once that an incinerator might rise here need not worry. Not for a while, anyway.

Cubs watch Tribe defeat

Oakland won, 10 to 0, but Plymouth Pack 411, Cub Scouts, cheered the Cleveland team all the same.

The Cubs who marched around the Stadium Sunday afternoon, led by Cubmaster Mark Sheely, were Nicholas Roll, Brad Stone, Brandon Hall, Scott Kristemeyer, Andrew Classen, Christopher and David Sheely, Christopher McClintock, Keith and Korre Boyer, Kevin and Gregory Mongold, Frederick Hawk, J.B. and Jeremy Neff, Nathan and Matthew Buzard, Robert Strong, Joseph Robinson, John Haas, Joshua Swartz and Eric Felver.

Fifteen-year-old Brent Ragon had no idea how soon he'd be using CPR to save someone's life when he completed his Red Cross training at a Youth Safety Seminar.

But, while Brent was riding the train home from that seminar, a man collapsed two rows behind him.

"He wasn't breathing, and I couldn't find a pulse," Brent recalls. "I wasn't scared. I didn't have time to be scared. I knew what to do and I did it."

If you were in Brent's place, would you know what to do?

Jeffrey Jacobs weds Mrs. Clabaugh here

Jeffrey Lane Jacobs took Mrs. Margie Enderby Clabaugh as his bride in a double ring ceremony performed in First Evangelical Lutheran church June 20 by the Rev. Wayne Nieminin, pastor of Mt. Hope Lutheran church, Shiloh.

He is the only son of the James L. Jacobses, Jr., Baseline road. She is the elder daughter of the William C. Enderbys, 387 Plymouth street. Two opulent bouquets decorated the altar. The family pews were lighted by candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown styled with sweetheart neckline, short puff sleeves overlaid with lace. Her train was of chapel length. She wore a white picture hat with white, pink and lavender carnations.

The bride's only sister, Bonnie, now Mrs. Randy Kennard, Willard, was matron of honor, attired in an off-the-shoulder gown of lavender chiffon.

Her daughter, Kerri L. Clabaugh, was flower girl, in a long gown of white chiffon trimmed with pink ribbon. A son, Jason W. Clabaugh, was ring bearer.

Neil J. Woodward, Bellville, the bridegroom's brother-in-law, was best man.

Mrs. Enderby watched from the front pew in a blue street-length dress with a white orchid. Mrs. Jacobs, across the aisle, wore a street-length gown of pink with a white orchid.

Guests were seated by Brian S. Clabaugh, elder son of the bride.

The bridegroom, who achieved considerable renown as an athlete, notably in football and baseball, while he was a pupil in Plymouth High school, whence he graduated in 1983, attended Tiffin university. He is employed by R.R. Donnelley & Sons Co., Willard.

So is the bride, who was graduated by Plymouth High school in 1973.

A reception took place in Ehret-Parsell Post 447, American Legion, of which the bridegroom's late grandfather, James L. Jacobs, Sr., was several times commander and where the bride's only brother, James Enderby, is incumbent commander. The bride's cousin, Mrs. James Holloman, served the three-tiered wedding cake. Tammy Tash registered guests.

After wedding trip to Virginia Beach, Va., the couple is living at 121 West Broadway.

Unsung hero Bellamy remembered on July 4th

By AUNT LIZ

This comes a little more unsung heroes than the ones we all know about.

Now who knows who Francis Bellamy is? Smart as I think I am, I didn't until I happened to pick up a VFW magazine.

For years we have been saying something like 23 words that he wrote, never even giving any thought to where they came from. Saturday is the biggest national holiday we have, and millions will be saying those words. July 4, though, is not what it used to be years back. Somehow Memorial day has taken over the parades and good word, and I am terribly afraid that somehow July 4 is going to end up on a Monday year after year. Washington can do the dumbest things, but there is nothing like a paid holiday on what should be a working day.

Mr. B. simply thought that the 400th anniversary of our country, and he was dating it back to Mr. C. landing near here in 1492, ought to be noticed. At that time he worked as the advertising editor of the Youth's Companion, a popular children's magazine in the early 1890's. He thought school children should know some kind of a tribute to our flag. Along with that he convinced President Harrison that Columbus day should exist and be a national holiday.

It took him almost all night to come up with what he thought were the right words.

This was back in the fall of 1892. Those words I learned as a school girl. Back then we started the school day with pledges. That was something I never forgot, so when the time came for me to be the Mother Hen of the village, I figured it was the best way to start a formal village meeting. The gentlemen of the council (some simply were not gentlemen) could do nothing but stand and say it. They could object about anything else I did, but not that. I had them over the barrel and they hated it, but it was better than being tried for treason.

In a way, it was not such a good idea for me, I discovered. The wording that I could read from memory had been changed about 1954, so I was stuck with two versions.

It was the last couple of words that got changed, to "one nation under God, indivisible with liberty and justice for all." God got put in, which I did not object to, but was so used to leaving Him out. I solved it by sneaking in a small piece of paper which no one could see except me so I could get the words straight.

It is hard to change something you learned a long time ago, but changes have to come. I can still remember doing the Girl Scout salute, the thumb holding down the little finger, when I met some happy second lieutenant back in the days of my military career. Frankly, I think they were as dumb as I was and didn't notice it.

So Saturday is the big day, and I predict it will be very hazy most of the day because everyone will be cooking outside.

Steak will be the big thing, no doubt, but you do need more, and this is fresh vegetable time. This can be made ahead and with the meat and may be a dessert should make a meal.

Blanch four cups of broccoli flowerets and slowly heat a cup of raisins so they get plump looking.

Fry about six slices of bacon, more if you really like it, so it can be crumbled. Mix with a cup of sliced mushrooms and about a half a cup of chopped red onions, salt and pepper, too, which you have to guess at.

For the dressing mix a half cup of mayonnaise with a half cup of sour cream and two teaspoons of lemon juice. Blend until it is smooth then mix into the salad and chill.

Williams, Jr., to be married here July 10

Charles Williams, Jr., will take Miss Colleen Moon as his bride July 10 in First United Presbyterian church here.

He is the son of the Williamses, Sr., Route 603, a Plymouth High school alumnus who attended Pioneer Joint Vocational school. He is employed by Goebelle Robinson, Inc., Mansfield.

His fiancée, daughter of the Richard Moores, Tiro, is an alumna of Buckeye Central High school at New Washington. She was graduated by Marion State Beauty academy.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. Clonon Beverly was released from Shelby Memorial hospital Saturday.

Siefas Collins was admitted to that hospital Sunday.

Three Scouts win prizes at camp

Three Plymouth Boy Scouts spent last week at Camp Avery Hand and came home with awards.

Chris Roberts, son of the Arnold Robertses, Jr., 95 Trux street, was awarded the canoeing and rowing badges, the hiking skill award, the Fireman's chip card and the Totin' chip card, and he completed the one mile swim.

He also survived the COPE, challenging outdoor physical experience.

Michael Kristemeyer, son of the Kenneth Sturgills, 33 West High street, was chosen Scout of the Week for the swimming area. He received the swimming and canoeing badges and the Totin' chip card.

His brother, David Kristemeyer, earned the swimming and hiking badges, the swimming skill award and the Totin' chip card. The brothers tied for first place in the "washer" diving contest out of the entire camp enrollment.

State Insect

OHIO NATURALLY

The Ladybird Beetle, commonly known as the Ladybug, is a well known insect to people of all ages. Children enjoy collecting them during the summer months and adults enjoy seeing them in their garden for they know ladybugs eat unwanted insects.

Ladybugs are in the order Coleoptera and make up the family Coccinellidae. They are a small beetle with a round body shaped like half a pea. They are often bright red or yellow with black, red, white or yellow spots. The markings vary considerably in any species making it difficult to recognize them by color pattern alone.

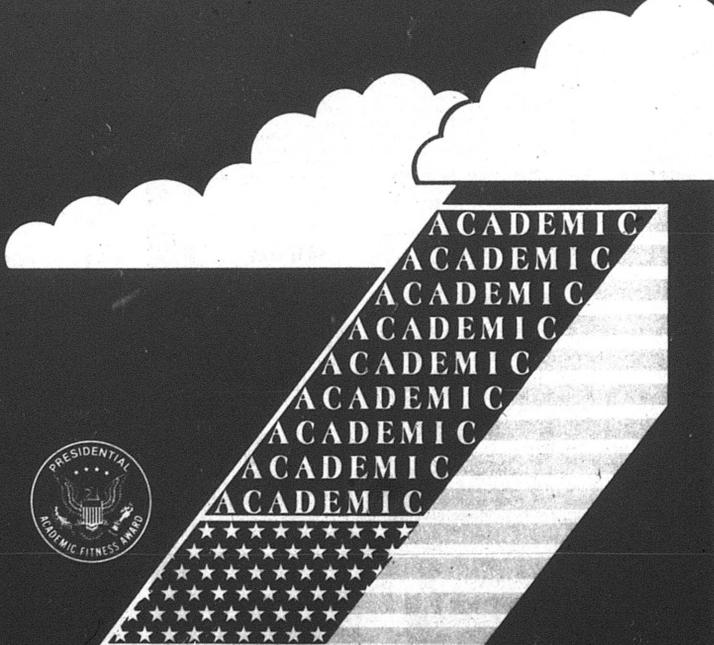

The primary diet of the ladybugs are plant lice and scale insects. For this reason, fruitgrowers find ladybugs very useful in helping to protect their crops. There are two kinds of ladybugs that harm beans, melons, squashes and other garden plants. But the work of the beneficial kinds of ladybugs far outweighs the damage done by the few harmful ones.

In June 1975, a new emblem was born. The Ohio legislature declared the common ladybug, officially named the Ladybird Beetle, as the official state insect. This insect with its attractive markings and helpful eating habits have raised it to official status in Ohio.
