

Did board cheat public?

The performance of the Board of Education on Jan. 20 deserves some examination.

Whether its decisions were proper or correct remains to be seen. The electorate in its supreme wisdom will on May 3 rule on that question. Obviously, what the board and its hired hands do between now and then will affect the outcome. If it does not, win or lose, we have all lost.

A blind and deaf man could sense, during the meeting on Jan. 20, that the skids were greased well in advance for a position already taken by the board, certainly at the instance of the superintendent. To give the board and its administrator every benefit of doubt, let's assume that no one violated the Sunshine law, that no more than two members of the board at any one time discussed the whys and wherefores of the proposed levy and what may be done if it fails.

So how were we cheated?

The public was closed out of any debate, any discussion, whether amicable and consensual or otherwise, relating to whether the proposed tax of just under five mills is enough, or too much, and more particularly, if it will do the job without requiring another infusion of fresh money within two years or so and, just as importantly, whether the decision not to propose any cuts in the athletic program, at the expense of release of four teachers at the elementary level, and the commensurate increase in size of all classes in first, second, third and fifth grades, is fair, equitable and honorable.

Surely there must have been some discussion. Did everybody on the board "buy" the solution first off? If not, why not? And if so, why, for Heaven's sake; why? If the members of the board thought, when they ran, or think now, that they're entitled to ponder their decisions and to reach their conclusions, in the privacy of a telephone booth, or a superintendent's office, they've another think coming.

The public has every right to know what its duly elected representative thinks, or has thought, about an issue. Certainly an issue so important as this one.

The board did not show good sense when it closeted itself behind closed doors for almost 75 minutes on Jan. 20, while electors of the district, including more than a handful of teachers, awaited its presence to discuss the matters of the hour. Sure, the board says it was discussing "negotiations", which means the forthcoming contract with the teachers' organization about salary levels and work rules. We have to take its word for that. Sometimes it takes a stronger stomach than most of us have got, particularly when the smell of a rodent is so prevalent.

Did the Court cheat pupils?

The Supreme Court has done the concept of freedom of expression, embodied in the First Amendment to the Constitution, a great disservice.

By vote of five to three, Justices Brennan, Marshall and Blackmun dissenting, the Court has ruled that a school administrator may censor a pupil publication, an act that would be prohibited to him off the school grounds.

The opinion came as the result of an appeal by pupils of East High school, Hazelwood, Mo., who were directed by their principal to suppress two pages dealing with sexual more and controls in a newspaper of eight pages produced, published and distributed by them.

Mr. Justice White, in the majority opinion, said, "A school need not tolerate student speech that is inconsistent with its basic educational mission, even though the government could not censor similar speech outside the school."

Mr. Justice Brennan's opinion said, "The young men and women of the Hazelwood East expected a civics lesson, but not the one the court teaches them today."

Amen.

Garn pick Fresh 4.8-mill tax!

as officer of year

Sergt. Richard E. Garn, 36, characterized by his chief as one who dealt with 134 criminal investigations, five felony arrests and 250 traffic summonses during 1987, was handed Jan. 20 the first annual Officer of the Year award by Plymouth Police department.

Chief Stanley C. Clegg made the presentation in the council chamber in the presence of Mayor Keith A. Heble, Garn's colleagues and some of his family.

He joined the department part-time in August, 1984, and full-time in July, 1987, after attending the sheriff's academy of Morrow county. He had worked as a reserve officer in the Lexington Police department before coming here.

He resides at 28 North street.

In a ceremony, Garn received the award of the Huron county prosecutor for solving a number of thefts hereabouts and the subsequent conviction of three accused.

Who broke lock at park gate?

Criminal damage was found at the gate of Mary Park estate Jan. 22 at 11 a.m.

The lock closing the gates was broken away. No loss of property or damage within the park could be found. Investigation continues.

Carl E. Elliott, 46, Apt. 24, Plymouth Villa, was arrested at Plymouth and East High streets Jan. 23 at 12:06 a.m. for drunken driving. His companion, Robin G. Hicks, 28, Plymouth, was also arrested for public intoxication.

A 19-year-old was arrested against Lora T. Tasche, 19, Willard.

Ronald Stanfield, 47, Rochester, N.Y., was apprehended Jan. 25 at 4 p.m. as a suspicious driver. Investigation shows he was under supervision. He was charged with operating without a license.

Mrs. Howell, 98, dies at Willard

Mrs. William Howell, 98, 130 Park avenue, died Saturday in Willard Area hospital of a lengthy illness.

Born in Drift, Ky., Apr. 3, 1889, she was the child of Preston T. and Nancy Turner Spencer.

Her husband died in 1964. Two sons, Bernard Howell and Woodrow Hayes, also died earlier.

Two sons, Hubert, Plymouth, and Joe, Tippecanoe, Ind., survive.

Services were conducted from Hall Funeral home, Martin, Ky., with burial in Martin cemetery, Drift, Ky. Secor Funeral home dealt with arrangements here.

Big Red girls rely heavily on Donnell Branham, 12th grader who also excels in track and field as well as classroom.

She will play next at Collins Tuesday night.

Fresh 4.8-mill tax!

Plymouth school closing, high fees for athletes ruled out by board

Plymouth Elementary school will not be closed.

No diminution of the athletic program, save for retrenchment in some coaching expenses at the lowest level, will be undertaken.

Voters will be asked to approve a new operating levy May 3 for Plymouth Local School District.

Exact amount of the millage has not yet been determined. But it will be about five mills, which will produce about $175,000 annually. It will run for four years.

That is the amount the board of education says it needs to run the schools. It is hoped the state will come forth eventually with more funds.

Supt. Jeffrey Slauson told the board during a special meeting Jan. 20 the district has actually lost money because of cutbacks by the state and the federal government plus the fact that the enrollment has dropped considerably.

The schools have not asked for an operating levy since 1972. Plymouth is the lowest taxed district in Richland county and second lowest in Huron county. The Bellevue district is slightly lower. The present tax in Plymouth district is 31.70 mills.

Slauson had told the board during its regular meeting Jan. 11 there was a possibility of closing Plymouth Elementary school and of changing pupils for their participation in athletic programs.

With approval to ask for a levy, he emphatically said, "No way will the Plymouth building be closed."

What will be done, however, is to eliminate

Want quick way to get rich? Publish political score card of Huron county candidates!

Huron County Prosecutor Michael R. Fegen will seek reelection to that post. Earlier he had sought to succeed Robert W. Smith (D-Bellevue) as common pleas judge.

Fegen will seek the nomination of the Republican party.

Richard B. Houser, 40, an attorney in Willard who lives in Norwalk, will seek the Democratic nomination.

Gregory McDowell, a 25-year-old Willard lawyer whose controversial dispute with Juvenile Judge Thomas Heydinger went to the state supreme court, will run as an independent.

Robert L. Smith, a Democrat in his third term as trustee of Peru township, will seek the party nomination to be county commissioner. He is 56, a 1945 graduate of Monroeville High school who lives at 1055 Peru Hollow road. He is the eighth candidate and fourth of his party to aim at a commissioner's post.

Even the naive must now be convinced that wheels within wheels within wheels are turning in the Huron county courthouse.

Man, 53, held on two counts after collision

A 53-year-old Plymouth driver was summoned for drunken driving Saturday about 1:30 a.m. when his car struck another in Route 103 west of Route 66.

Jerry R. Wallin was charged with two violations after a state highway patrolman said his 1981 Toyota pickup truck collided with the rear of a 1972 Chevrolet Citation operated by Randy J. Long, 17, Willard, who had slowed to enter a private driveway.

Wallin was also accused of leaving the scene of a collision.

GOP candidate for sheriff, Capt. Richard Sutherland, on Monday announced he'll withdraw as Republican candidate and run as an independent.

This avoids a primary fight with the former sheriff, John Borgia, who retired three years ago after a good run. In the post, Borgia seeks to return to the sheriff's job as a Republican.

Sutherland took some pot shots at Borgia as he withdrew. He said the former sheriff left the department in disarray when he retired and suggested Borgia's contention for the office now is a "soar grapes" activity, inasmuch as his anointed candidate, Lloyd Smith, was defeated by Sheriff Thomas Dunlap last time around.

Meanwhile, the Democratic party machine, with some egg on its face, has in private alternately affirmed and denied that it wants to oust Dunlap now, preferably by resignation, perhaps by recall.

Under more fire since he took office then Verdun in two world wars, Dunlap apparently angered his party by making it easier for Sutherland to run (the changed Captain Sutherland's appointment status so that he would not be required to resign as deputy to run for sheriff) and has infuriated the machinery by summarily dismissing Maj. James Rose, his principal deputy.

Five volunteers to seek economic data for HEcDec study

Five volunteers from the village will help in the Huron County Economic and Education Development survey of the counties industries.

John E. Hedeon was named captain of the local team.

Members are M.W. Lawrence, Cornell, Mrs. A.L. Padden, Jr., R. Harold Mack and Douglas A. Dickson.

The study is sponsored by local area chambers of commerce. Cost is funded by a grant from the Private Industry Council of SDA 13.

A state program was chosen because of its success in other communities.

Since 1986 24 communities have participated in the program which was developed at Ohio State University.

Mrs. Amy Hookway, who heads the county's development council, says, "Two elements of this program that prompted us to choose it are the way confidentiality is stressed and the step-by-step procedure for follow-through which come up in the interviews."

During the interviews industries may voice their opinions on the local economy and local and state government.

Once the results are tabulated and the results distributed, small industries maybe more aware of what services and items can be found locally rather than having to look outside the county or to the state government.

Three points: big win, hard loss

Hall's shot sinks Crestview

A basket by Co-Capt. Terry Hall, his only score of the night with 11 seconds left, gave a Firelands conference game at Olivesburg Saturday produced for Plymouth a 68 to 67 victory over Crestview, conqueror of league-leader New London on the Wildcat floor only the night before.

Two formidable performances, each by a player wearing No. 24, kept the house on the edge of its seats.

Todd Strickland, Crestview's main gun, always good for 20 points, exceeded all estimates with 31 points.

Jeff Bloomfield, cold as a banker's heart at Norwalk Friday night, got a weak start — only one basket in the first eight minutes, when Plymouth managed just nine to trail the Cougars by six.

But the doughty towhead found the range in the second period. He canned five of six shots for 10 points in leading the Big Red to the best quarter of the game. Plymouth's stands went mad.

The Cougars stormed back in the 11 seconds left. A shot by Strickland failed. Todd Wilson rebounded and was fouled. He stepped to the line to lock it up: two free throws would require no less than a three pointer for an overtime period.

It's strategy was to attack down the sideline from the inbounds pass and fire at the bucket from inside the 10-second line.

It didn't work.

Plymouth was 25-56 from the field and 18-25 from the line. It rebounded 28 times and erred on offense 16 times.

The Cougars were 27-48 from the field and 12-20 in free throw.

Crestview turned the ball over just 12 times and rebounded 27 shots.

Statistically, it was Crestview's game.

But they don't pay off on statistics. The payoff is on the scoreboards.

Bloomfield shot for 30 points, a career high. Schutte added 13, Stephens 11.

Strickland's game-high of 31 was augmented by 10 by Restille.

It was a propitious call.

For Plymouth what to work and ran out the scoring.

Bloomfield, fouled by Dudley, sank two free throws. Hall fouled King, by design, and King failed at the line with 26 seconds left.

The Big Red came up the floor.

Hall, the point guard, set up the attack. His team worked the ball and lured the Cougar zone defense out of position. This left a lane through the middle and Hall rammed into it with speed and force. He took three dribbles and lunged for the basket. The ball caromed off the glass and swished the net. Plymouth's stands went mad.

History made!

History was made at Olivesburg Saturday.

For the first time in OHSAA history, a team repeated at the same time on the floor for a single team and each boy scored.

Todd Wilson, the starter, got four. Troy, off the bench, and their brother, Terry, also off the pine, notched two and four, respectively.

Here's slate this week —

Co-Capt. Terry Hall's point output was slim in Crestview game, but just enough to win for Plymouth, 68 to 67. His defensive play, as here against Jim King, No. 10, was outstanding.

Not only a rebounder, Tracie Kamann, No. 44, is also a shooter. Often with accuracy, as against Crestview, when she bagged 13 points.

Jeff Bloomfield, No. 24, had cold night against Flyers, two of whom, James Myers, No. 30, and Greg Obringer, No. 24, seek to prevent his scoring.

outshot Plymouth from the field, 27 to 23.

The Flyers canned 27 of 59 shots and three of eight free throws. Plymouth missed just one of nine free throws and 35 of 58 attempts for field goal.

St. Paul's had three players in double figures.

Sheri Wagers bagged 11 for the Big Red.
