

On cheering

Some pupils of the schools whose duty, and we presume pleasure, it is to exhort the faithful to cheer for their team have been at pains of late to bemoan the fact that there isn't much cheering.

Why so?

First, folks usually yell loudest when their team is a consistent winner.

Second, that yelling intensifies, usually, when a less-than-successful team shows that it's trying its hardest.

Third, the structure of the cheers is such that only an adolescent can remember them or find any enthusiasm in repeating them. At Monroeville Saturday, a perfectly satisfactory squad of cheerleaders in black and gold pleaded with the Monroeville stands to join in the cheering; all one heard was the treble voices of some newly pubescent girls, chanting in some unison.

Fourth, it's pretty hard for one who's bled for the republic to get all worked up for a group of folks who refuse to pay proper obeisance and respect to the flag and to the national anthem, despite painstaking and quiet references to what law and custom require.

Telephone rates

As required by law, General Telephone Co. has notified all subscribers, at considerable expense, of its intent to seek from the PUCO a massive rate increase.

Among the changes GenTel proposes are these:

1. A 50-cent charge for each directory inquiry, save to pay telephone users, health care agencies and the handicapped.
2. An increased monthly charge of 75 cents, to $2, for an unlisted telephone.
3. An increased monthly charge of 75 cents, to $1.75, for an additional directory listing.
4. A reduction in the initial installation cost of $1.30 to $34.05.
5. An average monthly increase of $4.18 to $6.20, depending on the location of the subscriber.

It is honest to say that service hereabouts has improved somewhat. The Plymouth exchange has not commanded a high priority for installation of state-of-the-art equipment since GenTel took over from Northern Ohio, and God knows it never received first, or second, or even third, priority when Mad Bill Henry and his minions ran the company.

The question is whether it has improved that much.

How much?

For purposes of discussion, suppose that the Plymouth exchange falls in the low median among those connected in the GenTel net so far as rates go. On this basis — and it may be nowhere near correct, it is only a supposition — the increase here would amount to $4.82 a month, or $57.84 a year, or roughly 16 cents a day.

Subscribers and users who wish to be heard may telephone 1-800-282-9448, to the Ohio Consumers Council. It will be useful to have at hand an itemized list of one's complaints.

For our part, we have found the service to be suitable, in some instances — requiring the intercession of an operator in Toledo or God-knows-where-better than suitable.

Our objection is to the cost: is what we pay for telephone service equitable? What portion of our living expenses, aside from business costs, is a fair fee to pay for telephone service?

GenTelCo would, we think, be well advised to turn a passel of experts loose on that question. It would do itself and its stockholders, its subscribers and the public in general, a great service.

Its legal counsel and rate experts that it plans to array before the PUCO represent that's just what they've done. Perhaps this is so. If it is, it hasn't been shored sufficiently with those who'll be expected to foot the bill.

Water supply poor

Hall fire showed effect of low pressure; one hauler for trash issue still alive

The village's water system is inadequate, village council learned Feb. 8.

Two nights before a fire destroyed the Charles Hall residence at 507 West Broadway.

Fire Chief Terry Hopkins said there was not enough water flow nor pressure and the water tankers had to be put into use. This normally is not done on a fire call within the village.

He also said the fire was so intense by the time the firemen arrived there was little that could be done.

The council has been aware of the problem in the west end of the village. A complete new installation will cost more than the village has. What has been done over several years has been a "pecking away" at the problem with the hope that shortly it will be solved.

No action was taken on a single trash hauler. Councilman Roy Barber told the council and some of the interested spectators the service committee is not dropping it. He also said it would be a "diservice" to the village not to have a contract with one particular hauler.

Councilman H. Lee Welker again suggested a small fee be charged on the monthly utility bills to provide for an annual spring clean-up. When the all-village pick-up was suggested last fall by Mayor Keith A. Hebbel, that was his reasoning that the village could realize enough to pay for the clean-up, which has become too costly.

So it is back to the service committee again to work out some kind of an agreement with hauler and the village.

Willardite, 37, held for DWI

John Jacob, Jr., 37, Willard, was arrested Feb. 12 at 10:27 p.m. at Park avenue and West Broadway on a charge of drunken driving.

He was tested at Shelby and showed .21 per cent blood alcohol, .11 over the legal maximum.

Goth sells half of Weber's Cafe to partner

Sale of his one-half interest in Richland County's oldest and most watering place to his partner, David A. Howard, a Shelby attorney, is reported by William H. Goth, 17 Mills avenue.

He says he understands Howard meant to sell Goth's interest to his brother, Ervin Howard.

It is understood the Howard brothers plan to reopen the business on Mar. 1.

Fraternal lodge, Owls to move into village

Nest 4009, Order of Owls, Shelby, intends to occupy the premises owned by R. Harold and Lois Mack at 311 Sandusky street and to conduct fraternal activities, including dispensing of spirituous liquors under a club license, there.

Blood call tomorrow

ABC Bloodmobile's visit to Plymouth High school tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. is sponsored by Plymouth Lion club and seeks 100 pills of whole blood.

Councilman John Fazzini, who chairs the service committee, said about 600 persons are paying from $8 to $7 a month for collection. A contract with one hauler would lower the rate, he said. Also, he added, the village itself is paying $50 a month.

He feels, he said, that it is the responsibility of the village to help its citizens.

On Mrs. Paddock's motion to drop the entire matter, the vote was three to three. She, Welker and Everett Eckstein voted yes. Mayor Hebbel's nay vote quashed the motion.

Then Barber moved that the service committee be instructed to develop contract details with the low bidder, Harold Shaky, Shelby. This was beaten, two to four, only E. Adrian Cole supporting him.

Ronnie Akers again asked about signs within the tree lawn and the displaying of merchandise in front of business. That was turned over to the rules committee for study and suggestions to change the existing ordinance that now prohibits both.

Hopkins told the council Richland county plans to install a 911 emergency line that would include all 100 villages and anyone with 687 number.

Right now the estimated cost is set at 68 cents a household a month, which would appear on the telephone bills. The system has been discussed for several years. The fact that two telephone companies serve Richland county, United and General, has to some extent prevented its inception. Now the companies have worked out an agreement.

Hopkins also said a disaster plan is necessary for the village. This has already been discussed with him during a committee meeting. Periodically, there have been such plans, usually made after there was a problem. When there was no problem and village officials changed, they were forgotten.

The mayor was notified that as of May 1, the basic rate for those served by Continental Cablevision will be increased to $13.95 a month from $11.75. Supplemental services will also be increased accordingly, but the company did not spell them out in its letter to the mayor.

Final reading was given to an ordinance to vacate six alleys in the Portner-Woodland street area. A resolution was approved to thank former Councilman Bill Taubee for his services over the years.

L. Paddock, Jr., was reappointed to a four year term as trustee of Mary Fate Park.

McKown elected hospital trustee

Neil A. McKown, 345 Trux street, an attorney in Shelby, was on Feb. 10 elected without opposition to a three-year term as trustee of Willard Area Hospital, Inc.

He succeeds A.L. Paddock, Jr., who completed two terms and was not eligible for reelection. David Stumbery, a nominee from the floor, defeated the nominee of the trustees, Paul Bauman, and two others from the floor, Walter Lindsey and Thomas Copeland for the vacancy created by retirement of Paul W. Capelle, who also completed six years of service.

He and Paddock received commemorative plaques from Joseph Lakes, Plymouth, president of the trustees.

Gregg Emery, mayor of Willard, and Alvin M. Kelley, North Fairfield, were elected to second terms.

About 150 members of the Willard Area Hospital association heard Sister M. Michaelene, head of the Sisters of Mercy Health Care system, and Russell Gardner, chief financial officer of MCHS, delineate what will occur at Willard if and when the proposed affiliation materializes.

Principal items: 1. MCHS will make $200,000 initially available and up to $800,000 in low-cost loans there after.

2. The association as fountainhead of governance of Willard Area hospital will disappear, four Sisters of Mercy will be named to Willard's governing board. 3. A CEO chosen by MCHS will be suggested to the Willard trustees for approval.

4. Any surgery intended to interfere with the human procreative process will be forbidden. The hospital does not allow therapeutic abortions. The new policy will also prohibit tubal ligations and vasectomies.

A fiery attack by two Willard groups on actions by the board did not materialize.

Martha Hise, who has barred the board in public letters, directed questions intended to be embarrassing that fell short of the mark. Robert L. Sell, a former trustee, a main force in one of the groups that questioned the trustees' action, expressed some reservations about affiliation. Richard Babcock asserted loudly that the board has been deficient in failing to give information to the association.

David Mennes, Orrville, proprietor of an anesthesiology group under contract to the hospital, charged that $200,000 seems a paltry sum for MCHS to consider as investment. He has told it amounts to about 17 per cent of the net worth of the hospital corporation.

Other questioners were assured by Sister Michaelene and Gardner there is no intention of disturbing the tenure of present employees, nor to terminate any of the staff, nor to allow "bumping" by MCHS employees in other institutions.

Is there any doubt that diamonds are a girl's best friend?

Most people are under the impression that you must visit a jewelry store clutching your check book or VISA card to get one.

All you need is a good abovel and lots of time to dig. They can exist just about any place in the world, including Ohio. Some five carat jobs have been found here, in California, Louisiana, Michigan and in both Virginia.

The largest one, 35.25 carats, was found in Murfreesboro, Ark. That was in 1964. A nice looking one of 27.21 carats was also found on a farm in that state.

Another farm in Wisconsin produced a 15 carat one.

Diamonds are carbon that comes from peat after a couple of million years, and I have often wondered what Celeryville has deep underneath it.

There is no question that those pretty little things have real value. Over the years we have known Europeans who were refugees seeking a new life in a new country. I remember one Yugoslavian couple on its way to the Argentine. They went to their ship to say goodby, and the lovely wife whispered in my ear, "I managed to hang on to one good stone to get us started."

Then we had some Dutch friends who were prisoners in Java during World War II. They managed to bury some in their garden and were able to go back afterwards and dig them up. This brought them a house in Holland.

Then there was the story of the poor Army wife in West Germany who simply stole a three carat one

Voter supports Randy Kilgore

After having made up my mind. After reading of all the controversy about who we should vote for to be our next Huron county sheriff, I have decided to vote for Randy Kilgore. His lifetime devotion to police work makes him the best candidate. I watched Randy grow up as the "kitch next door," had Randy work for me as a young man during his high school days, and I have seen him develop into a fully qualified officer of the law. His constant efforts to upgrade his abilities are impressive. As you learn who and what Randy Kilgore is, I am sure you too will be impressed. I repeat, I have made up my mind. I will vote for Randy Kilgore to be the next sheriff of Huron county.

In league play —

Monroeville hangs on to down Plymouth, 55 to 53

After three pitiful periods, Plymouth played Firelands conference basketball as it ought to be played in the fourth period at Monroeville Saturday night. But with six seconds left and a chance to tie or win with one shot, the Big Red turned the ball over and was compelled to settle for a 55 to 53 defeat by the Eagles.

Plymouth trailed by as many as 20 points early in the third period, owing in part to three three pointers in a bang-bang performance by Ray Quillen and J. D. Pothorski, who shot two of them. Going into the final eight minutes, the visitors trailed by 16 points at 45 to 29.

After Ron Stephens scored, Bart Colahan produced a goal and a foul, the Eagles led by 16 and Plymouth fans began to despair. The Big Red ran five, Quillen scored and Plymouth ran 11, most of them by Jeff Bloomfield. The denouement of the game: 3:05 Turnover vs. Monroeville, Eagles led, 49-43.

2:45 Bloomfield shot from corner, 49-45.

1:56 Bloomfield shot from 12 feet, 49-47.

1:52 Joe Gates (M) shot two free throws, 51-47.

:52 Bloomfield scored from eight feet, 53-49;

:47 Terry Hall fired three pointer, 53-52;

:41 Tony Haymond, fouled by Pothorski, shot one, 53-53;

:27 Mike Lindenberger, fouled by Todd Wilson, shot two, 55-53;

:10 Hall's turnover gave Eagles possession;

:07 Eagle turnover gave Red possession;

:06 Red put ball in play, Hall's pass intercepted.

Plymouth outshot Monroeville from the field, 21 (four three pointers) to 19 (four three pointers). The Eagles had more opportunities at the free throw line and capitalized on them, 13 of 22. Plymouth was seven of 15.

The Eagles were all but unbeatable in the first half.

They overcame a Plymouth lead of six to two by running 12 and closed the period leading by eight. They outscored Plymouth in the second period and led at the half by 13.

And they refused to buckle in the third period, outpointing Plymouth by three.

The Eagles outbounced Plymouth, 43 to 38, and if there was a difference between the two competitors, beside the free throw advantage, it was Monroeville's skill at rebounding.

Plymouth turned the ball over without firing a shot 22 times, of which 11 were unfouled. The Eagles were guilty of only 18 turnovers, of which six were unfouled.

This was no performance for Plymouth to be proud of. Monroeville, even on its own floor, is not such a formidable team as to produce such a result over the Big Red.

But take nothing away from the Eagles. They clung to their game plan, shot wisely — 19 of 49 — and, when it counted most, accurately — and kept their heads.

Coach browned off: 100 per cent effort simply not there

By THE OLD TIMER

The coach is ticked off. Coaches have a way of doing that, from time to time, sometimes with good reason.

Saturday's performance at Monroeville is a case in point.

The Big Red behaved more as the Pink. Its conduct through the first three periods was lethargic, unimpaired, unpleasant and, most of all, unproductive.

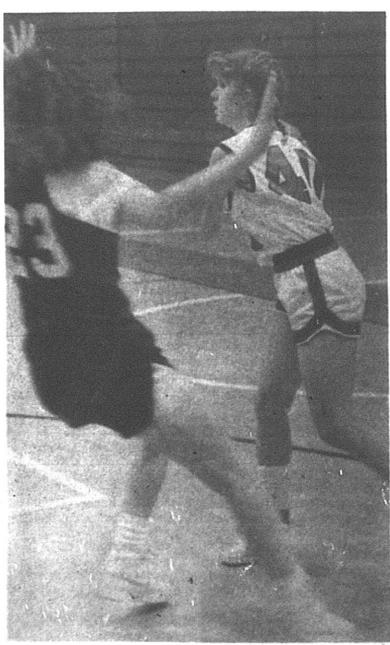

Monroeville isn't the greatest team in the conference, far from it. It had the advantage of playing at home, before a home crowd. But the crowd at Monroeville is nowhere near what it used to be, when the Eagles were knocking everybody off en route to their state championship. And it had the advantage of knowing that the worst that could happen to it would be another defeat. So it charged out to give Caesar all that Caesar wanted and more. And it did so effectively.

class; Frank Burks, fourth, 125-lb. class; Robert Smith, fourth, 130-lb. class;

Also, Brian Bowman, sixth, 135-lb. division; Greg Niedermeyer, third, 140-lb. class; Jeff Stagg, second, 145-lb. class; Steve Hawkins, sixth, 152-lb. class;

Also, Milo Mullins, fifth, 160-lb. class; Bryan Carnahan, sixth, 171-lb. class; Dave Powers, second, 189-lb. class;

Champion

Champion Greg Burka, black outfit, scores points against Dave Metz, St. Peter's, in a 13 to 12 victory in the unlimited class at the annual St. Peter's Invitational at Mansfield Saturday.

In melee under basket, Amy Laser, No. 32, and Donell Branham, No. 34, strive for rebound.

Coach browned off: best effort lacking

How effectively? After 24 minutes, the Eagles led by 16 points. Plymouth's chances at this point seemed to be two: slim and none.

That the visitors were able to claw from behind and tie the score was as much a statement of Monroeville's failure to play its game as it was that Plymouth got hot and began to shoot the cords off the basket.

And when the score was eventually tied, and Plymouth had the advantage of momentum and experience, the visitors failed. They failed by their own doing. But the two final turnovers weren't forced. They were silly mistakes.

Boys will be boys. They make mistakes. They are not professionals, who also make mistakes.

But their coach is ticked off. He thinks some of his players took a hike. To where? He's not sure. But he doesn't feel that he got 100 per cent effort from 100 per cent of his squad 100 per cent of the time.

Certainly he's paid for what he does, or is supposed to do. Whether it's enough is another question. That's not the point here. But when one bleeds for his team, when he lays his soul on the line game after game, bringing to the direction such expertise as he can command, he's entitled to the same kind of interest, the same sort of fervor, the same desire to excel, as he himself manifests.

If a player, or players, should decide not to bleed, not to show fervor and desire, there is a place for them. It's not the bench, that some delight in referring to as Pinewood City. Nor is it the locker room, that dank and odoriferous cell where players change their clothing and cleanse the honest sweat from their bodies and make excuses for poor effort, poor play, poor result.

Guess where?

Kim Gibson is sparkplug of Big Red girls. When she's on, Plymouth goes. If Red can whip Lucas, next foe is big power Buckeye Central.
