Vote Tuesday!

It would be tragic if voters fail to support the three village levies submitted for renewal on Tuesday's ballot.

The first one is for the general fund, in the amount of two mills, to run for five years, through 1976 tax year.

It will produce about $8,800 a year. Anybody who has paid any attention at all to the doing of the council since Jan. 1 knows that fiscal manipulations of the highest order have been required to keep the village solvent.

The second is for Mary Fate park, in the amount of one-half mill, the maximum allowed by law. It also would run for five years. It would produce about $2,200 a year.

The third is for Plymouth Fire department, in the amount of one-half mill. Its proceeds will be held in reserve and applied to the purchase of new apparatus.

There are those who believe that the state bondsmen equivalent to 18 mills -- some $220,000 -- obviates the need to renew the two levies which expire, totalling 13.1 mills.

The program in the schools as it stands is not the best in Ohio, not by a long shot. But it has improved, mostly because there was money to do it.

The school board is wisely making no threats. But it doesn't take much wisdom to see that if $166,000 is removed from the revenues of the system, some 83 per cent of the school operating dollar goes to pay salaries of certificated and non-certificated personnel, the only cut that can be made is in teachers and staff.

And since the board is bound by contract to some teachers, it would be compelled to release those, no matter how good they are, to whom it is not bound.

This district simply cannot afford such an eventuality.

Stout defense upsets Colts

Coach Larry Root, Plymouth, Ohio. He's reminding a fortune by not bottling that stuff -- whatever it is -- that you told your players at half-time.

Having the Old Timer Clear Fork scoreless during the first half in a sputtering rain here Friday night, Plymouth came back for the last two quarters a spirited, never-tiring ball club and defeated the Colts in what certainly was the upset of the decade.

The score was 8 to 0. A stout defense that held the vaunted Colts to only 28 yards on the ground and just four through the air during the entire second half led the Big Red to this important victory, only the second in history over a Clear Fork football squad.

Plymouth struck dramatically with 3:59 remaining in the third period, climaxing a drive of 70 yards in 12 plays with a 34-yard pass down the south sideline from Dan Carter to Mike Hamman, who sidestepped the defenders into the end zone.

What did it do that was different? Plymouth was back on the scoreboard with 4:56 left in the game.

There must surely have been something else he did to win so convincingly. "I'm glad you're back on the field," Root grinned. "It worked!"

This was a richly deserved victory. This team couldn't break an egg offensively, but for one game, at least, its defensive play has not been equalled by any Big Red team in 18 seasons, which is the considered view of one who has missed just one game, an 80 to 0 defeat at Lodi, since September, 1954.

Village, school levies head ballooning here Tuesday

Three municipal issues and a school operating levy renewal appear on Tuesday's general election ballot when Ohioans go to the polls to choose a president and vice-president, a Congressman and a number of county officials.

Polis will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. Polling places here are in First United Presbyterian church for Richland counties and in McCormick's Real Estate office for Huron counties.

The municipal issues are all renewals, a two mill levy to run for five years for the village general fund, a one-half mill levy for the same period for Mary Fate park and a four mill levy to run five years for the fire department apparatus fund.

Mayor Elizabeth G. Padock said yesterday "There ought to be no question in anybody's mind that we need the approval of these levies to continue satisfactory services. The council by resolution has urged the voters of Plymouth to vote for the levies."

If approved, the levy would produce $160,448.80 a year. Plymouth Community club voted unanimously Sept. 24 meeting to support school renewal levy and to urge a "no" vote on the state income tax proposal. It also endorsed and pledged its support to the Richland Swank, a Belleville Democrat, is opposed by Anthony Korokyan, a Mansfield Democrat.

Schools back income tax

Opposition to Issue No. 2, the state income tax repeal, was unanimously approved by Plymouth Board of Education in special session Oct. 25. A resolution introduced by Member Richard D. Fackler calls on electors of the school district to vote "No" on Issue No. 2 because to do otherwise would disturb present school financing.

Steps to prepare specifications and advertise for bids for a new 66-passenger bus were approved, although the state department of education says it does not yet have enough money to fund the state's share of such purchases. Since the Plymouth system is on a seven-year rotation replacement basis, the bus will be bought regardless of state support if there is enough money to do it.

Shiloh alters building fees

A change in fees to be collected for issuance of building permits was approved by Shiloh's village council Oct. 25. Fee for drawings up to 700 square feet will now be $4, a 100 per cent raise, and for those greater than 700 square feet $6, also a 100 per cent raise.

Since the building inspector is now paid by salary, the old technique of paying him $1 from the building permit fee was rescinded.
