Foreword

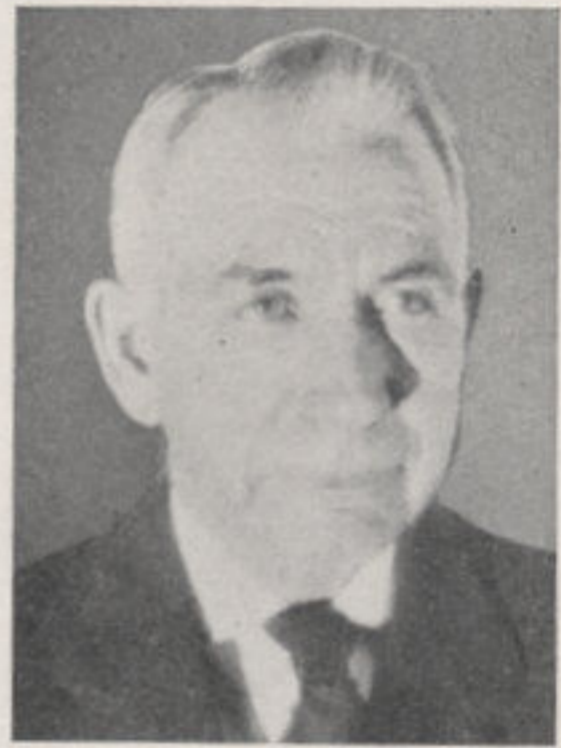

THIS Annual is an effort to preserve for you, and for coming generations, the memories of the splendid times that are now a thing of the past. If at some time, when your hair has turned to silver and your eyesight has dimmed, you desire to go back over these precious years, we sincerely hope that these pages will enable you to revive the memories of the happiest years of your life—those spent at “Dear Old Plymouth High.”

THE MAYFLOWER

Dedication

THE citizens are the judges of the community. Look about you at every surrounding village. What is it you see? In one—a beautifully constructed, well-kept school; in the other—a run down structure called a school. The well-cared-for represents the good judgment of the community and the heap of ruins the inevitable result of carelessness of the other.

To the citizens of Plymouth and to their good judgment, the Seniors of Plymouth High dedicate this Annual of 1931.

Alma Mater

O HERE'S to thee, old P. H. S.
The school we hold most dear,
We pledge to thee our loyalty,
And thy name we all revere.
Though we may roam in after years,
Our love will never die,
For we shall ne'er forget thee,
Nor the friends of Plymouth Hi!

Senior Class Poem

Do unto others, O cherished friends,
As you wish them to do unto you,
Heed not the gossip that falls from lips
That you know in your heart is untrue.

There is always one who sees and knows,
What does it matter about others?
They do not judge your future position,
Your faults are no worse than another's.

A little play that's mingled with work
Does not hurt either you or me,
And when your time comes to prosper much
Do not pass it by, for sorry you'll be.

Grasp it with a firm hand
And hold it in fingers strong
Although you know that the time's flying
And it won't be very long.

God gives us, every one, a chance,
And if we fail or succeed;
We still will believe in heaven above,
God's work, His love and His Creed.

And then, dear friends, fear not to die,
When He reads the long roll call;
And speaks your name among the rest,
For he loves us one and all.

—Huldah Davis.

Log of the Good Ship Mayflower

WHEN the call for new hands to ship on the Mayflower came in the fall of 1927, thirty-five answered. This is one of the largest crews ever taken aboard. It has remained as such and now is one of the largest to be mustered out of active service.

When the call for new hands to ship on the Mayflower came in the fall of 1927, thirty-five answered. This is one of the largest crews ever taken aboard. It has remained as such and now is one of the largest to be mustered out of active service.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Harssema, the first year aboard the ship was very successful. True to Freshman instinct, the whole class was timid and respectful to upperclassmen. To aid in the command of the crew, officers were elected, President being Eloise Shaver; Vice President, Raymond Brooks; Secretary, Miriam Donnenth. To show to what ship they belonged everyone purchased a little gold pin bearing the ensigna "P. H. S. '31". Of course, the seasoned sailors had to hold an initiation for the greenhorns. This was early in the fall of the year. It seemed that the new members of the crew did not mind becoming full-fledged members. At least they offered no objections. The upper three classes also gave a picnic for the late arrivals. There was a catch in it though, the Freshmen had to do all the work. A Hallowe'en party was sponsored by the Student Council, which is the student governing body. Prizes were given to the best dressed of course. The first-year men were represented in the interclass tournament which was won by the Seniors. The first year team was beaten in the first round. Shortly after the county tournament in the spring, an achievement banquet was given to the Basketball squads to those who were outstanding during that year's voyage.

Another happening that spring, that offered student life aboard the Mayflower was the inauguration of track. Prior to this, baseball had been the spring sport but track soon took its place in popularity.

The operetta "Pickles," was given toward the end of the school year. Perhaps it would be interesting to note who the officers aboard the ship were this year. First of all there was Captain Miller starting his first year aboard the Mayflower, First Mate Jenkins starting his second year aboard the ship, another officer starting his first year was Chief Engineer Fisher. Two seasoned tars completed the roster of officers. They were the Chef, Mrs. Harssema, and the Purser, Miss Gooding.

After the summer vacation, the cruise was started again. Second year officers were President, Harry Long; Secretary, Miriam Donnenth. Our chief officer this year was Mr. Fisher. He proved to be a good leader and advisor. Again initiation day was held. This time we got to help in the initiation. We also had the pleasure of giving them a picnic and making them do the work as we had been made to do. Another new sport was inaugurated during this year, namely, cross-country, to take the place of indoor baseball during the fall. This, too, has become popular with the passengers of the Mayflower. Another happening of interest in the fall of the year was the reorganizing of the P. H. S. Post, our local school paper.

Besides this a debating team was organized. They did splendid work again. A Hallowe'en party was sponsored by the Student Council. Prizes were given as before. The second-year team proved well in the interclass basketball tournaments. They earned the position of runners up. The Achievement Banquet was sponsored by the Lions Club this spring. The first Prince of Peace Declamation Contest in Plymouth was won by Eloise Shaver, a member of the second year class. A scholarship medal was presented to the student with the highest average for the year. Again the second class carried away the honors, Raymond Brooks winning the medal. Thus ended the second year aboard.

The third year found the crew well experienced in the ways of life aboard the ship. We were fortunate in getting Miss Fenner for our class advisor. The assisting officers for the year were, President, Don Einsel, Jr.; Vice President, Eloise Shaver; Secretary, Kenneth Myers. The Student Council as usual sponsored a Hallowe'en party. Miss Fenner gave a New Year's Eve party to the class at her home. Shortly after mid-year the entire crew of the Mayflower moved from the old ship to the modern, up-to-date ship they now occupy.

The third year class started a new tradition when they gave a Junior Class Play, the first play in the new building. Again the class carried away honors in the Prince of Peace Declamation Contest. Lucille Pugh won the contest this year. The inter-class basketball tournament proved to be the downfall of the Juniors for they were defeated in the first round. For the first time an interclass track meet was held. The Juniors won this meet with ease. A group of the citizens of Plymouth sponsored the achievement banquet this year. In the spring a subscription campaign was staged by the Junior Class. The class purchased their High School rings in their Junior year. The crowning point of the year was the Junior-Senior banquet. The operetta given by the glee clubs was "College Days."

The fourth and last year found the crew greatly diminished. Along the voyage somewhere seventeen members had left the crew. Six new members had been added, making a Senior class of twenty-three members. Once again, Miss Fenner was chosen as advisor for the class. The officers for the year were: President, Harry Long; Vice-President, Kenneth Myers; Secretary, Miriam Donnenwirth. The first outstanding event was the play "That's That," presented by the High School students. Again we claimed the honors in the Prince of Peace contest due to Huldah Davis, who was presented the bronze medal. Early in the fall of the year, part of the class gave the first class play "Blundering Billy." A Hallowe'en party was sponsored by the Student Council. This year under the experienced supervision of Coach T. S. Jenkins, the boys' Basketball team brought home the Richland County tourney trophy. Five members of the tournament squad were seniors. April and May were the two busiest months of the year. In the early part of April, the Operetta "Patricia," was presented. It displayed much talent on the part of those who participated. Next on the program was the Junior-Senior reception given exceptionally early. And still later, Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen" was presented by those members of the senior class who did not have part in the play that was presented in the fall. Much hard and honest labor on the part of the members of the Senior class led to the publication of this number of the Mayflower, the book that retains many endearing memories. Baccalaureate and Commencement were among the closing events of the school year. On the 29th of May the crew of '31 descended the gang planks of the ship Mayflower to row up the river of life in their own boats.

Senior Class Will

WE, the Senior Class of 1931, being of lawful age, sound mind and good memory, knowing that our days in Plymouth High School are nearing the end, do therefore deem it necessary to make and publish this our last Will and Testament.

We, as a class, bequeath the following things:

To the faculty we leave the privilege of turning in demerits on those who have no chance to get out of exams. We also leave the privilege of raising the grades of those who can not quite get out of exams.

To the Juniors we leave our ability to cooperate and agree with the majority, especially in the selection of class colors.

To the Sophomores we leave any old books we may have accumulated in our younger years to read in study periods.

To the Freshmen we leave our sympathy for the abuses from the Sophomores.

To the Eighth grade we leave our absence of fear upon entering into the great unknown, High School.

To the Seventh grade we leave all our beginners pencils..

As individuals:

I, David Bachrach, do bequeath my ability as a dash man to Walter Mumea.

I, Mary Anderson, do bequeath my slim figure to Barbara Turson.

I, Miriam Donnenwirth, do bequeath one curl of my golden locks to Lawrence Cornell.

I, Kenneth Myers, do bequeath my ability as a miler to Lyle Biddinger.

I, Harold Ross, do bequeath my derby to anyone who wants it.

I, Thomas Webber, do bequeath my electrical ability to John Henry Gaskill.

I, Aila McFarland, do bequeath my scientific ability to Donald Feters.

I, Eloise Shaver, do bequeath my training in Home Economics to Marguerite Drew.

Senior Class Will===Continued

I, Fred Keeler, do bequeath my tuneful whistle to Arnold Munn.

I, Don Einsel, do bequeath my moustache to Harry Briggs.

I, Lucille Moore, do bequeath my dark complexion to Betty Brown.

I, Lucile Pugh, do bequeath my perfect chin to Lois Teal.

I, Helen Williamson, do bequeath my dates to Ruth LeBold.

I, Raymond Brooks, do bequeath my ability as an athlete to Millard Hale.

I, Marguerite Brothers, do bequeath my ability to be contrary, to Carl Gleason.

I, Perry Grimmer, do bequeath my quietness to Clifton Gebert.

I, Huldah Davis, do bequeath my dimples to Bob Darling.

I, Harry Long, do bequeath my dignity to Leona Miller.

I, Jane DeWitt, do bequeath my basketball ability to Betty Aslakson.

I, Walter St. Clair, do bequeath my ability as a rum player to Vincent Taylor.

I, Leola Hackett, do bequeath my ability to argue to Walter Mumea.

I, Deryl Storck, do bequeath my studious habits to John Dick.

I, Doris Lutz, do bequeath my cultivated giggle to Doris Hatch.

In witness whereof we herewith set our hand and seal on this twenty-second day of May, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred Thirty-one.

Senior Class of '31.

CLASS PROPHECY

* * * * *

IT was the afternoon of a day late in May in the year of our Lord, 1950. About this time of the year the class of 1931 had graduated from Plymouth High School. Being well acquainted with all the members of the class, I wondered what all were doing. As I sat in a chair near my Lonco Radio, I knew what had become of two members of the class.

My radio had been designed and manufactured by a company headed by Harry Long, who was now an electrical genius. Over the same radio was coming a program of afternoon dance music, presented by "Masters of Music," directed by none other than Don Einsel, Jr., who had directed an orchestra while still in high school. Immediately after the program, a play was presented by the W. B. Players. I was surprised, when the cast was announced, to find two more members of the class in it. David Bachrach was the villainous villain, pursued by the obstinate detective in the person of one Thomas Weber. Tubby should have been a sports writer, for who will ever forget his sports column in the P. H. S. Post. Nevertheless, he turned out to be a star in the field of dramatics, as did Dave. This program was interrupted just long enough to announce to the sports world that the Brown Sox had practically bought themselves the pennant for the year when they bought Kenneth Myers, the leading pitcher of the League. Last season, he won twenty-seven and lost no games, besides being near the top in batting.

In the program entitled "Government Affairs" I learned that the Atlantic and Pacific fleets under Rear-Admirals Storck and Grimmer, respectively, were putting out to sea for spring maneuvers after laying in port all winter. These two boys had joined the Navy together and through untiring effort and splendid records had advanced together.

The next program was presented from Hollywood, the movie colony. It was to be given by the beauty specialist of the stars. It was entitled "The Use of Make-up and How to Apply It." Here I found another member of the class for the beauty specialist was none other than Mary Anderson. In the short program, "The Society Column," I learned to my astonishment that the former Doris Lutz, now married to one of the richest men in the country, was sailing for Europe that day to visit her old home in Germany.

Here I was interrupted by a ringing door bell. I answered it and found it to be Lucille Pugh who had come to pay me a social call. When I told her that I was trying to find out what all her classmates were doing she decided to join in the hunt. She informed me that she was director of physical education for women at Central High School in New York City. While on the way to my home she had met Aila McFarland and had a short conversation with her. Aila was in New York. She was in line to become the first feminine bank president in the United States.

By this time it was evening and Lucile and I decided to dine together at the "Chinese Pagoda." This was a new restaurant just opened and we both wanted to learn of its respectability.

On the announcement on the door was something which decided for us that it was respectable. It read: "Owned by Eloise Shaver". You find some people you are looking for where you least expect them.

When we walked in the door who should we see at a table not far away, but Leola Hackett and Helen Williamson. Upon inquiry we learned that these two girls had joined forces and entered into the interior decorating business. Because of her schooling, Leola made a capable business head while Helen took care of the designing and of the business in an adept manner. After dining, I called for the check. I walked up to pay it, and there before me was Marguerite Brothers. She was head cashier of the restaurant. In addition to this she kept the books for the firm. Yes indeed, she was a busy, but nevertheless, a capable lady.

As we left the restaurant we heard an airplane above our heads. It was just light enough to enable us to see the plane. It was one, the like of which I had never seen before. Lucile said that she had seen a picture of the plane in the morning paper. It was an invention of Harold Ross, who was the most prominent pilot of the world.

As we walked along the street we were attracted by a large office building in which the lights were burning. I remarked that the people in that office seemed to like work. When we passed the door I discovered why. On the door was a sign which read "Public Accountant, Head Accountant—Walter St. Clair." Walter was known in high school for the way he worked every day except, of course, the first day of the hunting season. One of his favorite hobbies now was big game hunting.

Leaving this street and turning into another, I found the home of the

New York Times. Lucille and I determined to see a newspaper plant in operation. When we entered, we learned that two Plymouth girls were heads of departments. We were shown to the society department and who should be in charge but Huldah Davis. Well, she developed the ability she showed in high school and now was in charge of twenty assistants, she being society editor. As we came to the last department, which was the art department, I asked the guide where the other Plymouth girl was. He answered "You will see her in just a minute." When we entered the department we saw no one we knew. At the other end of the room was a lady bending over a desk. When she straightened up and turned around, I saw, to my surprise, none other than Jane DeWitt. She was art editor of the paper. Since she had drawn the pictures adorning the pages of the Mayflower of 1931, she had been recognized as an artist and had rapidly reached the top.

Departing from the newspaper plant, I was surprised at first at a sign on a window across the street. But after a second I thought it seemed logical that the sign should be there. It read—Raymond Brooks—Legal Advisor.

By this time it was quite late and Lucille decided to return to her room at the Hotel Biltmore. As we entered the door there stood Miriam Donnenth. She also said that she had a rival from Plymouth, at the hotel across the street, who also was a member of her class. Upon inquiring who it was I found it to be Fred Keeler. He was Business Manager of the Pennsylvania Hotel. His commercial work in high school had helped him work his way to the job he now held.

But then, I discovered the strangest thing. In the shop next to the hotel was a gym class for working women. And who should be instructing there, but Lucille Moore. Despite the fact that she had been the largest one in the class, she was now a sight for sore eyes, for she certainly had slenderized herself.

Having seen what all the members of the class of 1931 were doing, I had nothing to do but to return home, a tired but happy person. Tired? Who wouldn't be after chasing all over, throughout the day. Happy? Because each member of the class had been successful in his or her individual work!

Consulting Director	Mr. R. R. Miller

SYNOPSIS

It is the longing of every young man when he reaches his seventeenth year to possess a full dress suit, and if he is not permitted to have one he often becomes quite a problem to mother and dad.

Willie fell in love with Lola Pratt, thus making the plot more complicated. He just had to have a dress suit to wear when he stepped out with his "lady friend." Dad objected! Poor Willie became quite discouraged and determined to earn his own. After many hours of "Mooning around," he pawned all his other clothes, and determined to earn the remaining amount of money needed by counting shingles for an old fellow—but—Jane, Willie's sister, as usual, spied on him; then ran and poured out the story to mother. Willie's plan is ruined. Finally Willie succeeds in getting his much desired dress suit and when Lola leaves him he grasps a firm hold on "mother's advice."

Throughout the whole play, the audience is kept in an uproar due to the keen wit and humor introduced by the author, Booth Tarkington, and to the splendid performances demonstrated by fourteen members of the Senior Class.

Produced by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York.

Activities

* * * * *

Junior-Senior Banquet

The Junior-Senior Banquet was held in the auditorium of the High School on April seventeenth. The members of the two classes and the faculty were present. Music for the dance later in the evening was furnished by Mr. Crimm and his "Varsity Band." It was a splendid banquet everyone agreed. The hall was decorated modernistically, using Senior Class Colors, Black and White.

Baccalaureate

Baccalaureate services took place in the Methodist Church on Sunday, May 24. Rev. Stull of the Lutheran Church delivered the sermon.

Commencement

Commencement exercises were held on May 29 in the auditorium of the High School. The Honorable James T. Begg delivered the commencement address. At one time Mr. Begg was a member of the House of Representatives from the thirteenth Ohio district.

Alumni Banquet

With the advent of the Alumni Banquet, which tradition in Plymouth has fixed as one of the activities of the Commencement season, the class of '31 have their last opportunity to be recognized as Seniors. From this time on they are known only as Alumni.

MOTTO—Do Noble Things, Not Dream Them.

FLOWER—American Beauty Rose

COLORS—Purple and Gold

Junior Class History

When the school bell first rang in the fall of 1920 about twenty small boys and girls entered school under the direction of Miss Moats.

The class progressed upward under the careful instructions of several teachers.

In 1928 they completed their elementary school training and were ready for high school. Twenty-nine pupils graduated from the 8th grade, but only 25 continued their journey in High School.

This year the membership is 23 including eight of the children who started in 1920. When the boys reached the 5th grade they organized a basketball team and later on that season took part in several tournaments, including the Huron County Jr.-Hi tournament in which they placed second.

In the latter part of January this year the play "His Uncle's Niece" was given to help finance the Jr.-Sr. banquet.

JUNIOR CLASS POEM

When you see a cozy spot
An orchard cool and sweet,
Do not sit thee down to rest
But amble down the street.

For our motto, though it's small,
Really is a perfect gem:
"Do Noble Things, My Friend,
Not sit thee down and dream them."

—Huldah Davis.

Sophomore Class

BACK ROW—Correl Scott, John Henry Gaskill, Rex Teal, Donald Feters, Arnold Munn, Dalton Sisinger, Marshall Henry.

Sophomore Class History

* * * * *

*I*N the fall of 1921, twenty-nine very bewildered children started their activities in the interests of the Plymouth Public Schools. After they had become acquainted with their surroundings and work they made steady progress along the grade of grades.

Each year after that, some students left the class and some new ones entered. Nothing of any importance happened in the next seven years as they progressed slowly but surely along the upward course.

The first great decrease in their enrollment occurred when they started in the eighth grade. Here nearly one-third of the class was left behind. It, however, was strengthened when they reached the freshman year and the enrollment increased to 24. At the present time there are 24 although several changes have been made.

SOPHOMORE CLASS POEM

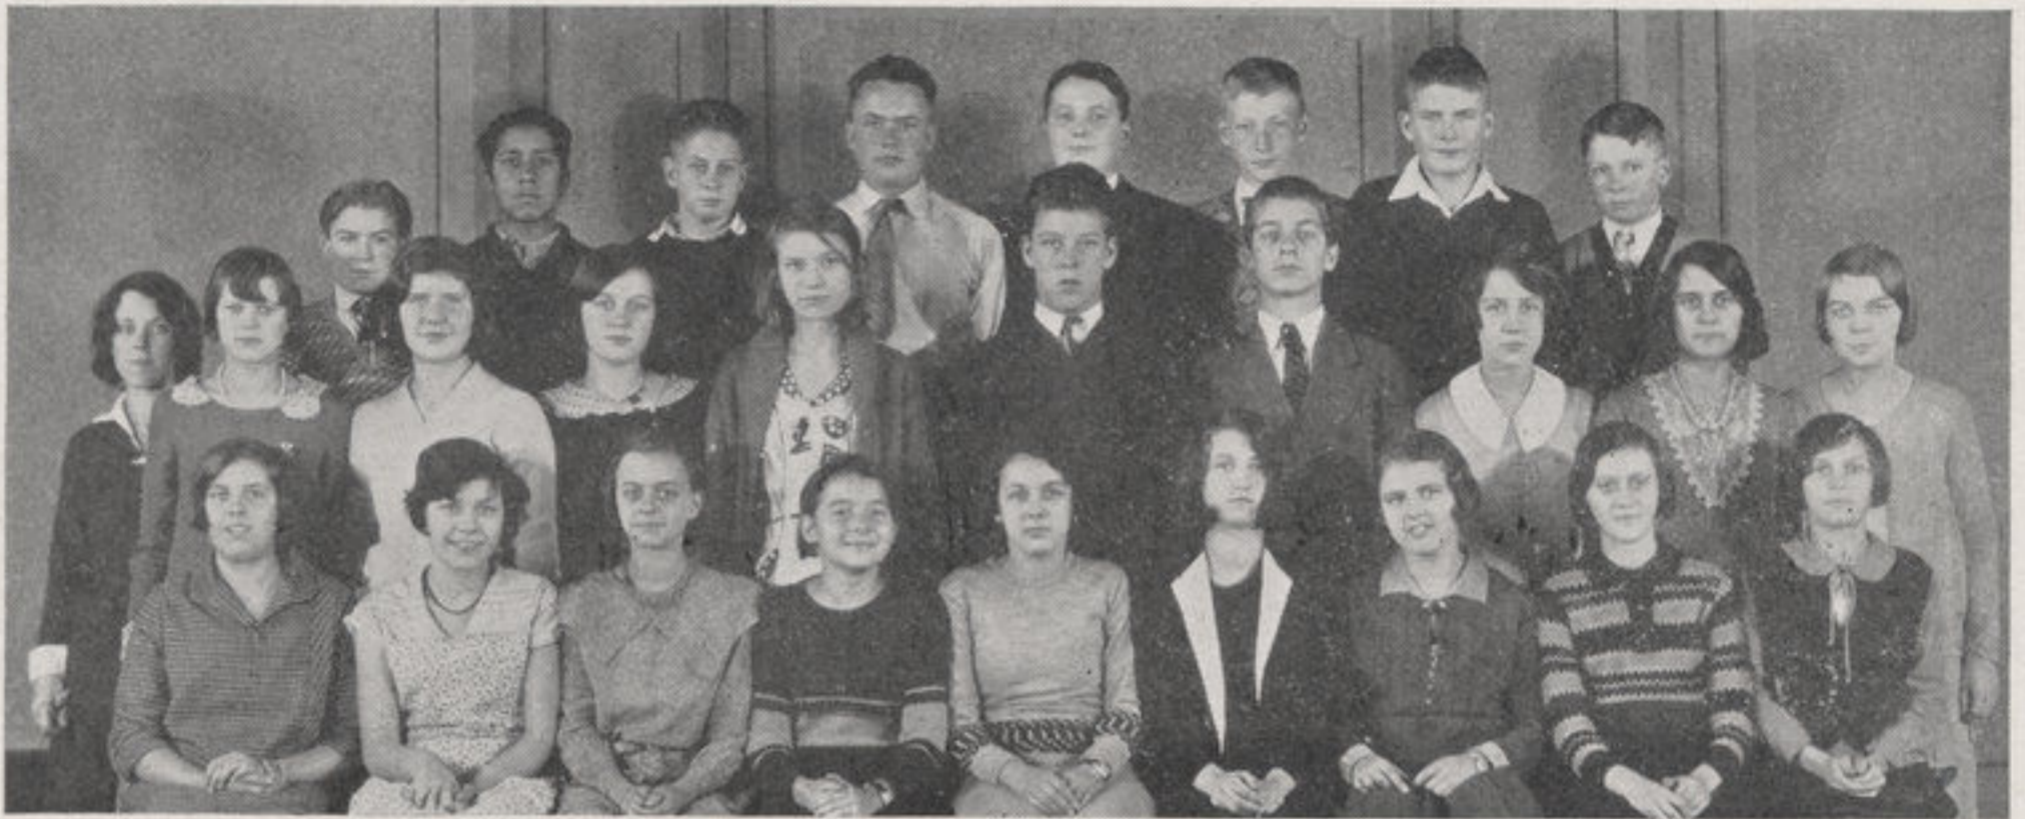

Life brings us many things
As we travel on our way,
Among the most enhancing
All the colors bright and gay.

We have chosen two today
From God's green handsome earth:
"Green grass, green for life
And Gold for worldly worth."

Freshman Class History

* * * * *

Twenty-nine "Six-Year-Olds" entered the portable building of the Plymouth Public School on September 11, 1922, to start their grammar-school education. Miss Nye was the instructor for these children and she did her utmost to start them on their upward journey the right way.

During the years that followed some pupils were dropped, others joined the class. Nothing of great importance hindered their advancement.

In the seventh and eighth years, the boys participated in junior High School basketball.

There are now twenty-four members in the class of '34, eleven of whom are charter members.

FRESHMAN CLASS POEM

You may travel far and wide,
You may study long and late,
You may think you've learned a lot,
To success you've found the gate.

You may listen with great interest
To what your true friend preaches,
But we'll still maintain our motto:
"It's Experience that Teaches."

—Huldah Davis.

Four Years of Memories

A Freshie green upon the Campus
I chanced to meet one day,
A Freshie in a cap of green,
And trousers black and gray.

His nose was red, I hope 'twas rouge,
And his clothes were tattered and torn,
No more the sissy of the town,
A new man had been born.

One leg of his pants was rolled to the knee,
The other one was the same,
I really had to laugh at him
Though I knew he wasn't to blame.

He'd stood and taken his medicine
As every man should do,
And now a full fledged Freshie was he,
So stern, so loyal, so true.

One year had passed; again I saw
A man in a sweater of red,
A man so straight and tall and lean
With a curly brown bare head.

But now he looked so wise
That he made me think of the bird
That sits in the tree unseen
But never quite unheard.

A Sophomore in the highest glory
Of all his school career,
A Sophomore who had learned to love
His Alma-Mater dear.

Two years of high school life had passed
And he was wishing now
That this was his very last
Of High School days, and how!

But September found him back again
In Dear Old Plymouth High
With laughter in his eyes and heart,
Not even knowing why.

Each night and day I chanced to meet
Him on the Campus green
And my heart was filled with pride to see
His body lank and lean.

The football captain of the squad
That whipped most every team,
A fellow loved by every girl
In her coffee he was the cream.

But I noticed that he hardly glanced
At any of the beauties rare,
But chose one girl whose eyes were blue,
And with a cloud of gold for hair.

And now a Senior dignified
In all he took to do,
The President of the Senior class
With colors gold and blue.

The Editor of the Annual
By the Seniors one and all,
A Senior who was never known
To fail or even stall.

Though he graduated with honors high
I glanced a tear drop in his eye
As he thought of all the good old times
He had had at Plymouth High.

A Senior who had entered in
All the rush and fun,
A Senior that old Plymouth High
Was proud to call her son.

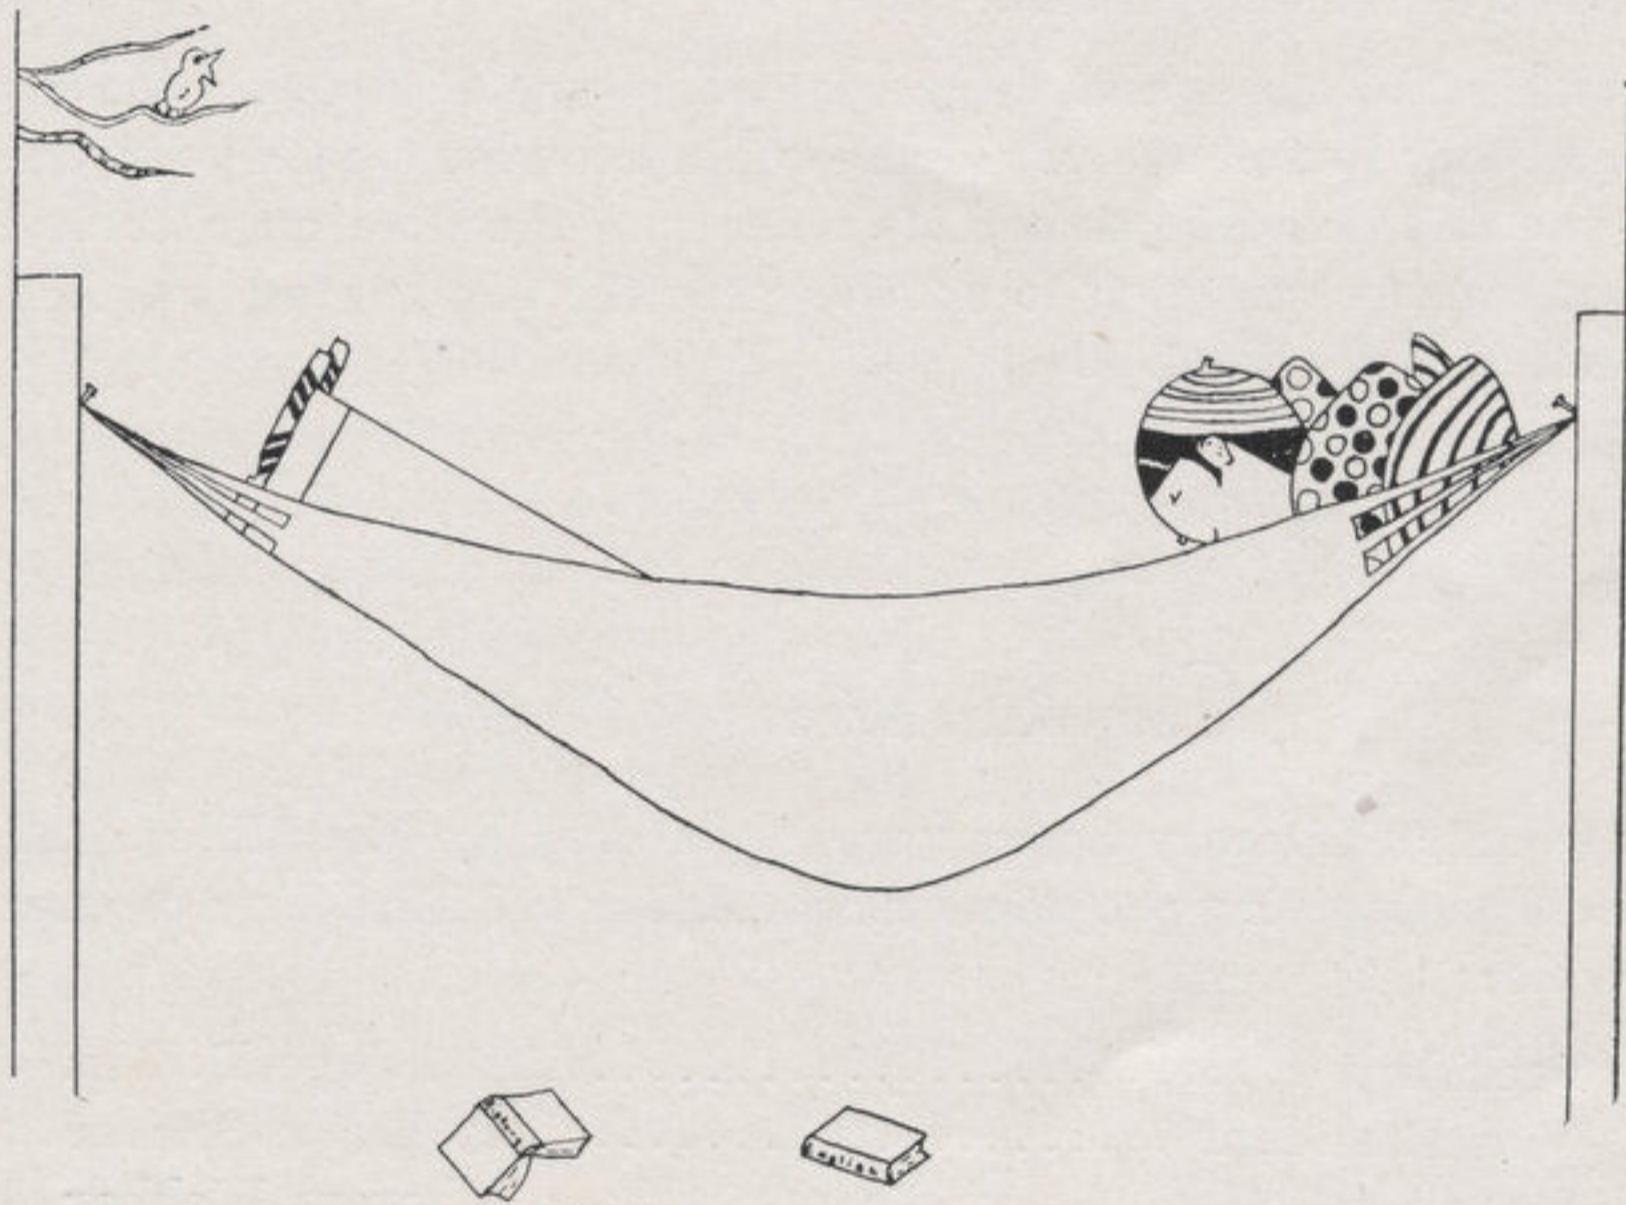

—Huldah Davis.

THE MAYFLOWER

Literary Societies

When the Clionian and Orythian Literary Societies were organized for the current school year, an amendment was added to the constitution which made the membership of these two club voluntary. A large number of the former members returned to their respective clubs and many new members were added to each one. Both clubs contributed their part to the Christmas program and to the cup contest.

Several years ago when the present Literary Societies were organized, the P. T. A. contributed a silver loving cup upon which, each year, the society winning the cup contest has had its name and the date engraved. Since it seemed an appropriate thing to do, this year the cup contest was held at the April meeting of the P. T. A.

Clionian Literary Society

The Clionian Literary Society was sponsored by Mr. Miller. They presented the Thanksgiving program and an Arbor and Bird Day program. The officers were:

President	Jane DeWitt
Vice President	Eloise Shaver
Secretary	Thomas Webber

Orythian Literary Society

The Orythian Literary Society chose Mr. Jenkins for their sponsor. They presented the Temperance Program and a February program. Their officers were:

President	Lucille Pugh
Vice President	Miriam Donnenwirth
Secretary	Huldah Davis

Student Council

The Student Council of P. H. S. is composed of the president of each class and one additional member from each of the three upper classes. It is customary that the president of the Senior class become the President of this body and this year Harry Long served in this position. The Student Council sponsored a Hallowe'en party for the benefit of the faculty and the students of P. H. S., which was a decided success. They also had charge of the Chapel programs every Wednesday morning which included the securing of a speaker and the selection of songs suitable for the occasion.

Commercial Club

The Commercial Club was under Mr. Derr's supervision. The club is composed of members interested in different phases in the commercial field. One of the requirements for success in the business world is social efficiency. This is reflected in the modern business world by the large number of luncheon clubs which business men sponsor.

During the past year it seems that the members of this club have devoted their entire energy toward the development of this trait.

Consequently the greater part of their activities consisted in the planning and giving of two parties. When the members of our present commercial club grow up and get into business, they will certainly be the star members of whatever luncheon clubs may be popular at that time. The following officers were chosen for the last half of the year:

President	Lucille Moore
Vice President	Huldah Davis
Secretary	William Moore

Prince of Peace Declamation Contest

The local Prince of Peace Declamation Contest was held in the Methodist Church on November 9, 1930. The three contestants were Lucille Pugh, Jane DeWitt and Huldah Davis. At the conclusion of the contest, Huldah Davis was presented with the first award, a bronze medal, and the privilege to speak in the county contest held in Mansfield on December 7, 1930. She was granted third place in this contest.

Friendship Club

The Friendship Club chose Miss Young for their sponsor. They accounted for the most active and beneficial year since the organization of this club. Ample material on friendship furnished subjects for their programs. Their work was also practical as they helped to keep up our friendly relationship with other schools who were our guests during the basketball season. The following were the officers of the club:

President Leola Hackett
Vice President Whitney Briggs
Secretary Doris Lutz

Art Club

The Art Club was under the direction of Mr. Derr this year as in former years. The first project consisted of the biographies and discussions of the works of famous authors by each member of the club. Then they worked on an actual practice project and many commendable sketches were drawn. A very beautiful painting of a ship drawn on black velvet was made by Harry Briggs and presented to the school. It now graces the walls of the Commercial Room. The following were officers for the year:

President Whitney Briggs
Vice President Harry Briggs
Secretary John Dick

Better English Club

The Better English Club made the improvement of the English spoken in the every day life by the members and others with whom they might come in contact with, their special project this year. In their meetings the programs were built around this idea. The solutions of cross-word puzzles provided a program for many interesting and profitable meetings. This club under the direction of Miss Pancoast had a very profitable year. The following were officers for the year:

President Correl Scott
Vice President Dick Webber
Secretary Walter Mumea

Science Club

The Science Club of P. H. S. was sponsored by Mr. Murlin. Actual practice projects and practical scientific experiments made their work intensely interesting. Various members gave beneficial reports at their regular meetings. Several members built radios which provided interesting and instructive work. The following officers were chosen for the last semester:

President	Don Einsel, Jr.
Vice President	Thomas DeWitt
Secretary	Donald Markley

Latin Club

The Latin Club was under the guidance of Miss Pancoast. Their meetings were made intensely interesting to all the members. They played Latin games, sang Latin songs and dramatized short Latin playlets. The following were elected to hold the designated offices for the year:

President	Ruth Lebold
Vice President	Helen Williamson
Secretary	Miriam Donnenwirth

Press Club

The Press Club completed one of the most profitable and active years in the history of this club. The main project of this club was editing the various items of interest at P. H. S. in the form of a miniature paper, the "P. H. S. Post," which was published every week. By the courtesy of Mr. Thomas the publication appeared in a section of the Advertiser. The Press Club members also made a tour of the local printing office and learned many interesting things concerning the editing of a newspaper. Mr. Murlin was the sponsor of this club. The following were elected officers for the year:

President	David Bachrach
Vice President	James Root
Secretary	Eloise Shaver

Parent Teacher's Association

The Parent-Teachers Association held their first meeting of 1930-'31 on Sept. 18th in the new building. There is an enrollment of 68 members this year. The officers for the new year were in charge:

Mrs. Teale	President
Mrs. S. Bachrach	Vice President
Mrs. Don W. Einsel	2nd Vice President
Mrs. H. Lippus	Secretary
Mrs. R. Dininger	Treasurer

An informal welcome was given the teachers at this meeting especially to the new ones.

During the year, the organization has not done a great deal to raise money. People in general are not as comfortable as usual this winter and were unable to respond as well as they would have liked to have done. The big event of the year for the P. T. A. was their entertainment and social time in March. It was successful in various ways.

The P. T. A. voted $15.00 toward a Rythm Band which was well spent. They also purchased a set of books, Pictured Knowledge for the schools. These are greatly enjoyed by the grade children. The group rehearsals for the school band were paid from this treasury as well as a deficit on the Rythm Band suits. These were red and white capes and hats.

Since the increased number of pupils staying for the hot lunch has placed a heavy burden on the Home Economics Department, the P. T. A. has assisted by having a member help each morning during the time in which the hot lunch was served. This help was appreciated, and helped financially as well.

Considering everything, the P. T. A. showed good progress in this term and they hope with the cooperation of all the parents and teachers to accomplish even more and better things in 1931-1932.

Wins Permanent Cup

The annual cup contest between the Clionian and Orythian Literary Societies was held at the high school auditorium Thursday night, April 16. The contestants performed before a goodly audience. Enthusiasm ran high as the Clionians had won this cup the last two years and a third victory would give them permanent possession of the cup. When the roll was called, almost the entire roster of both clubs answered.

The contest was held under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association and for judges they selected, Superintendent Crouch, Mrs. Crouch and Miss Jessie Cole, all of New Haven. These judges, after all was over totaled their score sheets, and found that the Clionians had come through and had won permanent possession of the Literary cup by getting 1283 points to the 1210 points of the Orythians.

Girls' Basket Ball

THE 1930-31 Red and White lassies finished another successful season of basketball under the direction of their coach Helen Pancoast. Their season's record was nine won and eight lost.

Due to the lack of a County Tournament this year the County Championship was determined on the basis of the number of games won and lost in county competition. As a result the girls finished third in the standings, winning six and losing three.

The only County team to defeat the girls twice during the season was the Lucas sextet, who copped the Richland County Championship. In all probability if the girls had been given a chance to show their wares in the Tournament, they would have given a good account of themselves.

The team showed marked improvement near the end of the season, especially in the Shiloh game, the final of the year. This was a nip and tuck affair with the Plymouth Sextet edging out ahead 44 to 40. Incidentally the girls were defeated earlier in the season by this same team, who were runners up in the County League.

High scorers for the year were Lucille Pugh, who gathered a total of 209 points followed by Moore and Sourwine, with 160 and 58 respectively.

Those lost through graduation this year are Lucille Pugh, "31" Captain, one of the finest players ever turned out at Plymouth High; Lucille Moore second in total points for the season; Shaver and Hackett, scrappy guards; along with Mary Anderson, Miriam Donnenwirth and Aila McFarland.

There is a favorable outlook for another winning team next year with Sourwine, a snappy forward, Aslakson, a fine little guard, and Lebold to return from last year's team, besides a number of Freshmen and Sophomores.

County Champions

The Pilgrims this year had one of the best teams in the history of the school and enjoyed the best season since Jenkins has been coach at P. H. S. For five years it has been the ambition of Jenkins to coach the Richland County Champs. This year his hopes were fully realized. The Coach Jenkins crew went out at the first of the season and got off to a royal start winning their first seven games, and establishing some kind of a record doing it. They first tasted the sting of defeat on an enemy floor and even then only by a narrow margin of five points. The Pilgrims then started another string of victories only to have it stopped after a win of seven more wins (there seemed to be a jinx on the eighth game every time this season.)

The boys had a well nigh perfect year, losing only one contest in the county and one outside fray until the last four games of the season and then disaster overtook the P. H. S.'ers. The entire squad contracted colds and the last four games were lost to teams that could have been beaten. It was then only a week until the big championship tournament and at that time prospects for a winning team at the tourney did not look so bright. But while we think about it, the Skippers, notwithstanding the last four defeats on their schedule, were at the top of the County Loop League when the regular season came to a close. This fact probably gave them confidence, and so on the twenty-sixth of February the Plymouth cagers treked to Mansfield. In their first game they took Butler for a ride by the healthy margin of 23-2. The only points scored by their opponents in this game were on foul shots. The Skippers skipped back to Mansfield High Gym February twenty-eighth to resume the battle for county honors. They met the strong Green and White of Madison and held them to a stand-still, winning by a score of 30 to 20, earning for themselves the right to go to the finals.

The winning of the county championship was a double honor for the Pilgrims. It gave them the pleasure of defeating their traditional rivals Shiloh, by the lopsided score of 9 to 16, in a fast game that left no doubt as to the better team and won the trophy and the title of Richland County Champs.

Winning the county title gave the Pilgrims the right to participate in the sectional tournament at Crestline. Here they did not fare so well losing their first game to Sulphur Springs in a hard fought battle by a margin of seven points, 31-24.

Captain Bachrach was high point man for P. H. S. He collected a total of 135 points. Briggs, Ross and Webber followed closely with 110, 99, and 86 points respectively. Plymouth scored 454 points against 367 made by their opponents in the regular season. In tournament play P. H. S. got 82 markers to 38 for the opposition. The Pilgrims placed two men on the all-county team, Briggs at forward and Mumea at guard. Even though the squad loses three men off the first team and two off the second the prospects for a fine season next year are excellent.

Following are the games played of which 15 were won and 6 were lost in the regular season:

Spring Track

FIRST ROW—Root, Storck, Ross, St. Clair, Bachrach, Webber, Stoodt.
 MIDDLE ROW—Manager Grimmer, Cornell, DeWitt, Briggs, Hale, Fox,
 Munn, Moore, Coach Jenkins.
 BACK ROW—Holmes, Gribben, Henry, Myers, Scott, Biddinger, Mumea.

THE P. H. S. cinder artists have shown signs of completing a successful track season under the competent supervision of Coach T. S. Jenkins. Since the team has been handicapped by the lack of a good track, they have not fared very well in early meets.

This year nearly all of the meets were scheduled for Saturday, making it difficult for the full strength of the team to be represented, and causing us to lose early in the season.

When the call for spring track was issued, twenty-six boys responded. In this group, Jenkins had experienced men, in Webber, Long, Briggs, Bachrach, Captain Ross and St. Clair. Incidentally there were two outstanding men in this contingent: Briggs a crack half-miler, who has copped first place in nearly all meets of class B competition; and Long who does a neat job of broad jumping.

The aim of the team this year is to win honors at the District Meet to be held at Mansfield May 15-16. In three previous years at these meets the team has shown rapid improvement. The first year at Ada they made only one point. The next season at Ada the team placed sixth and last year at Mansfield tied for third place.

Cross Country

BACK ROW—Manager Dick, Briggs, Ross, St. Clair, Biddinger, Coach Jenkins.

* * * * *

Cross-Country at Plymouth High is on the up and up, as the past seasons record shows. Now to be sure everyone knows what cross-country really is. There is nothing more complicated than a run of two and one-half miles over hill and dale. It requires hard training but in the end gives the boys that take part in it the stamina and good health that comes only to the true athlete. The low score wins in a meet, the first man in for a side counts one, the next two, third three and so on.

Last fall when the call for candidates for the team was posted about fifteen responded. Later when the team was picked Coach Jenkins scheduled five meets for his lads, three dual meets, two with Mansfield and one with Norwalk were unsuccessful from the Plymouth viewpoint, but, they revealed the fact that some promising material was being developed for the North Central Ohio district meet at Mansfield, and for the state meet at Columbus. At the N. C. O. meet the Plymouth harriers finished well up in the money, eighth out of nineteen starting teams.

Whitney Briggs was the big shot for Plymouth finishing first for them.

However the best showing of the year was made at the State Meet, and it was a real test for the boys. Plymouth (considering the fact that of all the teams there they were the only class "B" team) did very well. There were twenty full teams entered. Salem, which incidently, won the meet and set a new state record.

Dayton Roosevelt, Columbus East, Cleveland Parma, Lakewood, Toledo Scott, were some of the best, others of high caliber, such as Columbus South, Lima Central, and Lima South were beaten by the P. H. S. team. Add to this first class opposition a cold, wet, dreary, rainy day and you have to give the men of Plymouth credit for placing tenth as a team.

"Whit" Briggs was again the big gun for Plymouth Hi finishing 27th. of 152 that started. "Hersh" Ross was next placing 50th. out of the large field.

To fans who are interested, the prospects for next year are taking on a rosy hue. Jenkins has a "whole flock" of Seniors to be, and Juniors to form a nucleus for its new team. The only men lost being Captain St. Clair, Dave Bachrach, Hersh Ross and Squi Long.

ARGUMENT

Reginald Montgomery and his friends have planned a picnic with his mother as chaperon. But Reginald, to play a joke on the rest, and also to convince them that they are, as he says, a "bunch of snobs," decides to take his mother's cook to the picnic, disguised as a titled lady. To do this he has to bribe his mother's chauffeur to lose the road and cause her to be late in arriving at the scene of the picnic.

Meanwhile Reginald's friends fully justify his opinion of them by making much ado over Patricia. The party is enlivened by the appearance of two gypsy fortune tellers, also by Cy Simpkins, the comedian of the play, and Warren Miles, a farmer who falls in love with Patricia.

Upon Mrs. Montgomery's arrival explanations ensue, and the party are much chagrined to find that they have been entertaining a cook, but they soon get over this attitude.

Jimmy receives a telegram, brought out to him by Mrs. Montgomery which orders him to leave for South America on business to be gone a year. As he must leave the next morning he begs Margaret Winthrop, his fiancee, to marry him at once. When she agrees, Reginald suggests that Patricia and Warren be married the same night.

It is evident that the whole party have reformed, when they all agree—even Mrs. Montgomery consenting—after a good deal of persuasion—to go back to town and celebrate the double wedding.

Glee Clubs

The Glee Clubs have been very successful this year under the capable instruction of Miss Lucille Fenner. The Girls' Glee Club meets every Monday and is composed of forty-two members, with Eloise Shaver, President, Madeline Smith, Vice President and Ruth Lebold, Librarian. The Boys' Glee Club meets every Tuesday and is composed of thirty-eight members, with Deryl Storck, President, Harry Briggs, Vice President and Don Einsel, Librarian. The clubs have made five appearances during the school year.

They sang two selections at the Prince of Peace Declamation Contest, and a selection at the Eastern Star Convention. The Glee Clubs worked hard on their Operetta "Patricia." Their last appearances were at Baccalaureate and Commencement.

ORCHESTRA

IN former years, when music was needed for social activities, it was secured by hiring an orchestra, or improvising one of "picked players." This year the school was able to have music from the same players at all school functions. This was possible through the efforts of Don Einsel, Jr. in organizing the "Varsity Band," a dance orchestra, which was under the supervision of Mr. Crimm, instrumental music instructor. Practice was held every week. The "bunch" appeared at various activities, mainly, the Junior-Senior Banquet, Student Council Hallowe'en Party, Junior Play and Senior Play. The "Varsity Band" is composed of "Red" Einsel, 1st trumpet and leader; "Cliff" DeLancy and "Rudy" Scott, second trumpets; "Chuck" Groden, clarinet; "Don" Feters, saxophone; "Jim" Shepherd, trombone; "Jason" Murlin, bass; and "Ma" Einsel, piano.

BAND

Under the able leadership of Mr. Crimm, Band instructor in Plymouth schools, the band has made great advancements. Students who were unable to play any instrument last year, are at the present time far enough advanced to enable the formation of a band.

Mr. Crimm offered his services free in connection with group rehearsal as long as he had a total of fifteen pupils. On account of financial conditions this year there was not a sufficient number to take advantage of this offer. Therefore the P. T. A. paid the balance so that a half hour of band instruction costs the students nothing.

Although the musicians are rather young we are looking forward to great things from this group next year. Following is the list of players and their respective instruments:

Solo Trumpet—Dayton Cramer
Solo Trumpet—Harold Miller
1st Trumpet—Rex Teal
1st Trumpet—Thomas DeWitt
2nd Trumpet—Tony Fenner
2nd Trumpet—Edwin Babcock
Solo Clarinet—Charles Grodin

1st Clarinet—Paul Root
1st Alto—Ray Dawson
1st Violin—Phyllis Clark
1st Violin—Maxine Myers
Saxophone—Richard Majors
Snare Drum—Frederick Mills
Bass Drum—Ralph Scott

SYNOPSIS

Florida, so it seems, is a dreamplace for many people. Some seek health and happiness, some wealth and positions, others just a gay good time. We are introduced to a number of such people in one of the Palm Beach hotels. The gay young set rushes madly on in a brilliant social whirl, and we are given a glimpse “under the surface of things.” Kenneth Nielson, a son of wealth, plays a hand of romance in a slightly different manner. He meets and woos Eloise Reswick, one of the social buds. A number of situations arise—Kenneth’s friends try to assist—Cupid plays a merry old game with the whole crowd—but in the end they all find happiness— and “THAT’S THAT!

Seventh Grade History

In nineteen twenty-four the first grade class consisted of twenty-four members. That year the teacher was Miss Nye. Steady progress was made and nothing of great importance happened until we entered the sixth grade. That year under the supervision of Miss Fenner we gave a May Day Operetta in the High School Auditorium. There are thirty-six members in the present class. Mr. Derr is our Class Sponsor.

Eighth Grade History

At the present there are only eleven members of the class that started in the old building eight years ago. We were guided through our first year by Miss Nye. We continued our course through the grades without anything of great importance happening. Then we were eligible to enter Junior High. Our high school career was under the supervision of various teachers. This year we were very fortunate in securing Miss Young for our faculty advisor.

The professor was delivering the last lecture of the term. He told the students with much emphasis that he expected them to devote all their time to preparing for the final exams. "The examination papers are now in the hands of the printer," he concluded. "Now, is there any questions you would like answered?" Silence prevailed for a minute then a voice piped up.

"Who is the printer?"

"Everyone is crazy over me," said the inmate of the first floor of an insane asylum.

"Jane, because you are so secretive, I want to break our engagement. But tell me what are you keeping from me?"

"Your diamond ring."

Never laugh at a pug nose because you never know what will turn up next.

Oberlin School of Commerce

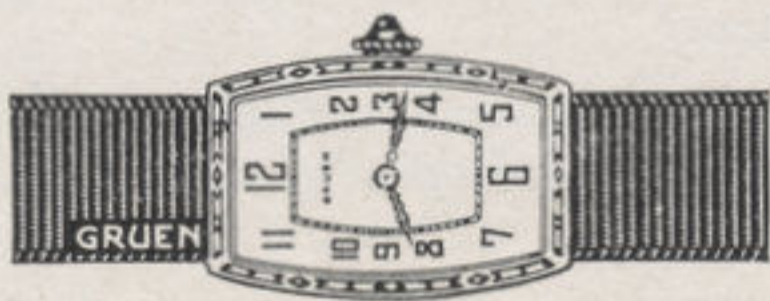

The Oberlin School of Commerce is in the midst of another prosperous year. It differs from other business schools of Ohio in that it admits only high school graduates and only at the beginning of terms. This makes it possible to do a high grade of work and accounts for its great reputation in sending out graduates trained for the better positions, many of whom are drawing salaries of $5000 to $10,000 a year, while several are millionaires.

It offers a two year Business Administration Course, a two year Executive Secretarial Course, Stenographic and other shorter courses. It is one of the seven business schools of Ohio, Accredited by the State Department of Public Instruction. The courses and instruction offered are of college grade.

Any seniors interested in advanced courses of business training would have unusual opportunities at Oberlin, where they would study with others of their own age and education and would not be held back with those who have little or no high school training. Graduates of this school frequently work their way through college with their business and secretarial training.

A bricklayer said to a foreman on a new job, "I'd like to work here but I can't find a place to park my car."

The foreman replied: "I guess you won't do. This is a high class job and we want only bricklayers who have chauffeurs."

The young lady who parked her Chandler in forbidden land returned some two hours later to find a large and patient policeman curled up in the front seat awaiting his prey. Making a quick decision she stepped in a taxi, drove home and telephoned the police department that her car had been stolen. An hour later it was returned by the same policeman looking not the least baffled but proud of his alertness.
