Home Port

TO these walls come boys and girls from the homes of Cass Township, together with those of Shiloh Village, and high school pupils of adjoining townships. Many happy hours are spent here with textbooks, library helps, activities, teachers and classmates.

The elementary department operates on the departmental system: teachers teaching subjects in which they have liking and training rather than the given grade distribution. This division of the school was recently granted a Certificate of First Class Standard Elementary School.

The six-year high school has been operating under a First Class High School standard since September, 1928, and work in this department includes special attention now given to music and physical education.

Parents visit us well here. They come in hundreds to night school sessions so that they may know how we live for eight hours each day, and how we learn to live for the future.

“To live and die in scenes like this,
With some we’ve left behind us.”

—Moore.

Dedication

TO our Parents through whose efforts and sacrifice our school life has been brought to this most successful climax, we appreciately and lovingly dedicate this Periscope.

Forecast

THE CLASS of 1931, in spite of a period of depression and outlook, brings to its readers and friends this record of the most serious and critical of our school years. Its hopes are that this book may find appreciative readers.

"We soon or late shall navigate
The azure, as now we sail the sea."

—Trowbridge

Naval Navigations

To bring back fond memories
Of when you were Jack and Jill,
And plodded off, half-willingly
Up the grade at Mente's hill.

We wish to paint a picture
Of school life that has been;
To you recall those happy hours,
That again you'd gladly spend.

To share with you our school life
The happiest days of all;
When you, as carefree, clamored
Half-stamping down the hall.

We choose the mighty flag ship,
To span us o'er the blue,
And waving high our colors,
We brightened up the crew.

And so upon a steady rock
We anchor; holding fast,
And planning for the future,
We lay aside the past.

—Ethel Willet.

Our Sailing Song "Stand Up and Cheer"

Stand up and cheer;
Cheer loud and long for dear old Shiloh
For tonight we raise
The red and white above the rest.

Our teams are fighting,
And they are bound to win the fray;
We've got the team;
We've got the steam,
And this is dear old Shiloh's day.

To this group of men comes the duty of the provision for funds, adequate building, and supplies, for the proper administration of the local schools.

There is not an easy task for to them there is responsibility of carrying forward a progressive program of educational advantages for the youth of our community even in the face of depression. The day demands a continued education for the child whose struggle for social and economic adjustment will be even greater in the future.

The business acumen and forward looking policies, together with the aggressiveness of their executive, have brought the Cass Township Schools to an enviable standard in our county and among schools of the state.

SENIOR LOG

In the fall of 1927 a crew of nineteen started out from port Freshman for the goal of landing, Commencementville. We chose for our captain, Chester Troxell, and keeper of the records, Nellie Patterson.

On our way we were entertained by the S. S. Sophomore, a faster ship, that could make the journey quicker. We had a very troubled sea the first nine months and many of the crew were thrown overboard. Twelve of us were left at the end of our first journey. These we retained until we reached our goal, Commencementville. At last we came to the harbor of Sophomore.

Our steady crew of twelve was all ready and eager to start in the fall of '28 for our harbor, Junior. We chose for our captain, Marguerite Shaffer, and keeper of the ship's log, Dora Bloom. Nothing of any importance happened in this year except a party we furnished for one of the slower ships, Freshman.

In the fall of '29 we entered into our journey with more zest than formerly because we were then Juniors and many things needed our attention. Our sea was unusually calm, which it always is before a storm, until we came within a few weeks of Port Senior. We had a banquet on deck of our ship to another who had already reached a desired goal, the S. S. Senior. We had a splendid reception because everyone thought that we might never see these fine schoolmates again. At last we reached our Port Senior where we again changed ships, this time taking the S. S. Senior for the last lap of our journey.

We elected new officers this lap of the journey, our old ones being Doris Clark, captain, and Dora Bloom, again keeper of the ship's log.

The new officers to assume the responsibility of the Senior year were Chester Troxell, captain and Harmon Roethlisberger, keeper of the ship's log. This time there were more things to look over and more cares to shoulder than ever before. We had to put out a yearbook, give a couple of plays and other miscellaneous things.

At last we have come to the port we strived for, Commencementville. Our sturdy twelve are still together. Our journey has not been very tempestuous and we are all very glad so many of us could reach the desired goal at the same time.

—Marguerite Shaffer.

Valedictory "Your Choice"

Tinker, tailor, soldier, sailor—what shall I be when I grow up? Who has not played at this childish game, and is it childish after all? Is it not a question that confronts us from time to time all through our youth? We hear about having a call to do this or that. Hasn't everyone a call—and happy is he who finds his own little niche in this great adventure of life.

All of us at some time are bewildered by the possibilities of jobs open to us, or apparently open to us, for when we actually come to choose, these possibilities narrow down uncomfortably.

Practically nine-tenths of humanity does not choose its jobs. The people do not swim either with or against the current; they merely drift until they are caught in this or that little eddy and swirled into some niche along shore where they stay. The majority are neither really satisfied nor suited to the work and right here lies the cause of the inefficiency and unrest in the world of occupations today.

The pity of it is that no one needs to drift. It is perfectly possible to choose wisely and actually to find work that is satisfying. Vocational guidance is taught in the schools, and if you lack this help do not be discouraged.

Occasionally early in life a child has a strong inclination toward some particular pursuit. This is nature's calling and should be followed. A humorous incident is told of Rev. Isaac Watts, the great hymn writer. His father became disgusted with the child's constant rhyming and whipped him until the little fellow wailed out amid his sobs and said, "Dear father, do some pity take, and I will no more verses make."

Too often a vocation is chosen on account of its lucrative value. While there is no harm in wanting to make money, yet it should not be our highest aim. It seems to me service should be our goal. What can we do to serve this present age? We make the mistake of measuring one's success by his financial achievements, while some of the most beautiful lives full of rich service to God and man go unappreciated.

After choosing one's life work and being sure that we have chosen correctly, don't let us be sidetracked. Do not let the first obstacle that looms up overcome us. Do as our motto says, "Climb though the rocks be rugged." The greatest asset one can have is will power. If you look over the lives of great men of any age you cannot but be impressed with this fact, that there was something within them that inspired them to rise. What was it: Superior mental endowments? Very rarely it is so. Almost invariably there is but one answer, namely, the power of will. The first class orator or reader or teacher or preacher is rare, but when one is found and you scan him closely you will find he resolved to be a master of circumstances, while the masses drifted with those circumstances. Difficulties were not obstacles, neither a cause for discouragement or defeat. Why, difficulties were the very things made for the will to combat and overcome.

Another thing, don't be afraid of making mistakes. The story of the epitaphs on two tombstones is recalled to my mind. The epitaph on one tombstone was, "This man made mistakes and built a city." On the other stone was written, "This man made no mistakes and died in obscurity." Which man would you prefer to be? It is the man who doesn't try who makes no mistakes.

And now, dear classmates, I wish to close my message with the oft repeated words:

"If you think you are beaten, you are;
If you think you dare not, you don't;
If you want to win but think you can't
It's almost certain you won't.
If you think you have failed, you have,
For out in the world we find
Success begins with a fellow's will;
It's all in the state of mind."

—JUANITA HUDDLESTON

Salutatory "Friendship"

"In the ancient town of heart's goodwill,
There's a flower bordered street;
Where the sun shines, and the song birds trill
Where the best folks daily meet."

The value of friendship is perhaps the most highly prized thing of all. One is continually meeting friends. They may be and say they are friends but in a time of need they fail you. The valued friend is the true friend and is highly prized, because there are not so many true friends left.

"The first who comes in when the whole world goes out."

This is the definition that one person gave in a contest and received first prize. It is perhaps the best definition one can give for the word "Friendship."

Some men are heard to say they are "down and out." They may be down but they are never out. When one is heard to say he is down and out, that is the time for a true friend to show his colors. It is the time when man is most in need of a good friend. If one will help a man in this position and help him in a friendly way and not just as a matter of fact they may be classed as a true friend. There is great value in being a friend to a man who says he is down and out. It helps one and also gives one some knowledge of human nature. It widens his experience of knowing people and it forms many and charming friendships.

Emerson said that a true friend will die for his friend. This may be a little far-fetched. One can be a friend and still not die for a friend.

The real spirit of friendliness is perhaps cheerfulness and helpfulness. If one is a friend, he is always showing them bright and not the gloomy side of life.

"Stand with anybody that stands right. Stand with him while he is right but part with him when he is wrong."

Lincoln may have meant these words for political purposes, and he may have meant them for friendship, but nevertheless, it makes sense to apply it to friendship. If one always stands by a friend he may be sure that friend will stand by him.

John Wesley perhaps illustrated friendship the best when he said:

Do all the good you can;
By all the means you can;
In all the places you can;
In all the ways you can;
To all the people you can;
As long as ever you can.

The story of how, perhaps one of the most widely read poems of yesterday and today came to be written is probably familiar to everyone, but it is a poem that will never grow old. This poem was written by Sam Walter Foss.

One day Mr. Foss was taking a journey. He was very fond of walking, so he sent his trunk on ahead and decided to walk the rest of his journey. When he was almost to his place of destination he came to a sign by a spring which read, "Drink if you are thirsty." He did this and found himself much refreshed. Nearby was a bench. On this bench was painted a sign, "Rest if you are tired." Being quite tired from his journey he sat down to rest. He espied a basket of apples sitting near the bench and on this basket of apples was the sign, "If you like apples help yourself." While he was enjoying one of the delicious apples a man came up to him. Mr. Foss asked him if he could explain all the signs. He said that the spring water was good and no one was using it so it might benefit travelers. His mother had reminded him of the old bench in the attic and he had gotten it down and fixed it up and placed it at a convenient place for travelers to rest. They also had more apples than they could use that year so they decided to give them away. After hearing this story Sam Walter Foss went on his way rejoicing at the goodness of that man to his fellowmen. This incident inspired the writing of the poem, "The House by the Side of the Road."

Senior Class Will

WE THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1931, being of sound mind, do solemnly make, publish, and declare this to be our last will and testament, hereby declaring all other wills null and void, and do appoint by due process of law, Mr. Shook and Miss Greeno, as sole executors of this will.

ARTICLE ONE

To the Juniors, we leave our name, Seniors, provided such is treated respectfully and carried with dignity.

To the Sophomores, we will the privilege of giving the next year's Seniors as cheap a banquet as possible.

To the Freshmen, we leave the consolation that perhaps future Freshmen will be greener than they have been.

To the janitor, we leave the ability of several Seniors to sweep halls.

To the seventh grade, we leave all toys and demerit slips. May they be appreciated.

To Mr. Shook, we leave the consolation that 1932 Seniors will make as much noise as the Class of '31.

To the Sophomores, we give the privilege of winning next year's Volley Ball games.

ARTICLE TWO

NELLIE PATTERSON leaves her power over the Ruckman males to Oleta Ruckman—merely family heritage.

HARMON ROETHLISBERGER bestows his perfect understanding of feminine nature to Charles Russell. Perhaps then Charles will make some headway with the Shelby girls.

JUANITA HUDDLESTON leaves her basketball skill and vocal talent to Dana Niswonger.

ELDEN MOSER wills to Paul Kranz his talent and ability in acting the role of the perfect lover.

DORIS CLARK wills her spinal disorder to John Yockey, since it has been overheard that John has fallen arches.

JOHN SWARTZ bequeaths his faculty for going places, seeing people, and doing things, to Wilson Mohn.

DORA BLOOM leaves her self-expression and ability to make men "fall" to June Shafer.

WALLACE FIRESTONE wills his constancy to Harold Fair, knowing that it will not be overtaxed.

CATHERINE DICK wills her success in fishing to Mr. Bushey. May he improve his present methods.

ETHEL WILLET hands down her fairy-like ways to Mildred Downend.

MARGUERITE SHAFFER wills her love for the teachers to Ruth Weaver.

CHESTER TROXELL leaves to Earl McQUATE the continuation of his frequent "business trips" to Shelby.

SHIP'S LOG

IN SEPTEMBER, 1928, twenty-one sailors, green, but willing, embarked on the Frigate, for the four-year voyage from Port Freshman to Graduation Point. The ship's officers during the first year were: Winifred Black, captain; Richard Harnly, keeper of the treasure and log, and Mabel Barnd, ship's scribe for the flag ship news.

At the beginning of the second year, we found our number had diminished by three, but we welcomed two new members: Robert Wharton and John Yockey. Thus, the crew for the second year, numbered twenty. June Shafer was elected captain, Jane Bushey, log lady, and Winifred Black, writer for the ship's crew news.

The third year, present writing, found the following officers in command: Mabel Barnd, captain; Charles Russell, secretary-treasurer, and Hildred Fackler, writer of the log. Miss Phillips was chosen ship's advisor. This year's voyage has proven a more difficult one, and five members of the crew have withdrawn from ship.

Various activities on board ship are cited as follows: Richard Harnly and Robert Wharton took part in "Paying the Fiddler," Woodrow Huston and June Shafer took part in "Betty Lou," as principals, while the rest of the crew took part in dances and choruses. Stanley Moser is the editor of the Shiloh High Sentinel, and five other members of the staff are sailors on this junk.

Four members of the Junior crew received letters as distinctive of services of valor on Basketball Lifeboat, while another received her service stripes. One Junior boy received the Flag of Basketball, and others, numbering three, received the stripes, or numerals.

To take on ship's treasure, the class engaged in selling candy, magazines, and a box social, thus providing for the feast ended to older sailors of the great Ship Shiloh. Sufficient will be left to assure the crew a safe voyage during the next voyage.

The outstanding social event of the year was the feast served to members of the crew, Senior Salts, and Master Seamen and Women, on May 8th. The hold of the great ship was prettily decorated to fit the occasion and the ship we command.

The Junior year seems to be the critical one of the four-year apprenticeship of seaman preparation; ours has been one filled with plenty of work, activity and pleasure. Complaints have been heard from some of the crew because of work, but our voyage can only be successful when all work with a will.

We hope that our crew may all be with us in the last year's experiences before we set up ship severally and singly in the voyage of life. May the ship bear us safely to our destination, and shall we not heed the great seaman's challenge, "Sail on, and on, and on."

Sailors of the Lugger

Sophomores

SHIP'S LOG

WHEN this class came to the good ship Shiloh High, there was a bit of the land lubber's limber nature in our sea legs. Eighteen members of the crew were signed up by the Bosswain for the first year's training.

Algebra, General Science, English, Guidance, Shops, Animal Husbandry, Home Economics, and the activities of the ship kept this bunch of green would-be sailors continually on the job.

Some of the embryo sailors got sea-sickness and withdrew from ship's roster: Viola Porter, Harry Seaman, Walter Baker and Dollie Thomas.

Apprentice-seamen that came from other elementary points of training were: Oleta Ruckman, Shelby; Martha Landis, Plymouth; Elverda Warner, Norwalk, and Leon Laser, Ganges.

During this year there have come two sailormen: Rex White, of Rome, and Wilson Mohn, Adario—and a yoemanette, Ruth Hayes, of Shelby.

Our crew at the present writing numbers twenty-one, and our Master Sailor, Mr. Shook, has guided us well during this year's training.

The thoughts of the class are saddened by the loss of Walter Baker, to whose memory we space the remainder of this page.

Freshmen

SHIP'S LOG

WHEN school opened this Fall the Freshmen had a class enrollment of thirty-two. The former members of the class were Clara Backensto, Ervela Backensto, Miriam Boor, Jean Brumbach, William Clark, Winogene Dick, Arthur Downend, Harold Fair, Robert Gundrum, Hubert Hamman, Roland McAllister, Mary Mills, Earl Mitchell, Ross Moser, Virgil Noble, Teddy Patterson, Dale Reynolds, Woodrow Shaffer, Howard Sloan and Russell Ramey, who welcomed our new class mates, Oris Arnold and Pauline Wells of Rome; Beatrice Weidner of Gamble School; Laura Laser, Ray Laser and Lois Cline of Ganges; Roger Pugh, and George Myers of London School; Foster Keineth of Paradise School; Ruth Weaver of Lights School; Henry Barnhart of Griffith School and Genevieve Scott of Los Angeles, Calif.

Our class mates that left us were Florence Heller of Monroe, Wash., Stanley Gribben of Plymouth, and Maxine Braderick of Shelby.

The Sophomore entertained us with a wiener roast which everyone enjoyed.

When the Literary Societies organized sixteen Freshmen were chosen for each society.

A class meeting was held March 4 to select the motto: "Forteo Fortuna Juavat," which translated means, "Fortune helps the brave," and the class colors are green and gold.

Watch we Freshmen grow to be the sailors of the finest and fastest ship at Shiloh's sea.

Sailors of the Cutter

Eighth Grade

SHIP'S LOG

ON SEPTEMBER 2, 1930, a class of seventeen entered the Shiloh High School. This class was full of vim, vigor and good spirit and came well to ship's rulings, a little green, shaky, but determined.

The junior sailors were: Betty Au, Marie Bloom, William Boldt, Jean Clark, Mildred Cox, Keith Dawson, Janice Dick, Mary Ferell, Frederick Gutshall, Beatrice Howard, Jack Mitchell, Bernita Nesbitt, John Russell, Mary Sloan, Carl Smith, Maxine Washburn.

This class has weathered the storms of the eighth grade sea and in the state eighth grade test found six of the cutter's crew on the top deck, and a seventh crowding that.

The cutter cut up capers and two were withdrawn; Jack Mitchell and Mildred Cox, leaving only fifteen to man the future Shiloh Freshman Frigate. It is hoped that our rural sailors will be sufficient in number to man a real ship for the four years.

Seventh Grade

SHIP'S LOG

WHEN school opened this Fall the Seventh grade had a class enrollment of twenty. Three of these joined the coming sixth graders of the local; Elsie Weaver, Renabelle DeWitt and Ray Ramey.

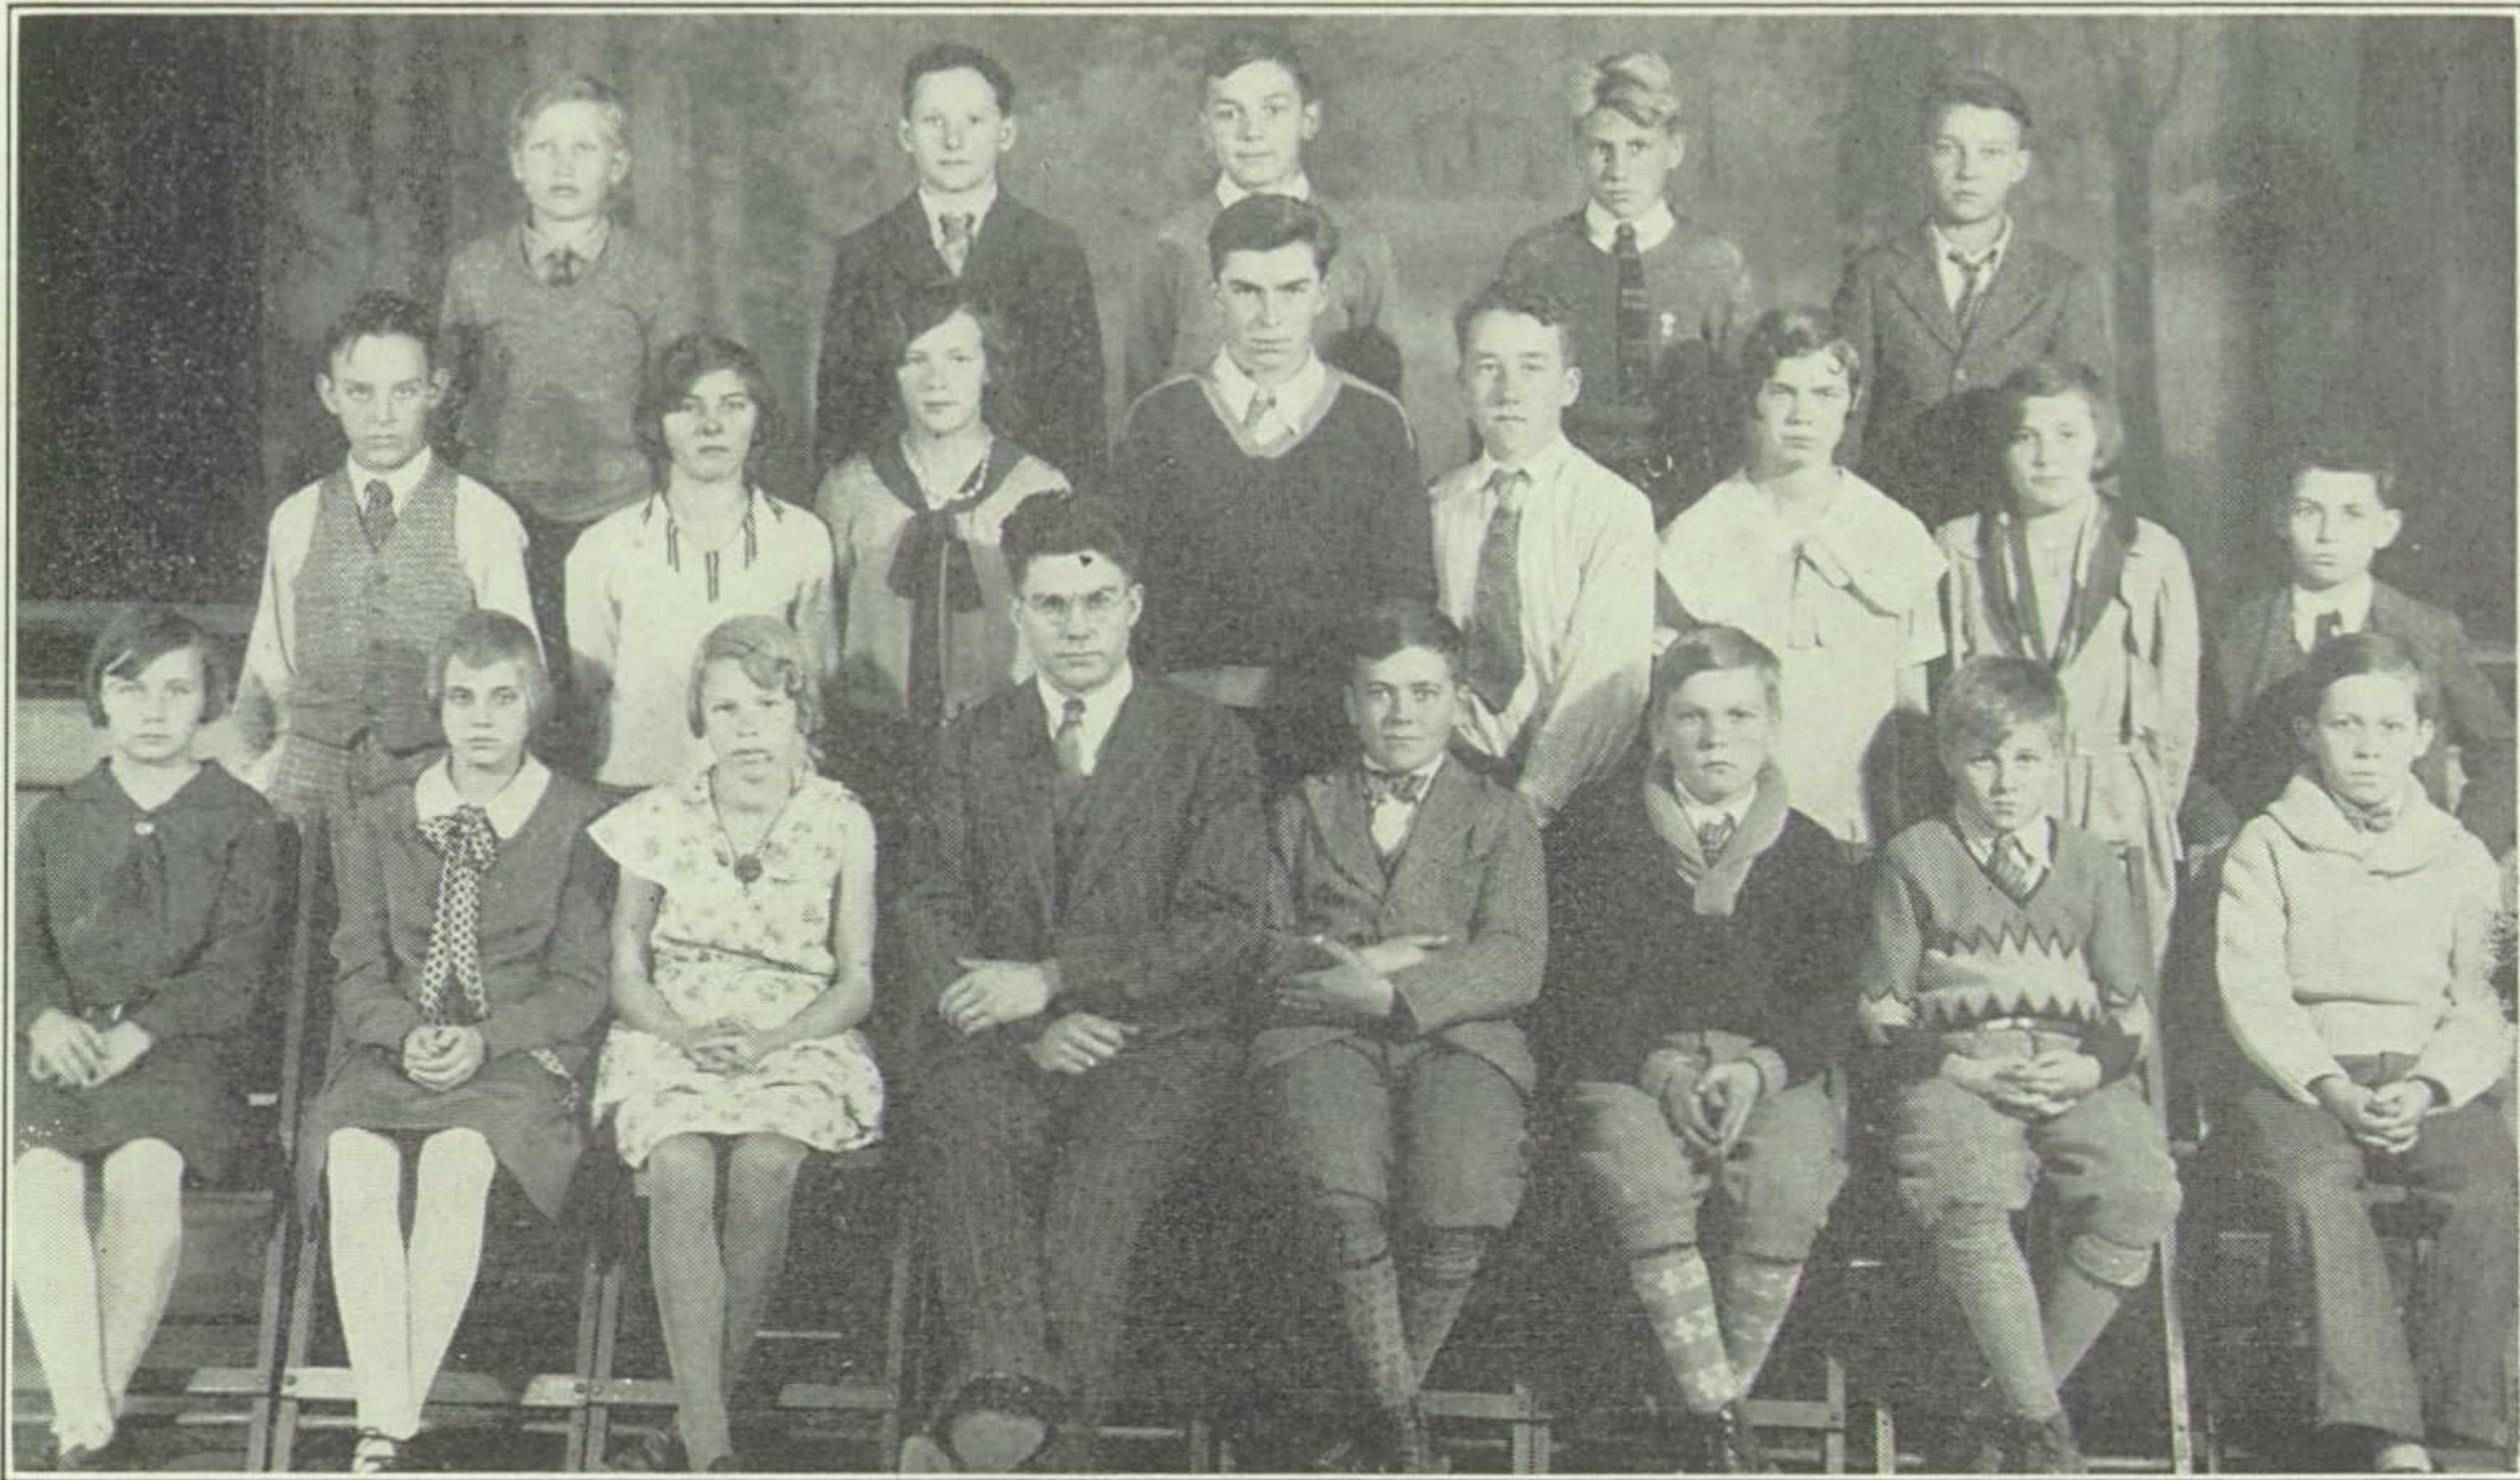

This starting class had entered into its share of activities and one of its members is a member of the orchestra.

The Seventh grade boys had their first experience in playing basketball this year. In the tournament with the eighth grade they were defeated by a few points but showed a fine spirit in their defeat. Dauntless courage and ability will bring them to berths of fine sailors soon.

The Seventh grade girls were also defeated in their intermural activity tournament, volleyball. They, too, have splendid spirit and will not be undone until they have won sailors wages.

Social Studies, Guidance, Science, Music and Physical Education have added interest to our activities of the year, and have built up a fine background for the five years that confront us.

Publications of the Ship Shiloh High Sentinel

OUR immediate community does not have a newspaper, but the same does not lack for news of the school when the sheets of the Shiloh High Sentinel are set to the wind.

This paper, though representing the efforts of the pupils and faculty in giving to the parents and patrons of the school the best news of activities, has grown by leaps and bounds.

Last year the Sentinel was entered in the critical service of the National Scholastic Press Association and was awarded third class honor rating.

This year, following the criticism and suggestion of the N. S. P. A., the sheet has been mended to meet the storms of the increased gale, and the extra winds that were thrown into competition and recently was awarded second honor rating in this critical judgment.

The Shiloh High Sentinel has received comment and encouragement from a number of prominent schoolmen and newspaper critics, and we owe a debt to our loyal advertisers for their splendid support in forwarding this enterprise of the school which is moving forward, and as it does so, furnishes an outlet for the abilities of the pupils in their journalistic efforts.

The Periscope

ALTHOUGH the trip of the Seniors has not yet been so stormy that they found it necessary to go under water for refuge, it will be necessary for them, if they expect to recollect their past voyages, to enter into the hold of a submarine and keep an active and alert eye at the Periscope.

The annual yearbook of the school will bring to its readers the pleasures of days gone by. Recollection will return when brought by a sketch or picture, and pleasant memory carry an old graduate again over the pleasurable sea of school days.

The Periscope was also entered in the N. S. P. A. service and won its share of merit—a second class honor rating in its class, that of high schools with an enrollment of less than two hundred pupils.

Its pages will give the present Seniors a pleasant submarine voyage in the days to come, enabling them to review the pleasant year that they had in building this, their own boat—USS '31.

THIS organization is a combination of the two glee clubs and furnished the basis of election for the operetta cast, quartets, duos, trios, etc. for vocal music work. The chorus and glee clubs helped in the Farmers' Institute program, for several P. T. A. programs, and will assist in the Baccalaureate services and Commencement.

Noticeable progress has been made in fields of music this year; the presence of the music supervisor in the staff assists this project and will build up a love for music and ability to sing so that when first graders become high school pupils, they will be artists.

*A*NOTHER entirely new enterprise in the activities of the school, the harmonica band, furnished to some of the younger pupils that start and helpfulness of elementary music work.

The interest of the grade pupils in this activity has been an inspiration to all, and the participation of all pupils concerned has added to the general interest in music throughout the school.

This band helped in programs, literary activities, and furnished soloists who had learned all they knew about the harmonicas by their participation this year. Watch the harmonica band; it will help to appreciate music of a more complex nature.

Sensational Stagings

Operetta---"Betty Lou"

ANOTHER new project in the field of music found expression in the operetta under the direction of Miss Phillips. "Betty Lou," is the story, in word and music, of a girl who tried to stay young, and climaxes in a beautiful romantic setting. The principals were:

BETTY LOU, Herself	Nellie Patterson
MRS. PENDLETON, Her Step-mother	Catherine Dick
TONY PENDLETON, Her Brother	James Ruckman
LOLA PENDLETON, Her Sister-in-law	Ethel Willet

HER FRIENDS

BEE	June Shafer
BAB	Oleta Ruckman
JACK	John Fackler
JOE	Woodrow Huston
ROBERT SHERWOOD, a Shy Young Man	Wallace Firestone
WORTHINGTON BROOKS, Alias "Gentleman Jim"	Floyd Niswonger
ANNIE, The Maid	Doris Clark
MR. LANE, A Man Who May Have Been Santa Claus.....	Chester Troxell

SENIOR PLAYS

THE SENIOR CLASS gave two plays this year; both were for the benefit of the class treasury and the high school annual. In the first, "Paying the Fiddler," the members of the class were assisted by members of the other classes: Robert Wharton and Richard Harnly, of the Junior Class; John Fackler and Oleta Ruckman, of the Sophomore Class, and Miriam Boor of the Freshman Class.

The play stressed the point that where folly and wild experience comes the penalties are severe, and not only those who may enter into them are harmed or distressed.

The commencement play, "Ruth in a Rush," was given by a cast made up solely of the Senior class members. Nellie Patterson and Wallace Firestone carried the chief romance parts; Chester Troxell and Catherine Dick, the secondary plot and romantic cues; Harner Roethlisberger and John Swartz, played the roles of unsuccessful suitors; Elden Moser and Dora Bloom, the parts of pursued elopers; Doris Clark, the station agent; Juanita Huddleston, the part of the maid, Marguerite Shaffer, the part of the guest sister, and Ethel Willet, the indulgent and much-hopeful aunt.

"OLD KENTUCKY MINSTRELS"

MEN of the community, assisted by members of the Boys' Glee Clubs, Mens' Quartet, and others, under the direction of Mr. Weaver, presented the Old Kentucky Minstrels. This show was given to full houses on two nights and netted expenses for the show, for the Farmers' Institute, and left a nice balance which was given by the Institute committee to help pay for the fine piano that now adorns the stage.

Front Row—(Soloists, End Men and Quartet)—June Shafer, Mr. Weaver, Ed. Pollock, Geo. Clark, Boyd Hamman, Geo. Shafer, C. G. Frische, Daniel Weaver, Curt Lybarger, Betty Shirey, Fred Witchie, Ronald Howard, Rev. Shirey, Fred Dawson, Ross Fair, Harley Nesbitt, Nellie Patterson.

Musical accompaniment was furnished by the High school orchestra.

Sailors Sociables

Hallowe'en Party

THE ghost walk of '30 was an eclipsing affair for the fall center of social entertainment. Given for the benefit of the annual, it was boosted by all grades and classes of the school, since all departments of the school were to be and are shown in story and picture in the '31 Periscope.

The usual fortune telling, games of skill, weird walks, ghost galleries, and the like provided welcome for the many masked folks. The cake walk netted the largest amount of money and was no doubt the longest of the features.

Christmas Party

Instead of the treat this year, the school pupils received the knowledge that money previously spent was to go to assist needy and dependent families of the community. The spirit of giving was supreme, and many a boy and girl was made happy who otherwise might not have been so.

The usual exchange of gifts in the several rooms brought some more fine spirit and fun for all concerned.

Class Parties

The Sophomores entertained the Freshmen and members of the faculty at a wiener roast; the Seniors were guests of the Juniors at a similar affair, while other classes had their share of parties and get-together fetes during the year.

Junior and Senior Banquet

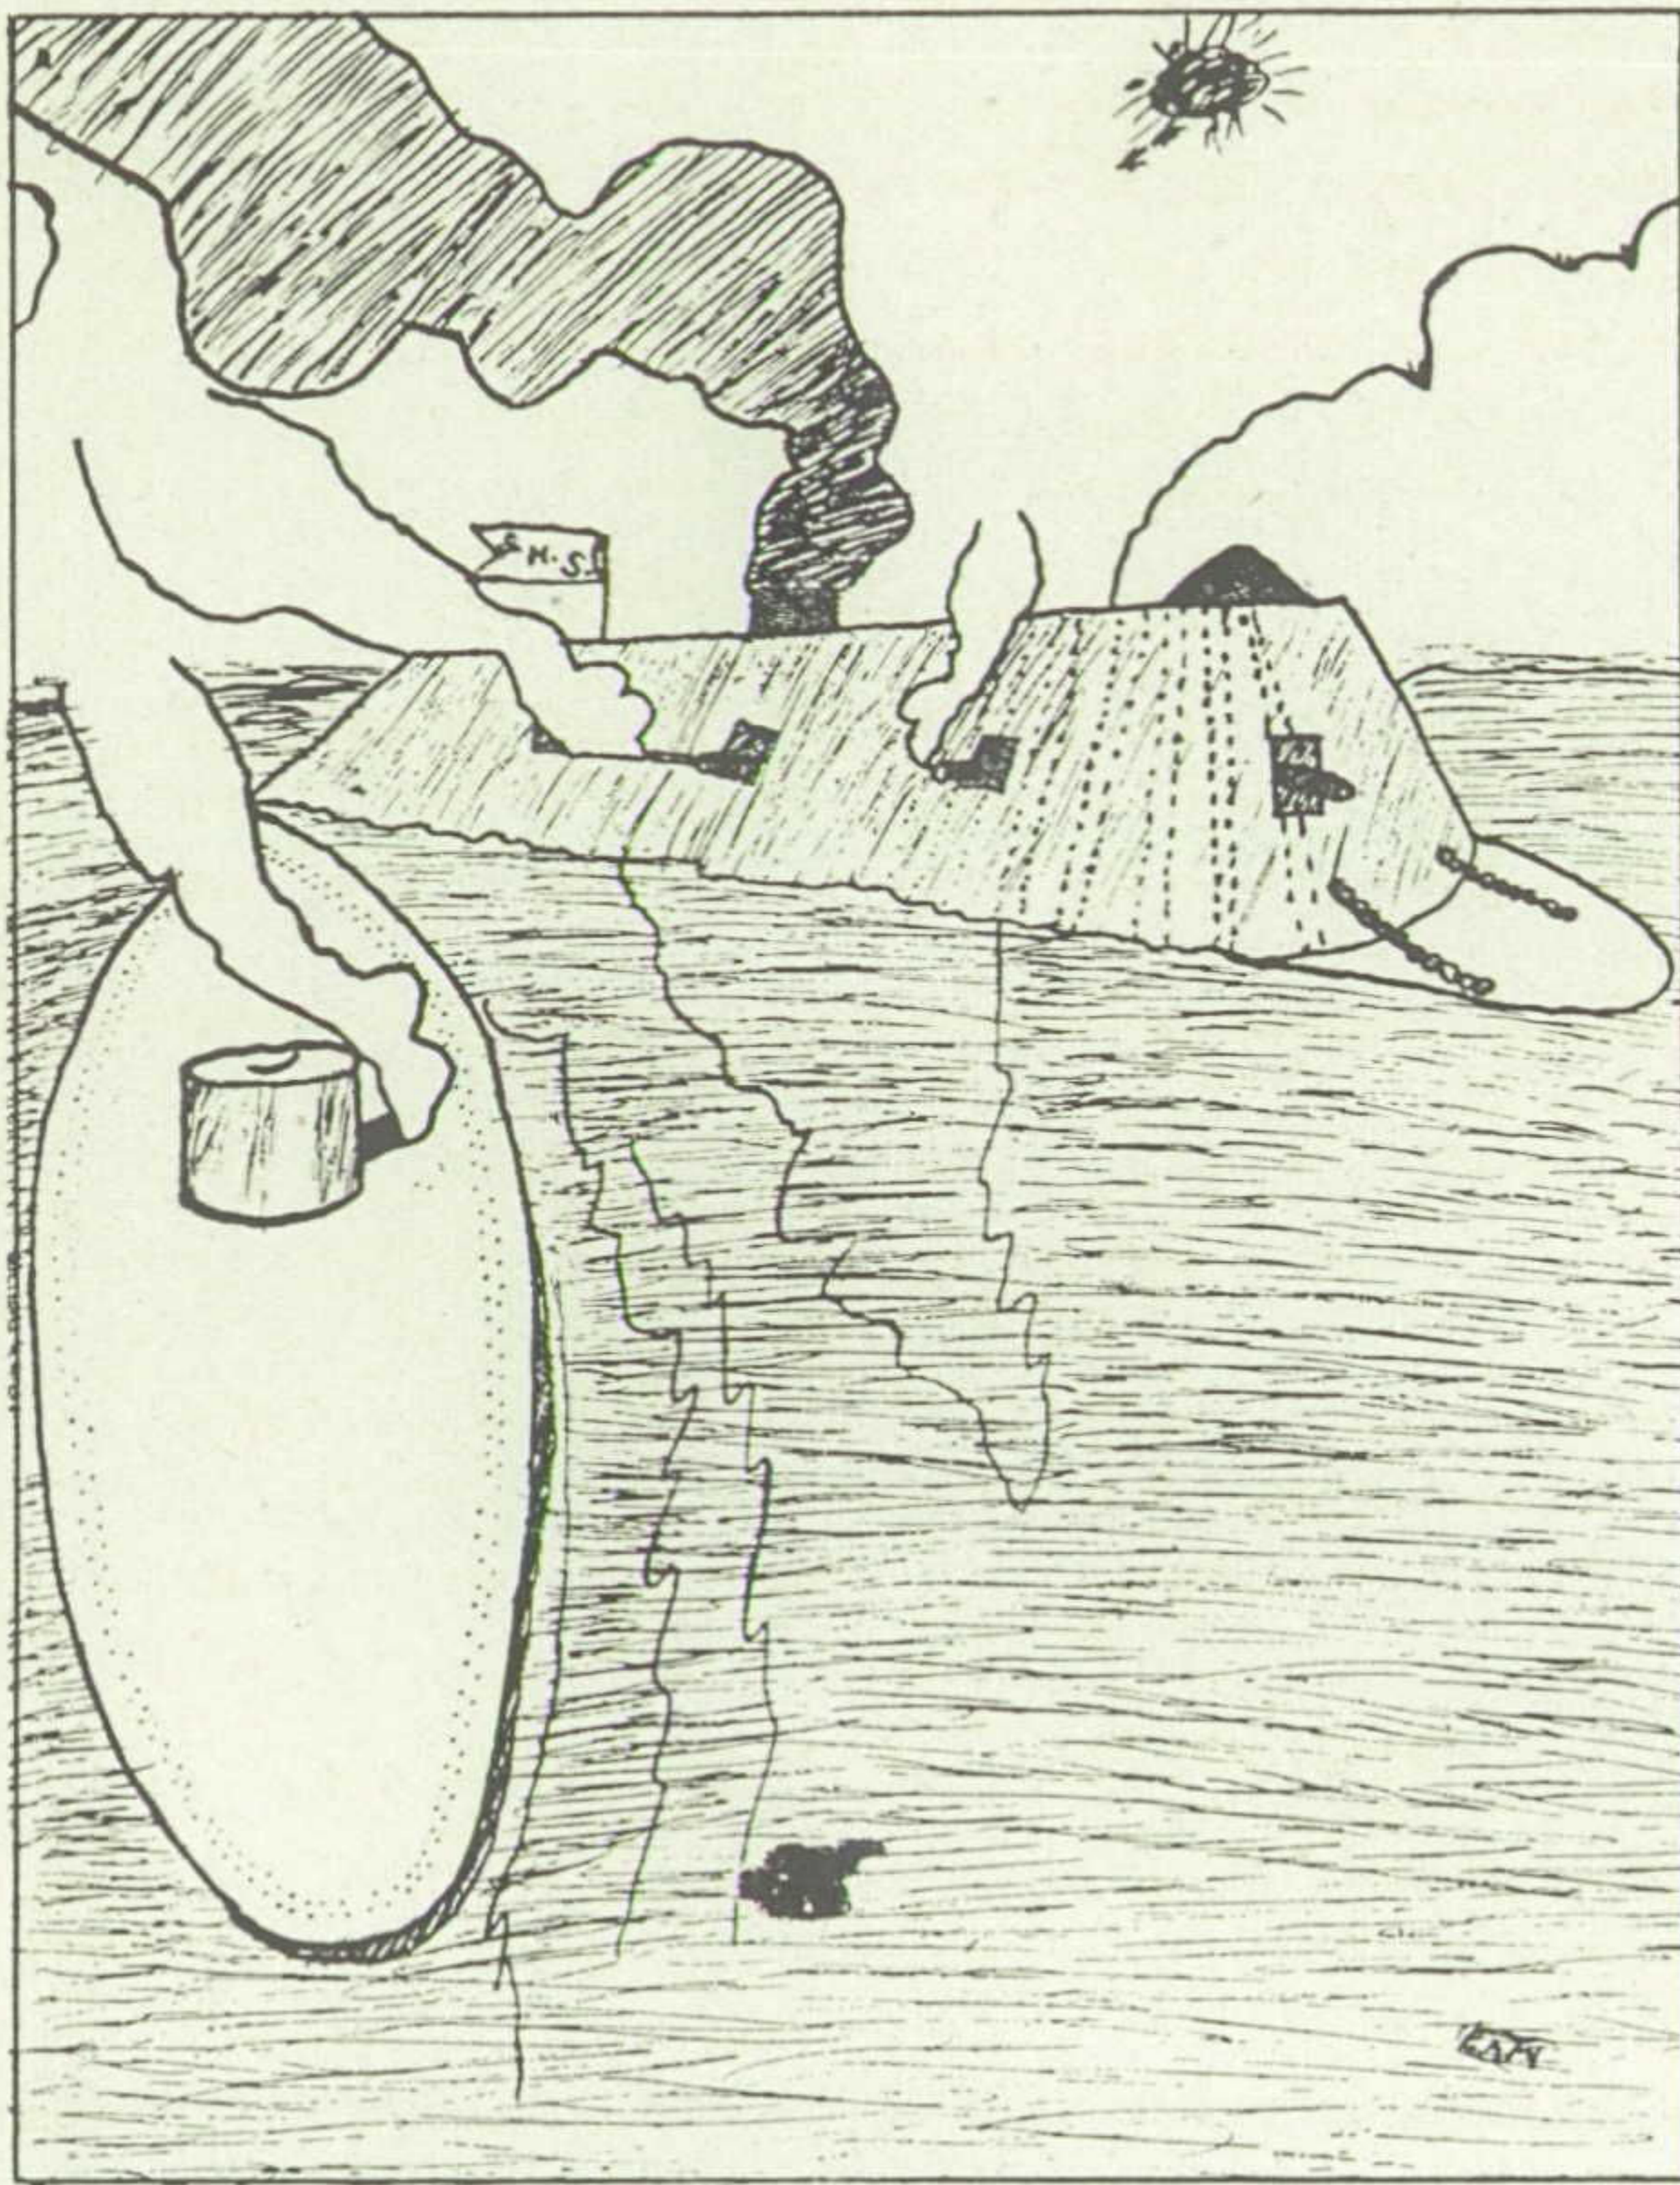

The supreme social event of the year was the entertainment and dinner given in honor of the Seniors, Faculty and members of the Board of Education by the Junior Class. The auditorium, under the skillful hands of the Juniors, took on the form of a ship, approached by a gang plank, and in the hold of which was served a sumptuous dinner. Programs, favors, and menus all had the salty savour of the briny deep, as did the toasts that were given under Skipperess J. Shaffer. Music for this social event was furnished by the Ruckman family orchestra.

School Picnic

All hands were on deck for the annual school picnic sponsored by the teachers and parents of the community. A great dinner was stored away in empty holds, and boys and girls went sailing off to a happy vacation period.

Alumni Banquet

Under the leadership of the committee the Shiloh High Alumni welcomed the new members, the departing Seniors, to their ranks. A good attendance, a good dinner, and a good program left a good taste for future fellowship in the good ship Shiloh High.

SCORES do not always tell a full story of the success of any type of team; spirit and good-will over-rides scores in any event, and we can be justly proud of the same in speaking of our girls.

Readers do like to see scores and a review of the same is printed here to recall the struggles of the year.

Only three games were lost, one to an out-of-the-county team, thus giving Shiloh second place in the Richland County League—first place going to Lucas.

Four Seniors leave the squad this year, two of which were regulars, but the girls are more determined to place first next year.

PORT GAMES:

By act of the Superintendents of the County League the annual tournament for girls was abandoned; this is followed by an act of the state Athletic Association which forbids tournaments for girls after September, 1931.

This move will no doubt bring action which will entirely do away with interscholastic games for girls; this will mean a more active and thorough participation in intermurals thus bringing the athletic program to more girls.

Boys' Season Tally Tales

THE boys, whose pictures you have seen on the foregoing page, and whose acts we remember, were effectively coached and brought from a green team to runners-up in the county tourney. The hard work and good co-operation with team-mates and coach brought an enviable record for a group with such poor prospects at the beginning of the season.

What they did is recorded below and can be reviewed in memory:

Activity on Deck

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

THE recent move on the part of the State Department of Education to bring about a more thorough and complete program for the upbuilding of the body for the benefit of the mind has influenced our own program and these requirements bring to us a full benefit.

Play activities, dances, tumbling, formal gymnastics, coordinated with health study in the local school will now give our pupils credit applicable to one unit of E. C. A. credit. Although this is a new feature of the school, it is not a new study. The Greeks in days numbering in small years stressed the good health and physique; health is no less important today, for the body still must be healthy to furnish a sound home for a keen and active mind.

INTERMURALS

To the layman this term may sound rather high-sounding and meaningless, but to the program of athletics and the boys and girls of the school it means: first, activity in athletics for all boys and girls; second, it means a program of athletics within the walls of the school itself.

This type of program of athletics brings all those pupils of the school into some type of athletic activity: Basketball, volley-ball, hand-ball, indoor baseball, tennis, tumbling, dancing, and gymnastics that will build up the sound body in coordination with the program of physical education.

The day is not far away when the stress on interscholastic athletics, in which a few picked players represent the school and carry the burden of a season's schedule, will be turned to an emphasis on the intermural program, thus giving more boys and girls the benefits that hitherto have been stressed for only a few.

PROSPECTS

With an interest in the intermural program that it was possible to wedge in with the interscholastic program expressed as it has been, prospects are fine to have such a program grow to its widest possibilities in the local school.

What finer thing could happen to any school than to remove the agency which calls for emotional stress on winning the game in the glory of the school?

Would it not be better to have that same spirit cementing the good-will and spirit of the boys and girls into a program which would mean activity for all in athletics with the aim of building each body, mind, and spirit to the same basis?

Public sentiment is gradually growing away from the interscholastic program because it is felt that the money spent could better be spent on a greater group and with more remunerative benefits to the citizens of the future.

Tar Talk

THE individual self, nature, society, and God—these four, and particularly the the adjustments which the individual self must make—constitute the objectives of education. The annual gives Seniors a possibility for expression of the individual self, and, we feel, aid in carrying forward other objectives for future strength.

—P. H. WEAVER

The annual brings the old school to those who live at a distance and cannot get back in person; and it brings old friends to those who live in Shiloh. Anything that brings people together is good.

—D. E. BUSHEY

Our annual will become a means to halt time in its swift flight; when our recollections grow dim with age, it will bring back fond memories of our school days.

—E. C. SHOOK

What is more interesting for pupils, parents, and friends than to take out the school annual, look at the photographs and read the descriptions of the school work? It is more than a family album; it is a history, too, and settles many family disputes.

—W. W. PITTENGER

Not only the present graduating class and those closely associated with it will derive pleasure from this annual, but also the youngest school child will find that he has an objective to reach in his high school years.

—ELIZABETH PHILLIPS

An annual is not fully appreciated at the time of its publication; it is in later years, when high school days are over, that the real value comes to the front, and makes one realize how much the Periscope means.

—LOUETTA GREENO

The words and pictures of an annual are but a symbol of the way of life, which bring back pleasant memories in the years to come.

—C. G. FRISCHE

School days may be gone forever, but as we leaf thru the annual pleasant memories are always brought to mind.

—DITHA McBRIDE

An annual portrays the spirit of progress in a school.

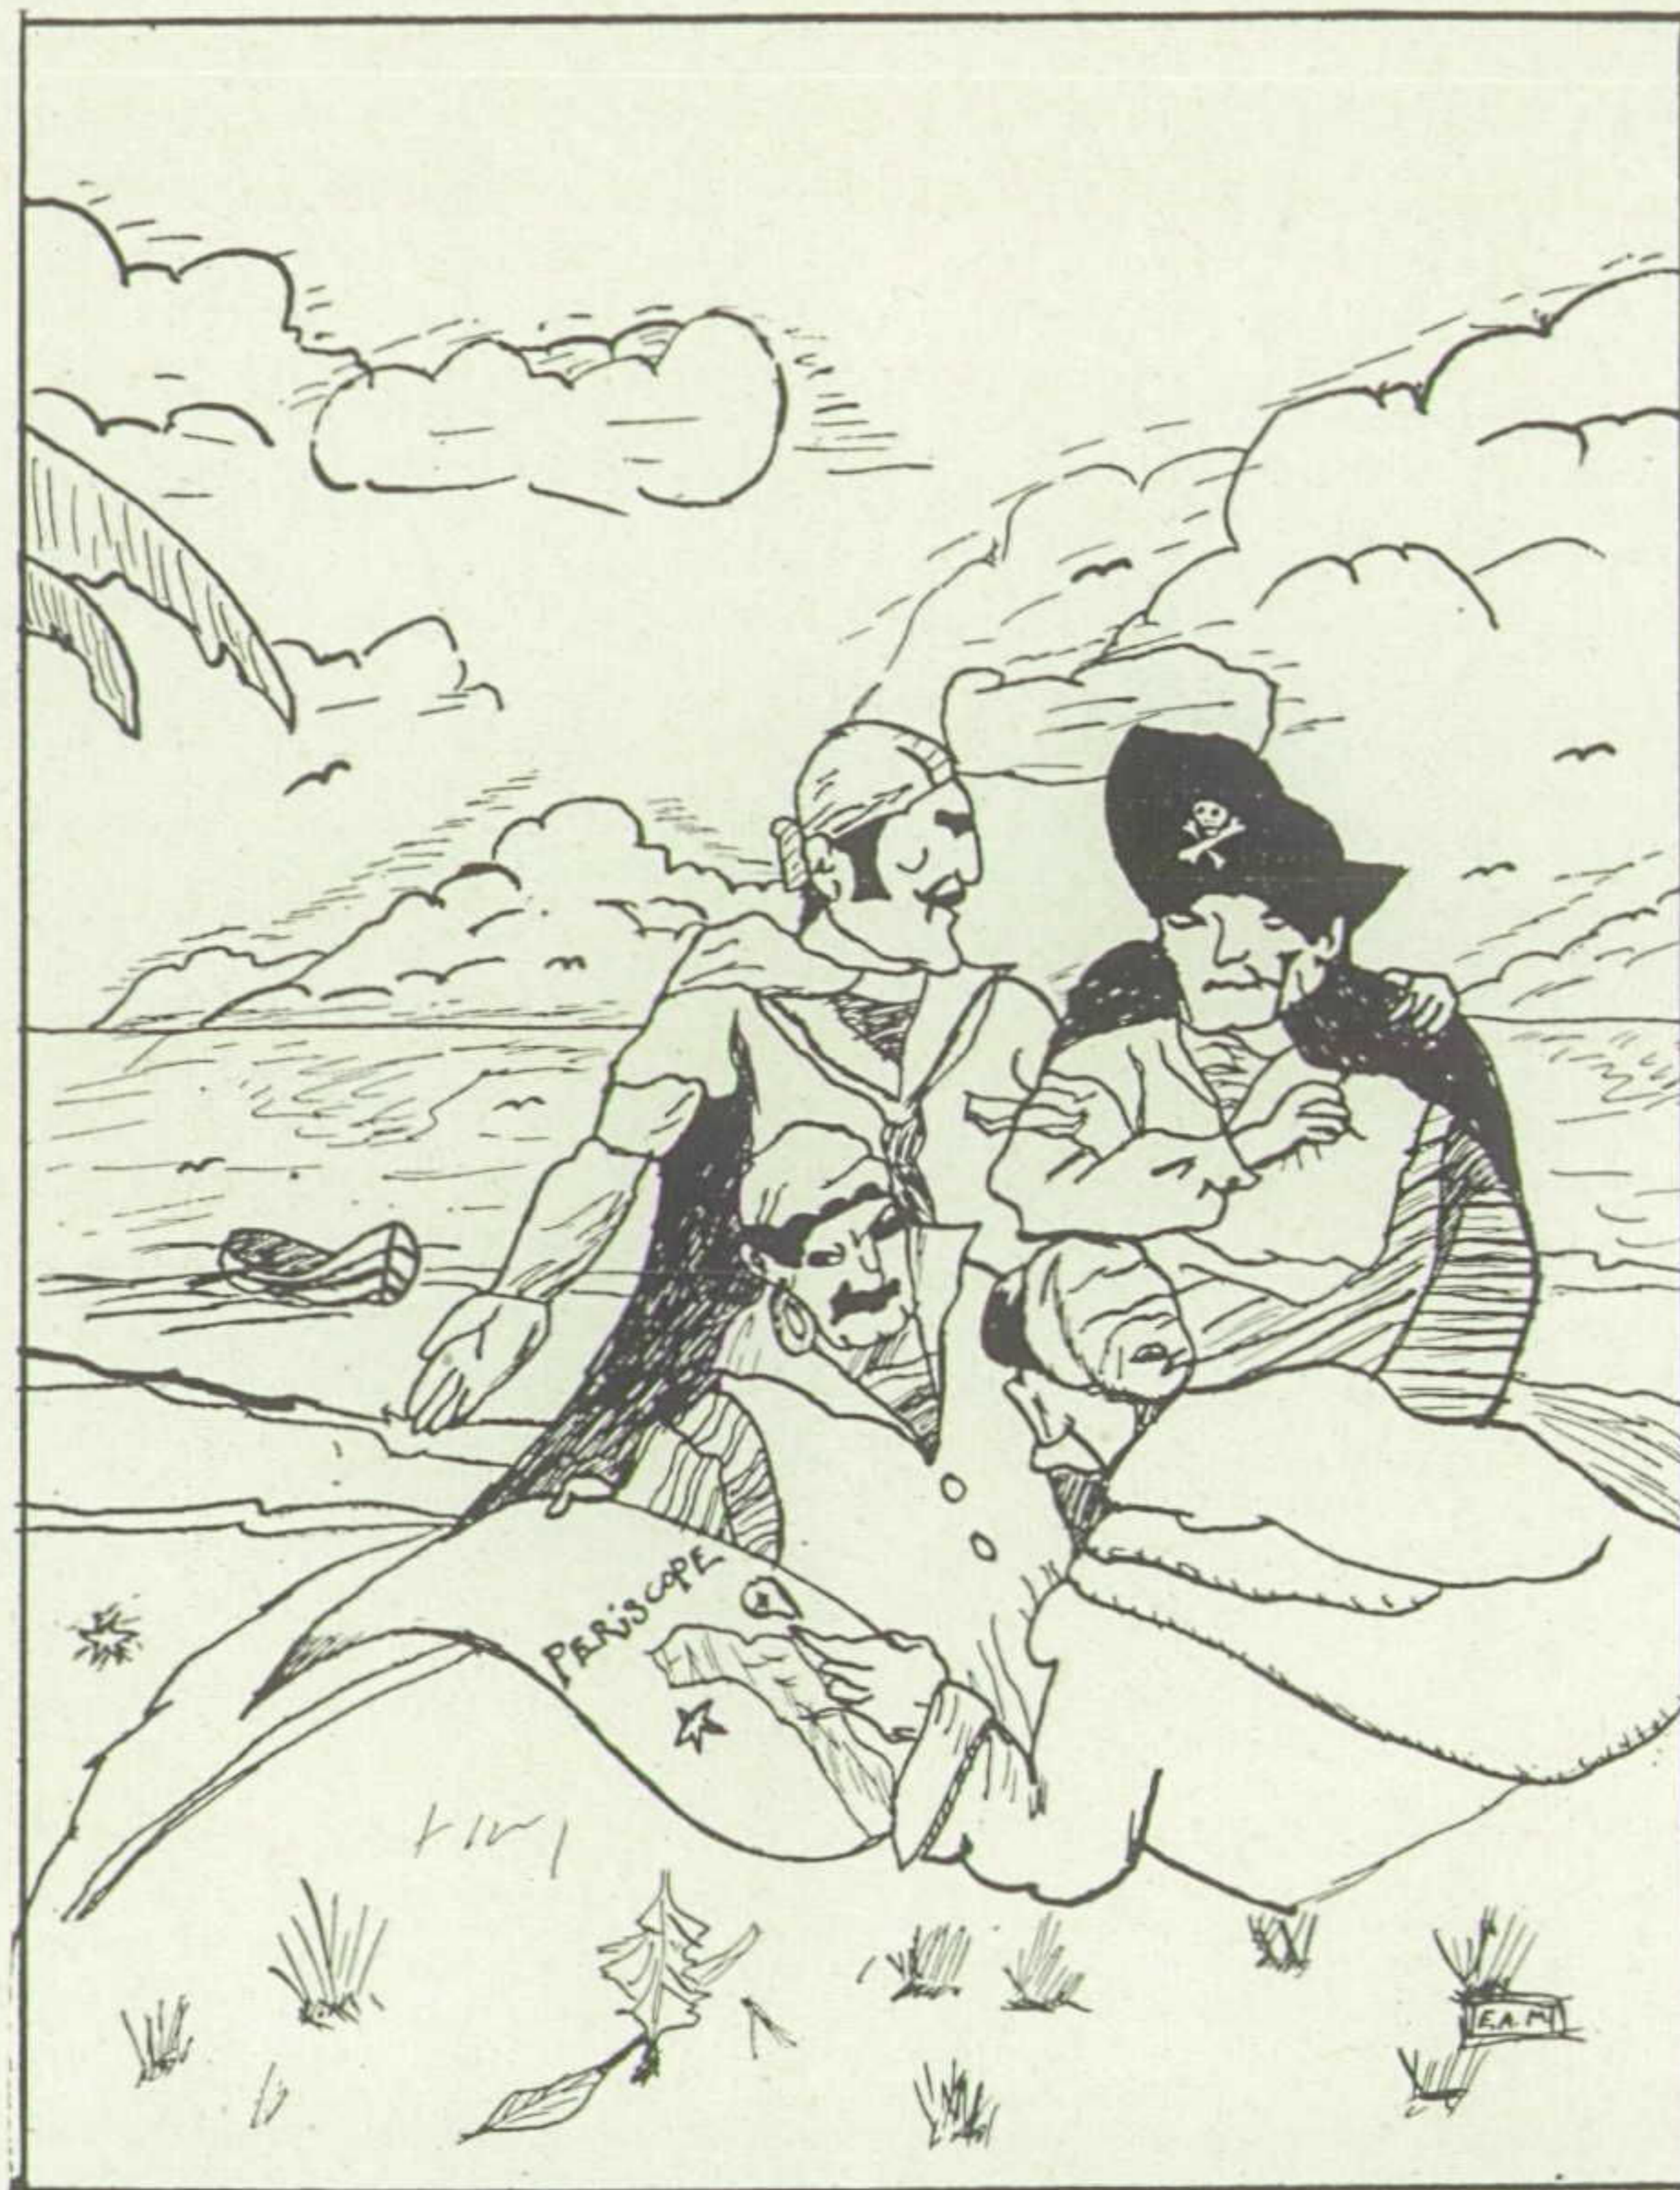

MARGARET BUSHEY

Hidden in the depths of this annual are sweet memories which in later years will recall fond experiences.

—OMA HAWBECKER

Everyone has memories, but the fondest will be lived over again in after years when we re-read the 1931 Periscope.

CAPITALIZING EDUCATION—

IN THE gradual change of the times, a tendency has developed for many folks to spend money freely. Greater facilities for learning have given our youths keen minds, and with the proper advice and encouragement, this tendency of spending can be changed to one of great good. This Bank's Officials are always glad to plan with the young folks and they should always feel free in coming to us with their problems.

A Good Investment--

MONEY invested in a business education at Spencerian will pay you dividends for the rest of your life. Most of our graduates find that they have more than made up the cost of tuition, by increased earnings, within a year after graduation.

SPENCERIAN School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance

3201 Euclid Ave. Henderson 3200
3200 Chester Ave. Cleveland, O.
Chartered by the State of Ohio to confer degrees

OPPORTUNITIES in business await young people who prepare themselves for Secretarial positions.

Dyke School is in a position to feel the pulse of business and will train you to meet the exacting demands of the modern executive.

DYKE SCHOOL OF COMMERCE

1001 Huron Road, Cleveland
"The Convenient Downtown School"

OBERLIN SCHOOL OF COMMERCE

The Oberlin School of Commerce is in the midst of another prosperous year. It differs from other business schools of Ohio in that it admits only high school graduates and only at the beginning of terms. This makes it possible to do a high grade of work and accounts for its great reputation in sending out graduates trained for the better positions, many of whom are drawing salaries of $5,000 to $10,000 a year, while several are millionaires.

It offers a two year Business Administration Course, a two year Executive Secretarial Course, Stenographic and other shorter courses. It is one of the seven business schools of Ohio, Accredited by the State Department of Public Instruction. The courses and instruction offered are of college grade.

Any seniors interested in advanced courses of business training would be given unusual opportunities at Oberlin, where they would study with others of their own age and education would not be held back with those who have had little or no high school training. Graduates of this school frequently work their way through college with their business and secretarial training.
